The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—After getting off to a slow start, Donald Ross' Black 'N Red rallied on the outside and flashed through the stretch to defeat seven other Queen's Plate aspirants and capture the featured Blue Scarth purse before 8,387 fans at Greenwood Monday.

Black 'N Red, established as second choice among the field of future Platers, managed to outlast Larkin Maloney's hard charging Hop Hop and returned $7.20.

Numbers players got off winging from the gate when the daily-double of 6-8 clicked for $80.20.

Leo's Yingel, under Jim Fitzsimmons' whip, took the opener, returning $15.30 while Under the El, a first-time starter whistled through the stretch to pay $6.30.

LEADS QUALIFIERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (CP-AP) — Stan Leonard of Vancouver led regional qualifiers for the U.S. Open golf tournament here Monday by shooting 70-72—142 over 36 holes. His total was two over par.

Pit Stops Main Topic At '500'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Drivers were talking more about pit stops than speed today as the Indianapolis motor speedway was opened for a last brief practice session before the 500-mile race Thursday.

The conventional Offenhauser-powered roadsters, winners of the last 12 Memorial Day classics, have been making three or more pit stops in recent races.

Colin Chapman of London, who built the chassis of the two Lotus-Fords in the field, is planning one stop apiece for Grand Prix drivers Jimmy Clark and Dan Gurney.

Mickey Thompson of Long Beach, Calif., with two unusually light Chevolet - powered cars in the lineup, hopes to hold veteran Dauane Carter and rookie Al Miller to two stops apiece.

There is a possibility Parnell Jones, the qualification record-holder, may also try for only two stops. His Agajanian special is lighter than most of the other conventional Offys.

"It all depends on tires," Jones said. "If there is too fast a pace, everybody will have to change their ideas about the number of stops."

Twenty-three of the 33 starters will ride on a new 15-inch tire developed specifically for the Lotus-Fords. Other drivers and car owners liked the wider tread and shifted to the new tires. Carter's car has tiny 12-inch wheels.

The rest of the field will run on the standard speedway tires, 15-inchers in the rear and 16 in front.

If the intricate semi-stock engines of the Lotus-Fords and Thompsons can hold up against the relatively simple Offenhausers, the stops could be decisive Thursday.

Exciting Adventure Portrays Primitive, Savage Paradise

A breathtaking pictorial record of a journey into the previously unexplored, uncharted cannibal - infested interior of Dutch New Guinea, "The Sky Above — The Mud Below," arrived yesterday and overwhelmed the audience at the Park Theatre with sights, sounds and customs of a primitive society still existing in this the age of space conquest and the atom.

Joseph E. Levine is presenting this Academy - Award winner, which was written and directed by 38-year-old Pierre-Dominique Gaisseau, a veteran explorer who organized and led six fellow adventurers into the heart of an unknown half hell, half paradise.

"The Sky Above — The Mud Below" is a rare cinematic experience combining the beauty of a forgotten, untouched wonderland and the savage fascination of a people stranded in time. The film, depicted by Gaisseau on a expedition filming itself," is a remarkable achievement.

It takes the viewer into what is perhaps the most extraordinary part of the world for the study of man. Ethnic groups which, until the arrival of these explorers, had no knowledge of the outside world, are shown in close-up images and in color. There are scenes of pygmies, headhunters and cannibals; clan beliefs and social customs are seen in the light of their bearing upon tribal survival. The camera focuses intimately on a primitive way of life.

On world maps, some of the inaccessible regions penetrated by the Gaisseau expedition are still indicated by blank spaces. To cover the 440 air miles (1000-by foot) separating the southern and northern coasts of Dutch New Guinea, the film-maker, his technicians and some sixty Papuan carriers proceeded by foot, over mountain country and into dense jungle areas. It took them seven months to reach their destination, and en route, radio communication with the outside world frequently broke down. The men, entirely dependent upon supplies parachuted by Dutch colleagues, were left stranded and without food. In the course of their perilous journey, three men lost their lives and casualties became so heavy that Gaisseau and one assistant, arranging to have others airlifted to safety, completed the final lap of the adventure on their own.

While the human effort involved in making "The Sky Above — The Mud Below" is incidental to its original purpose, it is a story unto itself, and one that has rarely been projected with such brilliance and authenticity to the screen.

On the same program an exotic love story photographed in color in the state of Sinaloa, Mexico "Beyond All Limits," starring Jack Palance, Maria Felix and Pedro Armendariz. The complete shows are at 7:00 and 8:50 p.m. for these first Belleville showing attractions.

AT THE BELLE — Final Day — Robert Taylor and Lilli Palmer, star in "Miracle of the White Stallions", Walt Disney's exciting new adventure drama. The Technicolor screen production is now in its 5th final day at the Belle Theatre. Walt Disney's "Toco's Bill" in Technicolor, is an added screen attraction.

'Clutter' Getting Worried Attention in Right Places

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — From time to time most television viewers, including this one, have complained in columns, in letters and in person about the interruptive and distracting flood of promotional plugs for upcoming programs that turn up every half hour on so many television channels.

Here at last means were pretty generally ignored. But it appears this "clutter," as it has been called, is getting worried attention in the right places. Some television advertisers have been blasting away at it—claiming, among other things, that all this listing of plugs, credits, billboards and coming-next-week bits has the effect of watering down the expensive sales messages.

At a recent meeting of the Association of National Advertisers, an executive of a company that invests large sums in television reported that a committee monitoring programs on three networks found that periods as long as 10 minutes occupied entirely what were called "non-entertainment segments."

Most viewers, it is safe to assume, pay scant attention to those long lists of credits which list everyones connected with the program right down to the makeup man and hair stylist.

There was a bit of irony, in the Emmy awards a few years ago, when Kim Stanley and Glenda Farrell, for parts they played in one ABC Ben Casey episode called A Cardinal Act of Mercy.

Miss Stanley was voted the outstanding actress in a leading role and Miss Farrell as the outstanding actress in a supporting role. Neither is a regular member of the Ben Casey cast, yet they accounted for two out of three Emmies awarded ABC. The other was for the camera work of Naked City.

SET TO DEFEND CROWN

GREENFIELD PARK, N.Y. (AP)—Luis Rodriguez is the welterweight champion no one knows. He hopes to make everyone know with the boss of the 147-pound division is the night of June 8.

"That's when he meets Emile Griffith of New York, the man he dethroned last March 21 in Los Angeles, in a return bout at New York's Madison Square Garden. The 15-rounder will be shown on television.

"I am very dissapointed that people do not know who I am," said Rodriguez, a Cuban exile now living in Miami. "That is because the title fight was not shown on television. This fight will be on television and the people will know I am the champion."

Griffith claims he won the first fight although the verdict went against him.

Indians Lose Romano With Broken Finger

CLEVELAND (AP)—Catcher John Romano's pursuit of Baltimore's Jackie Brandt in Sunday's doubleheader was a costly one for Cleveland Indians, and it couldn't have come at a worse time.

Romano, an American League all-star catcher the last two years and one of baseball's best-hitting receivers, broke the little finger on his throwing hand on the play and may be out of action for a month. He is expected to be put on the disabled list, which requires him to be out of the lineup for 30 days.

Only last Saturday the Tribe traded reserve catcher Doc Edwards to Kansas City Athletics for infielder Dick Howser and catcher Jose Azcue. The Athletics got a reported $100,000 to complete the deal.

The Indians reached down into their farm system Monday to plug up their injury-bedded roster. Catcher Jim Lawrence and relief pitcher Ted Abernathy were called up from Jacksonville of the International League. Lawrence, 24, was batting .267, Abernathy, a 30-year-old righthander, is 2-1, all in relief.

To add to Cleveland's troubles, pitcher Pedro Ramos, a regular, may be out of action from two to three weeks because of a pulled muscle in the upper part of his right arm.

Sadness Beneath Gaiety; Story of Real-Life Clown

By JIM PEACOCK

Roger is a Circus clown.

The sadness of his heart is apparent when, in the stark corridors beneath the stands of Madison Square Garden, he speaks of how seldom he sees friends, relatives and familiar sights in Mexico City, his home.

But there's not a trace of it when he's in the glare of the floodlights inside the Garden, making children of all ages laugh with his facial expressions, his hand stands, his imitations, his great, big smoker's pipe and his long pants, inside which he becomes just the bottom half of a human body.

Roger is a dwarf, the only one in generations of his Mexican family. He stands just three feet, eight inches tall and weighs 87 pounds, although he is 24 years old.

But he is big in Clown Alley at the Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus, the world's largest.

BIG WITH CHILDREN

And he is big with the children who populate the circus audiences—not to mention the adults, one of whom was heard to say the other day: "It's the funniest clown. He just walks past and makes me want to laugh."

Roger, in the jewellery trade as a youth, began working in television and advertising in Mexico City when he was 16. The big circus came to town in 1957 and he was hired for a six-month trial, which he has extended now to six years.

"I like the circus because they pay me good and I would like to learn something," he said in English which he is working daily to improve. "Someday I might like to settle down and live a normal life . . . and that is very hard with the circus.

"The clowns have to be alone so much. If they have a wife and kids, they have to leave them somewhere and they never see them because the show travels so much and the show wants no kids.

"I have to leave my relatives and friends and come alone. So, I think it is very sad."

LIKES LAUGHTER

Staying with the tradition of Clown Alley, Roger confessed in an interview between performances here that laughter provides great medicine for his sadness.

He had found it in audiences most everywhere in the U.S. and in Toronto and Montreal where the show had been in Canada. But he found varying degrees of difficulty in provoking it. In the Canadian cities it was easy. "We went to Canada in springtime, it was sunny with beautiful days and the people were very good and laughed a lot," he said.

"It's difficult to make people laugh all the time," he said, adding that it was most difficult when the crowds were small.

"Sometimes, when you don't feel so good yourself, you have to DO a good actor because you have to go out there and do your best—if you have three persons or 1,000 persons, you have to do your best.

"It feels very bad when the house is small, but you have to do your job. It is easy when the crowd is big."

"The more laughs you hear, the more happy you are."

Extra Guards Posted at Epsom Downs

LONDON (CP)—Strict security precautions are in force as Britain approaches the big moment of the racing season.

With the danger of doping an unspoken but recognized hazard, additional guards patrolled the stable area at Epsom Downs in readiness for Wednesday's derby, worth £35,338 to the winning owner.

Two fancied horses from Ireland, Pera and Final Move, landed by air at Gatwick and went to private stables near the course. Three other Irish invaders, Credo, Ragusa and Canadian-owned Count Albany, are expected to arrive today.

Count Albany runs for Calgary owner Max Bell. Unraced as a two-year-old and unplaced in his three starts this season, Count Albany, a 100-to-1 shot, was left in the derby because there appears to be no outstanding horse in the field.

In Monday's betting exchanges, however, there was solid backing for the French-owned favorite, Relko, a 4-to-1 shot.

Second favorite in Monday's betting was Cospora, trained in France and owned by an American, Robin Scully.

Favorite Wins Epsom Derby; French-Owned

Queen, Other Members Royal Family Present

Merchant Venturer, owned by Sir Foster Robinson of England was second and Irish-trained Ragusa came third.

Merchant Venturer went off at 18 to 1 and Ragusa 25 to 1 in the field of 26 runners over the 1½-mile turf course.

The win was worth £39,330 ($106014) to Dupre.

Relko's time was 2:39.4.

Relko is a bay colt by Tanerko out of Reliance III.

The French race always among the first half-dozen became the sixth French horse to win the classic British even Second World War.

Queen Elizabeth Prince Philip, Queen Mother and members of the Royal Family watched the race under cloudy skies at this southern English track. Prime Minister Macmillan and his wife were among them.

The race was accident-free—a treat after last year's pileup at Tattenham Corner in which seven horses crashed to the ground and one of them King Cagnal had to be destroyed.

It was the first time in history that The Derby first run in 1780, faced a standing start. That means all the entries must be standing still at the start with nobody allowed to move in at the last minute.

PEACE-KEEPING PLAN OUTLINED BY MARTIN

Minister Meets With U Thant

NEW YORK (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin met a flying trip to New York Tuesday to put forward a three-part plan for strengthening the peace-keeping capability of the United Nations.

He also met with UN Secretary-General U Thant and disclosed that Thant has been invited to make a formal visit to Canada. He said the visit may be made in September.

Later, speaking before the annual awards dinner of the Overseas Press Club of America, he said Canada is determined to explore and support practical ways of strengthening the UN peace-keeping machinery.

The Canadian government is not disturbed by the fact that significant elements in the UN membership are opposed to a standby UN force, he said.

"We believe that even in the absence of formal arrangements there are steps which still can be taken to make the peace-keeping machinery of the UN more effective."

As a first step, he suggested individual governments could improve their own arrangements for providing military assistance to the UN.

He noted that Canada maintains an infantry battalion and transport facilities "which would enable us to place troops at the disposal of the UN on short notice anywhere in the world."

Secondly, he recalled the recent decision of the Scandinavian countries to form a composite Nordic contingent for UN duty and said he hoped other member states would follow the example.

Martin also suggested that a "command planning planning team" might be attached to the UN secretariat to help co-ordinate and conduct peace-keeping operations.

'RIGHT DEEP WRONGS'

GENEVA (AP)—Judges, lawyers and law professors from 90 countries have appealed to American lawyers to back President Kennedy in efforts to "right the deep wrongs" inflicted on Negroes. The international commission of jurists, an independent body, issued the plea Tuesday.

Urges Trained Teachers Replace Babbling University Lecturers

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. B. C. Diltz, retiring dean of the Ontario College of Education, says university lecturing methods are outmoded and inadequate.

Speaking at his own testimonial dinner Tuesday, Dr. Diltz said the university seminar and lecture systems of education involve an untrained person reading a few plagiarized ideas to a small group of equally untrained students under the watchful eye of an inexperienced instructor.

He recommended the creation of a university college of Ontario under which small classes of students would be taught the first two years of university courses by highly trained and highly experienced secondary school teachers.

Such an institution would benefit elementary schools where a drastic shortage of trained and experienced university lecturers and help solve the problem of inadequate residential facilities at universities, he said.

The university college would have branches scattered across the province in larger centres, but be operated by the Ontario government and administered by the department of education.

"This is our future, but the universities are afraid and will go ahead with these junior lecturers babbling away," Dr. Diltz said, describing the thinking of university presidents as "myopic."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: An area of low pressure will cause scattered showers and mild temperatures over southern and central Ontario today. Mainly sunny and mild weather is expected in Northern Ontario today, but considerable cloudiness and scattered showers are likely tonight and Thursday as a weak disturbance moves into the area from Manitoba. Partly cloudy skies and much the same temperatures are due for southern Ontario Thursday.

SAY COMPLEX TECHNIQUE USED TO FORGE LETTER

Branded Forgery By Two Officials

OTTAWA (CP)—Highly-placed informants say a three-stage photographic technique was used to produce a highly controversial Pollifax document which Prime Minister Pearson and U.S. Ambassador Walton Butterworth have branded as a forgery.

The document, read in the Commons Monday by Hon. Gordon Churchill, former Conservative defence minister, is so worded as to appear to be a pledge by Mr. Butterworth of support for the Liberal leader before the April 8 election.

The text contains criticisms of the former Conservative government as narrow-minded and unfit to govern Canada.

Source of the document was uncertain. One report claimed a government spokesman was saying it originated behind the Iron Curtain. But official sources here said no one was authorized to state this on behalf of the government.

Mr. Churchill said in an interview Tuesday that such a suggestion is "completely false." He declined to discuss the document except to say that any further reference to it by him should be made in the House of Commons.

USED PHOTOGRAPHS

One informant said a study of photostats "indicates separate photographs were made of a U.S. Embassy letterhead, the text quoted by Mr. Churchill and the written signature of Mr. Butterworth.

The source said these then were fitted together to give a picture of a letter on Embassy stationery over Mr. Butterworth's signature.

Informants say one flaw in the document was that in assembling the photographic stages the physical proportions of letterhead, type and signature were thrown out. The photostat, reproduced to the normal size of U.S. Embassy notepaper, would have the document's text running off the normal-sized page.

At least one copy was mailed to Canada from London, England.

Reliable sources said that Mr. Butterworth became aware of the document about the middle of the week preceding election day and that he advised Robert Bryce, clerk of the privy council, to inform the Canadian government that the forgery was being circulated.

Mr. Bryce, a civil servant, declined to be drawn into what has become a political question. However, an informant says Mr. Butterworth's message was passed along to the Diefenbaker campaign train.

Monty Assails Multi-Nation Force

Might as Well Let Lords Man Ship

LONDON (CP)—The House of Lords considered with chuckles the concept that it go to sea—with a Communist captain.

Field-Marshal Lord Montgomery came out with the somewhat strained idea Tuesday as he jibed at United States plans for a NATO force of Polaris-equipped ships with crews of mixed nationality.

"Poppycock," said the pepper-tongued soldier and orator-ial battles. "The thing is just not on. You might as well man a ship with a party of politicians."

Montgomery noted there are Conservative, Labor and Liberal members of the House of Lords — and one Communist, Lord Milford.

"He could be the comrade captain," the field marshal declared.

Admiral Claude Ricketts, vice-chief of U.S. naval operations, is coming to Britain next week to discuss the Polaris fleet and Montgomery urged Lord Carrington, first lord of the admiralty, to tell him that the "whole thing is first-class military nonsense."

Montgomery referred to his own experience in NATO in the early days and added:

"In those days our object was so to organize ourselves that we could fight effectively if attacked. We can't run a ship fight effectively if one-third of the crew is Portuguese, one-third Belgian, and say, one - third Dutch!"

Carrington said the coming talks did not commit Britain, which has already given general approval to the plan, and he declared wryly:

"I must confess I would be very hard put to decide which I would rather do—to serve in a multi-manned mixed ship or a ship manned by the House of Lords."

Govt. Pension Plan Could Double Cost C of C Told

TORONTO (CP)—The cost in taxes of providing a pension under a government plan can be as much as double the cost of providing the same pension under an employer plan, W. J. Adams, president of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, said today at the chamber's annual meeting.

Under a government plan, Mr. Adams added, the tax revenue is not invested but is almost entirely spent immediately to pay current pensions.

Under an employer plan, however, employer and employee contributions are invested and the investment - earnings can double the amount which would have come from contributions alone.

Simultaneously a government plan would be a drain on the country's new savings to an extent that could undermine the whole national economy.

Mr. Adams, who is vice-president and secretary of Canada Life Assurance Co., urged that gaps in present old age securi-ty programs be filled to provide protection where it is still needed.

In this regard he described current Ontario legislation as "a splendid example of how government and private enterprise can co-operate to reach a common goal;" but expressed "alarm" at suggestions in the federal field.

He commented that earlier suggestions by the Liberal

BALCER GIVES FIVE MEASURES TO SAVE QUEBEC

House Nearing End of Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — The senior Progressive Conservative spokesman from Quebec, Leon Balcer, says the "peaceful revolution" in his province is such that the federal government cannot afford to wait two years for a royal commission report.

The former transport minister told the Commons Tuesday that Quebec "will sink even deeper into separatism" unless immediate action is taken to give the province a larger role in Confederation and French-Canadians a larger role in society.

Mr. Balcer, MP for Trois-Rivieres, proposed five measures, which he said are needed now:

1. A five-per-cent preference to bilingual applicants in civil service exams to encourage bilingualism in the public service and boost French-Canadian representation to a fair level.

2. Creation of a federal district comprising Ottawa and Hull, Que., administered by a commission divided evenly between representatives of both language groups so that French-Canadians would feel "really at home" in the national capital.

3. A federal-provincial fiscal conference to consider demands by Quebec and other provinces for a larger share of direct taxes.

4. Adoption of a distinctive flag.

5. Official recognition of "O Canada" as the national anthem.

END DEBATE

Today the Commons will complete its eight-day debate on the speech from the throne which outlined the government's legislative program as the opening of Parliament May 16.

The minority Liberal administration will face its third vote test of the session when the address in reply to the throne speech comes to a vote at 5:45 p.m. EDT. In effect, it will be a vote of confidence but the gov-

Gerard Chapdelaine (SC—Sherbrooke) urged all parties to think twice before they went on throne speech debating.

World's Social Situation Worsening Council Told

OTTAWA (CP)—Deputies to the three-day Canadian Welfare Council meeting were told Tuesday that the world's social situation is worsening.

Phyllis Burns, former director of welfare services for the council and now a social affairs officer with the United Nations, took delegates away from domestic problems by outlining some of the findings of a recent UN report on social conditions around the world.

"As individuals and as nations, the rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer," said the former Halifax social worker.

National income may have increased but per capita income has declined because improvements must be divided among a larger population.

Earlier Tuesday, delegates were told that some national welfare programs may tend to perpetuate poverty.

49 CRUSHED TO DEATH IN ROOF COLLAPSE

Sabotage Possible In Lisbon Disaster

LISBON—Tumbling concrete slabs and steel girders from a collapsing railway station roof crushed 49 persons to death and injured 61 other Portuguese in a holiday crowd here Tuesday.

The tragedy forced cancellation of further celebrations marking the 37th anniversary of the revolution that brought Premier Antonio Salazar to power. There were reports of sabotage but police began an investigation.

Passengers returning from nearby beaches had just stepped out of a train when the roof of the Cais de Sodre station, built about two years ago, began to crumple. Huge blocks of concrete and stones trapped the victims, some of them children.

Thousands of people crowded the square in front of the station. Police strengthened patrols in the capital to prevent rioting.

President Americo Thomaz visited the station during the evening. Princess Maria del Pilar of Spain was among the nurses sent to the scene from the Lisbon Hospital.

POOR CONSTRUCTION

The newspaper O Secula said that, with some of the debris cleared, efficient construction of the roof becomes more apparent. "Some time ago there were signs of poor construction such as cracks and water seepage." It true, this would rule out sabotage.

Railway officials said it was possible the constant vibration from passing trains might have weakened the roof. They began a check of other stations along the line—"The Coast of the Sun"—to see if vibrations from trains had rendered them also.

Hospital officials said the only known foreign fatality was a Negro.

Two Englishmen, James Cotton, 75, and Herbert Berry, 71, both from Bristol, England.

Cotton, a retired clerk, said they were visiting Lisbon during a Mediterranean cruise and decided to return to the quay by the afternoon train.

"I heard a loud and on turning round I saw the roof caving in into two parts. The next moment we heard a heavy tearing sound and we were knocked down.

"Fortunately for us, one end of the collapsed roof rested on the other which was still standing in the station. This saved us from being crushed."

Eight-Fold Increase Noted In Lung Cancer

REGINA (CP)—Lung cancer among Canadian men has shown an eight-fold increase in the last 30 years, Dr. John W. Davies of Ottawa said Tuesday.

Dr. Davies, medical consultant of the epidemiology division of the federal department of public health, told a cancer symposium the Canadian death rate from lung cancer has yet to reach the same level as in the United Kingdom, Finland and Australia, but in every country there has been a sharp increase in mortality during the last 30 years.

The increase is attributable in the main to an increase in deaths from lung cancer in men, he said.

Between 1931 and 1961 deaths from lung cancer among males had shown a gradual rise to 24.8 from three for each 100,000 population.

Dr. Davies said in 1961 lung cancer accounted for 23% of deaths in Canada, or 11.7 per cent of deaths from all malignant neoplasms.

He said there is no doubt cigarette smoking is "almost exclusively the cause of lung cancer, for which there is no known cure."

Must Resolve Basic Differences Or UN Will Become Just Shell

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations is in danger of becoming "no more than an expensive shell of a once noble podium" if members cannot resolve basic differences on Berlin, Canadian delegate Leonador Paul Tremblay warned today.

He put forward a set of guide lines for dealing with the immediate financial woes of the world organization.

The emphasis was on workability—on finding a plan that could be put into effect quickly despite divisions within the UN.

Speaking in the General Assembly's budgetary committee, Tremblay said Canada still would prefer to settle the current special session of the General Assembly adopt long-term arrangements for financing peace-keeping operations.

But the Canadian delegation had come to the conclusion that the time had not arrived when payment of contributions is a principle of capacity to pay, involving acceptance by some members of obligations beyond their regular budget scale, could be applied.

Tremblay said it should be possible, however, to achieve a short-term formula that would meet financing needs of UN forces in the last half of this year. This formula should be "related directly to conditions

YMCA Issues Booklet on Water Safety

Keeping fun in swimming and water safety is the purpose of the new YMCA pocket size folder being issued this week by the YMCA. "How To Keep Your Kids (and yourself) Safe in the Water." The folder was written especially for parents of small children. The local YMCA has begun passing it out this week. The generous public may secure a copy from the YMCA.

"Swimming and other Water Sports can be a lot of fun and healthful exercise," says Di Diamantides, General Secretary of the Belleville YMCA said today. "But the fun goes out when danger comes in and tragedy follows"

"How dangerous water can be is shown by the thousands of drownings last year." Mr. Diamantides pointed out. "Knowing something about water safety can help cut down drownings and watery accidents," he said. "Carelessness, the greatest single cause of water accidents, has made drowning one of the highest accident killers in the country," he added.

"Water safety is pretty much a matter of doing the right things and avoiding the wrong one," Mr. Diamantides said. "The 'don' and 'don'ts' have been boiled down into some simple easy-to-follow rules in the new folder. The best thing parents can do is to promote them, and then direct them into their children.

The first rule is "Learn to Swim" he emphasized. "That goes for everyone in your family, not just swim, learn somehow: nearly everyone can, including Mom and Dad. If you can't swim, stay out of water or at least stay in shallow and protected water. Make sure that your kids learn to use that rule applies even if you can swim," Mr. Diamantides added.

"Other important rules drawn from the YMCA's 80 years' experience in swimming and water safety instruction are: never swim alone; don't take foolish chances; know your limitations; obey warning signs; keep an eye on the kids; avoid water 'show-offs' (and don't be one you-self); and swim at protected beaches.

"The folder also lists essential boating safety rules. The cardinal rule of boating is the same: if you can't swim, stay out of small boats. By learning these simple rules and practising them, you can keep the fun in water sports and the danger out," Mr. Diamantides concluded.

SHOULD SEEK VALUE

TORONTO (CP)—"Buy Canadian" policies must never be allowed to prevent purchasing agents from getting the best value, A. A. Small, executive secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Association of Purchasing Agents, said Tuesday. Mr. Small told the association's annual conference that a "Buy U.S.A." program several years ago had made many United States manufacturers fat and complacent, leaving them easy marks for improved foreign competitors.

Bus Drivers Start to Take Licence Numbers

Charges have been laid against several Belleville-district motorists for passing stationary school buses on Highway 41 east of Belleville.

Ontario provincial police took action after bus drivers, fed up at the persistence of motorists disregarding the stop-arm regulations, started jaking license numbers.

As a result of the trouble, police believe, may lie in the fact that the bigsway is a four-lane road. way in that area and motorists can't resist the invitation to keep moving at high speeds.

Thus far there have been only near-misses and no fatal accidents. However police are hoping to stave off any possibilities by swiftly laying charges against erring drivers.

Charges Judge Forced Lawyer To Bare Secrets

QUEBEC (CP) — Attorney-General Georges Lapalme has charged that a Montreal business court judge forced a lawyer in recent professional secrets during a closed-door "preenquete" into the case of false voting slips found in Montreal.

The affair exploded 11 days before the November provincial election and reverberated in the legislature most of Tuesday's sitting as Mr. Lapalme replied to charges made there by Opposition Leader Daniel Johnston.

The voter - registration slips, required as identification in the Montreal and Quebec City urban areas in provincial elections, were found in a Montreal railway station locker.

Mr. Lap lme charged that Judge Marc-Andre Blain had "coached" witnesses at the pre-enquete by saying "if you don't talk I will have you arrested."

"And this is how a lawyer violated a professional secret because he revealed to Judge Blain the pre-enquete and the case in which the bar association . . . He identified the lawyer as Paul Papineau.

The pre-enquete was ordered by Judge Blain following a preliminary hearing which cleared two men—both Union Nationale organizers—arrested after seizure of 4000 false voting slips addressed to Union Nationale organizations in two Montreal ridings.

A third man arrested, Omer Fontaine, and another man, Jean-Guy Moreau, were committed for trial Monday after following the pre-enquete before Judge Blain. Both were Crown witnesses at the preliminary hearing of the Union Nationale organizers.

Mr. Lapalme challenged Mr. Johnson to "put up or shut up" with charges that the Liberals are hiding those responsible for the affair.

If the opposition believed the government was hiding anyone "let them name them and they can also have the Crown prosecutor of their choice to prosecute," he declared.

Girl Refuses To Swear to Tell Truth

TORONTO (CP)—A man and a youth who spent more than a month in jail after they were charged with raping a 16-year-old girl were freed Tuesday when the girl refused to swear to tell the truth at a preliminary hearing.

Magistrate Norman A. Glassell dismissed the charges against John George, 25, and Ronald Jacobus, 18, both of Toronto, noting he could have jailed the girl until she decided to testify instead.

Brian A. Grosman, defence counsel for George, complained that if a more thorough police investigation or more considerations by the crown accompanied the charges, the two might not have been forced to spend so much time in jail.

Both were unable to raise $10,000 cash bail and $15,000 property bail and were remanded four times until Tuesday's brief hearing.

'Conservation' Subject of Talk To Kiwanians

A large number of Kiwanians turned up at the Kiwanis Centre at noon hour on Tuesday to hear Mr. Ralph W. Harris, Senior Representative of the Conservation Authority, give an informative address on "Conservation." Mr. Harris is from Toronto.

"During my travels," said Mr. Harris in his opening remarks, I have asked several people how they defined the word 'conservation.' The replies were," he said, "a protection for fish, a way of increasing the deer population, boating, swimming and reforestation. A of these are very good," he said, "but I am afraid we have to dig much deeper than that for the true meaning of the word.

"Man has forgotten he is still an animal, he has to eat, he has to breathe, he had to have an abundant supply of water, if the race is to continue to exist.

"Modern history," continued Mr. Harris, "indicates that man is the most destructive source on the face of the earth. What position are we, here in Southern Ontario in at the present time? The times have changed from primitive agriculture to small industries, over the past 50 years and we have changed economy to modern industry. Economy costs us a price many of us don't like to think about. We have become obsessed with the dollar with which we buy food and shelter but we forget these things will not substantiate life.

"We have to start thinking about our future food and water supply. We have been taught that our resources are inexhaustible, but we are slowly learning that this is not true. Each decade of products for industries have changed our way of life. There are twelve and one million acres of prime crop land in Ontario and most of it now is under production. During the past ten years a lot of this good crop land has been taken up by industrial projects. We have lost over one million acres.

DEMAND FOR WATER

"The demands for pure water are increasing our adequate supply for agriculture stated the speaker. "I have been in industries every county and every township throughout the province of Ontario and everywhere I go I hear someone saying that a creek or stream has gone dry. Right close to you, in Prince Edward County, completely surrounded by water, farmers are very conscious of the failing water tables.

We have an adequate supply of precipitation, continued Mr. Harris, but we need that water in the right place at the right time. We have been contaminating our waterways for quite some time now until our rivers have become running sewers. An investigation carried out on Lake Erie proved that algae was the cause of the disappearing of fine fish. It has been polluted to the point where it's future use is very doubtful. Mr. Harris explained that the St. Lawrence was almost as bad.

Mr. Harris stated that there were several known pockets of pollution along Lake Ontario that could float into any community located along the shores of the lake.

Who is responsible for the overall neglect of the province? It is easy for us to blame the government. We feel our responsibilities end as we vote each election day.

The speaker was introduced by Kiwanian Ken Macdonald and thanked by Kiwanian Don Hickson.

Electricians' Strike Looms In Quinte Area

Varied Program Prepared for Air Force Day

TRENTON — On the ground and in the air, Air Force Day in Trenton on Saturday, June 1, sounds like fun.

This year, the RCAF will present many "firsts" locally. For instance, a team of Harvard jet trainers dubbed the "Goldilocks", will "mount the Golden Hawks, in what will try to be a display of Hawks' tactics in precision aerobatic flying.

Other years, parachutes plummeted out of C119 Flying Boxcars sending crates of supplies onto the airfield. This year promises more thrills for the crowd below as 22 Canadian paratroopers will be floated down.

On the ground, the kids will be able to get in some flying time in a World War II Link trainer.

Grown-ups and kiddies too will thrill to the music of the 6RD Brass and Reed Band, and the RCAF Pipes and Drums and Rockcliffe Highland dancers will entertain Scots and those who wish they were.

Hangar No. 10 covers six acres. On Saturday, a large part of this space will be given over to static displays of aircraft engines, vintage aircraft and telecommunication systems.

When they're not in the air, the Golden Hawks will be outside Hangar Seven, signing autographs.

Suspend Sentence For Theft in 1953

TRENTON — Joseph Moran of Trenton was placed on a two-year suspended sentence by Magistrate T. A. Willis, on a charge of theft of a television set from a Queen St. resident, Mrs. Elmo Jones, in 1953. Moran was ordered to pay the court costs of $5 and to make restitution of $50 to Ivan Stewart, also of Trenton, within a month.

The court was told two weeks ago that Moran had sold the set to Mr. Stewart, while he (Moran) was rooming with Mrs. Jones. After the transaction, Moran went to Montreal and from there to the States.

Crown Attorney John A. Pringle and the magistrate took into account the fact that Moran had not committed any offences since 1953 when considering sentence.

Install Curbs In Sub-division

TRENTON — One of Trenton's new sub-division Elmwood Acres, is filling curbs installed and the roads in the housing development are being graded and re-surfaced.

Town engineer Eric Aldersey said today that the Elmwood Acres residents (who are paying a larger than usual share of the local improvement tax for the work) are enthusiastically following up the public works men by seeding their boulevards. The work is about half done, said Mr. Alderesy.

Meanwhile, some town roads are being graded in preparation for paving next month and sidewalk repair and replacement is being carried out.

OMC Boat Plant Plans Layoff Of 60 Workers

TRENTON — L. H. Bearne, general manager of boat division of Outboard Marine Corporation at Trenton told The Ontario Intelligencer today that 60 employees had been laid off at the local plant and would be through work this Friday. Mr. Bearne. This, he attributed to lay-off would be temporary.

Sales this year had not lived up to expectations, said Mr. Bearne. this, he contributed to cold, lacklustre weather in Ontario and Quebec. He stressed the fact that more boats had been sold in the 1962-63 season than in 1961, when the plant went into production in Trenton. The plant now has a large stockpile of boats.

Mr. Bearne said that 30 to 40 workers would be kept on, at least for a three-weeks period, to complete present schedules and that, after that, a skeleton staff would be kept on until it was feasible to call back workers.

Canadian research engineers are working closely with the American division of Outboard Marine, said Mr. Bearne, in order to come up with newer models to sell to Canadian buyers. The Trenton plant would have to be re-arranged in order to go into production on new lines.

There is a possibility that the plant may begin production on smaller hulls, for use with outboard motors. So far, production has been confined to the inboard-outboard OMC 17 boats.

Meantime, Outboard Marine officials are looking around for a product other than boats to manufacture in Trenton, seeking some line which would not be seasonal.

Mr. Bearne stressed optimism about the future of the Trenton plant and referred to the present as a temporary setback in production only.

Prevented Officer Arresting His Father

TRENTON — Donald Wood, 18, of 448 Front St., Trenton, was sentenced to a month in jail on the charge of obstructing a police officer, in magistrate's course at Trenton yesterday. At the present time Wood is serving a six months' sentence for a breach of probation. Yesterday's sentence will run concurrently.

Sgt. Walter Youmans told the court that Wood rushed him when he was trying to take Wood's father, Frank Wood, into cuwody, on May 7. The officer said that he had been forced to return to the police station and enlist the aid of another officer as the three members of the Wood family, Donald, his mother and his father, had made it impossible for him to carry out his duty.

Five Homeless After Fire in Ameliasburg

TRENTON — Fire in Ameliasburg township this morning damaged telephone lines, and prevented the victims from calling the Trenton fire department.

The fire began about seven a.m. in the home of Oscar Heroux, R.R. 1, Carrying Place. The family attempted to telephone the fire department at Trenton, but by the time Mr. Heroux reached the telephone, the lines had been cut off. When the Trenton fire department heard of the blaze, the house had been completely destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Heroux and their three children escaped without injury from the fire. Six years ago, on January 6, of 1957, the family lost three children in a fire at 177 Bay St., Trenton.

Africa Speaks

The mice roared like lions at Addis Ababa last week. However, those who may be tempted to scoff should pause long enough to reflect on the fact that there were mice to roar.

Only one of the thirty-four independent countries which signed last Saturday's "Charter of African Unity" was truly free and independent a quarter of a century ago. This was Liberia, established by the descendants of American slaves who had returned to the continent of their forebears. Ethiopia itself, where the representatives of these states gathered, 35 years ago was the newly-conquered territory of what its supporters believed was "the wave of the future," Fascism. Most of the other regions represented at Addis Ababa were colonies of Britain or France in 1936.

It is easy to laugh at the thought of these newly-born nations, many of them still split by internal schisms and all of them facing the common foe of poverty, threatening an advanced country like the Union of South Africa or even defying such a small European nation as Portugal.

But if the next quarter of a century gives the mice the muscles to match their lion-like voice, it will be no greater miracle than the mere existence of the mice is today.

Lung Cancer in India

Lung cancer in India has nearly trebled in a ten-year period, according to a survey released by the Vallabhai Pastel chest institute.

We did not realize that the winning of independence had brought such an upsurge in cigarette smoking.

Seriously, though, it is reports like this which raise occasional doubts about the overwhelming mass of evidence that cigarette smoking is responsible for the rapid climb in the incidence of lung cancer in the western world.

Has cigarette smoking increased greatly in India in recent years? If not, to what do research workers attribute the increased cancer rate—or perhaps we should say the apparent increase in the cancer rate?

The next cancer research project might profitably be conducted amongst people who do not smoke cigarettes—not amongst a group of abstainers in a country where cigarette smoking is prevalent but in a land where practically nobody smokes cigarettes. There is always the suspicion that the susceptibility to cancer and the craving for cigarettes may not be effect and cause, but the dual results of some other material or personal deficiency. So a survey of some area where religious or economic factors inhibit the great majority of the population from smoking—if such an area exists—would be most revealing.

Scottish Revolt

A new British ban-the-bomb organization calling itself "Scots Against War" has distributed leaflets in Glasgow calling on bomb-banners to defy the law, and the "wreck the state's war machine." The British government "takes the gravest view of the situation." The British people, traditionally broad-minded and tolerant of crackpots, will probably ignore any demonstrations by the new group, as long as there is no violence.

It is just such groups as the "Scots Against War" that make life in the U.K. so interesting, and the lack of them is one of the important differences noticed in Britain by new arrivals, as seen by U.K. immigrants. Canada has, of course, bomb-banners, but their activities until now have seemed rather pointless, considering the lack of bombs. Some, more adaptable than others, have taken to banning fluoridated water instead.

But with the promised advent of the big bad bomb on the Canadian scene, Canada can expect a blooming crop of rabid and rational passive resisters, violent resisters and undecided resisters. Whatever they may accomplish, they promise to make life more interesting.

How About a Fresh Start?

Douglas John Brown is now back in Vancouver, the city he left shortly after $525,000 also disappeared.

Mr. Brown went to Brazil and was turned out of that country in such an unceremonious manner that British Columbia Attorney-General Robert Bonner termed the procedure "cloudy and questionable" and Deputy Attorney-General Gilbert Kennedy has called it "shocking."

It is pleasant to find our law enforcement officials so concerned with basic liberties and the safeguarding of the constitutional rights of citizens that they should balk in this manner. We notice, though, that none of them has suggested giving Mr. Brown the only possible recompense —a fresh start, say from here to Timbuctoo.

Age of Leisure a Myth

By Ronald Gross in the Commonweal

We all know that Protestant Western man, and particularly the American variety, thinks of work as his central activity.

It should be no surprise, therefore that Americans, suddenly discovering that they are creating abundant leisure as a by-product of their efficiency at work, are leaping to the conclusion that this new free time constitutes a major social problem.

Behind the exuberant rhetoric which inflates leisure to the status of "an unprecedented social problem" lie two basic assumptions. First, there is the historical. A publication of the National Academy of Association, Leisure and the Schools, is typical of the current literature in the field. It opens with this historical argument: "Perhaps the age into which the world is embarking will be remembered by historians as the 'Age of Leisure'. What conjectures this brings forth."

The first conjecture might be how anyone with a sense of history could possibly distinguish this as the "Age of Leisure."

As Hannah Arendt has pointed out, the renowned decrease in working hours during the past hundred years is vastly overrated because it is measured against the extreme conditions prevailing during the first stages of industrialism.

Taking a somewhat longer view, we find that the Greeks of the classical period enjoyed leisure time much beyond our own by simply working only hard enough to earn their sustenance.

(The typical Greek meal of the time, we recall, consisted of two courses: the first a kind of gruel, and the second a kind of gruel.)

Moreover, the amount of free time available to the average American today has been considerably exaggerated. A study released last year by the Twentieth Century Fund, Of Time, Work, and Leisure by Sebastian de Grazia, concludes that when the official statistics are adjusted to eliminate part-time workers and to reflect travel to and from work, the extraordinary amount of moonlighting, etc., one finds that "the difference between 1850 and 1960 comes down to a few hours . . . The great and touted gains in free time since the 1850's, then, are largely myth."

The second argument used to inflate leisure into a "problem" is sociological. Here the line is that the lengthening stretches of time will accrue to unskilled and semi-skilled workers who have the least training in how to use their leisure. The hinted at outcomes range from collective psychosis to fascist revolution.

The implication is that workers need help in coping with their new [illegible]; naturally, each group of experts stands ready to march to the task. Typical is this statement by Willard C. Sutherland, Director of Personnel Services, for the National Recreation Association.

"Since the average worker is unable to invent new uses for his leisure, a professional elite shares a heavy responsibility for discovering new criteria for ways of employing leisure . . ."

Social scientists who can answer to what is actually happening are much less alarmed. They find that a particular group in the population who already have a three-day week find life filled to the brim with activity and free time.

Eli Ginberg at Columbia's Conservation of Human Resources Project studied a group of 57 mostly professional men working twenty-eight hours of work per week. He started with the hypothesis that those who worked so little would find difficulty in keeping busy.

The hypothesis was wrong.

The men simply spent more time with their children, helped their wives around the house, spent additional hours at union headquarters.

Strictly Personal
Man Must Mix Hopes, Fears With Realism

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In his recent book, "On Knowing," which I unreservedly recommend, Jerome Bruner, professor of psychology at Harvard, observes that, "in time, and as aim comes to benefit from experience, one learns that things will turn out neither as well as we hoped for nor as badly as one feared."

We can learn fairly early in life that our fears are generally exaggerated — the "bad" things that happen to us are not nearly so bad after they happen as they seemed in anxious expectation of them. There is some compensation in almost every long lifetime taken care of that.

What is much harder to learn, however, and what is usually not learned until quite late in life (unless we are possessed of exceptional maturity) is that the "good" things that happen to us are not nearly so totally satisfying, do not solve our problems, as we had hoped.

Every dreams larger before we have it than after we have achieved it: the raise that looked so important a year ago has added to our expenses without substantially increasing our savings; the woman who fitted our needs so exquisitely during the engagement is a moon whose "dark side" we begin to glimpse only after the marriage.

Unless we are able to hold our fears and our hopes at a more or less sophisticated equilibrium, we are continually in danger of losing our emotional balance, of either shrinking up like the Big Break or shrinking away too fearfully from the service of our deepest desires.

If we look back upon our childhood, we can plainly see how obsessed we were by neither the catastrophes nor the triumphs were as meaningful or decisive as they had seemed at the time ahead of us is not much of a guide to how the time behind us is the same, psychological game, played on a larger scale, for larger stakes but with just as consequential to our souls as we still, half-childishly, imagine.

The public is baffled, and a little contemptuous, toward those celebrities (chiefly in the entertainment world) who despite fame, fortune, extraordinary good looks and all the other desiderata we so ardently yearn for, nevertheless are disgruntled, unhappy, confused, and sometimes embittered to the point of suicide.

Such personalities cannot be understood unless we recognize that they have been betrayed by their hopes coming true. They decisively believed that things would for them once fame and fortune were theirs; and all their fanatical striving for success was directed toward this end. When their infantile wishes were gratified, however, they quickly found that some basic satisfaction had eluded them. They had climbed to the peak — but the top of the mountain is cold, windy, and lonesome.

Hope, of course, is a better comrade-in-arms than fear, if we must make a choice. But realism, which is hope tempered by the calm recognition that neither leads us to heaven or to hell.

At Mercy of Majority

By VAL WERIER in the Winnipeg Tribune

The case of San Antonio gold mine reveals the impotence of minority shareholders in the affairs of a company. A Montrealer gained control of the Manitoba company, dissipated the working capital, and the mine ended up in the hands of his creditors — the brokers.

Minority shareholders had no voice in this transaction. The Montrealer invested the working capital and ran up the obligation — a dubious decision to say the least — but he had control of the company and this vat within his authority.

Minority shareholders are at the mercy of the majority and have no say in the operations of a company. They are entitled to an auditor's report and statement, and to ask questions at the annual meeting, but that is all. Necessarily to the answers. Minority shareholders may hold 49 per cent of the shares but that does not give them a single seat on the board of directors.

"That undemocratic thing in society is a company," says a local lawyer.

The laws require minority shareholders are supposed to be treated fairly and equitably but company lawyers agree that not too infrequently is this requirement overlooked.

One lawyer cites the case of a construction firm in which shareholders have a difficulty in getting information for years about the manner in which contracts are arranged but have not been given the answers.

Another lawyer told me of the company in which the majority shareholders signed over by business into a subsidiary which they wholly controlled. Minority shareholders can apply to the courts for an injunction if they believe the company is acting against their interests. But this is difficult to prove, because it is recognized that directors must be given wide latitude in making decisions in a competitive enterprise.

Directors, particularly in private companies, can channel profits into large salaries and bonuses. That is one kind of remedies directors to pay dividends.

The question of protecting the rights of minority shareholders was discussed recently by the Canadian Bar Association in a proposed draft of uniform companies act across the country. Consideration is also being given to require more complete financial statements going to shareholders.

One of the measures considered is compulsory audit of the item by which minorities may obtain representation on the board.

R. J. Cudney, QC, deputy provincial treasurer for Ontario, is a panel discussion at the Canadian Bar Association, stated: "I submit that under our present law the minority share - holders have in most parts of Canada little or no rights, either by statute or common law."

Mr. Cudney added the case of private companies.

"Where there are two families, one with 51 per cent of the shares and the other 49 per cent, I have seen many cases where the family that owns 49 per cent might as well forget about their shares. They will never get dividends. They could never get anything for their shares, no one would want to buy them, the profits are taken out in salaries paid to the 60 per cent interest."

Mr. Cudney said minorities in private and public companies would have to be given more rights to encourage investment. He submitted that shareholders should be given a more adequate breakdown of the financial positions of companies, including how the money is spent, what is paid for salaries and taxes.

To Your Good Health
Rheumatic Fever Might Damage Patient's Heart

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had rheumatic fever as a boy and have been told it always does some damage to the heart. I am now 45.

Does the disease become more severe as the patient grows older?

I also am enclosing 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self - addressed envelope for a copy of your booklet, "How To Take Care Of Your Heart." — John S.

The booklet will give you further details on the subject but keep this in mind: While rheumatic fever is a dangerous disease because of its after effects, we certainly cannot say it always damages the heart.

Neither can we generalize about the degree of damage. Sometimes it is severe, sometimes slight. And it does not automatically become more severe with age.

What happens is that it may inflame the heart tissues. After the disease has ended, one or more of the heart valves may be impaired because of scar tissue which has formed where the inflammation developed.

Repeated attacks of rheumatic fever, later in life, perhaps seemingly light ones, can keep adding to the damage, of course. That's why, these days, we continue to emphasize penicillin (usually penicillin) once a month for approximately 5 years after the last rheumatic fever.

Knowing the dangerous aftermath, we now realize the importance of subduing infection from the first moment rheumatic fever is suspected. As a result we have less damage and fewer crippled hearts. Credit for this result from this is far greater than is indicated by the relatively small amount of publicity about it.

Now in your case, you surely have had a number of physical examinations — school, insurance, job, military, or just your own general health checkups.

Heart damage from rheumatic fever is usually first detected by a murmur, and of course all murmurs don't mean that.

If rheumatic fever as a child had damaged your heart, you would have known about it. There is no reason to think it will show up long afterward without warning. It doesn't do that.

On the other hand, for people who have known damage from this, the daily valves over the years put extra strain on the heart muscle, thus adding a different kind of heart - time passes. It isn't that the results of rheumatic fever grow worse; it's a matter of damage in addition to former damage.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am enclosing a related area.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a person has smoked cigarettes for 30 years and then stops, could he suffer any reaction or ill effect? — S. P.

Any reaction? Possibly, depending on how heavily he has smoked.

A moderate smoker would have no reaction at all. A heavy smoker might find himself quite irritable, perhaps sweaty, possibly sleepless and generally uncomfortable until he adjusted. This would be only for a matter of a few days, and would not be harmful, only annoying.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is enteomyelitis and what can be done about it? — A. B.

It is inflammation of the bone usually the result of infection and tending to become chronic. Sometimes it is necessary to scrape the bone along with using antibiotics. Choice of the antibiotic depends on the type of germ.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can children of the same parents have children of quite different blood types? — A. D.

Yes, depending on the blood types of the parents.

Of all the problems that pediatricians encounter in childrearing, pinworm is the commonest. To learn the newest methods of treatment, send for the booklet "The Commonest Pest, Pinworm," to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Illinois. Enclose a long, self addressed envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Edmund Hillary and Tensing Norkay crowned seven years of the efforts of the 13-man British expedition led by Col. John Hunt. Earlier man-for expeditions had previously failed to scale the giant of the Himalayas and Hunt's team's victory was the more notable because it came four days before the coronation of Queen Elizabeth, and was hailed as an opening of a second Elizabethan era.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Aggressive women appear to be on the increase. It is probably a natural consequence of their emancipation. In the past week, I have been molested by no fewer than three aggressive women. In attempting to cross the street at a proper intersection, I was nearly run down by a thirty year old lady leaning out of her window and shouting that no traffic policeman would have dared utter. She scorched me. In a department store, crowding the door of a department store, I was perhaps a little slow and deliberate. A middle-aged lady came next behind me and gave the door a violent shove, spinning me out the far side like a toast out of a toaster. Not content with that, she gave me a piece of her mind about two inches in diameter. As a male business type lady of forty who butted in ahead of me just as I stepped up to the wicket at my bank.

"I'm in a hurry," she said, elbowing me.

As recently as fifty years ago, there would be only the one aggressive woman in an entire family connection. She was the family bogey, feared by old and young. All you had to do, to bring any other girl or woman in the family to heel was to say "You're getting exactly like Auntie Mae."

That cured them for two or three months.

Britain Wary About Seaborne Nuclear Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration's plan for a seaborne nuclear missile force within the Atlantic alliance has run into trouble again —this time with Britain.

If Britain's reservations about the plan can be cleared up in the next two weeks, however, the resulting accord could mean a meeting between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan during Kennedy's late June swing around western Europe.

Macmillan has been reported pressing for a meeting with Kennedy. Agreement on principle on British participation in the proposed force would supply practical, even urgent, reason for a get-together.

If British questions about the Polaris nuclear force cannot be satisfied, Britain's refusal to participate might result in abandonment or radical change of the project. At least authorities here say, the plan would have to be given a serious review because it was put forth in expectation of maximum allied sharing in the operation.

MANY MIXED CREWS

The heart of the proposal provides for construction of a fleet of 20 to 25 warships armed with a total of about 200 Polaris missiles and manned by joint crews of the participating nations. The cost over a period of 10 years has been estimated at $5,000,000,000, to be split up among the participants.

Officials said today the United States still believes the entire nuclear striking force should be based on surface ships. There has been discussion in West Germany of the possibility of creating a NATO land-base missile force also.

Other countries the United States hopes will participate in the project are Canada, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Greece, and Turkey. None has made any firm commitments.

FISH INDUSTRY BOOMED

In 1948 fishermen of western South America caught 130,000 tons annually but today take more than 6,000,000 tons a year.

Test Hospital Disaster Plan With Exercise

Eleven victims of a hypothetical disaster were admitted within twenty minutes today, to the Belleville General Hospital, in an exercise of the hospital's disaster plan. Hospital authorities, the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization, city fire and police departments, and the Quinte and LaSalle ambulance services cooperated in the exercise. The disaster plan has been in effect for two years, but this is the first practical test of the organization.

In practice, the plan would be implemented at the discretion of the medical officer in charge of the hospital, in any case in which more than 10 emergency cases were to be admitted within a short time. The hospital has yet to face such a situation, but in Ontario such disasters occur roughly every two years. The recent mass food poisonings in Toronto are an example.

Today's test demonstrated, according to Dr. S. D. Horne, chief of disaster medical services at the hospital, that the hospital could handle up to 100 emergency cases arising out of a single disaster. Span for the victims would be provided by transfer of patients already in the hospital to temporary wards, set up for the purpose.

Request Shuffle In TV Programs

WINNIPEG (CP) — Television programming came under the scrutiny of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation Tuesday.

Delegates to the federation's annual meeting have agreed to request that the CBC shuffle its program schedule to lessen restricted television to elementary school children.

The proposal was one of 14 resolutions on the agenda of the group's five-day annual meeting.

Must Resolve

at the present time," he said, and "should be capable of commanding the support of a substantial majority of the members of the assembly."

It also should take into consideration the fact that it would "be unrealistic to divide the membership of the UN into two or three groups since some members have a relatively low capacity to pay. . . .

"On the other hand some members have a relatively high capacity to pay, but unfortunately seem to lack any real desire to see the United Nations become an effective international instrument in the maintenance of world peace."

Tremblay delivered his address in French.

No U.S. Request to Deploy Jet Interceptor Squadrons In Canada Has Been Made - - Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today no American request to deploy more U.S. jet interceptor squadrons in Canada has been made.

"I would be very surprised if such a proposal were on the way," he also told a reporter.

Such a request was made by the U.S. during the Cuba crisis last fall but the then Conservative government turned it down.

Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said: "I understand they (the U.S.) are sending a proposal.

"I have not yet received it so that I am unaware of its exact nature. I would have to see on what basis it is made and what is involved before expressing an opinion about it."

Mr. Hellyer described as a "complete fabrication" apparent that Canada would rather bring home its eight CF-104 jet squadrons from Europe than have U.S. planes in Canada. The CF-104 is a low-level jet bomber, not an interceptor.

The U.S. has six interceptor squadrons at Goose Bay, Labrador, and a detachment of interceptors at Harmon Field, Nfld.

Like Canadian Voodoo jet interceptors, however, they are not armed with nuclear air-to-air missiles.

Any more U.S. squadrons deployed in Canada couldn't be armed with nuclear warheads until signing of a Canada-U.S. agreement. The two countries now are negotiating a nuclear custody - and - control agreement covering the Voodoos and Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles in this country.

WOULD BE REJECTED

Any U.S. request to station more interceptors in Canada likely would be turned down.

North American Air Defence command has said the bomber threat is diminishing and the missile threat increasing.

When the Liberals were previously in power, they resisted any deployment of American interceptors on Canadian soil. Goose and Harmon are U.S. bases.

Bourbon Makers Want Bigger Canadian Trade

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. bourbon makers, claiming their product appeals to the widest variety of consumer tastes, Tuesday accused Canada and other countries of discriminating against bourbon imports while building a highly protective domestic market for domestic whisky production.

Appearing before a U.S. commerce department body examining a charge of discrimination against American products, the bourbon institute charged that Canada "offers one of the widest selections of diversified barriers to bourbon trade."

In contrast to the U.S. tariff-tar on Canadian whisky amounting to about $11.75 a gallon, Canada charges $12.25 a gallon, while limiting bourbon imports to specific bottle sizes which, the institute claimed, are not competitive.

"On top of all these discriminations, typical Canadian provinces mark up (for profit), imports from the U.S. by an amount considerably more than the mark-up on equivalent Canadian goods — thus contributing to a price differential of more than $2 a bottle at the retail level.".

MAKE CLAIM

The institute claimed that if its members could get a fair crack at the Canadian whisky trade, they soon would grab a big share of the Canadian market. But Vice-Admiral William Marshall, institute president, maintained that instead of playing fair with imports, many of the provincial liquor stores display only one or two bourbon brands or even tuck them under the counter where the buyer can't see them.

As a result, the department was told, only 18,000 gallons of American bottled whisky were shipped to Canada for sale in 1962, while Canada shipped about 1,000,000 gallons of its whisky for sale in the U.S.—a ratio of one to 776 in favor of Canadian producers.

Canada sold about $76,400,000 worth of alcoholic beverages to the U.S. in 1961—accounting for about 94 per cent of all Canadian alcoholic exports.

FEWER FARMED

Between 1940 and 1960 the United States population grew from 132,000,000 to 180,000,000 but farm population decreased 14,900,000.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

LET YOUR GUESTS RELAX

A weekend in the country or at the shore is something guests look forward to — providing the host and hostess don't behave like a couple of top sergeants.

Planning entertainment for visiting firemen is one thing, but regimenting the starch out of them is quite another. Guests much prefer going home in a glow, not in a state of nervous exhaustion.

Activities for a successful weekend should be scheduled to include some breathing space. To my mind, there's nothing more diabolical than trotting off to the country, longing to laze around in the grass, and then being shepherded from one party to another or from one sport to another without a minute in between.

The comfort of guests should be the main concern of the hostess, but often she takes her own wishes into consideration first, and simply takes her guests for granted, figuring they'll have to go along with anything she says.

Of course, there has to be an overall plan for the weekend — such as where the cookout will be held, who is to be invited for cocktails, and making arrangements for swimming, golf or anything else guests might be interested in.

Instead of cramming every hour, the considerate hostess lines up her schedule with restful breaks in between. Guests often like to take a walk or a snooze before meals, and some just plumb like to set a spell and let their minds go blank.

So, if guests are part of the vacation picture, here are some tips for the weekend hostess:

Try to be flexible and give guests a choice of activity vs. inactivity. If some want to golf, arrange for others to do something else or just mope around if they want to. No need to herd everyone out to the golf course when only a few want to participate.

Don't try to pack too much into a single day. If a midday picnic is planned, resist backing it into a cocktail party, then dinner. Leave some blank space for guests to relax and shower in peace.

Most guests consider a weekend away as an escape from business hours, so don't get them up at the crack of dawn. A reasonable breakfast hour is most welcome, and a considerate hostess tries to make it leisurely — in contrast with the usual bolted cup of coffee during the week.

A relaxed schedule gives guests a refreshing change and enables the hostess to enjoy her company in return.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Earl Akey, Minden, Ontario, are shown following their marriage in Calvary Temple, Belleville, on May 11th. The bride is the former Joan Marie Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson, Shannonville R. R. 1. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Akey, Shannonville R. R. 1.

AKEY — WILSON

A pretty wedding was solemnized in Calvary Temple, Belleville, on Saturday, May 11, 1963, when Joan Marie Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson, Shannonville, R.R. 1, was united in marriage to Gordon Earl Akey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Akey, Shannonville R.R. 1. The Rev. Laurie Price officiated at the ceremony before a background of pink, yellow and white mums and gladioli, while white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. Osborne, who presided at the organ, rendered traditional wedding music and also accompanied the soloist, the Rev. J. Tubby in his rendition of "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father was lovely in a floor-length bridal gown of embroidered nylon organdy over taffeta with the full skirt highlighted with soft pleats and accented at the back and sides with gathers caught with tiny bows. The fitted bodice was enhanced with a portrait neckline and long lily-point sleeves. Her bouffant waist-length veil outlined with scalloped edges and in four-tier effect fell from a headpiece of organza flowers adorned with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty red roses.

Miss Marie Valentyne, Deseronto, matron of the bride as maid of honor was gowned in a sheath dress of shrimp pink nylon organza over taffeta with an overskirt of nylon organza, matching headpiece and shoes, and white gloves. The bridesmaids, Miss Marg Babcock, of Belleville, dressed in pink, and Miss Carol Wilson, sister of the bride, dressed in yellow, were attired similar to the maid of honor and all carried nosegays of mums and carnations tinted to match each dress.

Mr. Ron Akey, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, while Mr. Stan Akey, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. Perry Ellis, Point Anne, cousin of the bride were the ushers.

A reception was held at the Orange Hall, Point Anne, which was appropriately decorated for the occasion, with the bridal table centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with wedding bells and two tiny doves holding miniature wedding rings. The bridal bouquets added to the colorful nuptial setting.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a pale blue double knit sheath with matching jacket, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a blue lace sheath dress, white accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls the bride chose a two-piece pale blue wool flannel suit, white hat and gloves, beige purse and shoes, and a corsage of pink carnations.

Guests were present from Point Anne, Shannonville, Deseronto, Belleville, Ottawa, Tweed, Bowmanville, Peterborough, Oshawa, West Huntingdon, Trenton and Port Hope.

A miscellaneous shower was held previous to the marriage at the home of Mrs. Ward Babcock, Belleville, when Miss Marg Babcock and Miss Shirley Prest as co-hostesses when a number of the bride's high school friends were present and at a kitchen shower held at the home of Mrs. Don Akey, Point Anne.

Mr. and Mrs. Akey will reside in Minden, Ontario.

Young Couple Feted With Many Gifts

STIRLING — On the evening of May 25th a shower was held at the I.O.O.F. Hall on Chatlotte Street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Morgan (nee Muriel McMullen). The group included neighbors and friends of the family, also former friends from Springbrook and relatives from Brookston and Belleville.

Mr. George Carlisle was master of ceremonies and the newlyweds were seated in chairs of honor in the front of the hall. Murney Bateman, Springbrook, delighted with vocal selections and gave his own guitar accompaniment. Mrs. Percy MacMullen contributed a humorous reading.

Mrs. Blake Faulkner read an address of appreciation on behalf of Rawdon and Springbrook friends and Mrs. James Bailey made the presentation of a gift of money. There were also several individual gifts one of which was a Cornflower glass vase from friends at River Valley.

Murriel and Gerald voiced thanks for all the gifts and invited their friends to pay them a visit at their apartment in Belleville.

Brief addresses were given by Messrs. Murney Bateman, Ray Merritt and the bride's father, Malcolm McMullen.

Mrs. Gerald Russett of Wellmans showed a few reels of the wedding pictures and a photographer from Batawa showed his movie pictures of the wedding.

SURPRISE PARTY

On the evening of May 22, Mrs. Ronald Miles, Belleville, entertained the office staff and warehouse ladies of the American Optical Company, Belleville where Murriel is employed. The party was a surprise to the newlyweds and during the evening they were presented with matching electric table lamps and several miscellaneous items in linen and crystal. Murriel voiced thanks for both party and gifts in her honor.

Previous to the marriage the bridegroom who is employed at the Eastern Breeders Association Incorporated Plant at Belleville was presented by his co - workers with a sandwich plate in cornflower pattern.

Mr., Mrs. J. B. Hagerman, Rawdon, 50 Years Wed

Picking up at a moment's notice and moving across the continent may be a modern day trend, but it has nothing in common with Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hagerman, 6th concession of Rawdon township.

Yesterday the well known Rawdon couple celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary—on the same farm to which they returned after their marriage half a century ago.

In fact it is the only home which Mr. Hagerman has ever known. It was the home of his father before him.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Hagerman were "at home" to friends and neighbors during the afternoon and evening with dozens of congratulatory messages and anniversary gifts adding to the occasion.

Honeymoons were not yet in fashion when Mr. Hagerman and his bride, the former Cora May Jeffrey, were married at the 8th line Anglican Church back in 1913.

NO HONEYMOON

It was an evening wedding and Mr. Hagerman had milked the cows before turning up for the ceremony.

"And I had to be back to milk the cows the next morning," he recalled yesterday.

His groomsman of 50 years ago, Clarence Bateman of Stirling, attended the anniversary and recalled that yesterday's weather was much the same as on the day of the wedding.

"But it was bright in the evening," rejoined Mr. Hagerman.

The Hagerman farm has grown with the years and the farm now boasts of 300 acres with about 70 head of cattle, including 35 milkers being carried. The present house and barn structures have been built in the past 50 years.

ACTIVE IN CHURCH

Now 74, Mr. Hagerman still does his share of the farm work although he admits a "bum" knee hampers his walking. But the knee doesn't stop him from operating the farm tractor.

A devout, religious couple, they attend Salem United Church where Mr. Hagerman is church treasurer and member of the board of stewards. He sang in the church choir for over 40 years. Mrs. Hagerman is an active member of the United Church women.

Also Mr. Hagerman is a long time member of the "Tanners" Orange Lodge, having served as lodge master, chaplain and also county master. His son Lorne is now carrying on the family lodge tradition.

Among anniversary felicitations received by the couple were messages from Elmer "Sandy" Sandercock, MLA for Hastings West; Provincial Secretary Hon. John Yaremko, and from Ontario Premier John B. Robarts.

In addition to their son who now takes the lead in the farm operation, the couple have one daughter (Mrs. Wilbur Bateman) of the Tweed area, and eight grandchildren.

U.C.W. Meeting

SALEM U.C.W.

MINTO—The May meeting of Salem U.C.W. was held on Thursday evening with a splendid attendance. Mrs. Albert Twiddy acted as hostess for this meeting. The president opened with an appropriate verse.

Some business was discussed.

Mrs. Frank McGee reported for visiting committee and Mrs. George Sine presented financial statement.

Mrs. Arnold Ray then took charge of the program which included: a hymn; Mrs. Orval Jackson read the Scripture; Jesson and Mrs. Tom Clements reading the meditation. Mrs. Vera Hagerman gave a piano solo; Mrs. Stanley Thompson a reading; Misses Ruth Hagerman, Ruth Sarles, Betty Sine, Mary Lou Sine, Joanne Kerns, Mary Lou Kerns and Cathy Wickens sang; Mrs. Everett Sine gave the topic; Mrs. Ed Colden a solo.

Mrs. Lebow thanked the hostess and all who helped with the program.

Lunch was served.

No Dinner Companions For Brother-in-Laws' Dog

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Several weeks ago my wife's relatives were invited here for dinner. After saying grace I looked up and there was a dog — a 50 pound Boxer — sitting at the table, directly across from me.

My brother-in-law proceeded to ladle out beef stew for the animal, right an the plate, as if the dog were a person. I announced flatly that I was leaving the table and would have my dinner in the bedroom. No one said a word — and I did just that.

Now my brother-in-law and sister are furious with me and they refuse to come to our home again unless I apologize. My wife is on their side, Ann. She insists I was rude and ungracious and "a poor host."

I refuse to apologize. I contend they owe me an apology. I regret now that I was fool enough to leave my own table and allow that dog to sit there. Had I used my head I would have told them to take the animal into the back yard.

Everyone in the family is choosing up sides and having a say. Please, Ann, may I have your opinion of all this? — NO DINNER COMPANION FOR A DOG.

DEAR NO COMPANION — You owe no one an apology. If your sister and brother-in-law wish to allow their dog to be a guest at their table, that's their business, but they should not assume that the dog is welcome at the table of relatives.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My problem is an unusual one and I need help. I've been married for 15 years to a woman who says she is in love with me, happy as a lark, and wouldn't trade places with anyone in the world — but her suspicious nature is making my life unbearable.

About six months ago she began to ask me about the women I work with at the chemical plant. She insisted that she was able to detect an odor of perfume on my shirt and tie — and who was I seeing?

I am not seeing anyone and I have no wish to see anyone. I go straight home after work and I stay there. Two weeks ago my wife came down to the plant and sniffed around all the women to see if she could track down the perfume. She had no luck but intends to try again, she said.

I've asked a couple of friends at work if they can smell any perfume on me and they say no. Please tell me what to do about this. - I am — TREED.

DEAR TREED — Overactive imaginations have been known to destroy marriages. I hope your wife doesn't lose by a nose. If she persists in this bloodhound routine, suggest that she talk her problems over with a professional.

DEAR ANN — I am almost 13 but I act, feel and look older. If you met me like on the street you'd take me for a girl of 16.

Mom is A O.K. but dad is a creep. Every Friday night a bunch of us girls take turns having the gang over. There are six couples and we are all in the 8th grade. We play records, dance and serve refreshments.

The problem is my dad won't let us turn off the lights in the rumpus room when we dance. He is an old man of 41 and doesn't realize it's no fun to dance unless it is dark. Nobody else's parents object and I'm embarrassed that my dad is so old-fashioned. Also I think he is evil-minded. What do you think? — MEANIE'S DAUGHTER.

DEAR DAUGHTER — You dad sounds like the only parent in the bunch who has a working brain cell.

Eighth grade kids should not be partying boy-girl style, and dancing in the dark can lead to nothing good. You kids are at least three years ahead of yourselves and I say nix to all of it.

Women's Activities

CANNIFTON U.C.W.

The May meeting of the Evening Group of Canniflon United Church Women was held in the church on the last Monday of the month, with 16 members present.

The president, Vera Mitchell, opened the meeting with a short poem, "This I Know."

It was decided that a donation be given to the Afternoon Group to defray expenses of the bale.

Joy Purdian gave the card and gift report.

Ruth Boyce, Mildred MacPherson, Mary Thornton and Gertrude Bowers were in charge of the worship service.

Ruth Boyce gave an interesting talk on what Christianity means to us and how basically all Christian denominations are the same. "The first step is accepting Christ as our Saviour by whatever name it is known as in a particular denomination." She gave several Scripture passages to show how to strengthen one's faith.

SHIP TURNS BACK

LE HAVRE, France (AP)— The French liner Flandre interrupted a Caribbean cruise today just off the French coast because of engine trouble. The vessel left shortly after noon with 204 passengers aboard but was forced to stop about 30 miles out of Le Havre when turbine trouble caused excessive vibration. Two tugs brought the craft back to Le Havre for inspection and repair. The passengers are staying aboard.

ENDORSES DAIRY MONTH

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson, endorsing the "June is dairy month" campaign, says Canadians could easily dispose of the country's dairy production by slightly increasing their regular purchases. "Our problem is not over-production of milk but of under-consumption," he said in a statement. The number of milking cows in Canada had remained almost unchanged at around 3,000,000 since 1950 while the human population had increased more than 4,000,000 in that time.

IODE Expands Scholarships And Bursaries

By PATRICIA RUSAK

VICTORIA (CP)—The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire will award 22 bursaries of $1,500 each and six post-graduate scholarships of $2,000 each in Canada this year.

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett of Hamilton, IODE national war memorials secretary, made the announcement at the group's annual meeting Tuesday.

The awards bring the total post-graduate scholarships from the First and Second War memorial funds to 15.

Mrs. Bennett announced Monday that nine $2,000 scholarships will be awarded from the First War Memorial Fund for post-graduate study overseas.

Mrs. R. Douglas Jennings of Toronto, IODE national citizenship and immigration convenor, was awarded a life membership in the order following her report Tuesday.

Mrs. Jennings asked chapters to increase their assistance to Canadian Indians.

The native Indians "need assistance in many, many ways" — especially those who come to large cities when they are not yet accustomed to the pace of city life, Mrs. Jennings said.

The IODE request to the department of citizenship and immigration last year for a three-to-five-year study of all aspects of Indian life will again be brought to the attention of federal authorities, she said.

The IODE in Saskatchewan also is asking its provincial government for immediate steps to ensure Indians economic independence and equal educational opportunities.

"The greatest affront to an individual is to withhold knowledge from him," said Saskatchewan President Mrs. T. M. Spencer of Regina. "We feel this is the case with the Canadian Indians."

The five-day meeting ends today.

The Experts Say

Should Exercise Care When Purchasing Pearls

By PATRICIA RUSAK

TORONTO (CP)—During the next few weeks many brides, graduates and women celebrating birthdays will receive pearls — June's birthstone—as gifts. And, says gemmologist Jonathan Fraleigh, a certain amount of care is needed when buying them.

To the inexperienced eye the three types of pearls—true Oriental, cultured and imitation—have roughly the same color and lustre. But their value ranges from as little as $1 for a string of imitation pearls to $10,000 for the natural Oriental ones.

Cultured pearls—produced by molluscs which have had a small bead of shell or mother of pearl embedded into them by man—are so popular today that the term "pearl" generally applies to them, says Mr. Fraleigh.

They have the same color and lustre as the natural Oriental pearls and are often a better shape. But an Oriental pearl necklace may be worth 10 or 20 times more than its cultured counterpart."

CAN SEE DIFFERENCE

The Oriental can be differentiated from the cultured pearl with a good lens under a strong light, says Mr. Fraleigh. A definite line of demarcation will be seen between the core and coating of the cultured pearl while a series of growth lines will be seen in naturally produced pearl.

If rotated under a strong light, some pearls in a necklace of cultured pearls will show the "eel - tale gleam of the mother-of-pearl bead" when the correct angle is reached.

"Some cultured pearls also display pit marks and protuberances not unlike varicose veins."

Imitation pearls—glass beads coated with a fish-scale mixture —however cleverly made, are not hard to detect, said Mr. Fraleigh.

One test — imitation pearls feel smooth when rubbed against the teeth while cultured or Oriental pearls feel gritty.

Also the coating of imitation pearls peels quite readily, especially around the drill hole if they are in a necklace.

SHAPES VARY

The ideal shape for a pearl is perfectly spherical, said Mr. Fraleigh, explaining that natural pearls in particular vary from round and button to pear shapes. Those of extremely irregular form are called "baroques."

Pearls with a creamy rose color, clean appearance, good shape and thick lustrous coating are of the best quality, Mr. Fraleigh said. Colors also vary from creamy white to gold, green, blue and black.

Mr. Fraleigh, one of 28 Canadians admitted as a fellow to the Gemmological Association of Great Britain, says pearls require more care than almost any other gem.

"They are soft in comparison with other gems and will scratch if handled carelessly."

Pearls should not be thrown into a jewel box with harder gems which can scratch their surfaces, Mr. Fraleigh says.

Dust, hair sprays and perfumes will damage pearls, he said.

"Pearls should not be worn when playing or exercising because body acids will also attack them."

Legion L.A. Entertains at Zone Rally

MARMORA — The rally of Zone 9 Ladies' Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion was entertained by Marmora Branch, No. 227 on May 23rd, afternoon and evening when 164 members were present.

The business meeting was held in the town hall in the afternoon when reports of the district were given. Following this members marched to the Cenotaph, led by Havelock Pipe Band, where Mrs. Iva Tandy, president of Marmora branch, laid a wreath.

A turkey dinner was served in St. Andrew's United Church hall with the U.C.W. serving.

Zone Commander Grace Delyea introduced the guest speaker, Commander "Scotty" Broughton. Mrs. Richardson, past president, Provincial Commander, presented the appreciation of the group. Mrs. Jessie Tompkins of Brockville, Provincial Command President, also spoke briefly.

Mrs. Iva Tandy, Local Commander, closed this part of the meeting.

The assembly returned to the town hall where a lively program was enjoyed and several draws were completed.

Mrs. G. Godfrey of Tweed won an oil painting, "The Old Mill," painted and donated by Mrs. Marie O'Neill. Mrs. Howard Neal won the handmade mat. Mrs. S. Demorest won a basket of groceries. Dancing finished the interesting and enjoyable rally.

UCW Meet Attended by 40 Members

WELLINGTON — Forty members of the United Church Women of Wellington United Church met in the Sunday school room of the church for their regular May meeting. Introductory music brought the meeting to order with the president, Mrs. H Pierson, presiding. She read the poem, "Life's Bouquet."

The convener of the supply and social assistance committee, Mrs. B. Bishop, reported one and three-quarters tons of Nylons had been sent to Korea, where they are unravelled and woven into materials. Mrs. W. Jackson said ten boxes of clothing had been packed and shipped to Toronto for overseas relief.

Stewardship secretary, Mrs. H. Nash, outlined the different forms of stewardship: prayer, time, talents and financial contributions to the total work of the church.

Mrs. H. Pierson outlined the work being accomplished by the United Church through the "Sunday School in the Home" by mail to places where there is no access to churches.

Mrs. William Jackson gave a brief report from the Committee of Stewards of the church while Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. E. Pine will represent the UCW on that committee.

Mrs. F. Brimley, leader of Unit 1, invited all to a supper in the Sunday school room on May 29th at seven o'clock.

Mrs. C. Cleave, convener of programs, was assisted by Mrs. W. A. Campbell in the devotions, with Mrs. B. Burr at the piano. She took the 91st Psalm of David as the theme for Ascension Day. Forty days after Easter was the beginning of a new era, just as spring brings into being all nature after winter.

A duet by Misses Carol Allison and Velma Vanderwater, accompanied by Mrs. Burr, was enjoyed by all present. They sang "In the Garden."

A film, the "Film of Asia" was shown by Mrs. J. Dart, and told of conditions in Korea, Japan and the religious life of the people who need assistance. As the youth goes, so goes China.

The next meeting will be held on July 25th, taking the form of a potluck supper on the parsonage lawn. Advance notice was made of the bazaar and tea to be held on the park in early July.

Group II served tea and sandwiches and a social half hour was enjoyed.

U.C.W.—UNIT 3

FRANKFORD — The May meeting of Frankford United Church Women Unit 3, was held recently in Rose Lowery hall.

ANAF Provincial Command L.A. Holds Convention Here

The Provincial Command convention of the ANAF Ladies' Auxiliary was held in Belleville at the ANAF auditorium.

The provincial president, T. Rochfort, of Port Credit, and out-of-town delegates and visitors were met by president, M. Dracup and her executive. The reception was held for them with Comrade E. Bobiash, as cohostess.

Later in the evening, a dance was held in the auditorium in honor of the visiting ladies.

There was a delicious and tempting array of fancy sandwiches and dainty cakes and tempting relishes.

Women Ask Better Deal On Taxation

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—With similar approaches, two women's organizations came before the Carter royal commission on taxation Tuesday in search of a better tax deal for wives and widows. It was the second successive day that the commission dealt almost exclusively with the problems of women in the tax web.

Both the Canadian Federation of University Woman and the Canadian Committee on the status of Woman asked the six-member commission to recommend a higher true exemption for estates under the Estates Tax Act. Both groups said $100,000 would be a desirable figure—to replace the existing $40,000—but that the government would be unlikely to approve such a huge increase.

So the federation asked that the exemption be raised to $50,000, and the committee set its sights on $75,000.

The organizations produced identical recommendations on another matter affecting estates. They said that one-half of a decreased marriage partner's estate should be considered as belonging to surviving partner and therefore not subject to tax.

The federation said this would recognize the equality in a marriage partnership.

BOOST EXEMPTION

Another recommendation by the federation was that wives be allowed to earn up to $1,000 a year without affecting the basic exemptions of their taxpaying husbands. The present limit is $250 although other dependents of the husband can earn up to $850.

Mrs. M. J. Savia, the federation's vice-president for Central Canada, said that "whether we like it or not more and more women are going out to work." And it was necessary that encouragement be given to married women trained in the professions to contribute to the economy and productivity of the country.

Commission chairman Kenneth Carter asked Mrs. Savia what she thought of the practice of husbands and wives filing joint returns, as is done in some other countries. The idea had intrigued him.

"I would be very much in favor of it," she replied. It would eliminate the present situation in which husbands are unable to deduct, from their own income, salaries paid to spouses until they are in an incorporated business.

Observer Says "Hit Back"

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — What I don't understand is why any woman will just stand there and wait to be clobbered. If hubby comes home drunk and with itchy fists, why not get out of his reach? Fix up a bide, hole in the basement or somewhere — if he comes looking for you he may fall on the stairs and break his neck! Don't stand there with your face sticking out.

There are ways a smart woman can arrange a lot of misery for her ball-and-chain to follow on the heels of an assault. The simplest idea is the series of accidents — the teapot that crashes on his plate and splashes good; or the cup of coffee that slips from your hand — and make it good! The delicious looking casserole rank with salt. There are hundreds of ideas, and at least you can enjoy yourself.

And if you just whine and forgive and go all lovey-dovey, it's no wonder he wants to beat you up. You ask for it.—OBSERVER.

DEAR OBSERVER — Agreed that the lovey-dovey response is for the birds! But people differ and so do reactions. Some walk out; some ask for more. In Canada, there's police protection for the ones who needs and asks for it.

DEAR DORIS — I went steady with Frank for about one year, and he couldn't make up his mind. He said he wasn't sure if he loved me enough to marry me. It made me angry and I said I wasn't sure either, because I thought he was a bore and too stingy with his money.

As he is good natured, he didn't get angry, so we parted good friends. I realize now I was stupid to criticize him the way I did. What can I do to get him back without losing my pride? I love him. — JAY.

DEAR JAY — If you mean it you'll forget about pride and write him a letter. Say you're sorry you spoke as you did, and would love to see him some evening. Put in your phone number — and mail the letter — quick!

(Your job should be your fun. Have you picked the lifework which suits your talents? Ask Doris about it.)

Quick Trick Foods Shown Foxboro W.I.

The May meeting of the Foxboro Women's Institute was held in the United Church Sunday School room with a goodly number of guests and members present. Mrs. L. Trupp opened the meeting in the usual way and read the aims of the Institutes from the handbook.

Mrs. Trupp called on Mrs. C. Hubble to introduce the special guest of the evening, Miss Hurst of the Home Economics department of the Ontario Hydro.

The first item on the program was the showing of the film "This Land is Mine," depicting the uses of electricity on a modern Ontario farm.

As her first "Quick Trick," Miss Hurst prepared a "Quick Trick Casserole," and gave a number of uses of electric blankets and electric fry pans. She said the letters C.S.A. are on all electrically safe appliances and for prospective purchasers of such appliances to be sure and look for those letters.

Miss Hurst also told of the "Medallion Home," and of its great advantages, while she was preparing more, "Quick Tricks." In all, four delicious foods were prepared by Miss Hurst using an electric saucepan, and electric blender, electric fry pan and an electric mixer, thus showing how these portable appliances can be used to great advantage.

Miss Hurst concluded a most interesting and informative evening by reading a poem.

A social time was enjoyed by those present over a delicious lunch served by the members of the Foxboro Women's Institute.

Mrs. Kaiser, of Belleville, and Mrs. Skinner, of Foxboro, were the winners of the two electric clocks donated by the Ontario Hydro as door prizes.

Mrs. Fred Reid, Mrs. Bert Lewis, Mrs. Carson all of Belleville and Mrs. G. Cooper of Foxboro, were winners of the foods prepared by Miss Hurst.

Women's Activities

FOXBORO U.C.W.

The May general meeting of the United Church Women of Foxboro was held in the Sunday School room with Mrs. Hobbie presiding.

The devotional and program were in charge of the Twilight Unit, the theme being on "self-forgetfulness."

The Scripture reading, Matthew 25,34-40 was given by Mrs. C. H. LaRue.

Mrs. Ewing read "How the Great Guest Came".

A vocal duet, by Mrs. G. Bateman and Mrs. J. Badgley, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. F. Spencer, was much enjoyed.

A number of thank you notes were read, also an invitation from the United Church Women of Halloway St. United Church to attend their "Spring Tea" early in June and an invitation from the United Church Women of Johnstown to attend their bazaar in May were read.

Following this portion of the business, Mrs. C. H. LaRue took charge and started her program by asking the question, "What Is a Christian Citizen?" Mrs. LaRue said, having accompanied a bus load of ladies from Eastminster United Church to Toronto recently, she had had an opportunity to see real brotherhood in action when they visited the St. Christopher's House. The Fred Victor Mission, a home for needy elderly men and younger homeless men temporarily out of work; and the Inn Grafton Home and a home for needy citizens. Mrs. LaRue stated that United Church Women have a share in helping in these homes by giving to M. and M.

When Mrs. Hobbie again took charge for the remaining business it was decided to hold the annual bazaar in November. The suggested bazaar committee being Mrs. H. Dudley, Mrs. L. Lewis, Mrs. I. Badgley and Mrs. C. Hubble.

It was decided to cater for a banquet for the Mission Circle of the Victorian Avenue Baptist Church with Mrs. B. Hollinger, Mrs. L. Carter and Mrs. W. L. Johnston as the committee in charge.

Also it was decided to sponsor a demonstration in September.

Mrs. J. Ewing, as a representative of the committee looking into the matter of carpet for the church, read the estimates given by two companies. No decision was reached, though a suggestion was brought forward by Mrs. G. Bisegnan and that further information is to be gathered before making a decision.

Following the usual closing a sale of various articles was held by the Twilight Unit.

Warmer — With Showers

by Mary Moore

(cont'd. from yesterday)

Shower and wedding hostesses are on my mind again today.

Yesterday I gave you an original recipe for some gay little rolled cookies uniquely designed for bridal occasions.

Today I am giving you two more cookie recipes. These are genuine almond macaroons calling for ground almonds and are a class with professional products. The flavor is perfect. All of you can do it but you must be patient enough to grind the almonds in the food grinder, just as I did.

WEDNESDAY
Dinner Menu

Cream of Asparagus Soup; Steamed Wieners with Mustard Sauce; Hot Dutch Potato Salad; Broccoli; Lemon Sponge Roll; Coffee.

ALMOND MACAROONS (2 variations — 1 white, 1 chocolate — from 1 batter):

Amount makes 5 to 6 dozen. 1 3-3 cups ground blanched almonds (a little less than 1½ lb. see below), 3 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, 2¼ cups sifted icing sugar, ½ teaspoon almond extract, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons cocoa.

Put almonds once through food chopper fitted with a rather fine blade. (There are 24 ½" holes in mine.) This is a little hard to do unless fine. Cover cookie sheets with greased silicone-coated paper (for baking macaroons) or well-greased wax paper. Sprinkle egg whites with cream of tartar and beat until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in 2 cups of the sifted icing sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold in almond extract and vanilla. Set aside 4 tablespoonfuls of this mixture to be used as a topping later. Add ground almonds to larger amount of meringue, folding to combine well. Divide the mixture into 2 equal portions, putting one portion into another bowl. Work remaining ¼ cup sifted icing sugar into one portion to make a mixture which can be shaped into balls. Roll this paste into smooth balls between moistened palms, using a scant teaspoonful of the mixture for each ball. Place, well apart, on the prepared cookie sheets. Flatten each ball with the base of a water glass dipped in icing sugar. Dot tops with a little (⅛ teaspoon) of the set-aside meringue and, if desired, decorate with pieces of almond. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. until set — about 20 to 25 minutes. At once carefully remove from paper with spatula and cool completely on cake racks.

Over the second portion of paste sift the cocoa and work it in until well blended. Shape the paste into small logs about ½" in diameter and 1¼" long. Dot tops with remaining set-aside topping as above. Bake and cool as above.

Arrange these attractively on round silver tray. A border of crufferli rolls (see yesterday) around outside edge, with the two above cookies placed alternately within, looks attractive and professional.

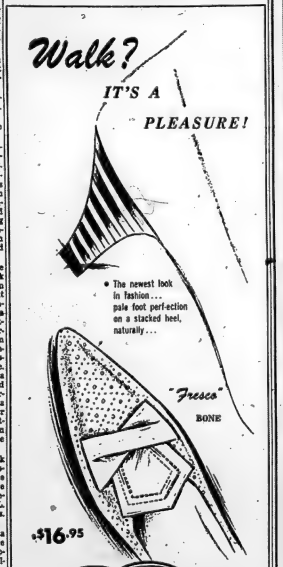
CGIT Holds Farewell Meet

Last Thursday the C.G.I.T. of College Hill United Church held its final meeting of the season in the form of a farewell party for one of the leaders, Mrs. Moyer, who will soon be leaving for Sea Island, Vancouver.

The meeting opened with a short devotional period led by Marlene Jenkinson and Linda Dafoe. This was followed by a brief discussion of the year's business, chaired by the president, M. Jenkinson.

Mrs. D. McLeod gave the year's financial report.



Plans were made for a picnic, a visit to Albert College and a social evening at Holloway Street United Church.

Games and contests were supplied by L. Dafoe, M. Jenkinson, T. West and D. Woods, all being greatly enjoyed by the C.G.I.T. and the graduating Explorers, who were the special guests for the evening.

Linda Dafoe, the vice-president, presented Mrs. Moyer with a C.G.I.T. ring from the group, in appreciation for her help in starting the group two years ago, and for being so helpful as a leader.

After the singing of grace, a lunch was served by leaders, Mrs. McLeod and Miss Carolyn Gibson.

The meeting was closed with the singing of "Taps".

Visiting Parents and Teachers supervise children at play at one of the Ontario Government Schools.

By MATTHEW B. DYMOND, M.D., Health Minister for Ontario

Mental retardation is not a disease in itself, but rather a symptom of poor brain development due to a variety of causes, many of which still remain unknown. It results in slow learning and delayed achievement for those children who are affected. The retardation process may vary in degree from the extremely mild form only detectable under stress, to a severe type, where the child requires complete care for life.

Fortunately not all children who are mentally retarded require to be admitted to one of the Hospital Schools operated by the Health Department of Health. It is known that less than five percent of all mentally retarded in Ontario are placed in Hospital Schools. Those who are admitted are usually so placed because they require special medical or nursing care, which cannot be given at home or in the community. In the mildly retarded cases, such factors as broken homes, lack of foster homes, and absence of training facilities in the community are often responsible for the child's admission. At Ontario Hospital School, Cedar Springs, for example, an attempt is made to provide services for a wide range of mentally retarded children, some of whom require medical and nursing care, and others training and counselling.

Relatively few of the patients can return to the community, although many could if there were enough foster homes, residences, and sheltered facilities to give those young mentally retarded adolescents the support and direction they require.

To most of the patients and their parents Ontario Hospital School, Cedar Springs, represents a sheltered community where many of the patients can seek the staff in the many occupations required throughout an active Hospital community. Cleaning, vegetable and fruit farming, and gardening are excellent occupations for the boys, while domestic duties, like sewing and laundering, are useful occupations for the girls. Like all of us, the mentally retarded need to feel useful. In a hospital School like Cedar Springs through the efforts of the Ontario Department of Health, they feel themselves accepted and free from the stress of modern living.

Jumping to Conclusions? Check These Against Yours

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions — (and how many do you agree with?):

The best insurance against a feeling of uselessness in old age is a garden.

One of life's pleasantest sights is a fat woman having a belly laugh. There s so much of her having a good time—she's a real earthquake.

Are you tired of magazines that devote their entire issues to a single general subject—such as women, money or the atom bomb? They give me a big yawn.

I never trust a man who says he feels good on Monday mornings. He is bound to be either a liar or a hypocrite.

An optimist is a person who gives a modern child a penny and expects to get back a look of gratitude.

It takes a born critic to be a good dentist.

The worst part of being a career diplomat is having to pretend you like caviar.

When a woman doesn't care much about a man she addresses him impersonally. But if she is fond of him she gets a tireless thrill out of calling him by his first name. Thus you can always tell what a girl thinks of you by how often she uses your name.

Life is never utterly hopeless to a fellow so long as he can still enjoy eating corn on the cob.

Wisdom drowns in the first martini; folly flowers in any poured thereafter.

Nine out of 10 husbands never read the fine print in their life insurance policies—but four out of five of their wives do.

A single girl doesn't become an old maid until she brings home her second.

An old bachelor never seems lonelier than when he's trying to make friends with a baby.

A woman's sense of security is measured by the number of new hats she can buy; a man's by the number of old shoes he has in his closet.

One of the things a wife hates most is to have her husband show up at a party with a button off his coat. She feels everybody in the place is silently criticizing her for neglect of duty.

People who borrow their cigarettes never seem to die of lung cancer—or anything else.

sity of Western Ontario, said some programs provide inhabitants of low income regions with enough cash to stay where they are but not enough to give them a reasonable standard of living.

He suggested that cash grants might be given only to those who cannot move.

Dr. Maddox said poverty and incomes tend to become regional problems. This was so where there is a greater-than-average concentration of elderly and less well-educated persons, and where industries are declining or not growing.

This is particularly true of the Atlantic provinces, Saskatchewan and some rural areas in the remaining provinces," he said.

R. D. Jordan Guy of Vancouver disagreed. He said the poor should not be uprooted from their traditional environment. The government should encourage new industry in depressed areas.

SCARCITY BLAMED

HALIFAX (CP)—Thomas A. Somerville, president of the Canadian Construction Association said Tuesday that the scarcity of apprentices is partially to blame for the shortage of skilled workers in Canada. He spoke at the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Equipment Distributors. W. H. Marr of Port Arthur was named an association director.

Blacksmith Shop Founded 66 Years Ago Still Operating

By ED WALTERS

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP)—Vernon Walters is one of the few craftsmen who still can count profits by the ring of a hammer on an anvil.

The blacksmith-shop founded 66 years ago by his grandfather Thomas Walters is one of the few remaining in this region. And the ring of steel on steel, the hiss of red-hot metal touching water—the every-day sounds of an oldtime blacksmith shop—do not seem out of place in this town of ships and sailors.

The builders and owners of the small wooden ships of Nova Scotia's south shore come to the shop with orders for vessels' ironwork, still referred to in the half-forgotten names of another age.

The second Bluenose, for instance—a replica of the original famous racing - fishing schooner — now being built at Smith and Rhuland's yard here, will need clew-irons for the lower - aft corners of her sails, steel channel irons to be turned around and shrunk into wooden deadeyes, jobs that demand a skilled blacksmith.

Fishing skippers need steel fittings of their own design to suit a certain purpose, as do hand forged grapnels and grabhooks for hoisting anchors. Mr. Walters and his two helpers can accommodate them all.

Inside the shop, lighted only by the fires from the forges, Mr. Walters discussed the business outlook for his trade.

What apparently gives the skilled blacksmith an edge over modern manufacturing techniques and mass production is his ability to shape custom-made items without expensive retooling.

With hammer and anvil he can shape steel into all the little odds and ends of gear necessary aboard small ships, especially fishing craft.

"We've always been marine ironworkers," said Mr. Walters. Ship owners and fishermen have come to recognize the firm's workmanship.

GET NEW BOOST

He says the province's current shipbuilding boom and expansion of the scallop fishery has given a shot in the arm to blacksmithing.

Another factor is revival of the shore industry on the coast of Labrador, where hundreds of graphels are required to moor cod traps.

How long this will last is anybody's guess, he said. In any event manufacture of grapnels should keep the business going.

One of the firm's strong points, he said, is the ability to galvanize its products. This process of coating steel with zinc to prevent rust, utilizing hydrochloric acid and molten zinc, can be dangerous. Mr. Walters, who handles the job himself, has several times suffered severe burns.

While the shop is almost the same as when it started in 1897, there are some differences.

FEWER RECRUITS

Mr. Walters said the steel is harder, modern oil-sprayed coal is not so good, and rarest of all are men willing to take up the blacksmith's trade.

The latter is not because the work is hard, he said. Arc welding and cutting torches have lightened the job of joining metal, but there was little future in blacksmithing for a young man.

Men who learned the trade as youngsters now are usually past retirement age. And blacksmiths who have previously worked with large steel companies want more wages than a blacksmith shop can afford.

Mr. Walters said he could use another man in the shop, but it was not likely he could find one.

"Jest a Second"

"That, sir, is my assistant."

Income Tax Explained

A column designed and written for the working persons, who are not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor Income Tax Dept.

When a married taxpayer claims $1000 exemption for the support of his wife who has no income of her own it's a normal unquestionable procedure, but when a married woman makes a similar claim on behalf of her husband her claim will be questioned by the Income Tax Department.

The Income Tax Act in Section 26 states that if a taxpayer resides with his wife at any time in the year he is deemed to have supported her, but this does not apply in reverse. A married woman claiming $1000 exemption for her husband, to have this claim allowed by the tax department must first prove that she actually supported him with her own earnings or funds.

If the husband has a bank account or other capital from which he could draw on for his support, the wife's claim would be disallowed by the tax office.

The fact that the husband has no income for the year does not automatically allow the wife to claim $1000 for him. To have such a claim allowed the wife must actually support him from her own earnings and the husband have no capital of his own.

This will apply when a husband is starting in business and reports his income on a fiscal year basis. He may have no income in the calendar year but he does have capital assets which would deny the wife any exemption on behalf of her husband.

All letters of inquiry will be answered if a self addressed and stamped (5 cent) envelope is enclosed.

Question No. 1 — My husband is an invalid with no income. I pay all household expenses such as food, rent etc. Can I claim $1000 for him on my return?

Answer: Yes.

Question No. 2 — My husband's business operated at a loss this year so he did not have any income to report. Can I claim $1000 for him on my return?

Answer: No. Your husband was not wholly dependent on you for support.

Pope Turns

lean calls it "gastric heteroplasia." That could be a benign tumor, a cancer, or an overgrowth of tissue.

Any one condition could cause hemorrhaging. Vatican communiques indicated the doctors were more disturbed by the hemorrhages than the growth itself.

This would indicate that the growth was benign and not spreading as would cancer.

Concern mounted as Vatican sources said the Pope found difficulty in retaining the ill-liquid diet which has been nourishing him since last week.

The great worry seeming to plague doctors during the last 24 hours was the Pope's lessening resistance to new hemorrhages. Time and again he had rallied strongly during the early stages of his sickness.

MIND IS CLEAR

Although the spiritual ruler of the world's half billion Roman Catholics was said to be in pain, Vatican sources reported his mind is clear.

They said he was aware that Catholics and non - Catholics alike around the world were praying for him.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said hemorrhaging had subsided but did not say the loss of blood had been halted.

The statement in L'Osservatore Romano revealed that the Pope had been ill for a year. Previous reports had dated his illness to last fall.

The statement said the Pope is aware that he is close to death.

"If God wishes the sacrifice of the person of the Pope," he was quoted as saying, "let it be that such a sacrifice shall succeed in bringing abundant favors on the ecumenical council, on the holy church and on mankind which aspires to peace."

His words indicated the Pope's concern for his ecumenical council, which would be suspended on his death. A new pope could either reconvene it or leave it suspended.

Vatican sources reported that during the morning crisis Tuesday the Pope's private secretary, Most. Rev. Loris Capovilla, left the papal apartment in tears and cried to those outside: "Pray; pray!"

Happy Chandler Defeated in U.S. Primary

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Edward T. Breathitt Jr., may have sounded the last hurrah for former governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler by shattering his dreams of becoming Kentucky's only three-term governor.

Nearly-complete results gave Breathitt 290,621 votes to 239,784 for Chandler.

For the flamboyant Chandler, once a U.S. senator and baseball commissioner, it signalled the twilight of a political career that spanned three decades and catapulted him into national prominence.

Chandler won his first four-year term as governor in 1935 at age 37. Breathitt said that as a boy he helped put up election posters for Chandler, then his hero. Chandler's second term came in 1955.

De Gaulle Plans To Visit U.S.

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle intends to visit the United States "at the appropriate time," Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte said today.

Peyrefitte was speaking to reporters after a cabinet meeting here.

There had been speculation de Gaulle might meet President Kennedy when the American leader comes to Europe next month, but his plans do not call for a visit to France.

party, in common with those of other parties, mentioned a government-operated plan similar to that of the United States, but the Throne Speech was not specific on this point. He added:

"It is to be hoped that, as in the Ontario legislation, free enterprise means will be used to establish this contributory pension plan."

The Ontario legislation would compel employers to have private pension plans meeting certain minimum standards; recognizes responsibility by both labor and management to make provision for old age pensions from current earnings and corporate operating costs, and provides for pension portability—the right of an employee to take his accrued pension benefits from job to job.

Mr. Adams said the Ontario Chamber urges that the federal government, in co - operation with the provinces, appoint a committee of inquiry to recommend a co-ordinated pattern of old age security and welfare legislation.

The Ontario Chamber, he stated, would like to see all provinces enact legislation similar to Ontario's, with uniformity where desirable but recognizing differences in regional requirements.

The federal government, he continued, should co - operate with the provinces in such legislation and in ensuring portability of employer pension plans from province to province.

Mr. Adams' comments were contained in a text made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Kerosene Bomb Thrown Into Negro's Carport

JACKSON Miss. (AP)—A fire bomb was thrown into the carport of a Negro leader at midnight Tues. after he predicted renewed integration activities today.

Medgar Evers state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the bomb damaged his station wagon but that nothing caught fire.

Evers' wife and their three children were at home. Evers was at an NAACP meeting.

Mrs. Evers said she heard an auto pass by just before the kerosene-filled beer bottle was thrown.

Police said they believed it was the work of pranksters.

Evers had said he expected Negroes would go to the city park and possibly to lunch counters today. His prediction came after Mayor Allen Thompson and Negro leaders disagreed over terms of a racial accord.

Jackson's first violence broke out Tuesday at a variety store lunch counter where four Negroes and a white, teacher staged a sit-in demonstration. A crowd of whites gathered around. One Negro was kicked and beaten savagely.

JFK, Macmillan May Meet Soon On NATO Force

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharp debate between the United States and Britain over formation of a new type of NATO nuclear force is opening up the possibility of an early meeting between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan.

Macmillan, grappling with domestic political difficulties, has been pressing for a meeting with Kennedy during the president's trip to Europe in June. For various reasons Kennedy apparently has been reluctant to change his travel plans though he has expected all along to see Macmillan later in the year.

The timely sharpening of the London — Washington argument over the U.S. proposal for a NATO multilateral nuclear force now indicates, however, that in the interest of getting it started, the president would agree to an earlier meeting.

Kennedy will visit Italy, West Germany and Ireland in the last 10 days of June. His schedule would take him around France without actually visiting France.

U.S.-British naval talks on the proposed Polaris submarine force are due to get under way in London next week. A high official said Tuesday they would be "nuts and bolts talks" designed on the American side to try to assure British experts that the U.S. proposal for a NATO Polaris force is workable and worth the money.

Sugar Prices May Be Headed Downward

NEW YORK (AP) — Indications grew Tuesday that sugar prices may be headed downward after their frantic 1963 rise.

A small refiner on the Gulf of Mexico reduced its price by $1 to $14 a 100 pounds.

This action followed a downturn in the price of raw sugar and portended cuts in the price of futures contracts on the commodity exchange.

Major eastern refiners were watching southern developments closely, a spokesman said. They were also watching their own order books for indications whether industrial users are beginning to cut back orders in hopes prices will drop.

Kelser and Co., Inc., sugar brokers, predicted that refined prices will fall throughout the U.S. within a few days and that grocer shelves will show the effects soon thereafter.

Others say current indications may merely be a breath-catching pause, and that further rises could develop.

Canadian sugar refiners, more immediately responsive to raw material changes on rises and declines than their U.S. counterparts, trimmed their prices Monday.

A Lofty Target But . . .

"Happy I Was Appointed" Says Sharp As He Faces Trade-Balance Challenge

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Mitchell Sharp has been accomplishing things the hard way most of his life, from helping to support his family at the age of 14 to entering politics against one of the toughest opponents available.

Now, as trade minister, he's facing his biggest challenge yet —filling the shoes of his former boss, the great C. D. Howe.

"I feel inadequate," he said in a recent speech, referring to the prospect of trying to fill the shoes of the late Mr. Howe.

It's a modest self-appraisal by a man who in 16 years of top jobs in the federal civil service made a mark as a leading economist and negotiator at international bargaining tables.

Mr. Sharp has set himself a lofty target: "Doing everything possible to try to achieve a reduction in international barriers to trade."

"It is one of the most important things that could be done," he said in an interview. "That's why I'm happy I was appointed trade minister."

Mr. Sharp, a Winnipegger who marked his 52nd birthday April 11, is a relative newcomer to politics. He is proud of being a politician but insists on being a courteous one.

NO POLITICAL ENEMIES

After his April 8 election victory in Toronto Eglinton, the one-time stronghold of Conservative Justice Minister Donald Fleming who was retiring from public life, Mr. Sharp startled some partisan Liberals with his suggestion that a senior government post be found to fit Mr. Fleming's talents.

"I still think this is the way to conduct politics," he said afterwards. "You don't look on people in the opposite party as your enemy."

His suggestion was all the more notable in the light of the all-out election battle between him and Mr. Fleming in 1962 when he slashed the Conservative cabinet minister's 1958 majority of more than 19,000 votes to a scant 760.

The red - haired Mr. Sharp, whose prominent features are a firm, chisel-like jaw and ready smile, could have had an easier constituency for his first foray into active politics.

But as a newcomer, he said, "I felt I should undertake a really difficult task and if I could win it, it would give me some standing among the politicians."

Mr. Sharp didn't win in 1962 but he gained political stature. His election this year—with an eventual 8,235-vote lead — and his entry into the Liberal cabinet almost a certainty.

As trade minister, Mr. Sharp will be making some of the major policy decisions in the new Liberal government. His view of the role of government is that it should be cautious—but not reluctant—to act.

MOVES CAUTIOUSLY

"I'm inclined to be cautious, looking very carefully at the implications of various proposals and not jumping quickly into things."

He's not opposed to the idea of government intervention in the economy. "I just want to be sure these things will accomplish what they are supposed to."

He also wants to see an effective, practical expansion of social welfare measures, such as medical care, help for the unemployed and a workable plan of retirement pensions.

"When I was young, I saw first-hand the results of unemployment and the lack of social security."

As a 14-year-old in Winnipeg, he had to leave high school and go to work when unemployment hit his father, a printing shop manager and one-time weekly newspaper editor in suburban St. James. There was a family for Mitchell Sharp to help support, including a younger brother and sister.

He worked at first as a printing plant messenger and later for a statistical service run by Sanford Evans, a prominent Conservative and former Winnipeg mayor. While writing crop reports and business surveys he kept up his schoolwork, a slow, hard-slogging process.

JOINED FINANCE

He completed his high school and University of Manitoba graduation mostly by night school classes and correspondence courses. When he took post-graduate studies, including a year at the London School of Economics, he still worked part time for Sanford Evans and later for the James Richardson grain firm.

Along the way he learned piano-playing and a love of music, "serious, not jazz," that is his one special hobby.

In 1942 he was asked to come to Ottawa by Deputy Finance Minister Clifford Clark, a man he recalls as "one of the most influential public servants we ever had."

For nine years Mr. Sharp was in the finance department, first as an assistant to Mr. Clark, later as director of the economic policy division.

In negotiations on Newfoundland's union with Canada he was chairman of the finance committee. Later he was financial adviser to the joint parliamentary committee that formulated the old age pension plan begun in 1952.

In 1951 he switched to the trade department as associate deputy minister, beginning a close association of more than six years with C. D. Howe.

He describes Mr. Howe as patient, courteous, "a wonderful man to work for," and definitely "not the dictator pictured by some—this wasn't the man he really was."

"Either he had confidence in you or he didn't. If he did, he listened to you and valued your advice. If you made a mistake —well, you made it. But you tried not to make it again."

NEGOTIATED TREATIES

Mr. Sharp represented Canada at international wheat conferences and helped negotiate important trade treaties with Japan and the Soviet Union.

He also helped negotiate the controversial 1956 government financing agreement with Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited, but explains "I had nothing to do with what went on in Parliament" during the Commons pipeline battle.

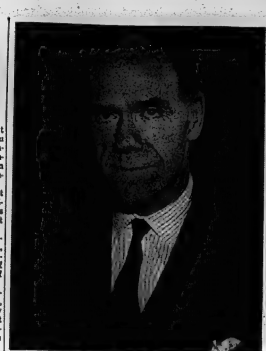
In 1960, at the urging of Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson, he began edging towards politics, starting as organiser of the 1960 Kingston conference of "liberally minded people."



Though other parties poohpoohed the Kingston conference, which developed a wide variety of proposals, Mr. Sharp sees it as a success and "the beginning of the resurgence of the Liberal party."

Next year Mr. Sharp moved closer to active politics as chairman of a policy committee for the National Liberal Rally. Finally in 1962 he came out as a Liberal candidate, resigning from the Brazilian Traction.

"I took me a long time to make up my mind to go in. I didn't think I had the qualifications to win a seat."

But Mr. Pearson wanted him to run "and I wanted him to become the prime minister of Canada."

Both Mr. Sharp and Mr. Pearson are feeling barely ahead of their goals last year, made it on April 8.

RETURNS TO TRADE — As minister of trade, 52-year-old Mitchell Sharp is back in the department where for more than six years in the 1950s he worked under the late C. D. Howe, the man whose job he now holds. Mr. Sharp spent 16 years in top federal civil service jobs, including a stretch as associate deputy minister of trade. (CP Photo)

THOMASBURG

Boy Scout Group Holds Variety Night

THOMASBURG — The family variety night sponsored by the Thomasburg Boy Scout group committee held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on May 22 proved to be a most successful event, when the hall was packed to capacity. The refreshment booth, the homecooking and candy tables were all well patronized.

Mr. James Seeking, chairman of the committee presided and welcomed the large number in attendance and thanked those who had worked so faithfully in making the event a success. Mr. George Dyson also spoke briefly regarding the boys' work.

Mr. H. Wagner, Belleville was in charge of the musical portion of the program when pupils from Belleville and Thomasburg presented an interesting and enjoyable variety of selections. Mr. E. Ward gave a reading; Mrs. Lorne Mumby, entertained with an accordion selection accompanied by Mrs. S. Fisher at the piano and Mr. George Dyson rendered a vocal solo accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Douglas Farrell Morn.

Mr. Joe Irish, District Scout Commissioner of Stirling presented the charter for the first Thomasburg Boy Scout and Cub groups to Mrs. Frank Brough who was representing Thomasburg Crescent Rebekah Lodge, sponsors of the Scouts and Cubs. Woman Takes Off 136 Pounds In 117 Days

Mrs. Johnson, 39, taking part in the obesity research program, pared 136 pounds off the 315 she started with Jan. 28.

Doctors at Wadsworth Veterans Hospital, where the program is being conducted, advised her to start eating again last Friday.

"It was a spoonful of cottage cheese and about a fourthcup of eggnog," she said. "I couldn't eat it all— it was too much."

During her fast Mrs. Johnson drank three quarts of water daily and had two weekly injections of vitamins.

"I could have gone on fasting," she said. "But I developed trouble in my left ankle and the doctors said I had to eat something so I could hold down pills if I had to take medicine."

"I feel great today. I just have to get down to 150 pounds."

Mrs. Johnson, a divorcee with three children, is one of 15 overweight persons who have participated in the obesity program in the last two years.

Scottish Girl in Canada Impressed With Big Cars, Drug Stores, Wooden Houses

By FRANK SULLIVAN

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Brightly colored wooden houses, big cars and drug stores with lunch counters are among the more imposing first impressions a 17-year-old Scottish girl has of Canada.

Agnes McKeen, pretty, dark-haired lassie from Ayr, arrived in Saint John April 24 to live with her sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hewlison Jr.

One of the first things she noticed was the twang of country and western music so popular in this area.

"We don't get much of that kind of music at home," she said. "I like it."

The Hewitsons took her for a car drive through southern New Brunswick and across the border to Calais, Me.

"It seemed so free and easy just to get into the car and go for a long drive in the open country where I could see so many brightly colored houses. And they're almost all made of wood. Home, most of the houses are Brick."

Within a few days Agnes landed a job, joined a church group and became a Sunday school teacher and leader of a Brownie pack.

She is still sorting out her impressions but several that stick in her mind are:

Automobiles: "They're much bigger here and almost everyone has one."

Drugstores: "They sell everything and they even have lunch counters." Stores at home handle only prescriptions and related medical products.

Television: It offers more variety than the BBC and "I especially like the cartoons."

Policemen: "I wouldn't know one if I saw one." Unlike the Bobbies in Britain, they don't wear distinctive, high helmets.

"Jest a Second"

"Ah well — it's just one more month to feed!"

Agnes misses the public parks, the barrow grocery stands, the bowling greens and some of the popular recording artists of Britain seldom heard here.

Although Elvis Presley is still the most popular rock 'n' roll singer with the Scots, such names as Frank Ifield, an Australian, and Helen Shapiro are also favorites.

Also popular are big-name bands of Kenny Ball, Chris Barber, Acker Bilk and the Temperance Seven, and folk singers Joe Brown and Joe Gordon as well as the Springfields, who give out with country and western music with a slightly British flavor.

Agnes says Canadian girls she has met don't appear as fashion - conscious as girls at home but they seem to dress more attractively for their work.

One thing she's looking forward to trying: A drive - in movie.

ernment is expected to weather the test with some help from the Social Credit and New Democratic parties.

Thursday parliament will tackle its first item of government legislation—a motion to set up an all-party defence committee.

In other business Tuesday, Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp said it is highly unlikely that delivery quotas for grain producers will be removed through out the Prairies by the end of the crop year July 31.

A former Conservative premier and federal cabinet minister criticized the Liberal government's legislative program as being a proliferation of bureaucracy in which the taxpayer apparently is the forgotten man.

Hugh John Flemming, Victoria-Carleton, premier of New Brunswick from 1952 to 1960 and then forestry minister in the Diefenbaker government, said the Liberals have moved close to socialism.

They were giving direction and guidance to a collectivist society rather than simply creating the conditions under which Canadians can exercise their own initiatives.

HITS BACK

State Secretary J. W. Pickersgill, government house leader, asked Mr. Flemming how he reconciled Tuesday's statements with the fact the forestry department was established by the Diefenbaker government in 1960 "expressly for him," and the fact he was appointed minister before being elected to the Commons after his defeat as provincial premier.

Mr. Flemming said he did not ask to have the cabinet post created for him, but that a forestry department was needed in the federal government.

Eric Winkler (PC — Grey-Bruce), party whip, said that if the Liberal party returns to its old habits of political patronage it will be "back on the street" shortly.

He said Mr. Pickersgill had headed a Liberal plot to destroy former prime minister Diefenbaker by "bogus charges" including extravagant Conservative government spending.

But if the Liberals ever got around to implementing all their April 8 campaign promises, Canadians would see what a bankrupt country looked like.

The Liberals had been glad to lose the 1957 election to avoid responsibility for the impending recession. There had been a deliberate plan to "destroy the product — knock the product which is Canada." Then the Liberals would "destroy the nerve centre which is Parliament" and buy back the position of government cheaply, Mr. Winkler said.

LAWS ARCHAIC

P. B. Rynard (PC—Simcoe East) said Canadian income tax laws are archaic and an overhaul is long overdue to permit deductions to cover taxes paid to municipal corporations and interest paid on house mortgages.

"Both these exemptions are allowed in the United States and this would do a great deal to help the small homeowner, the little man," he said.

John A. Irvine (PC—London) said there is no more speech proposals could amount to a "national hoax or national betrayal" if they fail to pan out as Canadians were led to expect in the recent election campaign.

The measures are the economic planning board, municipal loan fund and national development corporation.

They could mean much or nothing, said Mr. Irvine in his maiden speech.

Labor and management must come closer together but neither wanted a prime minister or finance minister controlling and directing them. That was what a planned economy amounted to.

The national development corporation had aroused concern among business and financial circles, Mr. Irvine said. Would compulsion be involved and would the board compete with provinces and municipalities for investment capital?

As for the loan fund, it seemed to be merely an extension of existing facilities.

Rev. A. E. Larke, Oshawa, Wins On Second Vote

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Rev. Albert E. Larke of Oshawa, was elected Tuesday as president of the United Church of Canada's Bay of Quinte Conference. He succeeds Rev. Dr. Elias Andrews of Kingston, principal of Queen's Theological College.

Mr. Larke won the presidency on the second ballot over Rev. Alexander McDowell of Belleville, Ont., and Rev. Robert N. McLean of Lindsay, Ont.

The Bay of Quinte Conference held here annually comprises Ontario presbyteries in Belleville, Cobourg, Kingston, Lindsay, Oshawa, Peterborough and Renfrew. There are 329 ministers in the conference area.

Rev. J. Newton Reed of Sunderland was chosen conference secretary, succeeding Rev. Kenneth J. Crawford of Omemee.

A treasurer will be named today.

Rev. H. E. Parsons of Carleton Place was appointed press representative and Rev. Dr. E. Gilmour Smith, Peterborough, archivist-historian.

Health Convention Hears Critical Appraisal of Some Public Health Aspects

• WINNIPEG (CP)—Critical appraisal of a number of aspects of public health in Canada was heard Tuesday during the second day of the Canadian Public Health Association's annual convention.

Dr. R. K. Magee, chairman of the Canadian Medical Association's cancer committee, in an interview criticized the lack of educational programs on the dangers of smoking.

He said the public will remain in ignorance of the "medically proven" dangers unless responsible, authoritative people undertake educational programs.

Dr. Magee, of Peterborough, Ont., said his committee will ask the CMA council in Toronto next month for permission to approach the federal government with suggested legislation to control cigarette advertising.

He said the Tobacco Restraint Act, which prohibits the sale of tobacco to those 16 and under, needs revision.

ACT IGNORED

"It is not being observed," he said.

Dr. A. J. Phillips of the National Cancer Research Institute, Toronto, said air pollution may be a factor in the increase of lung cancer.

"These factors are hard to assess from the clinical standpoint, but we must agree the scientific evidence is that cigarette smoking is a factor in lung cancer."

John E. Sparks, assistant to the Saskatchewan deputy minister of health, criticized provincial health departments for failing to plan adjustments to meet changing technological and social environments.

Mr. Sparks called for establishment of provincial health councils to provide closer relationships between governments and hospitals, private health and welfare agencies, doctors and other providers of health services.

"Surely it is a serious indictment of public health administration that the available . . . indicators of the health care needs of the public are inadequate and in many areas nonexistent," he said.

Outlook for Canadian Sales Of Uranium in U.S. Bleak

◆ WASHINGTON (CP) — The immediate outlook for Canadian uranium sales in the United States is bleak, an official of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said Tuesday after a visit here from Canadian Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp.

Mr. Sharp had his first exploratory talks with high U.S. officials Monday concerning energy resources.

The AEC official, who was not at the meeting but is involved in uranium purchases, said a new contract with the Canadians is unlikely after the U.S. government's stretch - out contract with Canadian producers ends in 1966.

Canadian authorities are particularly concerned about the dwindling U.S. market for Canadian uranium and its impact on Canadian mining. The U.S. government is urging its own domestic industry to stretch out production.

One development at the meeting here, informants said Tuesday, was that the U.S. government has again asked Canada to avoid trying to take too big a share of the U.S. oil and natural gas market.

DISCUSSED 'PROBLEMS'

Mr. Sharp's interview on his return to Ottawa said Tuesday he discussed "mutual problems" of Canada and the U.S. in all forms of energy during his Washington visit.

"We were looking at the situation from a continental point of view," he said in an interview.

But he added that there was no specific plan for a continental approach to the problem.

His reference to all forms of energy being discussed would cover oil, natural gas, uranium, coal and possibly water power, but he declined to say whether there was particular emphasis on any one of these.

He described his talks with U.S. officials as "preliminary."

At the Hyannis Port meeting of Prime Minister Pearson and President Kennedy early this month it was agreed that their two governments would co-operate in "a rational use of the continent's resources: oil, gas, electricity, strategic metals and minerals."

Says Govt. In Dilemma On Subject

REGINA (CP)—The federal government has an inescapable responsibility in the public health problem of lung cancer resulting from smoking, Dr. R. M. Taylor of Toronto, executive director of the National Cancer Institute of Canada, said here.

Dr. Taylor, in a paper presented to opening session of the three - day annual cancer symposium here, said "the federal government is in something of a dilemma over this problem."

"It is dealing with an honest business that provides $65,000,000 in tax revenue annually but at the same time is purveying a substance that is harmful to the health of the nation."

Stressing that his views were his own, Dr. Taylor cited half a dozen points which he believed should be areas of federal government responsibility.

The federal government could issue a positive statement about the problem, recognizing the association between cigarette smoking and the disease, he said.

"The government also should give serious consideration to enforcing the sections of the Tobacco Act respecting the sale of cigarettes to minors."

Further, penalties should be provided for placing cigarette vending machines in places where they can be reached by children 16 years of age and younger, he said.

Nuclear Industry Wants $100,000,000 Liability Insurance From Government

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian nuclear industry wants the federal government to provide liability insurance of up to $100,000,000 for privately-owned companies engaged in the commercial use of atomic energy.

The recommendation was made Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Canadian Nuclear Association by a nuclear insurance committee which spent a year studying present and future insurance requirements for firms working in the nuclear field.

In a report to the meeting the committee said that adequate proper insurance is made available by private companies, supplemented by government indemnification, "a proper climate for the growth of the Canadian nuclear industry will not exist."

The committee said that although precautions taken in the construction of reactors and other nuclear facilities make the possibility of serious accidents extremely small, it is not possible to eliminate the risks of accidents entirely.

"Conceivably, accidents could occur which would cause very extensive public damage and result in legal liabilities beyond the resources of the largest private corporations."

The report said adequate government liability insurance has been provided for crown-owned Atomic Energy of Canada Limited. This insurance was available to private companies only when they had contracts to which Atomic Energy of Canada was a party.

Insurance was available to private companies, the report said, from the Canadian Insurance Association of Canada. Under a facility liability policy, the maximum limit of liability was $7,500,000 which could be increased to $26,500,000 through co-insurance with foreign pools. A physical damage policy provided insurance of $9,900,000.

"The insurance industry has gone as far as its facilities will allow and it now appears that the time has arrived for the government to enter the picture to a greater degree," the committee said.

De Gaulle May Have Forced U.S. Into Action in Haiti

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

French President de Gaulle may have forced the United States to think twice about encouraging the overthrow of Haitian President Francois Duvalier.

While the U.S. screamed about the alleged butchery of the Duvalier regime, de Gaulle sent the ambassador home, discussing the warm cultural relations between France and the tiny Caribbean country.

U.S. authorities maintain, however, the de Gaulle letter, in reply to one sent to him by Duvalier, had no impact on American policy. What the U.S. had hoped, in fact, was for "scared" Duvalier out of Haiti by encouraging prospects of an internal revolt against the regime. American authorities now admit their policy has failed.

Instead of seeking to escape from Haiti with a huge fortune that, by reports here, he has amassed, Duvalier quietly rode out the storm and the threat of an invasion from neighboring Dominican Republic.

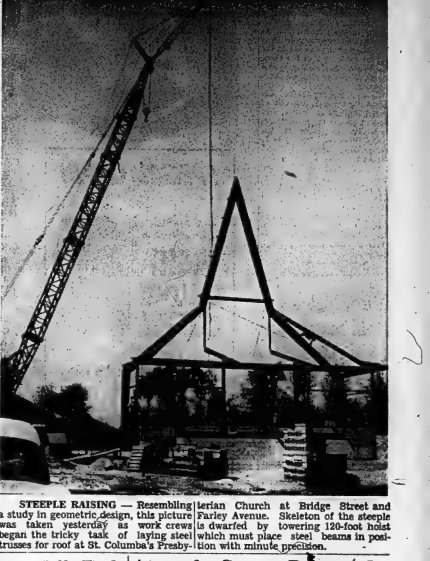
SEES NO ALTERNATIVE

Now there are reports circulating in Haiti, attributed to U.S. sources as saying the U.S. belatedly sees no present alternative to the Duvalier dictatorship. The U.S. was not even engaged in a "covert" effort to topple the strongman, was the way one report puts it.

It appears in retrospect that just as the U.S. tried to change the political situation in Cuba and failed, it now faces failure in its policy on Haiti. The U.S. wants to get rid of Duvalier but doesn't seem to know how to do it without losing a great deal of grace in world affairs.

The de Gaulle letter to Duvalier may not have been the main cause of the sudden change in American policy, but undoubtedly had its impact. The U.S. had raised cries about the fate of the Haitian leadership and waited to hear the echo of support from American allies. Only the Latin area responded favorably but Europe did not.

U.S. LACKED SUPPORT



It became evident as the weeks went by that President Kennedy would not get much support from Britain, France or Canada for a Duvalier eviction plan.

Duvalier shrewdly calculated invasion odds. Many of the anti-Duvalier Haitians who took refuge in the Dominican Embassy were given safe passage out of the country. A fact-finding team of the Organization of American States was about to leave and it found many of the Dominican charges against Haiti unfounded.

Then came disclosure of de Gaulle's letter—just as the U.S. was about to break off relations with Duvalier. Current American relations with de Gaulle include the U.S. act of aggression against Haiti that could be traced to American hands might have hampered relations with France even more.

Vanier, Pearson Send Messages To Pontiff

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vanier and Prime Minister Pearson sent messages Tuesday to Pope John expressing prayers for his recovery.

Text of the Governor-General's message:

"The people of Canada are deeply moved and distressed by the illness of Your Holiness.

"Fervent prayers are being offered by all that God may spare you to carry on the mission of brotherly love throughout the world without distinction or race or creed.

"Already during your short pontificate Your Holiness has succeeded in creating a spirit of truth and justice and of peace in the minds of men of good will."

Mr. Pearson's message, which was sent to the apostolic delegate here:

"I wish to convey to Your Holiness our prayers for your recovery so that you will be restored to that health which will permit you to continue your great work for humanity, for the spiritual brotherhood of all peoples and for the realization of the ideals of peace, so movingly and impressively put forward in your recent encyclical paeem in terra."

Bob Hope Home To Celebrate 60th Birthday

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope, who still goes like he was 40, turns 60 today.

He'll celebrate in typical Hope style.

First he'll land at the airport after playing a benefit in Washington, then hit a few golf balls over at Lakeside Golf Club. The course is only a tee shot — if you're Jack Nicklaus — from Hope's Toluca Lake estate. For a night, there will be a family party.

"I'm at the age now where the candles cost more than the cake," quips Rapid Robert.

NBC will salute him with a special radio program on which many of the top stars will pay tribute. There may be a few ribs, too, from Bing Crosby.

He'll have to share birthday honors with John F. Kennedy who will be 46 today.

"I've got more years and more writers," says Bob who exchanges telegrams with the president on birthdays. "Of course, he doesn't have to be funny."

Driver Killed In Collision

OTTAWA (CP) — Maurice Lafave, 24, of Cornwall, died Tuesday night and his wife, Beatrice, 17, was sent to hospital following a two-car collision in downtown Ottawa.

Police said Lafave's car was in collision with a bus at the intersection of Albert and Bay streets. A number of parked cars also were damaged as a result of the accident.

Mrs. Lafave suffered a concussion and other head injuries. She is in "satisfactory condition," hospital officials said.

Jacky Plans Cruise to Mark JFK's Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy reached his 46th birthday today and his wife, Jaqueline, planned an extra-special party to mark the occasion: An evening dinner cruise on the Potomac.

Weather permitting, Mrs. Kennedy and some 25 relatives and friends will serenade the president with "happy birthday" aboard the 104-foot navy yacht Sequoia.

Except for the evening party it was a business-as-usual day for Kennedy. He lined up a full schedule of activities.

Kennedy is proud that despite a variety of ailments, including a weak back that requires pampering, he has missed only two days of presidential business because of illness.

After 28 months in office, Kennedy is little changed physically. He has lost some weight through dieting, picked up a few grey hairs, and acquired a few more lines in his youthful looking face. He weighs 173 pounds.

Red Kelly Finds Green Carpet in House Slippery

OTTAWA (CP)—Red Kelly (L — York West), remarking that he is a rookie MP who finds the green carpet of the Commons chamber as slippery as any hockey rink, made his first speech in Parliament Tuesday.

And he ventured where more experienced parliamentarians sometimes fad the ice too thin, by declaring he prefers O Canada as Canada's national anthem.

The Toronto Maple Leafs star also said Canadians have grown lax in recent years in looking after their physical condition. He called for an extended physical training program.

First, elected to Parliament last year, Red admitted he had been "a little slow" making his first speech, but amid laughter added: "I received so much publicity in the last Parliament by not speaking, I now hesitate—"

It was an awesome experience, he added. Some members get up and leave before you start, some leave after you start, some read newspapers through your speech, and others "catch up on a little of the sleep they lost the night before."

Personality Exaggerated By Old Age

LONDON (AP) — Mean people are liable to grow even meaner as they reach middle age, a psychiatrist said today.

Meanness is caused by the slow degenerative change in the brain—part of the physical disabilities of growing older, Dr. Richard Crocket wrote in the magazine Family Doctor.

With this change, Crocket said, special elements in a personality become exaggerated because the normal controls of ordinary healthy adult life are lessened.

"When this happens the mean person gradually becomes meaner, the generous becomes over-generous, the optimistic can become facile, and the querulous and aggressive become quarrelsome and excessively provocative."

Aircraft Giants Reported Seeking Order From TCA

OTTAWA (CP)—Two giants of the aircraft industry called a press conference Tuesday to announce they had made a social call on some government ministers.

Donald W. Douglas Jr., president of Douglas Aircraft Company of California, and Philip C. Garratt, managing director of de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited, insisted their visit had nothing to do with a prospective $200,000,000 Trans-Canada Air Lines order for some 45 medium - range passenger jets.

For the social call, Mr. Douglas and Mr. Garratt brought along some vice-presidents for sales and engineering.

At the press conference, brochures on the Douglas DC8—by coincidence, a medium - range jet—were handed out. And Mr. Douglas and Mr. Garratt answered any and all questions about the plane. De Havilland has received a $65,000,000 contract from Douglas to make wings and tail assemblies for the DC-9.

NAMES MINISTERS

After three promptings from reporters, Mr. Garratt identified the ministers he and Mr. Douglas had called on — Transport Minister George McIlraith and Defence Poduction Minister Charles M. Drury.

Would Mr. Douglas be seeing Gordon McGregor, TCA president?

"I always call on the customers," Mr. Douglas said.

"Obviously," he added, "TCA is a possible customer."

This was the closest Mr. Douglas and Mr. Garratt came to admitting they wouldn't turn down a multi-million-dollar TCA order.

The 560-miles-an-hour DC-9 will carry 56 to 83 passengers. The first flight is scheduled for March, 1965, and the first delivery for February, 1966. The plane will sell for $2,000,000.

De Havilland will begin tooling up for production of DC-9 components in August and start production in November. It hopes the program will continue for 10 years. Douglas hopes to sell a minimum of 400 DC-9s throughout the world.

Judge Lane, Picton, Will Deliver Charge

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Judge Wilfrid S. Lane of Picton, was to deliver his charge to a county court jury today in the trial of Harold Arnold Williams on six charges of fraud involving more than $500,000.

No defence witnesses were called Tuesday after the prosecution concluded its case against Williams, 49 - year - old former president of the now-defunct Mid - Erie Acceptance Corporation of London.

Harvey McCulloch of Hamilton, prosecuting for the Ontario Securities Commission which laid the charges, called some 30 witnesses during five days of testimony.

Securities commission investigators testified Tuesday they had approached Williams in 1961 to inform him of "serious discrepancies" in his books which Williams never explained.

Mr. McCulloch, in his final legal argument, contended that Williams "personally benefited from the loans he raised" through Bank of Montreal and Royal Trust Company branches in London and from the sale of Mid-Erie shares in Saskatchewan.

Earlier testimony was that about $1,600,000 worth of shares, now worthless, were sold in Saskatchewan prior to 1960.

Defence Counsel John O'Driscoll of Toronto, in his address to the jury, admitted that fictitious documents had been included in Mid-Erie accounts, but said that more than 18 witnesses had testified they were "not out any money" because of these contracts and had never been called upon to pay on the accounts.

WEEVIL CAUSES TROUBLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The alfalfa weevil continues to cause serious damage to alfalfa in the eastern United States. The pest also is becoming active in the west. An agriculture department insect report also said infestations of grasshoppers are showing up in Utah, Idaho, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas and Virginia.

Mayors Propose Sweepstakes Be Legalized

TORONTO (CP) — Amendments to the criminal code to legalize sweepstakes, lotteries and bingo were proposed as the annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities opened here Tuesday.

Reeve Albert Campbell of suburban Scarborough, chairman of the resolutions committee, said he will back a recommendation to legalize sweepstakes and lotteries. Other resolutions seek to remove laws banning bingo and raffles for charity.

Mr. Campbell said he favors sweepstakes that would guarantee at least 75 per cent of the take to worthy projects such as hospitals.

About 700 delegates from across Canada are attending. Prime Minister Pearson will address the conference at a dinner tonight.

PLAINFIELD

Tyro, Sigma C Hold Successful Field Day

PLAINFIELD — On May 25th, Plainfield United Church Tyro (boys 9-11) and Sigma-C (boys 12-14 years) groups played host to Tyro and Sigma-C groups from Trinity United Church, Madoc, St. John's United Church, Tweed and College Hill United Church Belleville, as they joined in the competition of a field day. Taking advantage of a warm sunny day, more than 100 boys participated in the various events.

Both group and individual events were featured and points were given to ascertain which group of Tyros and which group of Sigma-Cs ewer the winners for the day. Group events included a softball game and a tug-of-war, while the individual events were 100-yard dash, sack race, relay race, wheel-barrow race, ball throw, high jump and broad jump. Between the events, Plainfield C.G.I.T. sold refreshments. It is their hope to be able to send a girl to camp with the proceeds from their refreshment booth.

BALL GAMES

The following is an account of the Tyro events: in the preliminary ball games, Plainfield defeated Tweed, while College Hill won against Madoc. In the final ball game Plainfield won the victory over College Hill. The tug of war preliminaries left Plainfield to pull against College Hill. Plainfield Tyros proved to be the stronger of the two. In the individual Tyro events the first place winners were: 100-yard dash — Kent Currie, Tweed; sack race — Danny Boyle, Tweed; relay race — Tweed; wheel-barrow race — Teddy Thompson and Trevor Rennie, Tweed; ball throw — Kent Currie, Tweed; high jump — Kedt Currie, Tweed; broad jump — David Kavan, Tweed.

The record of Sigma-C events is as follows. In the preliminary ball games, Tweed defeated College Hill and Plainfield defeated Madoc. The final game between Tweed and Plainfield was won by Tweed. Tweed and Plainfield also reached the final in the tug-of-war and Tweed also proved the stronger team here. In the individual events the first place winners were: 100-yard dash — William Thompson, Tweed; sack race — John Bateman, Tweed; relay race, Tweed; wheel-barrow race — Jim Dafoe and Jim Wood, College Hill; ball throw — Albert Reid, Madoc; high jump — Brian Jones, Tweed; broad jump — William Thompson, Tweed.

PRESENT CUP

A cup was presented at the close of the events to each of the winning Tyro and Sigma-C teams. The Tyro cup was donated by Chisholms of Roslin and was presented by the Rev. R. G. Nicholls, minister of Plainfield United Church, to the winning Tyro team from Tweed which scored the majority of points. Another cup donated anonymously, was presented by Mr. Nicholls to the winning Sigma-C team, also from Tweed. A gift of two dollars was presented to the Tyro boy who scored the most points in the individual events. Kent Currie of Tweed received this gift.

This was a day of victory for the Tweed groups who walked off with all the honors but against stiff competition. Both boys and leaders felt that the field day was a huge success and they are now interested in making this an annual event for the Tyro and Sigma-C groups in the area.

Uneasy Experience

WORKS AMONG ESKIMOS — Siegfried Paul Hettasch, a Moravian missionary at Makkovik, Labrador, has some doubts about the effects of government aid to Eskimo settlements in the area. He says that while there are physical advantages, some Eskimos have decided there's little point in working when they can achieve almost the same living standards with government relief. (CP Photo)

Labrador Missionaries Are Doubtful Of Benefits From Eskimo Integration

By GEORGE FRAJKOR

MAKKOVIK, Labrador (CP) Efforts to integrate the Eskimo are not always easy.

This is the experience in Labrador where the Newfoundland government closed an Eskimo settlement in 1959, and sought to integrate its 300 residents into three Labrador communities.

The settlement closed was Hebron, 330 miles north of Goose Bay. Hunting and fishing were good there, but its isolated settlement was difficult to supply and administer. It was decided to move the residents to Nain, Hopedale and Makkovik.

It was intended that in the consolidated settlements they would have better and more economical housing, education and health and social services. It was also intended that the Eskimos would learn to adapt to the competitive, driving spirit of the modern economy.

NOT ALL GOOD

"I must be careful what I say," said Siegfried Paul Hettasch, the gray-haired Moravian missionary at Makkovik.

"We have much to be grateful to the government for. The schools, the nursing station, the pensions and the baby bonus—these have all been good. But I cannot say that everything that has been done is good."

His doubts and those of other Moravian missionaries are the result, he says, of what the Eskimos from Hebron have gained. Spiritually, they may have lost.

"We have more people on relief now than ever before," says Mr. Hettasch.

Makkovik, originally a predominantly white settlement, more than doubled its population to 350 when the Hebron people moved in. The doubled population shares the same hunting and fishing grounds on previously supported Makkovik.

Nain, 40 miles north of Makkovik and 140 miles north of Goose Bay, Rev. Gerhard Vollprecht makes the same observation: "We have more relief now."

ESKIMOS NOT LAZY

In Nain, 200 miles north of Goose Bay, Rev. Frederick Grubb also reported increased relief enrolment but not to the same extent as in the more southerly centres. Nain and Makkovik absorbed the bulk of the Hebron people, Hopedale getting only 12 or 13 families.

It is not that the Eskimos are lazy, the missionaries emphasized. On the contrary, they are resourceful. They are resourceful enough to take advantage of the fact that a certain standard of living can be achieved without work.

Without a modern economy here the standard of living of other settlers is not so noticeably higher that the Eskimos are incited to strive for it.

"They have caught the attitude that it was the government which moved them from their hunting and fishing grounds, so let the government support them," Mr. Hettasch said.

WHY TEACH

In Nain, a determined effort is being made to teach responsibility in new settlers. A church collection system was introduced to lessen the mission's reliance on them from elsewhere. A "land rent" of 10 cents a year per lot was introduced to get a little money for the school.

"They don't feel the need for education as we do," said Mr. Grubb. "They feel that if the government wants to educate the children, then let the government pay. There was a big storm when we introduced the collection system in church."

Nevertheless, Nain's absorption of the Hebronera has worked out well. Nain was mainly Eskimo in the first place, and Mr. Grubb said he was heartened by the way the Nain people took the newcomers in hand. The government-supported fishery had a good season last year for Arctic char, and there was enough game and fish for the 550 people of the enlarged community.

SOME RESENTMENT

But in Makkovik, predominantly white until the Hebron people came—and not so fruitful a game and fish area—things have not gone as well.

There is more racial feeling here than you might think," said Mr. Hettasch, "although there is no open manifestation of it."

Samuel Ben-Dor, a 26-year old Israeli anthropologist living with the Eskimo community in Makkovik, confirmed Mr. Hettasch's statements.

"I don't know how deep it runs," he said, "but there is resentment on the part of the original settlers and there is suspicion on the part of the Eskimos."

Mr. Hettasch thinks the first mistake was to build the houses for the Eskimos from Hebron on a point of land some distance from the original settlement.

"It would have been better to have put all the people in the old settlement," he said. "There is a division between us"

Mr. Vollprecht was against the move on principle. "They should have considered whether the people would be happy in the new place, and whether the hunting and fishing is good," he said.

WARY OF FUTURE

Both Mr. Vollprecht and Mr. Hettasch fear that without having acquired any of the white man's opportunities—neither expects a mining or lumbering industry here for at least a generation—the Eskimos will pick up the worst elements of the white man's world, as they have already picked up paternalism.

"For centuries," Mr. Hettasch said, "we have been given the job of protecting the Eskimos from the whites. Now it is different, and we have to teach the Eskimos to live with them."

The Moravian church, one of the oldest of Protestant churches, has been involved in Labrador missions since 1752 and was given large grants of crown land to take care of Eskimos.

"It was easier to guide them when we had them alone," said Mr. Hettasch. "We will have more difficulties now. We have to teach them to stand on their own feet and to make their own decision on who to serve."

Relief payments only make it harder to teach self-reliance, he added.

NEED AMBITION

"We have to instill some ambition in them," says Mr. Vollprecht. "We have to teach them to push themselves."

"They don't think in terms of pushing themselves up," says Mr. Hettasch. "And really, unless there is something here like industry, unless they can see where to go, it is hard to make them see why they should push."

There is no doubt the Eskimos are better off physically. They are healthier, with better food stores and a nursing station readily available. Their children

ESKIMOS RESETTLED — Eskimos from the settlement at Hebron, 300 miles north of Goose Bay, are finding it difficult to adapt to their new homes. The Newfoundland government closed the Hebron settlement in 1959 and moved its 300 residents to Nain, Hopedale and Makkovik. Nain and Makkovik absorbed the bulk of the resettled people with Hopedale getting only 12 or 13 families. (CP Newsmap) have school teaching up to the ninth grade, and soon in the high school level.

The government houses they now have are neat, sturdy, white clapboard structures, easy to heat and costing them only $10 a year in purchase payments. In Hebron, they lived in shacks.

The missionaries agree the children will benefit from the move, but they are not so sure about the older ones.

"Sometimes I wonder where I am going," said Mr. Hettasch. "But at least we are holding the fort for them here. If we left them, they would go backwards."

Said Mr. Vollprecht: "I now find it true what an old missionary once told me. To be a missionary you need three things—patience, patience and patience."

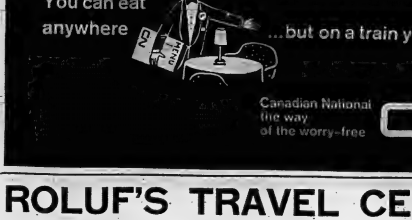
Rural Parishes Most Essential



KINGSTON (CP)—The United Church must work to return vitality to life in rural parishes, the annual five-day conference of the church's Bay of Quinte conference was told Monday.

"We must have the courage to experiment with bold ideas," Rev. R. A. Rowley of Pembroke said. "The rural fellowship is essential."

He described rural villages as "communities for urban workers."

Mr. Rowley said the church should seek guidance from rural area school authorities and agricultural representatives. He urged the church to provide the inspiration and work to promote education.

Ten men who will be ordained into the church were presented to the 450 delegates at a church service.

UN Group Works Privately To Reach Dues Agreement

By CARMAN CUMMING

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A 10-country group working privately is hopeful of reaching agreement on a formula for financing UN peace-keeping activities, informed sources said Monday.

The group, in which Canada is playing an active part, met during the weekend and again Monday.

Sources said the negotiators are optimistic of success but that a resolution—or perhaps a series of resolutions—is not expected to emerge this week.

The resolution would be put before the General Assembly's budgetary committee, which in turn is to report to the current special session of the assembly.

The 10-country group is composed of five industrialized nations and five less-developed countries. the former comprises Britain, the U.S., The Netherlands and Sweden as well as Canada and the latter comprises Brazil, Argentina, Pakistan, India and Nigeria.

The negotiations are revolving on a British proposal to finance UN forces in The Congo and Middle East for the last six months of the year—at an estimated cost of $42,500,000.

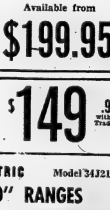
Sources said more than a dozen Western countries have indicated willingness to make voluntary contributions above their normal assessments to lighten the load for less-developed countries.

The United States was reported to be among them, although earlier this spring the U.S. said It would not go on making voluntary contributions unless other countries showed readiness to carry their share.

The 10-country group is also reported working on a set of general principles for financing future peace-keeping operations and a plan to get members to pay back arrears on the Congo and Middle East issues.

It was learned that Canada, which had been tentatively scheduled to speak when the budgetary committee resumes meetings today, now does not plan to speak before Wednesday.

April Imports Jump Sharply, Bring Deficit



OTTAWA (CP) — A sharp jump in Canada's imports during April helped produce a trade deficit of $52,500,000 for the month—the first monthly trade deficit since May of last year.

The deficit trimmed the accumulated trade surplus for the first four months of 1963 to $40,500,000 compared with the deficit of $111,000,000 in the opening four months of last year, the bureau of statistics reported today.

April imports jumped 12.5 per cent to $560,200,000 from $497,800,000 a year earlier while the month's exports of $527,800,000 were 14.4 per cent above the year-earlier mark of $461,300,000.

For the January-April period, imports of $1,974,300,000 were only fractionally higher than the $1,967,600,000 a year ago. Four-month exports were up 8.5 per cent at $2,014,800,000 compared with $1,856,700,000.

Havana Streets No Longer Bristle With Guns, Decided Relaxation of Tension Seen

Canadian Press reporter Jack Best has paid a return visit to Havana after nearly two years. In this story he gives his impression of the changes since his last visit in 1961.

By JACK BEST

HAVANA (CP)—The streets of Havana no longer bristle with guns to the extent they once did.

That is the most striking difference I noted on coming back to the Cuban capital after being away nearly two years.

Coupled with it is a decided relaxation of tension.

Guns are still very much in evidence. They would make a powerful impression on a first-time visitor. But they are nowhere near as common as when I was here just after the Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961.

The types of weapons have also changed. Whereas the "burp" gun used to predominate, today you see few of this kind of sub - machinegun. Instead militiamen and militia women guarding public buildings are armed with less-sophisticated bolt-action Mauser rifles.

The ordinary soldier or militiaman carries no weapon at all when walking in the street, although officers of some higher ranks have revolvers.

Asked the reason for the change, a government official explained that the armed forces, having become more organized and better disciplined, have been ordered not to carry firearms in public while off duty.

WEAPONS STOLEN

Other Cubans say, however, that the government acted to halt a growing loss of weapons, particularly sub - machine-guns. They were believed to have been falling into unauthorized hands, including those of counter - revolutionaries. The guns were collected and put into storage depots, for use when needed.

Whatever the reason, the over-all impression of Havana in May, 1963, in comparison with May, 1961, is "fewer beards and fewer guns," as one seasoned observer put it.

The Castro government has been making determined efforts to reduce tension in the capital. There is less hysterical talk about invasion. Propaganda posters and placards still exhort the people to be on guard against enemies of the revolution, but they are less prominent than others urging Cubans to increase production.

There is less anti-American invective in the press, less use of such words as "gusanos"—worms—to describe opponents of the revolution.

Seldom now are you searched for weapons or bombs on entering hotels or public buildings.

CONCEAL TANKS

Anti-aircraft guns and tanks are not as conspicuous. There is no doubt they're still at hand but generally they're kept concealed from the general public.

Cuban experts are inclined to view such changes with caution, uncertain whether they hold any long-term significance. Trends in revolutionary Cuba have always tended to be cyclical and there have been periods of relaxed tension before, though few perhaps as pronounced as this one.

On one point there seems general agreement: The government wants to get people's minds off some of the things that have heretofore occupied them and on to the practical problems of increased production and economic advance.

The food situation remains serious, though according to some accounts it has been improving. It is said to be worse in the smaller cities and towns of the interior. But nobody is starving, one is told.

There is a chronic shortage of meat, especially above the lower grades, and of fresh fruit and vegetables, although supplies of these are improving. Fresh milk is difficult for adults to obtain; children are being adequately provided for.

RATIONING WORKS

The rationing system, started just after I left here in August, 1961, appears to work fairly smoothly. It's administered by committees for the defence of the revolution, vigilance groups formed originally to watch for counter - revolutionary activity. Their addition to the task of running the ration system include organizing vaccination clinics.

At the hotel where I stayed, the Habana Libre, the usual breakfast was a toasted sandwich with some kind of heavily salted soft meat in the middle and hot chocolate. One morning there was a small plate of thin gruel, two buns with sauce-like spread and coffee. The price in either case was 90 cents.

Another morning, however, I hit the jackpot — scrambled eggs, orange juice and coffee with milk. I had spied the eggs off in a corner of the kitchen and asked the waiter for some. There were hurried consultations between him and the restaurant manager, then he led me into a room where the Russian and Czechoslovakian technicians eat, off the main dining room. There I was served the preferred fare, price $1.

Dinner was usually a choice between macaroni and a cold meat plate, with soup, a piece of French pastry and coffee, for $2.20.

LOBSTER FOR $3

It's possible to do better than this at other hotels, however. For lunch one day in the restaurant of the Capri Hotel I had soup, lobster with rice and beets, buns and coffee for $3.

Nearby at a fairly good restaurant that wasn't attached to a hotel, lunch consisting of soup, spaghetti, a sweet tropical fruit dish and coffee cost $4.90.

Next to the food shortage, the most pressing problem appears to be transportation. It results from the lack of spare parts for American - made vehicles. This problem had already become acute in 1961. Now it's much worse.

The sight of cars, trucks and buses broken down in the street has become depressingly routine. Of those still going, practically every one seems to have some weird noise coming from its motor.

Cubans say the parts situation is aggravated by the calibre of gasoline and oil the Soviet Union is supplying. The gas is said to be of too low octane and to contain too little lead; the oil is held to be too thin for Cuban requirements.

Cannibalization of burnt - out vehicles for spare parts is widespread, sometimes occurring right in the street.

The problem of public transportation has been met by importing Czechoslovakian buses to replace worn-out American models. However, on the first buses received the brakes quickly gave out. Cubans blamed the buses. The Czechoslovakians blamed hard-braking Cuban bus drivers.

PRAVDA ASSAILS ISLAM

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda protested Monday that too many mosques are being built with public money in the Asiatic republic of Tadzhikistan. The newspaper denounced the Communist party organization there for failing to break the power of Islam. A report from the mountainous republic, bordering India and Afghanistan, said more than 100 mosques had been opened there in the last two years while needed repairs to local schools were stalled.

Congregation Honors Family Before Leaving

PICTON — Prior to leaving for Corunna, where he will minister to three churches, Rev. Donald Kemble, and Mrs. Kemble were honored by St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here.

Spring Horse Show to Be Held in Town

PICTON — Where ice formed the centre at the County Centre at the fair grounds during the winter months, this week a floor of sawdust is being laid. Soaked with water and then frozen by artificial refrigeration, it will then form a perfect footing for the many fine entries to participate in the annual Spring Horse Show sponsored by Prince Edward Agricultural Society and the Kiwanis Club.

Saturday night's show, which gets under way at seven-thirty with several personalities participating, is attracting entries from a large area. Trophies and ribbons are awarded in the fast-moving show.

Cool Weather Not Conducive To Camping

PICTON — Cool weather was not conducive to weekend camping and only ten of the camp sites at Outlet Provincial Park were in use last weekend.

Sunday's sunny weather brought out many motorists, but it was not necessary to go to the beach to be cool.

Those who drove through the orchard areas found the apple trees in bloom, a lovely sight, and it is expected next weekend will also see them still in bloom.

Notice on drives are the unusually colorful displays of tulips around many homes. The cold, wet weather seems to have been good for them.

Prince Edward is a beautiful place to tour at the present time.

What to Do With Whiz Kid Puzzles Judges

WATFORD, Ont. (CP)—When a 12-year-old boy proves the judges wrong on one question, then the judges run out of questions and not even the teasers can think of any more puzzlers, do you give up trying to run a public school geography contest?

Yes, decided members of the Royal Canadian Legion in this community 25 miles east of Sarnia.

In fact, the annual event may not be held at all next year, said one Legion member after the mixup this year.

In the first running of the match Frank Smith, a Brooke township Central School pupil, showed that he had been wrongly eliminate for a correct answer — that a tiny speck of land straddling the international boundary, called Middle Island, and not Pelee Island, is Canada's most southern spot. It is just beyond Pelee Island in Lake Erie.

Officials tried again a week later with a carefully checked set of 102 questions and answers. A dozen of the original 63 entrants were still in the race when the list was used up. In desperation the judges started using questions suggested by teachers, but there was no time to check the answers before hand — and this time it was the audience that challenged the decisions.

By the time 55 impromptu questions had been asked and answered, there were still seven contestants left, and when no one could think up more questions the judges decided to throw in the sponge.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Overheard at the opening dinner dance at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club Saturday night. The event was a highly enjoyable function, that was the stepping-stone to what club officials believe will be the most successful season in the club's history.

"What do you do when you feel you're going to have a bad game or have been playing badly?"

"Leave your clubs at home and grab the fishing tackle. Go fishing. It will save you a lot of shots and a bad temper."

"What is your advice to new golfers?" I asked a veteran of the fairways.

He replied: "When you start to learn the game of golf concentrate on the correct fundamentals. Most persons start golf for mental and physical relaxation. They get started improperly; they develop all sorts of bad habits that take them years to overcome. My advice to the beginner is to go to your pro and get started the right way."

Years ago I teed off in my first golf game on the Picton Country Club's links and looked like a rookie baseball player taking a cut at a fast ball.

My playing mate who shot in the low seventies, murmured a bit of advice. "Who do you think you are, Bath Ruth? You're swinging at the ball as though you had a baseball bat in your hands. You're not taking a full swing. And if you don't correct it, you'll do it the rest of your golfing life. Start the right way. Go to the pro and get your swing in the groove."

As the veteran golfer said, "if new golfers get off on the wrong foot they develop all sorts of bad habits that take them years to overcome."

I asked club pro George Balazs about it and he told me a few pointers that new members can profit by.

On weekends make arrangements to play threesomes or foursomes.

Players inclined to be slow should allow players behind them to "play through."

After you've lost a ball all should help find it—and wave players behind you on, if necessary.

If you are not playing the entire eighteen holes, be considerate and do not cut in on other players.

It is not considered good golfing ethics for two or more players to be playing out of one golf bag.

Observe the golf rules posted on the first tee. Replace divots and golf carts.

On weekends a starter on the first tee should arrange, if possible, games for those "at a loose end."

If you must have the family dog along do not let it run loose. Always keep it on leash or tied up somewhere.

Small children should not be allowed to run "free" on the course. There is always that accident hazard.

And you are in doubt about golf etiquette and ethics, the pro is always available to advise you.

Plans are under way, Mr. Balazs said, to run a golf course for children out of school over a period of four or five weeks later on. A special two-ball tournament will be held at its completion.

Kingston Meets Kenmors Here Tonight

Kingston Bad Boys, who so far are having a season very befitting the name, will come riding into town with fire in their eyes for a Lakeshore Baseball League tilt against the Kenmors tonight.

The Kenmors are undefeated so far, having beaten Oshawa and Kingston to date, but the Bad Boys will be out to change all that this evening.

Kingston has played three games and surprisingly has lost all three, two of them to the red-hot Ajax squad.

The Kingston team has most of last year's players back in uniform but apparently they have not rounded into shape as yet.

Not content to just wait for better days, the Limestoners moved big Charlie Pester into the playing coach's job following the team's 6-3 loss to the Kenmors on Sunday.

This will be Pester's first start since his appointment and he will be doing his best to make it a winning one tonight. If the big fellow's pitching arm and batting eye start to work, he will likely be his own best asset.

Kenmore coach Sid Forster has made no announcement about his starting pitcher but with the club not seeing action again for a week he will likely have his entire staff ready for duty if necessary.

At any rate, it's Kingston vs Belleville — and that always means a top battle.

Flyers Blank Parsons 3-0

Parsons Cleaners went down to another defeat at the Air Force Park last night bowing to the RCAF team 3-0 in a Bay of Quinte Football Association fixture.

The game was cleanly played with the Flyers leading 2-0 at the half-time mark.

Eddy, Gale and McGlennon scored for the Flyers.

Following an altercation at a previous game the Association announced the suspension of three players.

Suspended for a game are Cameron of Trenton Amherst and Kejih and Stochel of the RCAF.

The report alleged the referees erred in sending one of the players off the field. However the game will not be replayed. It was a 4-3 victory for the Ambers.

Twins Win Eight In Row ★★★★★

Birds Up Lead; Boston Belts Yanks

By MIKE RATHBY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The latest member of Baltimore Orioles' homer-a-game club is Al Smith, a 35-year-old veteran who latched onto Jerry Casale's offering after stepping off a merry-go-round.

Smith tagged a three - run homer that capped a four-run fifth inning uprising as Orioles ran their winning streak to nine games and ballooned their American League lead to 5½ lengths by defeating Kansas City Athletics 6-3 Tuesday night.

Acquired in an off season trade with Chicago White Sox, Smith has found himself in an unusual role with Orioles. He has been playing only one position instead of commuting between the infield and outfield as in most of his 13-year major league career.

Orioles' latest victory—marking the longest winning streak in the major this season—also was their 11th in 13 games and increased their edge over the second place New York Yankees, who were halted by Boston Red Sox 11-6.

TWINS ROLLING

Minnesota Twins also continued their winning march, rolling to victory No. 8 in a row and reaching the .500 level for the first time by beating Washington Senators 6-3 on Bob Allison's three-run homer with two out in the last of the ninth.

In other American League action, Cleveland Indians edged Chicago White Sox 4-3 and rookie Mickey Lolich won his first game in the majors as Detroit Tigers whipped Los Angeles Angels 3-1.

Smith's decisive homer followed a run-producing double by shortstop Luis Aparicio, traded to Orioles along with Smith in the deal that sent pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm outfielder Dave Nicholson and infielders Ron Hansen and Pete Ward to White Sox.

Smith's blow off loser Ted Bowsfield also handed the victory to Robin Roberts, who stayed on to pitch against the As despite the death of his father Sunday. Roberts, bringing his record to 4-4, had a two-hit shutout for seven innings but needed relief help from Dan Stone and Stu Miller to get victory.

Red Sox got the job done against Yankees with a 15 hit explosion. Gary Geiger hit his fourth homer in as many games and Lee Clinton chipped in with another two-run shot while Bill Brasoud singled home two runs in a four-run second inning, tripled home a run in a three-run third and singled to start a four - run sixth. Bill Monbouquette was the winner, with Bill Stafford taking the loss.

SWING HITLESS STREAK

Allison's game-winning shot off Ron Kline followed a double by George Green and a walk to Vic Power and snapped the Twins' slugger out of an 0-for-18 skid.

Senators, losers of nine of 10 and 18 of their last 17 games, had tied the score in the top of the ninth on Chuck Cottier's run-scoring single and a two-run homer by Don Lock. Jim Kaat, who had a three hit shutout for eight innings, lasted long enough to win it.

Ray Herbert drove in both White Sox runs with a homer and a single but took second loss against five victories when Indians came up with two runs in the sixth on a homer by Vic Davalillo and a run-producing double by Max Alvis. Both Davalillo and Alvis are rookies. Jack Kralick brought in reliefed to 3-2 with relief help from Ted Abernathy.

Lolich, who had four losing minor league seasons and an 0-1 record in the majors, scattered eight hits to post victory No. 1 against Angels. The 22-year-old left-hander got all the working room he needed when Dick McAuliffe hit a two-run homer for Tigers off Ken McBride in the sixth inning.

Hit 150-Plus In Trials

Jones Solid Favorite For '500'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Parnelli Jones, the race driver's race driver, will start Thursday's 47th Memorial Day classic as the most solid favorite since Bill Vukovich took the 500 mile event for the second straight year in 1954.

Jones not only set new qualifying standards in the time trials but he practised at speeds greater than the other drivers made in qualifications.

The quiet-spoken, 29-year-old driver from Torrance, Calif., turned four laps at more than 150 miles an hour in the final carburetion tests Tuesday. He had one at more than 151 in his red and blue Agajanian special.

Jones is the only one of Thursday's 33 starters who reached a 191 miles an hour over the 10-mile trials. A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., was Jones' closest second best at 150.6, but he qualified on the second day and will start in eighth place. Parnelli has the No. 1 pole position.

The lone Canadian car, the City of Victoria owned by Ed Kostenuk of Victoria, qualified at 146.008 Monday and will be driven by rookie John Rutherford of Fort Worth, Tex.

'Sweet Daddy' Tops Card

Wrestling Opens Friday

The wrestling season may be a little late in getting under way here this year but by the look of the opening card, the powers that be intend making up for the delay this first week.

Six top notchers have been named to get the season under way at Memorial Arena this Friday night.

The "Pretty Boy" from Greenwich Village, one Sweet Daddy Siki, will pit his bag of beatnik tricks against a gentleman, by name and nature, Gentleman Jim Hady, in the two-of-three falls main event.

Siki, with a body beautiful but a disposition like a wounded wildcat, should have his hands full against Hady, a fast, scientific grappler from Detroit.

The semi-final has the wild man from Sicily, known in the wrestling circles as The Beast, tackling a Canadian lad, Johnny Foil, from Calgary, Alberta. The Beast will be accompanied at ringside by his manager and second, one Martino Angelo, while it that The Beast is worth the price of admission all by himself.

Getting the show under way at nine o'clock, will be Billy "Red" Lyons, one of the game's top names, against another Greenwich Village beatnik, Duke Hobbs.

CAHA Will Father College Hockey

Five Universities

By PAUL REDSTEAD

TORONTO (CP) — What's wrong with hockey's image in Canada?

Plenty, apparently. There's a growing move under way to improve it.

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, with assistance from the Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union and the federal government, will introduce a new program late this summer at five Canadian universities.

With a $50,000 grant from the National Fitness Council, the CAHA is sponsoring five hockey leadership institutes. The CIAU is directing the program and professional educationists with help from prominent coaches, will be in charge.

A selection committee will handpick 250 amateur coaches from among the candidates. Those selected will attend the expenses-paid, 10-day program at the institute nearest their homes—50 coaches at each of the five universities.

One of the messages pushed at the coaches will be the value of education to a hockey player.

Major W. J. (Danny) McLeod, athletic director of Royal Military College at Kingston, is the CIAU's representative in discussions with the CAHA.

"There isn't one in 10,000 amateurs who makes the National Hockey League," McLeod said Tuesday night in a telephone interview. "We have to condition them to that—our game is more than just playing in the NHL.

"We have to improve the image of our game in the eyes of our country."

Amateur coaches will be screened and only those thought capable of getting the most out of the institute will be accepted.

All amateur organizations — such as provincial and city leagues—will be represented. Included are the secondary school and university coaches as well as men from community recreation leagues.

The institutes will be held at the University of New Brunswick, University of Montreal, Royal Military College, University of Saskatchewan and University of Alberta.

"We hope that our institute graduates will help make the fans in their areas better citizens because of hockey," said McLeod.

"Playing in the National Hockey League is great—if you make it, but hockey can still be a great game if you don't."

Dodgers Narrow Gap To Game

Koufax Blanks Braves; Giants Lose 10-6

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax obviously is taking his cue from Frank Sinatra, who once played the part of The Man with the Golden Arm. It was about a pokey player who rarely lost while dealing.

And that, of course, is the story of the Los Angeles Dodgers' Man with the Golden Arm. When he's dealing he doesn't lose.

He was dealing well enough Tuesday night, blanking Milwaukee Braves 7-0 on six hits, his fourth shutout of the season, and pitching Dodgers to within one game of National League leading San Francisco Giants.

Giants suffered a rain-interrupted 10-6 bombing by Cincinnati Reds. St. Louis Cardinals closed to within three games on the strength of a 10-inning 8-7 conquest of Houston Colts, Chicago's surprising Cubs moved into fourth place by beating New York Mets 5-2, and Philadelphia Phillies defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 5-1.

Koufax, who was on his way to a fantastic season last year before he was sidelined with a circulatory ailment in the index finger on his pitching hand, lowered his earned run average to 1.52 with the shutout of Braves.

HOWARD CONNECTS

The Dodger lefty, author of two no-hit games, had to work harder than the score would indicate to win his seventh against two defeats. He was locked in a scoreless struggle with Milwaukee lefthander Denny Lemaster until Frank Howard stroked a 3-2 pitch over the left field wall with one out in the seventh.

It was only the fourth hit off the hard-luck Lemaster, who was lifted for a pinch hit in the seventh and has only a 2-3 record to show for a gaudy 1.47 earned run average.

Dodgers nailed it down by sending 11 men to the plate in a six-run ninth inning, featured by Johnny Roseboro's steal of home and a squeeze bunt by Dick Tracewski.

Jim O'Toole got the benefit of Cincinnati's free - swinging attack on San Francisco and became the first pitcher in the National League to win eight games. He has lost three.

GETS THREE HITS

Leading the Red attack were Marty Keough with three hits, including a bases-loaded single, Frank Robinson with three runs batted in on a homer and a double, and Vada Pinson with a double, three singles and a stolen base. Orlando Cepeda had two doubles and drove in five runs for Giants.

Lloyd's double to right, Cards' 18th hit, drove in the winning run in the 10th after St. Louis had overcome a four-run deficit in the 7th.

Ron Santo had a two-run triple and Billy Williams a two-run double in the pack Phillies' power the Cubs past the Mets who have lost eight of their last nine. Dick Ellsworth won his sixth against three losses.

A two-run homer by Johnny Callison, a two-run triple by Tony Gonzales and some shoddy Pittsburgh fielding helped Phils' Cal McLish win his fourth straight.

SICKNESS GOES

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—The equine sickness that has struck hit many harness horses in the East during the last two months seems to have run its course, Dr. Bernard F. Brennan, veterinarian at Roosevelt Raceway, said Tuesday he feels the epidemic is on the wane and that all horses there will be healthy and ready for racing by next week.

Stock, Miller Top Reliefers

Orioles' Bullpen Efficient

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the major reasons Baltimore Orioles of American League pennant stock is high-these days is their highly efficient bullpen corps led by Wes Stock and Stu Miller.

Stock and Miller are among a score of relief pitchers who have starred for their teams, often without much fanfare, over the first one-third of the 1963 big league baseball season.

Stock, a 29-year-old right-hander, has a 5-0 record and he also saved another game again with a sparkling three-inning stint. Stock has worked in 15 games, pitched 23 1-3 innings, walked 10, struck out 17 and put together an earned run average of 2.35.

Miller, acquired from San Francisco Giants last winter, also has appeared in 15 games. His won-lost mark is only 1-1, but he has saved six games. The veteran right-hander has an era of 2.88.

Ron Perranoski of Los Angeles Dodgers, National League runners-up, and Bill Fischer of the improved Kansas City Athletics are among the leaders in winning percentage. Each has won six games and lost one for a .857 mark. Perranoski has worked in 13 games and has a 2.03 ERA. Fischer has come in from the bullpen 11 times and compiled a 1.88 ERA.

The Chicago White Sox relievers have been largely responsible for the club's surprisingly high fourth-place standing in the National League. Don Elston and Jim Brewer are 2-0 and Lindy McDaniel is 1-1. Elston has yielded only one earned run in 18 2-3 innings and McDaniel has saved six games for Elston to his lone victory.

IS ANGELES' STRONG MAN

Julio Navarro has been the strong man of Los Angeles Angels' bullpen. He is 4-0 with an earned run mark of 2.75 in 17 games.

One of the least heralded relievers has been lefty Hal Woodeshick of Houston Colts. He has given up only three earned runs in 34 innings (0.79) while winning three games and losing one for the National League's ninth-place team.

Knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm of Chicago White Sox has been intermittently effective. He has a neat 2.08 ERA but has been charged with four defeats against one triumph. Wilhelm was acquired from Baltimore last winter.

Jim Bronsan has permitted only one earned run in 13 innings since coming to the White Sox a month ago from Cincinnati. His record is 1-1 with four saves.

Jack Baldschun of Philadelphia Phillies has worked in the most games, 20. He has won three, lost three and saved five. Other dependable relief specialists have been Dick Radatz, Boston, 3-1 with a 1.61 ERA; John Wyatt, Kansas City, 0-1, posed out Bright Reward. The time was 1.25 4-5, 1 2-5 seconds off the track record.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Elimota, scoring her second successive victory at Greenwood, and Ron Turcotte, getting his second of the afternoon, barrelled wide on the turn and zipped over the sluggish stretch to win the featured Livingston Purse at Greenwood Tuesday.

Elimota, with the spacking of most of the 6.10 behind her, rushed to a 3½-length victory over Outlook Holiday, which had been shut out for 10 races before he won with Armadan in the fourth, and, even then he had to wait out an inquiry to gain official recognition.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching—Sandy Koufax, Dodgers, checked Milwaukee Braves on six hits, opposing his fourth shutout in a 7-0 victory that moved Los Angeles to within one game of National League leading San Francisco.

Batting—Howie Goss, Houston Colts, drove in six runs with two homers and triple in an 8-7, 10-inning loss to St. Louis Cardinals.

David Niven Settles Down To Make Hollywood Movie

By BOB THOMAS

After making seven films in seven countries, the Briton has settled down to make a movie in Hollywood, of all places. And you can jolly well bet that his Oscar (Separate Tables, 1958) came along with him.

"Why, of course," he remarked on the set of King of the Mountain. "Wherever I go, it goes. I'm not one of those people who treat it casually as a bookend or something like that. I'm damned proud of it."

Niven has been gone from his Hollywood haunts for more than three years, but he said it wasn't for tax reasons. In these days an actor must go where the work is, and his work has taken him far afield to such filming grounds as Israel (Two Enemies), Spain (55 Days at Pekings) and Italy (The Pink Panther).

Like all top stars, Niven goes where the good scripts are. But he confessed that isn't his only yardstick. He has what might be called the Niven sliding scale for his film pay.

LIKES TO PLAY

"It's like this," he said. "One year I'll work for $1,000 and it's a shame to let your work interfere with play.

"There are certain times of year when I will work if necessary, but my price goes up. The early part of the year is bad, because that is my skiing season and work interferes with that, oh, dear, that really costs the producer.

"July and August are terribly expensive. That's when we like to go up to Sweden and eat lots of fish, and there's a lot of time summer under water in the Mediterranean, skin diving. We have our home at Nice, and it's awfully hard to break away for work, really.

"Christmas is another expensive time to hire me, because we like to spend it at home with the whole family, although the times when I am cheapest is late spring and early fall. I'm an absolute bargain then."

Despite his European residence, his ties to Hollywood are strong and may get stronger.

With the death of Dick Powell, Niven and Charles Boyer are taking more part in policy decisions at Four Star Productions. Both have been here for 17 conferences and last Sunday night accepted the Television Academy's award to Powell for his services to the industry.

HEADS AGROLOGISTS

RIDGETOWN, Ont. (CP)—Dr. W. H. Minshall, senior plant physiologist at the pesticide research institute, London, was elected president of the 1,000-member Ontario Institute of Professional Agrologists at the conclusion of its annual meeting here Tuesday. Dr. Minshall succeeds A. Gordon Skinner of Cayuga.

'People Are Just Wonderful'

'Newsy' Finds Fame Is Not So Fleeting

By JOE DUPUIS

MONTREAL (CP) — Newsy Lalonde sat in a quiet corner of the hotel lounge sipping a gin cocktail and reflecting that perhaps fame isn't so fleeting after all.

PLAYS GOLF NOW—Newsy Lalonde, one of Canada's greatest hockey and lacrosse players, is still active at 76. He plays golf three times a week in summer, shooting in the 70s, and is a regular winter-time spectator at home games of Montreal Canadiens, the team he played with for 12 seasons.

(CP Photo)

For although it's been 37 years since he called it quits after a brilliant career as a hockey and lacrosse player, there's still magic in the name.

"The most astonishing and surprising thing about my life today is the way I'm treated by people," said the 76-year-old Lalonde. "I go anywhere, get a bus or in a club, without somebody wanting to talk to me. I tell you it's the most wonderful thing. It's worth more than money."

From 1905 to 1928 Edward Cyril Lalonde blazed a trail of stardom in two sports through seven countries, the Briton has settled down to make a movie in Hollywood, of all places. And you can jolly well bet that his Oscar (Separate Tables, 1958) came along with him.

"Why, of course," he remarked on the set of King of the Mountain. "Wherever I go, it goes. I'm not one of those people who treat it casually as a bookend or something like that. I'm damned proud of it."

games one season. He never made more than $4,500 a season playing hockey.

TOO MANY CHANGES

Lalonde is not altogether happy with modern hockey although he concedes it has become a "great spectacle" and the "fans seem to love it."

"A player today isn't on the ice long enough at any one time to concentrate on inside hockey. Look around you today. How many super-stars have you got, with the exception of Gordie Howe?

"They've got a fellow in Toronto (Frank Mahovlich) who's pretty good."

But it's a far cry from his day when, he says, there were two or three super-stars on each team.

Lalonde's modesty prevented him from including himself in that company but his presence in the Hall of Fame and the fact he led NHL scorers four times between 1910 and 1921 is adequate evidence.

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions' fans say they have a greater involvement in minor league football than any other professional club.

The articles of incorporation of the community-owned Western Football Conference club under the B.C.. Societies Act say: "The object of the society is the promotion of football in the province of British Columbia."

Thus all profits not used for professional football must go into minor ball, and general manager Herb Capozzi says this has amounted to between $250,000 and $500,000 in the last 10 years.

Denny Veitch, the club's coordinator of minor football activities, says Lions are simply fulfilling the responsibility as a community-owned club. He emphasizes that dividends in terms of revenue, prospective players or fan interest could not make up for the expenditures.

"I don't think any activity can succeed if it doesn't serve the community and the individual in that community," says Veitch.

"If we were interested in developing players we wouldn't be giving grants all over the province but we would concentrate in a few centres. If we were interested in developing fan support we wouldn't bother helping Ian Sinclair 250 miles away in the Interior.)

HELP HIGH SCHOOLS

Veitch sums up the whole idea as "to give as many persons as possible the chance to play football."

He says Lions can expect little in the way of players from the minor football. With the development of professional football, "for a boy to play at that level he's got to have come from a learning situation with a major American college program."

The club co-operates with the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds to provide what they gain no exclusive benefits as a result. If a UBC player shows signs of being a potential pro he can be picked up by any Canadian pro team under the draft.

The Lions are careful to use the expressions "work with" or "co-operate with" when referring to their relationship with high school teams. Their point is that they do not own, control or sponsor any minor football team.

No official will say flatly that Lions are responsible for the development of high school football in the province but the fact is there was little before the pro club came into being and now there are 42 teams. The club spends about $10,000 a year in clinics, grants to high school football, more than one-third of its total contribution to minor sports.

In addition the Lions provide films, books, equipment grants, two coaching clinics attended by 200 coaches from throughout the province and a development group.

Veitch and Lions players visit high schools about the province giving instructions and assistance, all without charge.

ARE TOP ROOKIES

NEW YORK (AP) — Second baseman Ron Hunt of New York Mets and centre fielder Vic Davalillo of Cleveland Indians probably would win hands down if the 1963 rookie of the year poll were to be taken now.

Each is a standout in his league. Davalillo, the fleet-footed Venezuelan, is the only slightly taller and weighs no more than Albie Pearson, the midget major league player, who heads and shoulders above the rest of the rookies in the American League.

Hunt has more competition in the National League. Pressing him close for top honors is Ray Culp, the 21-year-old pitcher who finally is beginning to pay dividends for the $100,000 investment Philadelphia Phillies made three years ago.

TV—Radio Column

Television Becoming Aware Good Material Necessary

NEW YORK (AP) — There are signs that, at long last, television reality is becoming aware of the importance of good material from which to fashion its offerings.

Next season, for instance, NBC will have playwright Clifford Odets in charge of scripts for its ambitious anthology series in a programming package headed by Richard Boone. It already is proudly listing some of the writers of regulations it has persuaded to contribute original material.

Recently ABC announced it had signed Leonard Stern, a writer with a formidable reputation in the comedy area, to develop some shows. The old way was to sign comedians, then look for suitable material.

Rod Serling, one of television's most talented writers, presided over the destinies of CBS' excellent Twilight Zone and over the last couple of seasons.

Perhaps Reginald Rose, who created The Defenders and is script editor of the series, is the perfect example of the importance of a good writer to a production. The Defenders has long-running series that easily has had a purpose and a lively point of view.

On another side of the entertainment street has been Carl Reiner, creating and writing The Dick Van Dyke Show, which for two seasons so easily could have become routine junk.

During the last season, television's greatest shortage has been in the area of stimulating, vital dramatic offerings.

"THE SKY ABOVE — THE MUD BELOW"

IN COLOR

Strange are the ways of man's development. In the far reaches of the North Pole a society of Eskimos, once considered primitive and savage before revealed to the civilized world, practise a custom of offering wives to guests as a gesture of hospitality. And today, it is discovered through a remarkable filmed adventure, "The Sky Above — The Mud Below," on the last unexplored region of the earth, a Stone Age society of cannibals and headhunters carry out this very same custom. A Joseph E. Levine presentation, this unusual film, winner of the Academy-Award, now showing in color and wide screen at the Park Theatre.

During their 1000 mile trek into uncharted Dutch New Guinea, the seven white explorers, who lived every foot of this amazing film, spent a number of weeks with a tribe of headhunters, peaceful because prior to their visit a neighboring tribe was attacked and 72 heads taken. It wasn't long before the native families began to adopt the explorers and as part of their welcome offered their wives as a sign of affection. To refuse this gesture would be an insult, resulting in another trophy for the tribe.

On the same program an exotic love story photographed in color in the state of Sinaloa, Mexico, "Beyond All Limits," starring Jack Palance, Maria Felix and Pedro Armendariz. Complete shows are at 7.00 and 8.50 p.m. for these first Belleville showing attractions.

Bisons Edge Leafs 3-2, Wings Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Columbus Jets undoubtedly are looking forward to a change of fortunes in the Central Hockey League.

The Ohio city has been the astrous May that has seen them lose 21 of 27 games, including last 11 in a row.

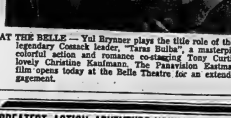
The Jets had not exactly been living up to their pennant prior to the May tailspin, but they find themselves today 15½ games behind the first place Central League race. They dropped only one - half game Tuesday night as years-old Atlanta and Richmond were rained out.

A pair of two-run homers—by Ray Youngdahl and Sam Bowens — provided Rochester with the margin of a 4-2 victory over Columbus. Buffalo, leader in the Northern Division, had to come from behind to down Toronto 3-2. Indianapolis ended Syracuse's seven-game winning streak 5-3 and Arkansas held on to beat Jacksonville 6-3.

Jim Harrelson stopped Columbus cold as he relieved starter - winner Ed Hobaugh with the bags loaded in the seventh and struck out three Jet batters. Tom Butters hurled a five-hitter for the Bisons, but they included the two homers that spelled the difference.

RED 3 RUNS

Don Buford paced the Indians' attack on four Syracuse hurlers with a homer and two doubles. Mike Joyce spaced six Chief hits over the first seven innings but he had to have help from Warren Hacker in the eighth.



Buffalo's Carl Mathias gave up a homer to Ted Kazanski in the first, but then held Toronto in check on six safeties. The Bisons got the winning run on a single by Dick Smith who stole second and came in on Pompeii Green's single.

A three-run homer by Lee Ella started Arkansas on the way to victory over the Suns. However, a pair of insurance runs in the third inning proved handy when Willie Tasby ignited two Jacksonville rallies with two doubles. The efforts fell short, however.

AT THE BELLE — Yul Brynner plays the title role of the lusty legendary Cossack leader, "Taras Bulba", a masterpiece of colorful action and romance co-starring Tony Curtis and Christine Kaufmann. The Panavision Eastmancolor film opens today at the Belle Theatre for an extended engagement.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Compressed air has been used in an experiment aimed at preventing the death of sports fish in small, sheltered lakes during severe winters. It appears to have been successful.

The winter killing occurs because of lack of oxygen for the fish during the period when the water is frozen over.

Dr. Thomas G. Northcote of the University of British Columbia's institute of fisheries directed the experiment at Corbett Lake, moderately shallow and sheltered from the wind, 50 miles from Kamloops, B.C.

Compressed air was pumped into the lake and the oxygen level was raised eight or nine parts per million prior to the winter freeze-up. The air circulated the water and the oxygen was distributed.

The experiment, conducted last winter, indicates that thousands of fish that are ordinarily killed during a cold winter can be saved.

In 1961 thousands of trout died in Corbett Lake during the cold weather and by spring the entire population was dead. This spring it was found there was no winter kill.

SAVES MONEY

The use of compressed air is required only in sheltered lakes. In unsheltered waters the autumn winds circulate the water and this distributes the oxygen.

Dr. Northcote says the cost of aerating the fish in sheltered lakes is about one-half to one-third the cost of restocking each year with "catchable size" fish.

He explains that after a severe winter such a lake must be restocked with trout of sufficient size to be caught the same year—since the fry would not survive another winter.

Dr. Northcote and his associates last fall set up a compressor at Corbett and for three weeks pumped air through a one-inch plastic pipe which was laid in a circle 2,400 feet in circumference.

The pipe was suspended from rafts about 40 feet below the surface and the air escaped through small holes at 12-inch intervals.

The cost is estimated at $500 or less.

Some sections of the United States have the same problems. The states of Wisconsin and Michigan overcame the problem by keeping air bubbling in a lake all winter to prevent formation of ice.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

A few years ago the musical Damn Yankees hit Broadway with a tuneful ditty about the New York ball club. The lyrics included a line saying "you've gotta have heart."

Jockey Ron Turcotte knows the song—appropriately called Heart—and says it might apply to the world champion Yankees but, in his case, he'd change the line to read: You've gotta have luck." And, he'd add: "and Pat Remillard."

Ron is a snub-nosed, friendly little guy of 22 from Grand Falls, N.B. Three years ago he left the family farm, eight brothers, three sisters and his parents for Toronto with $100 in his pockets. He arrived with $60, and no prospects of a job.

He had never seen a race-horse, except on television. And he had never ridden anything more frisky than a workhorse on his dad's farm.

Today, Turcotte is Canada's leading jockey with a healthy bank account—he calls it a "trust fund"—in the thousands. More is piling up just about every racing day in Ontario.

EXERCISES MOUNTS

Turcotte talked of his amazing career the other morning over a coffee in the backstretch restaurant at Greenwood Race-track in east-central Toronto. He had just finished exercising horses, a chore he does every morning for $70 a week. It pays peanuts compared with the money he gets in the afternoons when he puts on the riding silks.

One day, while watching a horse race on television in his uncle's home, a friend suggested that Ron might think of becoming a jockey. He had the physical equipment—five feet tall and about 98 pounds—but nothing else.

The horses were running at New Woodbine track at the time and Ron decided to give it a whirl. The track is 25 miles northwest from downtown Toronto, owned by Jockey Club Chairman E. P. Taylor. "I walked horses from May to August in 1960 and in September I started exercising horses."

The following year he was an apprentice jockey. His first race was in June and his mount finished fifth. He didn't have a winner all season.

He broke his maiden on April 9, 1962, at the Fort Erie, Ont. track aboard a horse called Pheasant Ring. It paid nine dollars and change as he recalls and from that day on the little man from the Maritimes had it made.

Throughout the 196-day Ontario season he had numerous four- and five-winner afternoons and when the campaign closed in November he was Canada's leading jockey with 181 winners. With the usual 10-per-cent fee of the purses, it was estimated he had won up to $30,000.

"I'm just lucky, and Pat Remillard ras been good to me," he says.

Remillard had been good to early. Pat, North America's oldest active jockey at 57, took a shine to the youngster and gave him a few pointers although he now says "I didn't do too much for the kid."

"Why, he's a natural, determined rider. I just noticed that he was using the whip too much, that he was over-anxious and taught the only way to win was to whip his mount.

"I told him if he didn't quit, the stewards would take the whip away from him. Now, he's not using it as much and he's winning races. I think he's terrific."

The bettors around Ontario tracks are inclined to agree. So far this season he has won more than 60 races and is well on his way to his second consecutive leading-jockey title.

He still lives at his uncle's home, and he's saving his money. He gets to bed at nine o'clock, is up at 6 a.m. and out at the track before 7 a.m. exercising horses.

Success hasn't spoiled Ron Turcotte. He's made only one big change in his way of life since the horses started winning for him. Hitchhiking to the track is out; he now drives his own car.

'Cookie' Not Clubbed Police Say

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A policeman denied Tuesday that football star Chester (Cookie) Gilchrist was clubbed by police after his [illegible] on traffic charges. Gilchrist is accused of flooring the policeman with a punch.

Seven charges were filed against Gilchrist after his arrest May 14.

His trial opened in city court Tuesday on three of the charges: resisting a policeman, creating a disturbance and using profanity.

Gilchrist, a fullback for Buffalo Bills, was the American Football League's most valuable player last year. He came to the Bills in 1962 from Toronto Argonauts, after a brilliant but turbulent eight-year career in Canadian football.

RETIREMENT HOMES

1— Neat, trim, immaculate, on the edge of a wilderness lake, with all the charm of pioneering days, leaving the picture type of home with its gables, its high winding paths and flower beds. Three bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen with eating area, fully equipped kitchen — they'll take the stove and fridge, but offer the groceries — the coffee pot is here, the large pantry, the walk-in freezer — it's the prettiest thing you ever did see.

2 — Terrific summer business. 12 cabins, large cooler shop with dining room capacity for 60 people, 20 person picnic area, and the picturesque inland lake you ever saw — resort trade established over 11 years, back. Owner in hospital, must sell. Price for the whole business complete inventory. Down payment $15,000.00. Balance over 10 years. Let's look at the back door — trout at the front.

3 — The 1,700 acres is now a beef cattle farm, but there are still 2 miles of virgin shoreline in untouched state. Ideal for a ranch and/or development area. A complete package for $100,000.00. Terms. Why not talk about a club purchase? $20 per acre. Why not?

4 — New establishment on a 150 year old house set in 2 acres of lawn and shade trees. No competition within 20 miles. Ideal for a newly married tourist road. Grocery, lunch counter, gas pumps. Only $15,000.00 with terms. Or — new 2 bedroom apartment — new home for owner. Or — 2 new cabins and an equal home, $6000 down, good price in terms. — and you are now in business at once. Veteran of 2 wars, and I'm tired. Make me sell and must retire. Financing available.

5 — We offer a completely private lake, for about 6 acres! Log cottage sites thereon — and don't forget accessible — and less than $4,500.

6 — Famous Toronto surgeon gives up practice, moves to country, and finds immediately ready-made modern — a gift! — 100 acres of farm, 2 miles from village, 2 acres of forest surround this house of peace and quiet — 4 finished cottages — everything 5 acre except 100 acres — all of 100 meadow and 100 bush. This is priced far under reality. $15 hrs. from Ottawa.

'Old Sweat' as a Youth Found Adventure in Stocks

By GREG MacDONALD

TORONTO (CP)—On Nov. 29, 1916, a group of volunteers from the Liverpool Scottish Regiment conducted a raid on a strong hold known as "Kaiser Bill" along the German line near Ypres, France.

An excerpt from the regiment's official history says:

"One of the volunteers for the raid, Private Raltray, was found to be under age and on that account was told by the commanding officer that he could not be allowed to take part in it. He was bitterly disappointed and, boylike, burst into tears.

"During the raid, however he miraculously turned up in the German trenches and had the satisfaction of bringing back a fine large prisoner who, when Raltray fell headlong into a shell-hole in no-man's-land, politely helped him to his feet and handed him his rifle."

That was the first episode in John Scott Raltray's search for adventure. In later years he sought excitement as an oilfield worker in Alberta, a prospector, fish merchant in Manitoba and a miner in the north.

For more than 30 years he has found excitement of a different kind in the financial district of the Toronto Stock Exchange. And on May 31, when he retires at 65 as director of research and statistics, it will be simply the end of one more chapter in his kaleidoscopic career.

JOINS BROKER

For on June 1 he joins the Toronto brokerage firm of Evans, Jenkins and Company as a director.

"This fellow is not ready to be put in the pasture yet," he says of himself.

A short, stocky former newspaper man, Mr. Raltray became known on Bay Street as Mr. Statistic during his years as the exchange's chief statistician. Until 1961 he was also its public relations officer.

Young reporters were likely to be terrified at the prospect of their first meeting with Mr. Raltray but they soon realized that there was much more to him than a gruff exterior.

He would painstakingly explain to the newcomer the intricate workings of one of the world's largest market places. And he would often help out the green reporter by writing the weekly roundup on market activities that was handed to the editor under the cub's own byline.

Jack Raltray was born in Duncee, Scotland, in 1898. His early formal education consisted of primary school and a year at a private boys' school in Westmorland, near Dundee.

At 16 he ran away "with several other chaps full of romantic notions about adventure." He joined the Liverpool Scottish Regiment and was promptly shipped to France.

BECAME OFFICER

"After that episode with the raid I guess they figured I was soldier enough to remain in the army," he says.

In 1918 he was promoted to sergeant and recommended for the Royal Flying Corps. He was accepted as a cadet but saw no action and was discharged in 1919 as a 2nd lieutenant.

He spent some time working in Alberta's Turner Valley oil fields and then went prospecting near Great Slave Lake. He spent a winter as an ice fisherman on Lake Winnipegosis before journeying in 1924 to Texas where he became a rigger in the Ranger oil fields. The following year he was in Mexico mining silver.

In 1926 he began his newspaper career, first in Dallas-Fort Worth and then in New Orleans and Chicago.

He arrived in Toronto early in 1927 "flat broker" and got a job helping construct streetcar tracks. In 1928 he joined the Toronto branch of the Financial Times of Canada and a year later became bureau editor.

In 1931 in the depths of the Depression" the Toronto Stock Exchange offered him a job as its first statistician. He joined the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange and the Toronto Stock Exchange merged and Mr. Raltray was appointed director of statistics.

In 1941 he joined the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps with the rank of captain. He saw service in England, France and Germany and in 1943 became a major.

8th Tyendinaga

8TH TYENDINAGA — Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Coulter and twin boys spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S Coulter.

Mr. and Mrs. S Cross and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cross spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Boyle and family, of Massaga.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Cross attended the christening of their grandson, Jeffrey Thomas Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Lewis at Christ Church, Belleville, at 4 o'clock followed by a christening tea for the friends of the families at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. T. Lewis Sr., Rednerswille Road, Belleville.

St. Andrew's young people met Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Cross with a good attendance. After the business meeting, a sociable half hour was spent together. The hostess served lunch.

WELLINGTON

Cubs, Scouts Receive Their Flag Carriers

WELLINGTON — On May 24 about 60 Cubs and Scouts marched from the town hall to the Legion hall, where they were presented with their flag carriers by Branch 160, Canadian Legion.

Mr. Lane, Cubmaster, showed a film, "That They May Live." This film was produced by a former Wellington boy, David Adams son of the Rev. and Mrs Harold Adams, living in Santa Monica, Calif. It was a splendid film on Direct Artificial Respiration which will enjoyed by all.

Mr. Scotty Broughton of Branch 100, called the color party of both the Scouts and Cubs and presented them with their carriers. Mr. Broughton having been in Scouting for years, gave the boys an interesting talk.

On behalf of the Cubs and Scouts, Ken Lane thanked Mr. Broughton and the Legion. Later, the boys were served lunch.

Hell-Fire Preaching Days Said Over

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—Rt. Rev. James R. Mutchmor, moderator of the United Church of Canada, says he feels the days of "hell - fire preaching" are past, but new emphasis on evangelism is needed.

Speaking at the opening service of the 29th annual meeting of the Church's Hamilton conference Monday night, Dr. Mutchmor said:

"It is not easy for this affluent society to repent. We are dealing with a population of the Pa — production, population, power, pride and paganism."

The church must present a relevant message, he said, and one of warmth and depth to appeal to man today.

Dr. Mutchmor said the Christian church is making progress on many fronts, particularly in the growth of understanding between the various families of the church. Two congregations, one United and the other Roman Catholic, recently worshipped together in Quebec, something Dr. Mutchmor said was never happened before.

"We should pray for the Pope in his present illness," he said. "If God spares His Holiness, he will give great leadership to his people."

About 300 delegates are attending the sessions from the more than 200 pastoral charges in the conference. Its territory covers an area from Fort Erie to Sudbury.

Go Cart Racing Is Fun But It Can Be Bit Scary

Go carts are fun! An Ontario Intelligencer reporter made this outstanding discovery last weekend. A few million other people including some minor kings and queens, have come to the same conclusion during the past five years.

The reporter's discovery was made at Speedway Parkland, near Shannonville, where Dick Burrowes of Belleville has a track he describes as "the only paved go-cart track for fifty miles around." The one-third mile circuit is laid out like a sports car road-racing track.

Go carts are well known now. Essentially, they consist of a tubular chassis slung about two inches above the road, four wheels, a lawn mower engine, and very little else. The novice climbs in, has the brake and accelerator pedals pointed out, and is pushed onto the track, to join the pack.

The first thing you notice is the steering. It's fast, and most novices have trouble holding the cart straight into the first corner—a hairpin left turn. On the first circuit, the car is going less than ten miles per hour by this time, and there is no trouble. There's no trouble either, with the series of left and right hairpin-turns that follow.

But if the gas had been held to the floor, where it usually is on a go-cart, the next turn can be a bit scary.

There is a straight stretch about fifty feet long, then a hairpin left turn to be taken at about 20 miles-per-hour. The cart sides a bit on the turn, but a good driver has no trouble keeping it on the track. After this turn—you're away—more than a hundred yards with just two gentle turns and the cart begins to build up speed.

FEELS LIKE SOUND BARRIER

Speed is a funny thing on a go-cart. Sitting within inches of the track, you're liable to feel like the sound barrier is behind you and the next bump will put you in orbit. On the other hand, you don't believe you can be going as fast as you are. In actual fact, if you have kept feeding the gas, you are doing about 20 miles-per-hour as you head into the first hairpin again.

It is then the more daring drivers make a disconcerting discovery. The brakes on go-carts are not very good, and if you have waited too long to apply them, it is just too bad. The carts can take the hairpin at full speed but only if the driver knows the track and the correct "slot" in which to make the approach. Most people who lean on the gas for the first circuit find themselves sliding sideways through the surrounding countryside.

It is almost impossible to dump a go-cart, however, and when you regain control, you just head back for the track. If you have been racing somebody, you will find they have gained half the length of the circuit on you—but there is no other damage done.

MUST KNOW TRACK

Once you know the track, the real fun starts. The fantastic stability of the carts, and the frightening speed, are exhilarating once you have gained faith in them. The track record is just over 19 seconds for the one-third mile - held by a special racing cart powered by two ten horsepower motors - and even the three-horsepower rental carts can make it in less than a minute, once the driver knows how to take the corners without losing speed.

There's the rub. If you have rented the cart, you have spent fifty cents on the first four circuits, and they go fast. Most people, after they know what they are in for, buy at least eight circuits at a time - and they still don't seem to have enough. There is always one cart you have not passed yet and you're sure you could take him in a couple more circuits but the time is up. The only thing you can do is buy more time - if somebody else has not already booked your cart. Usually, someone else has.

The boom in go-carts over the past five years appears to have rounded off now. It could not do much else after kings and playboys took up the sport begun by ordinary suburbanites. But the sport is not slowing down, it is just dropped out of the public eye. For millions of enthusiasts all over the world, the little burners are still more fun than a barrel of monkeys.

Minister Sells 58 Head Of Holsteins

The average price of $1,563 a head was the second highest in the sale's 43-year history, topped only by $1,790 in 1961.

Cattle were sold to buyers from the United States, Mexico, Puerto Rico and Italy.

Top price of $9,000 was paid by R. R. Dennis of Oak Ridges, north of Toronto, for Stewart-haven Inka Reflection, a two-year-old bull owned by Fred Stewart of St. Catharines.

Mr. Dennis also bought the top female, a heifer calf from C. T. Desilpse and Sons, Amherstburg, Ont., for $5,200, and the top heifer calf at $3,300 from Billit Farms, Evans City, Pa.

Roy Ormiston of Brooklin, Ont., near Oshawa, sold a bred heifer to Dr. W. D. Travis, Evans City, Pa., for $4,100 and A. G. Walwyn, Kleinburg, Ont., paid $3,950 to J. E. Houck and Sons, Brampton, for an Excellent cow.

Edydale Farms, Kitchener, received $3,000 from C. M. Bottma, Bridgeport, Ind., for a bred heifer.

At the sale's opening, Mr. Hays said he was going to continue auctioneering on a limited scale for the livestock breeders of Canada.

He said:

"As I do not feel there is a conflict of interest I am going to continue to sell a very few of the more important sales when they do not interfere with my responsibilities as minister for agriculture."

"The fact which I do accept will be sold with the understanding that my commission will be turned over to the association responsible for the care of retarded children."

Changed Cars While Moving

OSHAWA (CP)—Two Oshawa teen-agers who drove their cars three feet apart at 38 miles an hour April 17 while a passenger crawled through the window of one car into the other were convicted Monday of careless driving and each fined $100.

Gordon Dennis Meek and Wayne G. Henderson, both 18, also had their licences suspended for one year.

Magistrate F. S. Ebbs said he was surprised that the passenger, David Moore, also of Oshawa, made the transfer without injury.

DISMISS PROFESSOR

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A clinical psychology professor at Harvard University has been dismissed for testing on students an experimental drug obtained from mushrooms which causes hallucinations, the Harvard Crimson said today. The professor, Richard Alpert, violated an agreement among experimenters that the tests would not be given undergraduates without university permission, the student daily newspaper said. Harvard President Nathan M. Pusey confirmed the dismissal, the Crimson said.

Demoted Chief Is Reinstated At Orillia

ORILLIA (CP)—R. W. McIntyre, 56, demoted from chief to deputy chief of the Orillia police department little more than a month ago, was reinstated as chief Monday night.

The chief had been demoted after he wrote a letter to the police commission April 22 requesting the reduction to allow a younger man to take over.

Mr. McIntyre wrote another letter last week saying the earlier letter was written under pressure from the police commission, and said he would not relinquish his chief's position.

The April 22 letter was submitted by the chief through an "unfortunate misunderstanding," the commission said in a statement.

U.S. Curbs Hampering Shipments Of Canadian Medical Aid to Cuba

MONTREAL (CP) — An official of a Canadian drug company says that his firm is experiencing difficulties in shipping medical supplies to Cuba because of United States' restrictions on shipments to that country.

The statement was made at the annual meeting of the Canadian Nuclear Association by Dr. J. R. Jamieson, head of a section of Charles E. Frosst and Company which exports radioisotopes for the diagnosis and treatment of diseases.

"Shipments to Cuba present a problem because there is only a non-scheduled flight from Toronto to Havana and routing by way of the United States if forbidden," he said.

"As a result our shipments must go to Mexico City for transfer to Air Cubana which is scheduled from there to Havana. It is difficult to learn the fate of these shipments because of an import export bureaucracy with which we must deal.

"We never hear from the poor doctor who depends on this source of supply. We can only assume from the silence that we are succeeding in assisting him."

Dr. Jamieson said some of the radioisotopes shipped to Cuba probably are worthless by the time they arrive if any customs delays take place in Mexico City, since many have a useful life of only a few days.

Big Federal Budget Deficit Appears Certain

Estimates Tabled By the Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Another big federal budget deficit appears certain in the light of the record-high spending program of new Liberal government.

Spending estimates totalling $6,545,504,515 for the current fiscal year begun April 1—more than $500,000,000 higher than last years—were presented in the Commons Wednesday by Finance Minister Walter Gordon.

He offered hope that some trimming may be done on this basic spending total, most of which was prepared by the former Progressive Conservative government.

But unforseen costs as the year progresses, plus implementation of the government's planned legislative measures, will add many millions to the outlays that Mr. Gordon must consider when he presents his 1963-64 budget speech, expected in mid-June.

EXPECT INCENTIVES

A $370,000,000 deficit for 1962-63 was forecast last Oct. 22 by Mr. Gordon's Conservative predecessor, George Nowlan. Mr. Gordon's aim, he said, is eventual goal is a balanced budget, though not necessarily in one or two years. He and it is anticipated his next budget will contain many industrial tax incentives that will affect revenues.

So-called uncontrollable costs such as defence, insurance and other welfare measures, public debt charges and shipbuilding subsidies, together with pay raises for government employees, were mainly behind the 5.1-per-cent rise in the spending estimates.

The estimates compare with $6,229,169,134 in 1962-63 estimates presented to the last Parliament but never approved.

A forecast $755,000,000 in old age pension payments, which aren't included in Wednesday's budgetary estimates, would push total spending to $7,300,504,515. Last year's comparable total was $6,964,524,470.

DEBATE LATER

It likely will, be some time before the Commons gets around to debate on the full spending program. Already some $350,000,000 of it has been allocated under special governor - general's warrants for April and May.

Friday the government will ask Parliament for interim supply money vote to cover June and July bills, pending approval of the complete budget.

The great bulk of the new spending program was prepared by the previous Conservative government left office. Mr. Gordon reserved the right to reduce the appropriations before seeking Parliament's approval of them.

An economy study by the cabinet's treasury board would take "some months to complete," he said.

Mr. Nowlan, commenting in the Commons after Mr. Gordon

Over 500 Die in Cyclone In East Pakistan

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (Reuters)—More than 500 persons were killed in a 15-hour cyclone that devastated the Chittagong area on the bay of Bengal Wednesday, the National Assembly was told here today.

Communications Minister Khan Sabur Khan said the city of Chittagong was under five feet of water.

President Mohammed Ayub Khan announced a relief grant of 1,000,000 rupees ($210,000).

The house agreed to adjourn for a week to allow members to assess the flood damage in their own constituencies.

U.S. Ambassador Walter McConaughy announced donation of a cheque for $10,000 from the United States government.

The governor of East Pakistan said the scene in the area of Cox's Bazaar, 80 miles south of Chittagong, and many offshore islands struck by the season's first cyclone were still cut off and there was no way of knowing the exact extent of damage.

The governor said one seaside resort and many offshore islands struck by the season's first cyclone still were cut off and there was no way of knowing the exact extent of damage.

The East Pakistan government immediately sanctioned 200,000 rupees ($42,000) for immediate relief.

The governor, Abdul Monem Khan, said 85 per cent of the mud-and-cane houses in which thousands of persons lived were destroyed or damaged.

Khan spoke to reporters after returning from a three-hour flying visit to Chittagong on the Bay of Bengal.

Khan said damage might "far exceed" that of the 1961 cyclone and tidal wave in which about 900,000 homes were damaged or destroyed. The death toll then was more than 14,000.

SIU Port Agent Shot in Back At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Rod Heisnekey, Vancouver port agent of the Seafarers International Union (Ind.), was shot in the back early today by a shotgun.

He was treated in hospital for minor wounds and released.

Police in neighboring Burnaby said Heisnekey left his home around midnight to put his car in the carport. He saw the silhouette of a man raising the gun behind the car and slumped down behind the seat.

The gunman fired through the back window, shattering the glass. Some pellets penetrated the seat and wounded the port agent.

Police said the gunman apparently hid in some bushes.

DEFENCE POLICY COMMITTEE TO BE SET UP

Heated Debate Is Expected

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons takes the first step today to see what Liberal and Conservative governments in the past said cannot be done—create a committee to discuss defence policy.

Defence committees until now have been limited to reviewing expenditures. The previous government heeded by John Diefenbaker and the former Liberal government of Louis St. Laurent both objected to committees dealing with policy, saying it can be decided only by the cabinet and then submitted to Parliament for approval.

Wednesday, the Commons finished its eight - day throne speech debate without any further test of strength for the minority Liberal government. Earlier in the debate the government survived two non-confidence motions.

The opposition parties settled for a voice vote on the government's motion for an address in reply to the throne speech that opened the session May 16.

IS 'ON DIVISION'

Speaker Alan Macnaughton declared the outcome in favor of the government but Conservative House Leader Gordon Churchill called "on division" to remove any suggestion of unanimity.

The motion to set up the defence committee which the Commons will discuss today fulfills a promise made by Prime Minister Pearson during the election campaign. Unless parliamentary rules are strictly observed, the debate could be a fast-moving one with frequent acquisition of nuclear warheads and other controversial points of defence policy.

Reliable sources said on the eve of the debate that the government is prepared to adopt one opposition suggestion for a change in the makeup of the committee. The change would increase the committee membership to 18 from 16, thus giving the smaller parties larger representation.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

WEDNESDAY, May 29, 1963

Record spending estimates of $6,545,504,515 were tabled by Finance Minister Gordon in main and supplementary reports for 1963-64.

Justice Minister Chevrier said he will make a fresh review of federal law to see if rising sugar prices can be rolled back.

The Commons, in a voice vote, gave its backing to the government motion for an address in reply to the throne speech—a confidence issue.

Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur) said the April 8 election proved that all four Canadian political parties are failures.

Estimates — Highlights

OTTAWA (CP)—Highlights of the combined main and supplementary 1963-64 spending estimates tabled in the Commons:

Overall amount may be scaled down as a result of a study of possible economies in government organization and programs.

Cost of old age pensions—not included in budgetary outlays—rises to $755,000,000 from $735,355,368.

Rail subsidies continued: $58,000,000 for third consecutive year pending legislation based on MacPherson royal commission report; $29,000,000 rail-back on 1958 freight rate increase.

Defence budget up $38,083,363 to $1,628,833,538, due almost entirely to recent armed forces pay increase.

Debt charges up $32,827,600 to $881,008,900.

Another $55,000,000 sought, if necessary, for unemployment insurance fund.

Federal carrying costs on temporary wheat reserves up by $13,542,000 to $47,524,000.

Payments to provinces drop to $216,581,000 from 234,368,000 under new fiscal tax arrangements.

Spy Scandal Rocks Moscow Anew, Marshal Demoted

MOSCOW (AP)—The scandal of a Western spy in the Soviet secret archives broke anew today with the demotion of a former artillery marshal and new attacks on the British and U.S. embassies.

Sergey Sergeevich Varentsov, 62, Soviet marshal of artillery until 1961, was reduced in rank for having opposed separation of executed former Gen. Oleg Penkovsky from the army and for pushing his son into a job in the state committee on coordination of scientific research.

From that committee, it was testified in a trial early this month, Penkovsky passed on 5,000 photographs of secret documents to British and U.S. intelligence. For that crime Penkovsky was shot May 16.

A British businessman, Greville Wynne, 44, was sentenced to eight years' confinement for helping deliver the espionage material.

The announcement of punishment for those involved one way or another with Penkovsky was in Monday's Communist news paper Izvestia in an interview with the prosecutor at the trial. The prosecutor, Lt.-Gen. Artem Gorny, said the marshal was reduced in rank and Maj.-Gen. A. Fesenyn, Col. V. Bushnov and others were demoted and punished. The nature of the punishment and demotion was not given.

Western embassies, particularly British and U.S., were ac-

So far, he has had a measure of success in uniting the various groups supporting the separatist cause, but he said in an interview that it is being hurt by the activities of an underground terrorist organization operating in Montreal.

His long-range aim is to fight the next provincial election—probably in 1966—on the issue of secession, with a party candidate in each 95 of the province's ridings.

PONTIFF SPENDS GOOD NIGHT, LOTS OF REST

May Leave Bed In Ten Days

CP from AP-Reuters

VATICAN CITY — The Vatican today reported further improvement in the condition of Pope John and said his hemorrhages had ceased for the present.

A communique, although carefully worded, emphasized a new optimism at the Vatican concerning the 81-year-old Roman Catholic ruler, who had been near death 48 hours previously.

The communique said treatment of hemorrhages, provoked by a stomach tumor, had produced good results "thanks to the strong fibre of the aged patient."

Pope John had two medical examinations today: His usual one at 8:30 a.m. by his Rome physician, Dr. Piero Mazzoni, and a second one by his main personal physician, Dr. Antonio Gasbarrini, who lives in Bologna.

Gasbarrini was summoned urgently Sunday but packed his bags to return home today. The Vatican said his visit to the Pope was a farewell one.

Before seeing the Pope, Gasbarrini said the Pontiff's constitution of iron joined with his will of iron are a good sign."

Gasbarrini said he and Mazzoni and the Pope's surgeon, Pietro Valdoni, "believe the Pope will rally."

BLEEDING STOPS

The Vatican's noon communique, following a morning statement that the Pope had "an excellent night with perfect rest," said:

"Further signs of improvement ascertained yesterday (Wednesday) and which are steadily being consolidated were noted at 8:30 a.m. in the daily visit. The hemorrhages which in the previous days caused concern have now ceased.

"The substitute therapy, thanks to the strong fibres of the august patient, has produced good results, and the general condition has indicated a market rally."

Gasbarrini said the Pope was in good humor and serene and that there had been no hemorrhages since Wednesday.

Mass was celebrated in the study adjoining his bedroom at Vatican Palace and the Pope received communion this morning.

One of his doctors said Wed-

Fund To Be Used For Broad Attack On Joblessness

— Pearson

$400 Million Ready For Municipalities

TORONTO (CP)—The federal government's $400,000,000 municipal development and loan fund will be used for a broad, frontal attack on unemployment.

Prime Minister Pearson told 900 delegates to a municipal convention here Wednesday night he hopes the fund's resources will be taken up quickly, and that the fund should be operating within a few weeks.

The fund will be used by the federal government to buy municipal debentures for local public works projects approved by the provinces. Without specifying interest rates, Mr. Pearson said the federal government will be generous, even to the extent of foregoing some repayment of principal if the municipal projects are completely socially.

Mr. Pearson did not spell out details since legislation is only in its preliminary stage in the House of Commons. It was understood, however, that an attempt will be made to emphasize projects that can be undertaken quickly and which will consume a relatively high volume of manual labor.

TO SPARK ECONOMY

Long-range development projects calling more than the brawn will be treated less favorably. It is to be a spark for employment, as a means of putting new life into the Canadian economy.

Mr. Pearson was cheered and applauded by the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities when he mentioned the sum of $400,000,000, although the amount was previously announced. He was welcomed by the Ontario municipal leaders when he urged them virtually to "come and get it."

"An important part of our objective is to encourage immediate increases in employment," he said.

Tempered we hope that municipalities will begin to take advantage of the program in the next few months so that there will be as many new jobs as possible this winter. I hope you are getting your additional projects ready. We will be as anxious as you that they should move off smartly. Parliament gives the green light."

Mr. Pearson said the new fund would be an additional source of municipal financing. It is not to compete with or replace existing sources of finance.

Moreover, it will work within the constitutional concept that the municipalities are creatures of the provinces.

"It is the provinces, not the federal government, which must be the municipalities do, or do not do. What we are prepared to extend to municipalities is specific projects will be—and can only be—part of the provincial government has approved of the project and approved of the

'Caddy' Pops up for Picture Old Believer Sees Sea Lions

VICTORIA (CP)—Cadborosaurus has reared his ugly head again, gaining one disciple but losing another.

Says Nettie Ross of Brandon, Man., who photographed something "unbelievable" while visiting at Mill Bay, Vancouver Island:

"I saw this thing in the water and I rushed down with my camera. I'm sure it was the 'caddy' we have read about."

Cadborosaurus the serpent, or "caddy," has been turning up in Vancouver Island waters for about 40 years or more.

But Harry Gilbert, Brent-

wood Bay boat owner who reported seeing the serpent 25 years ago, took a look at Miss Ross' picture and said he believes caddy is there but a number of sea lions practising togetherness.

"I was equally convinced about 25 years ago that I had seen caddy," he said. "Now, I'm inclined to believe that everything seen is sea lions."

Photographers who studied Miss Ross' picture through strong glasses said there appeared to be a nose, eye and tongue visible on a horse-like head. The complexion appeared to resemble that of an alligator.

TO SPARK ECONOMY

Long-range development projects calling more than the brawn will be treated less favorably. It is to be a spark for employment, as a means of putting new life into the Canadian economy.

Mr. Pearson was cheered and applauded by the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities when he mentioned the sum of $400,000,000, although the amount was previously announced. He was welcomed by the Ontario municipal leaders when he urged them virtually to "come and get it."

"An important part of our objective is to encourage immediate increases in employment," he said.

Tempered we hope that municipalities will begin to take advantage of the program in the next few months so that there will be as many new jobs as possible this winter. I hope you are getting your additional projects ready. We will be as anxious as you that they should move off smartly. Parliament gives the green light."

Mr. Pearson said the new fund would be an additional source of municipal financing. It is not to compete with or replace existing sources of finance.

Moreover, it will work within the constitutional concept that the municipalities are creatures of the provinces.

"It is the provinces, not the federal government, which must be the municipalities do, or do not do. What we are prepared to extend to municipalities is specific projects will be—and can only be—part of the provincial government has approved of the project and approved of the

Two Americans Plead Guilty To Bank Holdup

COOSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Two Americans pleaded guilty in court Wednesday to robbing a bank here Monday and kidnapping two bank tellers as hostages.

Melvin G. Brown, 33, of Houston, Tex., and Donald Colham, 33, of Tacoma, Wash., were remanded in custody for sentence June 12. Hearing on a charge of attempted murder against both men was also remanded to the same date.

Police said $9,729 taken in the armed robbery was recovered in the two men, who escaped in a stolen police cruiser, were arrested after a nine-mile running gun battle.

Toronto Township Detective George Wilson said Patrol Sgt. Bruce Gardiner, 43, was wounded twice in the arm as the gunmen led tellers Patrick Daly-Graham, 21, of Cookville and Harry Johnston, 20, of Burlington out of the bank.

He said Sgt. Gardiner fired five shots, despite his wounds, when the bandits opened fire on Sergeant Gardiner and they fled in a police cruiser.

Det. Wilson said a cruiser driven by Det. Douglas Burrows was riddled by nine bullets during the chase and one bullet struck Det. Wilson's cruiser.

CRUISER SKIDDED

Det. Burrows's cruiser skidded into a field when he rammed the bandits' car. He commandeered a car driven by Clayton Smith of Cookville and finally caught the bandits.

Cotham admitted that during the excitement of the chase he may have suggested shooting one of the hostages and dumping him out of the car to stop the pursuing police, but said he had no real intention of doing so.

"If we had, it would have been done," he said.

Magistrate H. T. G. Andrews said he was impressed at the calmness displayed by the witnesses and their courage under fire. Their actions showed a lot of their personal courage and sense of duty.

"It would be simple to sentence you to 15, 20 or 25 years," he told the two men. "But you have pleaded guilty to save me and I must be sure the sentence is just."

FINANCING LONGER

DETROIT (AP)—People who are buying new or used cars are financing them for taking longer to pa for them than they did in the last two years, General Motors Acceptance Corporation, one of the leading U.S. auto finance firms, said today. The average car buyer, who is buying on time, will be paying $886 a month for 36.2 months. This was an increase over the 31.2 average in 1961 and last year's 31.3.

Failure to Pay Fine and Costs Brings Rebuke

A Belleville man was sharply rebuked by Magistrate T. Y. Wills today for failing to meet the terms of an earlier fine.

Roy Ross McPhee was fined $34 costs and restitution April 4th on an assault charge. Today he was in court with a charge of breach of recognizance.

McPhee admitted having worked in the interim, and drawn four pay envelopes. However he said, he had taken his pay home to his wife and also finished work too late at night to appear at the court offices.

"That's about as feeble an excuse as one can hear," said the magistrate. "The main thing is you are more afraid of your wife than you are of the court. Is that it?"

"No, sir," McPhee answered.

"I will remand this until tomorrow morning and we will see what happens," concluded the magistrate.

Urge Study Of Legal Aid

TORONTO (CP)—The County of York law association recommended Wednesday night that a royal commission be set up to investigate the existing system of legal aid in Ontario.

The association's legal aid committee, which began a study of the problem three months ago, said in a report to the group's spring meeting that lawyers have a "duty to provide the best possible system of legal aid."

Should a royal commission find that the public would be best served by a different system, "we hope that the lawyers of this country will lend their support to the recommendations," the report said.

Property Bought For Liquor Store On Station St.

A new government liquor store is in the offing for Belleville.

An end to years of speculation was made early this afternoon by Elmer Sandercock, MLA for West Hastings.

Mr. Sandercock confirmed that the Liquor Control Board of Ontario had purchased three houses on the south side of Station Street, east of Church Street.

More details will be available shortly, but, said Mr. Sandercock, public construction phases may begin this summer.

The story will replace the present premises on Belleville's East Bridge Street, an LCBO location for many years.

Available site, Mr. Sandercock said, had been made difficult by the desire of the LCBO to build close to the downtown business area on a two-way street

Cancel Meeting Of Council With P.U. Commission

TRENTON — A meeting called for tonight between town council's finance committee and the public utilities commission, scheduled this morning by acting-mayor C. Grahl and Councillor Gerald Weaver, a member of the finance committee, is out of town.

The meeting had been arranged to allow the finance committee and the commission to discuss the commission's proposed 1963-64 budget. Last week, the commission went on record as opposed to a request by council that all surplus operating revenue be turned over to the town. The commission claims that this "surplus" has been used in the past to finance capital expenditures. The commission says that the Trenton taxpayer is saved money this way. If the practice is discontinued says the commission, the town will be asked to raise money by debenture to pay for needed utilities capital works. Councillor Weaver made the motion to ask the PUC for $39,000 to "meet expenses," itemized on a commission authority report. Councillor Ross Burtt seconded the motion. Now, the PUC says the $39,000 doesn't exist as cold, hard cash, but has already been spent to pay for capital works.

Meantime, council has asked for a meeting with chairman T. S. Ketcheson of the Trenton school board, the board's finance committee and the school board auditor. An educated guess is that the chief topic of discussion will be the use to which the board puts any surplus operating revenue.

RCAF Chapel Picnic Success

TRENTON — Sunny skies and a light breeze contributed to the success of the RCAF Station Trenton chapel congregational and Sunday School picnic at Cedardale last Saturday after. noon.

While many families brought picnic baskets and made a delong outing of the occasion, the small fry filled up on soft drinks and ice cream.

Prizes for the many races and competitive events were donated by Fox Cartage and Darling's stationery store.

U.S. ADVISERS KILLED

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Two U.S. special forces advisers were killed Wednesday in a Communist guerrilla ambush carried in mountainous Quang Ngai province, an American military spokesman said today. A total of 78 U.S. advisers have been killed in the South Viet Nam war.

Ratepayers to Ask Board To Postpone Annexation

TRENTON — Trenton Ratepayers' Association announced that it would appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board to delay the January 1, 1964, effective date of annexation of parts of Sidney and Murray townships until such time as many areas of the town have been adequately serviced with sanitary and storm sewers. The association claims that sewers are being sacrificed to the town's curbing and road reconstruction program.

The Association says the land to be annexed is slated for residential development only. The Association is concerned because none of the land has been earmarked for industrial development. The Association also asks that the town withdraw from the Lake Ontario Development Association as it claims that the LODA and the Trenton Chamber of Commerce duplicate each other's work. Cost to the town for LODA membership is approximately $900 and this year the Chamber of Commerce received a grant from the town of $1,000.

The Association asks further that assessment on land where sanitary sewers, storm sewers, sidewalks and water services are not provided, be lowered.

OBJECTS TO BOARD

The Association claims that the rights and privileges of property owners in town are being curtailed by the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board and says that many applications to build garages, sunporches and extra rooms in dwellings have been turned down because of zoning restrictions.

The Association asks that the Planning Board be required to purchase properties in the later sections of town, in cases when zoning by-laws prevent the owners from making required improvements to those properties. As an alternative, the Planning Board may be asked to pay 40 per cent of the taxes on such properties.

The Association would like to see the two-year term for mayor and town councillors reduced to one year. It claims that the council often does carry out the enactments of the previous council under duress.

These objections and suggestions were included in a letter addressed to Councillor Gerald Weaver, who acts as liaison between the Ratepayers' Association and the council.

Citizens' Band To Give Concert On Sunday

TRENTON — The newly-formed Citizens' Band, with Ted Snider of CJBQ as director, will make its first appearance at Bayshore Park, Sunday afternoon, June 9; starting time, 3 p.m.

Emcee will be Trenton's clerk-comptroller, O. W. Larry.

The band is made up of volunteers from the Trenton area. Last October the idea of a citizens' band was conceived and Mr. Snider went about contacting musicians he thought would be interested in giving up a few hours a week for practice. Instruments were gathered from all over town and an arrangement was made for the band to practice in the high school auditorium. Since using the auditorium involves "rental," this phase was got around by having band members considered high school students and as such, paying a nominal fee. Since then, donations have been received from service clubs, etc., and the money has been used to buy music.

Parish Priest Of St. Peter's Church Honored

TRENTON — This week, the Very Rev. Dean J. G. Clazey of St. Peter's Church in Trenton, marks the 40th anniversary of his ordination. Father Clazey came to Trenton in August, 1961 from the parish of St. Gregory the Great in Picton, where he was pastor for 13 years.

Father Clancy was born in Odessa and received his education at Regiopolis College and Queen's University; taking further courses at St. Augustine's Seminary in Toronto. He served in parishes at Lanark and Carlton Place before going to Picton.

Following night, Father Clancy was the guest of honor at a testimonial banquet sponsored by the Trenton council of the Knights of Columbus.

WILL HEAR ARGUMENTS

Arguments for and against the official Amelisburg Township plan will be heard by an Ontario Municipal Board judge in the township hall, Thursday, June 13, starting at 11 a.m.

The plan, first introduced by the township planning board more than a year ago, has met with mixed reception from township residents. Proposed residential, commercial and industrial zoning and land-use for residential purposes, came under fire. A 600-strong ratepayers' association grew out of the objections. The plan was revised a number of times and at present the association's president Stanley Downing said that it had now become acceptable to most association members.

At the June 13 meeting, individual township residents may register objections to the plan, in whole or part, with the OMB judge.

Broadway Flops May Cut Revenue Of Guild Here

Tough luck on Broadway during the past theatrical season may reflect on the Belleville Theatre Guild next year, Mrs. Marion Wilson, Guild business manager told the Guild's annual meeting last night. The poor Broadway season will not affect the Guild's own productions, but it will mean there are few proven hits to go on to the O'Keefe Centre, in Toronto.

And a shortage of hits in Toronto will reflect on attendance at the Belleville Theatre Guild's theatre parties, a major source of revenue for the Guild.

Mrs. Wilson suggested the Guild consider a major production of its own to maintain Guild funds. Such a production might run for three weeks, three nights per week, in the Guild's own theatre above 224 Front St., or for two nights at the BCI auditorium.

IN MEMORIAM

McFARLANE — In loving memory of a dear uncle Jack McFarlane who died three years ago suddenly May 30th, 1960.

In a quiet country graveyard,
Where the breezes gently blow,
Lies the one we loved so dearly
And the years go by so slow.
He left behind no worldly treasure,
That loved him most forever.
We never have, we never will,
Forget him, no, never.
Silent is his voice, vacant is his chair,
Sweet are the memories that linger there.
We miss him and mourn him as the years go by,
And live in memory of joys that cannot die.
Sadly missed and always remembered by his niece Eleanor, and family.

POPE — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Ronald Kenneth Pope who passed away May 30th, 1954.
Beautiful memories we have of we have left,
Of him we loved and will never forget.
His loving smile and happy face,
A broken link we can never replace.
God was the parting, no one can see,
So sudden on earth, the sorrow for me.
Memories are treasures no one can steal,
Death leaves a heartache nothing can heal!
Only those who have lost can this to tell,
The pain in our hearts of not saying farewell.
—Two dearly loved to ever be forgotten by Dad, sister Ruth, brothers Ted, Gordon and Harry.

PAYNE — In loving memory of a dear son who passed away May 30th, 1954.
We cannot bring the old days back,
When we were all together;
We have memories and loving thoughts,
Will live until we're forever.

AINSWORTH — In memory of Basil S. Ainsworth, who passed away 2 years ago May 30, 1961.
Not dead, just as who loved him,
But just gone before.
We live in memory,
And will forever more.
Always remembered by wife Ethel and family.

Wilfrid Laporte Honored At Testimonial Banquet After 43 Years of Service

By GEO. H. CARVER

Forty-three years of loyal service to his company brought tributes, tangible and otherwise, to Wilfrid Laporte, retiring manager of the Corby Distillery Ltd. here last night.

Mr. Laporte was the guest of honor at a testimonial dinner attended by 60 colleagues, personal friends and business associates in the Hotel Quinte's Pinnacle Room.

He officially retires on June 1st and will be succeeded by George C. (Mickey) MacDonald, assistant distillery manager, who has been associated with the company since 1928.

Mr. G. Ross Herington of Montreal, president of Corby Distillery Ltd., chaired the dinner and presented Mr. Laporte with three handsome gifts.

There was a complete set of golf clubs with cart from business associates; a "Corby glass cannon" mounted on a miniature gun carriage from plant associates and a handsome sterling silver tray from fellow company directors with their names engraved.

A fourth gift, was the beautiful spring flowers which decorated the head table, sent by the Bottling Department at Corbyville.

Mr. Herington read several telegrams containing best wishes for a long and happy retirement. Included were those from Gordon Rowell, assistant deputy minister "Internal Revenue Department; R. Heaton and Bill Newman, western Canada managers; Miss Alice Harvey, receptionist at Montreal head office, who has been with the company for 50 years; Donald Fry, London, England and Jim Manson of Glasgow, Scotland.

EMPLOYEES REMEMBER

A sixty-six signature telegram was received from employees at Corbyville and city and district friends of Mr. Laporte.

In his personal tribute to Mr. Laporte Mr. Herington said, "He over forty years of loyal unselfish devotion to his company and associates. Mr. Laporte had to make many decisions big and small, easy and difficult. He made many valuable contributions to the Home of Good Spirits.

"I hope his good council will be available for he is one of the best distillery men in the business," the president said.

"In his time he inspired loyalty and respect and an appreciation of his outstanding personality and other qualities among all of us here and many others.

"I have known that he was a man of character who could be relied upon at all times and under all circumstances."

Mr. Laporte received a standing ovation when he rose to reply.

In a low voice and visibly moved by his reception, he said, "Many love retirement with no regret. I do not. I feel that I have been most fortunate in being associated with a company having vision and foresight to have a pension plan for their employees.

"I am grateful I have reached the age of 65 in fairly good health.

"Forty-three years with one organization seems like a long time," Mr. Laporte said. "But one never knows what the future holds."

He recalled an interview with the late Billy Hume in his office when he was $14 years later I was to occupy." Mr. Hume at that time was the distillery manager.

"Then" he said, "I was given the opportunity to live in the 'Big House' for a quarter of a century."

Mr. Laporte expressed his appreciation of the fact he is being retained as a member of the company's board of directors.

"This," he said, "makes the break easier. In other words I can taper off gradually. My sincere thanks to all those who made this 'do' possible."

The Pinnacle Room resounded to the age-old "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and the accompanying cheers.

NOTABLES PRESENT

Many outstanding personalities of the distillery industry, and others, were present.

These included besides Mr. Herington, Lizzel Riche, chairman of the board of Corby's Distillers Ltd.; E. N. Smith, Director of Excise, Ottawa; E. A. S. Fraser, secretary Association of Canadian Distillers, Montreal; H. W. Howlett vice-president of Corby's, Montreal; George C. (Mickey) MacDonald, incoming distillery manager at Corbyville; I. A. McKinnon, secretary Corby Distillery Ltd., Montreal; R. E. Hall, chief excise officer, Corbyville, and directors F. Campbell Cope and H. C. Hatch.

Also included in the guest list was a brother Rod Laporte of Quebec, and several personal friends of Mr. Laporte from the city and district.

There was entertainment, too. Ross Smith, a talented Montreal humorist, brought the house down, so to speak, with a versatile one-man program.

The highlight of Mr. Smith's rib-cracking offerings was review of Mr. Laporte's history with the distillery styled after the pattern of "This is Your Life" and "Rose Tattooed Years."

Retired

Mr. Wilfrid Laporte, the retiring manager of Corby Distilleries Ltd. at Corbyville, looks back on 43 years of company service with regrets.

He has been associated with a large number of people over the years, "all of them good," he says. To his successor, Mr. George C. MacDonald, Mr. Laporte said fine tribute. "He is one of the finest men I have ever known and I would not want for a better man to succeed me."

The passing years have been good to Mr. Laporte. He does not "look" his threescore and ten. Although indisposed for some time the past winter he says he feels good and is looking forward to playing some golf and "perfecting my bridge game" in the years of well-deserved retirement.

Mr. Laporte was born at Iberville, Quebec and educated at St. Hyacinthe. When he was seventeen he joined the staff of a Montreal branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, remaining there for the next five years.

He became associated with Corby's Distillery and came to Corbyville in 1931 after some years of experience in Quebec.

He became one of the company's valued employees and was given charge of the blending room. In 1934 he was made assistant distillery manager and in due course rose to the managerial position.

"I set some kind of a record," he said, "by living in the manager's house for thirty years."

Further honors came his way twelve years ago when he was made a director of the company and its vice-president. He retains the position of director following retirement.

Mr. Laporte has been a member of the Kiwanis Club and the Belleville Club for the past 25 years. He was a "not very active" member of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club. He is a charter member of the Quinte Curling Club.

He was married in 1935 to Miss Blanche Phaneuf and has two daughters, Monique (Mrs. Don Templeman) of this city, and Pauline (Mrs. Raymond Meloche) of Beaconsfield, Quebec.

The Corby Club, office foremen and executives of the plant, paid appreciative tribute to Mr. Laporte recently when they presented him with a handsome set of cut glass decanters. Mrs. Laporte was also honored by Mrs. George MacDonald and other ladies of the company with a beautiful electric floor lamp.

Mr. Laporte was the guest of honor last night at a testimonial dinner given him by the president, director and executive staff of the Corby Distilleries Ltd. of Montreal.

TICKET CRACKDOWN

HALIFAX (CP)—The city of Halifax is out to collect a minimum of $1 on each of about 10,000 outstanding parking tickets. A crackdown is under way to force offenders to pay up on overdue tickets. One man Tuesday paid a total of $96.75.

Promoted

George C. (Mickey) MacDonald, the new manager of the Corby Distillery plant located at Corbyville, was a sports-minded youngster when he joined the organization that July 27th, 1928

He played third base for the Belleville junior baseball team and was considered one of its stars.

His manager, the late Robert Colling, "begged" him off the team for Saturday afternoon employment which caused the plant manager to observe, "Did we get a junior clerk or a baseball player?"

Mr. MacDonald has been with the distillery since those days, having run the gamut of storage, depression and progress.

Now in his 37th year with the distillery Mr. MacDonald came up "the hard way." His aptitude and adaptibility gave him foo-holds on the ladder of success and he rose to the position of office manager.

1945 he was made assistant manager to Mr. Wilfrid Laporte.

He was born in Belleville, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George MacDonald and received his public and high school education here.

He played softball and basketball as a junior and later became a member of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.

He is a member of the Belleville Shrine Club which he joined ten years ago and at present is a director. He has been chairman of various committees of the club and takes a keen interest in the Shrine work for crippled children.

Mrs. MacDonald is the former Miss Vera Ibey, an athlete in her own right. Mrs. MacDonald was a pitcher of repute and with Mrs. Dolly Canning formed one of the girl "battories" in the district.

Mr. MacDonald enjoys a well deserved popularity with the distillery staff and other personnel, as well as company associates.

First Drinks In Life Cost Man Licence

The first two drinks of a lifetime cost a 40-year-old Frankford man his driver's licence and $150 fine.

Ivan Belej was fined by Magistrate T. Y Wills after pleading guilty to charges in connection with two accidents Friday night.

Police said Mr. Belej's automobile struck a car near the Bata Shoe Company's parking lot at 6:45 p.m. and a short ten minutes later on Highway 33. He had just returned to work after a coffee-break and had been a barman at a reception in Batawa.

"I have never drank in my life," Mr. Belej told the magistrate. "That was the first time."

"This man has never been known to drink before," OPP Corporal Ken Williamson said.

"I believe what he says himself," commented the magistrate. "One thing about it—no very serious harm has come to anybody as a result of this."

Crown attorney John Pringle said Mr. Belej was contrite over the incident.

"He has learned his lesson and that is a satisfactory state of affairs in any . . . prosecution."

Magistrate Wills imposed $75 fine on each charge with a month to pay "anyway he wants."

Licence suspension is automatic.

Two Teachers Entering Retirement Are Honored

Two Belleville teachers were paid tribute Monday evening when they were the honored guests at their retirement banquet. The dinner marked the end of two long careers in their chosen profession.

Miss MacPherson and Mrs. Hodgen, highly respected teachers of this city, are beginning their well-earned retirement as of June 28, this year.

The dinner was held at the Masonic Temple. Among the large number of people present were relatives and friends of the retiring ladies.

President of the Teachers' Institute, Mrs. T. Spafford was chairman of the banquet. Banquet convenor was Mr. Ross Jewel, assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Blakely and several staff members.

Mrs. Spafford after introducing the guests at the head table called upon Miss Gay Macfarlane who sang three delightful solos. She sang "Oh No John, No!", "Lions and Crockodiles" and "Turn Ye To Me." Gay was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Robert Reid.

PRESENTATION MADE

Mrs. Spafford remarked that this is a very pleasant occasion to honor these two fine ladies.

After thanking the many people responsible for the success of the evening she called upon Mr. L. A. Kells to speak.

Mr. Kells welcomed the large number of guests and remarked that he was extremely happy to welcome the many retired teachers whom he called by name. He expressed his happiness in being present to honor Miss MacPherson and Mrs. Hodgen on their coming retirement.

Miss Beatrice Wolbridge, assisted by Miss A. Gilmour and Mrs. O. Slack made the presentation of original oil painting by artist Stanley Macdonald to the honored ladies. Miss Wallbridge defined retirement as a new beginning for Miss MacPherson and Mrs. Hodgen. It is a time when they will meet new friends and start new adventures, etc. Mr. Hodgen is a very willing and understanding person. She has led a double life — that of a successful teacher and also of a mother. She is a gracious hostess and an excellent cook, Miss MacPherson is to be congratulated for her many years teaching experience. She is a very enthusiastic bridge player and has taken part in several Quinteton tournaments. She was an exchange teacher in Vancouver where she made many friends. Despite her busy schedule, Miss MacPherson found time to earn a B.A. degree from Queen's University.

EXPRESSED THANKS

Miss MacPherson after expressing her thanks for the evening held in her honor, outlined some of the highlights of her career. She attended public school at S.S. 4, Sydney, then completed four years of schooling at Belleville High School. After finishing her teachers' course at Peterborough Normal School, she taught a primary grade at Cedardale, South Oshawa She then returned to this district where she taught at S.S. 2 Sydney for two years. In 1923, Miss MacPherson came to Belleville where she taught at Queen Alexandra School, Queen Victoria School and finally at Prince Charles School where she is at the present time. During her retirement Miss MacPherson plans to have more time for reading, visiting, gardening and travelling.

Mrs. Hodgen expressed her thanks for the evening held in her honor and for the lovely painting. Mrs. Hodgen first taught at King George School in Belleville for four years previous to her marriage. After raising her family she returned to the profession teaching in Thurlow. She returned to the Belleville Public School staff when S.S. 3 Thurlow where she was teaching was annexed into the city and became Prince of Wales School. Mrs. Hodgen summed up her speech with a poem, entitled "The Retired Teacher" which expressed her feelings about her coming retirement.

PRESENTATION BOARD

Mr. Lovelace, the present chairman of the Belleville Public School Board, on behalf of the School Board made a presentation to the honored ladies in recognition of their long and faithful service in Belleville Public Schools. He then introduced several board members present at the banquet.

Mrs. Spafford presented gifts to the teachers, who are leaving the Belleville staff after five or more years service, Mr. R. Meyer expressed thanks on behalf of the group for the gifts.

To Miss MacPherson and Mrs. Hodgen are given the heartiest good wishes for a long eventful, active and interesting retirement.

A Revealing Incident

An incident during United Nations Secretary General U Thant's official visit to Romania has produced yet another example of the suppression that exists in the communist police state.

According to recent reports, just as the UN head was stepping into a car following a visit to an art gallery, a Romanian citizen calmly tried to speak to him.

Shaking off a plainclothes policeman who endeavored to restrain him, the man shouted "Comrade U Thant, Comrade U Thant" and seemed to be trying to pull a paper from his pocket. Additional security men quickly grabbed the Romanian, one of them clapping a hand over his mouth, and dragged the luckless individual away.

Neither the identity of the man, nor the matter which he wished to bring to the attention of the Secretary-General, has been disclosed. Nor, in the normal course of the communist police state, is it likely that this information will ever come to light.

Had the incident in question taken place in Canada, security police, to be sure, might have taken the unknown individual into custody just as promptly for the protection of the Secretary-General. Yet the man's identity and the purpose of his mission would have been front page news. The attempt that failed, in short, would have served exactly the same purpose as the mission, had it succeeded.

Herein lies a big difference between a free, democratic society and the police state. It is also the guarantee that the police forces of the democratic state will never turn on and oppress those they are employed to protect and serve.

Trick or Treat

One may sincerely hope that Trade Minister Sharp, in an understandable desire to keep up the grain sales to communist China that were first initiated by the Conservative government, is not tricked into giving away major trade concessions for nothing.

For some time now, the Chinese have been hinting broadly that they will only continue to buy grain from Canada if this country's markets are opened up for further Chinese products. Because of the limited number of items which China has available for sale and for which a market exists in this country, most of the additional imports would likely be in the textile field or related products.

Yet even granting the opening up of Canadian markets—a step the wisdom of which is highly debatable—there is little assurance that China will be a long-term customer of Canadian grain. The Peking regime, it should be recalled, only began to purchase wheat, barley and other cereals from abroad after flood, drought and gross farm mismanagement so drastically reduced China's own food output that the nation was driven to the doorstep of starvation.

With a good crop now in sight and farm management troubles being remedied it seems that China will soon return to her normal role of a net exporter of food. When this happens, the need for and desirability of buying foodstuffs from Canada, or others, will have vanished.

Canada, thus, could easily find herself in the decidedly unfortunate position of granting a major trade concession at the expense of Canadian industrial jobs for a grain market that simply ceased to exist.

Practically Tongue-Tied

Miss Arlene Francis, the aging but piquant blonde who adds the necessary touch of naughty niceness to the quiz show "What's My Line?", was forced to absent herself from the show on Sunday. Miss Francis was injured in an automobile accident. She suffered a minor concussion, a cut scalp, bruises and a fractured collarbone. Anybody who has seen "What's My Line?" would immediately grasp why such injuries would make it impossible for her capably to discharge her duties. With that broken collarbone she could not possibly shrug her so-pretty shoulders.

Meanwhile another star of the television world was making the headlines in a less painful fashion. Miss Dinah Shore was getting married. She was accompanied to the wedding by her two children—probably to support the groom during his first experience at having kisses blown at him.

Earthbound science cannot serve us. A ceiling on science would be a ceiling on our progress and our prosperity—and eventually on our freedom itself . . . The age of space is a second industrial revolution.—U.S. Vice-President Johnson.

Ottawa Offbeat

Loss of Glory, Laud, Honor Is Fate of Ousted 'Execs'

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Ever thought of being one of those Executive Assistants or, even better, Special Assistants, to a Federal Cabinet Minister?

Be on the "inside" of a lot of confidential and not-so-confidential, but always interesting Government business?

Have a secretary, or a pair of them, eyes, and a couple of assistants of your own?

Draw down a minimum $6,000 and be in a position to try for the "jackpot" of maybe plus -$20,000 as "special" to the Prime Minister?

Go on all sorts of journeys to such faraway and romantic places as London, Paris, Bonn, Capetown, Kuala Lumpur, New Delhi, Leningrad and Moscow, Lima, Rio and all around the world?

And all at Federal Government expense?

Must be fun, you say.

Must be, . . . while it lasts.

But every once in a while (twice in the last couple of years, but only three times in 28 years) Governments change.

Cabinet Ministers lose their portfolios, their $27,000-a-year (and the payroll that provides for these various kinds of Assistants), and return to the every-nickel-counts $10,000 job of plain MP.

CHANGING THE GUARD:

A new Cabinet team goes into the political fray from Parliament Hill, and a new crew is needed back in the locker room.

Old soldiers never die, they say, but only fade away.

Politics is tougher.

Finished.

The job, like a carpet, is pulled out from under them by the election.

The lucky ones?

John Fisher, a remarkably talented man "Mr. Canada," and probably the best Special Assistant the Diefenbaker era and ex-day Canadian Prime Minister ever had, from the very start of the now, had it made.

On the payroll, he drew $12,000 plus another variously estimated $3,000 to $5,000 from the Conservative Party organization.

And well before the Conservative post office job, he was appointed Commissioner for the Centennial Celebration - - and who better could have been director of the big show than "Mr. Canada" — at the Ministerial Cabinet's $18,000 to $22,000, safe, because of his specialized savvy, from dismissal, replacement.

Not quite so lucky - - because as a political Order in Council appointment, he could be dropped - - was Frank Miller, former Finance Minister Sidney Smith's little assistance that to the Energy Board, as secretary at $15,000, in good pre-election time.

Back To Work:

The others, though?

Some, as they put so laughingly put it, have "gone back to work;" returning to business, industrial or professional posts, with as many as six years on Parliament Hill added-up and written off as not much more than "experience".

They also have retracing their old, and sometimes faint footsteps to law offices, brokerage houses, "Fourth Estate" newsrooms and even college classes.

And it is not too easy.

The break comes hard - - but the hard way is the only way, really, to get back.

For to take a run-of-the-mill job in the business world — an "exec" have the right to do, and some, in fact have done - - is to take an awful burnt in the pocketbook in most cases, and trade the interest and excitement of political manoeuvring and dealing on Parliament Hill for the often dull and even boring routine in the lower ranks of the Federal Bureaucracy.

It is security, but it has its price.

Ask the man who has done it, and he may surprise you by confessing that this is the quickest way he knows, as one just finished putting it, "of burying yourself alive."

Then, finally, there are the imaginative few who go for broke, and part utterly from anything even remotely connected with Parliament Hill and politics....like Guy Caron, former "Exec" to the Postmaster General, off now to Florida to run an orange grove owned by a West German syndicate.

Yes, old Hill soldiers never die, or even fade away.

Instead, they are banished, exiled, or sentenced to Civil Service-tude.

Strictly Personal
Simultaneous Love, Justice Impossible

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: The chief difference between art and entertainment is the demand that each makes upon us; entertainment requires us to be a main passive, while art requests that we meet it at least halfway; it should be no wonder therefore, that the great majority should always take the line of least resistance, and prefer the passive receptivity to the active approach.

Some language changes can be learned, and others only imitated; I am convinced that French cannot be truly learned after the age of 10, but only poorly imitated, because the lips, the tongue and even the nose are uniquely positioned in speaking the language correctly.

Seeing a revival of a Eugene O'Neill play reminds one how much our perception has expanded in the last 30 years; half of what he says is already old-fashioned knowledge, and the rest has been discarded as obsolete.

Most conscientious talk about the "value" of an education in the humanities fails, at least, reason was given by some anonymous dean who said: "The primary purpose of a liberal education is to make one's mind pleasant place in which to spend one's leisure."

Love and justice are impossible at the same time toward the same object; if we know an object with love, we cannot help bestowing upon it more than justice.

Male authors who write about women in a patronizing or critical tone are generally those who have been unsuccessful in their personal relations with women, and have a temperamental flaw into a philosophical proposition; Schopenhauer is typical as Nietzsche's was not exempt from this unconscious perversion.

Nobody today has a right to insist that all we have to do is to "read the Bible" and follow what it says in order to obey the word of God — unless such a person has himself read the Bible in its original language, in its earliest manuscripts, with no vowels, no punctuation, no capitalization, no spacing between words, and nothing but consonants.

A rare and sensible perspective on a much misunderstood was expressed recently in an interview, by Kingsley Martin, longtime editor of "The New Statesman" of England, who remarked: "Life consists of achieving things and then finding how small a thing you've achieved."

Even though America may be the highest level of technical care in the world, not more patients in proportion is concentrated in than 10 per cent of the population at most is receiving the most elaborate care, and sophisticated treatment known to medical science — and this small group of four fifths of the citizens.

Those who end their letters with the phrase, "as ever," are giving reassurance that they have not changed to people, perhaps, who wish they would.

Canadians have now before them the meat rationing proposals which came into effect May 27, and they have information as to the cuts and the coupons to be cut retained.

There has appeared in Canadian newspapers "the story behind the rationing of meat." In this the people are informed that meat is a weapon of war and that after all the special wartime demands are provided for, there will be only one half of the meat produced in Canada which will be available for ordinary domestic consumption at home.

This is not unnatural. Members of the armed forces must have ample meat. Britain, cognizant for it is one of the most potent foods. Thus too the people of Canada are pleased to help supply the people of Britain with meat. Switzerland has now to depend more and more on Canada for food supplies to keep up its weekly meat ration of 28 cents worth of meat per person.

Predicts Woes In Space Age

Niagara Falls Evening Review

Let us imagine that future millions will be using space vehicles. Look at the populations. First of all, we will have to suppose that unions will fall upon the fact that once anywhere on globe constitutes a full day. Therefore unionized space travellers will maybe demand a day's pay for every hour and a half or so of travel.

And by our day-to-day measurement, space travellers will grow old very quickly. Women will cringe at the prospects of gaining a day's age for every once around the globe. Airlines, steamships and railroads will naturally pounce upon such propaganda to compete against space travel agencies.

We shudder, too, to think of all the complications in suiting up just for a brief zip around the world to have dinner with the Joneses. People who now frustrate their husbands by keeping them waiting while they fuss with their dressing will have nothing on the spacemen.

Indians Multiply

Cape Breton Post

A government survey south of the Rio Grande shows that of Mexico's 33,000,000 population, fully a million cannot speak a word of Spanish. They communicate in Indian dialects. And the majority of Mexicans who speak Spanish are mainly of Indian race — the descendants of ancient tribes and nations, identified as such by their distinguishing varieties of features. Only a few families head the North American Indians are a people doomed to fade away before the white belief in preserving southward from the Rio Grande. Mexico is part of North America.

In Central America the Indian predominance in the population is likewise conspicuous, and thus the evidence of the enduranced of the Indian is evident in all the vast distance to the stormy scene of Cape Horn at the tip of South America.

To Your Good Health
Staph Germ Causes Boils And Skin Infections

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner:-My daughter had a carbuncle on her chin, and then three or four boils at a time.

She went to the doctor for several injections. The boils broke out worse than ever. She has been to another doctor for six months and she has now gotten rid of the boils.

You once described this as a staph infection (which the first doctor said it was). What is the treatment? And will she get boils again from her clothing? — Mrs. R. C.

The staphylococcus (or "staph") germ comes to us, not like an invading army, but like a swarm of sneak thieves. It doesn't sweep into sudden epidemics like flu. It just hangs around all the time, waiting for a chance to cause trouble.

It has the contrary ability of developing resistance to some of the antibiotic drugs which are so helpful with other germs. Some of the drugs retain their powers better than others, and some strains of the germ have more resistance to the drugs.

Perhaps you could compare the staph germ to the Civil Service in reality conquer wolves and tigers and other dangerous beasts, but rats sneak under our guard and flourish almost under our noses.

So with the staph germ — in fact, our noses are a common breeding place for this pest.

Whether your daughter gained anything by changing doctors is doubtful. Maybe the first one started the job — and the other one just carried on the battle. What's neither here nor there.

The point is that the staph germ is all around us all the time; Some of us have very good resistance to it. Some don't. Some people get "staph carriers," who may give the germ to others but not suffer from it themselves. Some may infect themselves from time to time.

The staph germ can be very virulent, and boils (one of the varies especially) are constantly on guard against it. Occasionally it gets into the bloodstream and causes blood poisoning. It can be chronic and more often it causes boils and other skin infections.

Boils and the like can leave scar tissue afterward, and soreness.

When a series of boils starts, utmost cleanliness — measures to keep the germ from spreading — is important and often helps. In extreme cases, how - ever, special vaccines may be used (to suit a particular strain of germ) but this is a complicated task.

As to reinfection from clothing, no normal laundering will provide protection. Even while the boils are active, keep the infected area covered with a sterile bandage.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about birth control pills? Do they cause blood clots and do you recommend them? — V. L.

I don't recommend any medication in wholesale fashion. These pills, like any drug, should be taken only under direction from a physician who knows the patient's needs and condition. As to clots, I've heard of such contentions, but at a recent conference on the subject the conclusion was that the risk of vein clotting has not been proved.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am told that taking gelatine over an extended time improves the blood vessels and heart. I would appreciate your comment. — H. W.

There's no danger that I know of. By now I've heard rumors about almost everything.

A Look Back At Lot's Wife

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

A contemporary footnote to the ancient subject of salt comes from the Middle East where the laboratories of an Israeli manufacturer have succeeded in producing a table salt which is almost one hundred per cent pure.

The major appeal of this news item is in the fact that it occurred in the land of the world where Lot's wife suffered her saltiform demise.

It is interesting also to recall that the first written reference to salt occurs in the Bible. Indeed, it makes mention of the subject more than 30 times. The historian, Job, posed the question, "Can that which is unsavory be eaten without salt?" Symbolizing hospitality durability and purity, salt had a religious significance among the Hebrew people of Bible times.

Salt also had a great value in the economic life of the Land. An inexhaustible and ready supply at the southern end of the Dead Sea provided a product in large demand both at home and in distant markets.

At one time, the soldiers of Caesar received part of their pay in the form of common salt. This was their salarium whence comes our word salary. Herein, too, lies the root of our phrase, "not worth his salt."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

As old as the quest of squirrels to find a safe place to deposits is the quest of fortunate men to find a safe place to stash their wealth. In olden times, the men of strength and wit who amassed wealth built castles and fortified cities with walls with drawbridges, and they served very well for a time. But some daughter or sister or daughter married the wrong man, or some grandson married the wrong girl, and the strain of strength and wit died out, and tough strangers took over the castles, moats, walls drawbridges and all, including the rank and titles.

As time went on, nobody tough enough to withstand the ravages of time and war to live castles are tourist attractions.

After castles came lands and manors, sustained by law and royal decree. After them came monopolies, joint stock companies, syndicates, trusts. A hundred most ingenious combinations and permutations of these devices were thought up by men far quicker and slicker than squirrels.

But money is a slippery commodity. No known way of cooping it up has ever been discovered. Even in the great charitable foundations, it has its natural quality of always sliding into somebody else's hands.

608 Air Cadet Squadron Has First Inspection

Education Is Prime Need RCAF C.O. Tells Cadets At Inspection in Armories

Whether committed by natural interest or current space age evenits to careers in the air, literally and figuratively today's youths won't get off the ground without a solid education.

This was the warning insinuated to a fledgling air cadet group in Belleville last night by a man in a position to know.

More than any previous time in history, edubation now is the most significant thing for youth, Wing Commander J. O. Maitland, commanding officer of 437 Squadron, Trenton, told the first annual inspection of 606 (cadet) Squadron, at the city armories.

"I know when you are in your teens 24 or 25 years of age seems pretty old to be leaving school," said the wing commander.

"Believe me, in this day and age, your education is of the first importance to your future careers."

Neither was the RCAF interested in the air cadet organization simply because it fostered enthusiasm for joining the airforce, he bluntly told the youngsters.

The movement, and all its sponsors, primarily "are trying to contribute our bit to making better citizens for Canada."

Wing Commander Maitland's straight - from - the shoulder suggestions were echoed by a well - known veteran RCAF figure — retired Air Commodore Dwight Ross, representing the Air Cadet League of Canada provincial committee.

SEEK EDUCATION

"Canada has been crying for more and better educated people," said the air commodore. "Every one of you get every bit of education you can by every means you can."

"In becoming better citizens of Canada, you will acquire a sense of responsibility, of discipling in mind and body. Heaven only knows these are attributes we need in Canada today."

Both men had high praise for the turnout of the fledgling squadron and held it indicated well for a promising future.

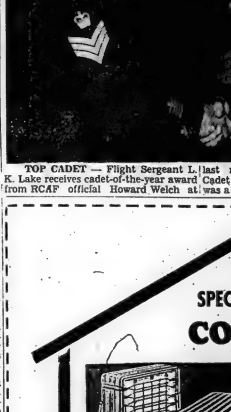
The cadet group is locally sponsored by Belleville's RCAF Association. As such, it has the benefit of being trained and advised by veterans of active service. Now less than a year old, it was formed from the remnant of the squadron once organized at Quinte Secondary School.

The cadets turn out for more than two hours each Wednesday night to learn basic airforce drill and airmanship. Many of them are sons of one-time airmen; many of them may turn their current part-time activity into full - time airforce careers. However, say RCAF officials all have one common link — enthusiasm for the squadron's activities.

HELD THEIR OWN

Already they have started branching into farther fields. Earlier this year, the cadets entered the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association trials.

"We more than held our own," said one of their instructors last night.



Two of them were rewarded for their marksmanship last night. Flight sergeant L. K. Lake, 16, received a trophy for the highest score; sergeant G. R. Wardle for the top shot outside the rifle team.

In addition, flight sergeant Lake was judged the best cadet of the year.

Parents and friends joined RCAF and Airforce members for the inspection at the armories. The city was formally represented by councillor Leo Digby, acting for mayor A. McLean Haig.

However, all activities didn't cease with last night's event. Tonight, the cadets will be entertained at a father-and-son banquet at the Canadian Legion.

ON PARADE — Wing Commander J. O. Maitland (right) comments to Flight Lieutenant C. Smith, of local RCAF Association, on Air Cadet turnout in Belleville Armouries. The Trenton commanding officer inspected the parade — the corps first since its inception less than a year ago.

Lawn Bowling Season Opens On Saturday

After long months of waiting the lawn bowling season is awaiting the opening on Saturday. During the past month the greenskeepers of the several clubs in the district have been busy getting the greens in shape renovating clubhouses and generally putting the clubs under way for another successful season is anticipated. There has been a considerable change at the local greens. The floor of the clubhouse has been made secure, the entire building inside has been painted and redecorated and the fine touch of the women's section is everywhere in evidence.

Another change in the format of the district is the Trenton Bowling Club. This energetic and fine club has been thrown out of their present location at Trenton and many of the members, seeking to keep bowling alive in the town are continuing the Trenton Lawn Bowling Club. This season, many of the members, will be playing with the Belleville Club with their own identity and running the tournaments given to the club by the district. Their first tournament, a men's doubles will be played on the Belleville greens on Saturday. The club expects in two year's time to have a property of their own in Trenton and a first class bowling green.

Last evening a district meeting was held at the Belmont Restaurant under the direction of the chairman, Bid Cook of Brighton. Delegates were present from Trenton, Bellevville, Campbellford, Stirling, Kingston and Brighton. Plans were laid for the coming season and tournament cards were distributed. The Belleville Club is indeed fortunate this year in that all steps heading up to and including the Provincial finals will be played in the city in some years and exciting plans are being laid to entertain out-of-town bowlers.

The local club would particularly invite anyone to come up to the greens, look the layout over and probably would become interested in bowling.

Theatre Guild Stages 'Happening', Impromptu Play Without Script

A "happening" happened in Belleville last night. A recent fad among the avante-garde theatre set, "happenings" are a form of ad-lib skit. The techniques is one development of expressionistic drama, the "modern art" of the theatre.

The theory of the idea is that any play, realistic or expressionistic, is supposed to present the working of the characters' minds. The realistic play does this by showing their actions, condensed in time, as the playwright feels the characters might act in real life. The expressionistic playwright cuts out the real life angle, and attempts to present the workings of the mind more directly. Like other forms of modern art, the result may be confusing to the uninitiated.

The "happening" goes one step further. Working with only a basic story to portray, the actors attempt to think as the characters they portray would think, and present these thoughts to the audience by whatever means they choose. The result may be either realistic or expressionistic.

THEATRE GUILD EFFORT

Last night's "happening" at the annual meeting of the Belleville Theatre Guild, in the Guild's theatre above 224 Front Street, was realistic. It was staged by Jim Alexander, Nikki Thomas and Margo Hall. They attempted to portray the situation in the home of a dying millionaire, when his ex-wife, his young bride, and the brother who managed his business affairs are gathered in the drawing room.

The group had practised with two previous happenings, but last night was their first attempt at the situation to be presented. None knew any more than the characters to be represented, and the situation to be portrayed. The skit lasted above five minutes.

The result, perhaps, are best summed up by a comment from the audience after, the skit closed. "I've seen plays rehearsed for months, that were not as good," someone said.

DESERONTO

Ratepayers' Group Wants School Closed

DESERONTO — The regular meeting of the Ratepayers' Association was held in the town Hall on Monday night with the largest attendance to date. Some fifty - one members who joined the Association during Monday were present and they were in the main the same group of people who have been attending council and school board meetings with the purpose of having the town join the Napanee school area.

In his opening remarks the chairman, James McVicker, said it did not take much reasoning to see why the group were present. He said that in his opinion the Ratepayers' Association should not take a stand on the issue that is dividing the town but rather should sponsor an open meeting with an impartial chairman from the Institute of Political Science and have a spokesman from the Department of Education present statistics and facts concerning all aspects of the school problems.

The meeting however, decided against the sugestion of the chairman that it take no stand, and passed three motions.

The first motion was to the effect that the ratepayers do not support any candidate or platform. The second motion passed was that the Ratepayers' Association was in favor of the town joining the Napanee and/District area and the third motion was that the meeting appoint a committee of three to ascertain all facts and figures and present them to a public meeting. The Chairman pointed out that this was in effect the same idea he had presented except that he had wanted an impartial chairman and an impartial spokesman. The committee was then appointed and consisted of Mrs. J. Therrien, D. S. Armitage and William Kells.

The chairman also pointed out to the group that the present issue was causing considerable strife throughout the town and the actions of some of the people were not leaving a good impression of the town with those outside the town. He appealed to the people to consider their actions and try to work for the town and after the decision on the school had been reached to accept the decision without animosity.

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Owen R. Maynard, a Canadian bomber pilot of the Second World War, is moon-struck. In fact he concentrates more attention on the moon than any other celestial body.

The 38-year-old Canadian aeronautical engineer, native of Sarnia, Ont., has good reason. He helps design and produce a space vehicle that can fly an astronaut from a mother spacecraft to the moon's surface.

This is known as Project Apollo — the multi-billion-dollar American effort to try to beat the Russians to a moon landing, perhaps by 1970. Maynard's job is to co - ordinate and direct all the work in engineering the moon landing vehicle.

This is no mean task, considering that scientists are not sure what the moon's surface is like.

NOW MUCH DUST?

Maynard has a theory that the moon is covered by a layer of dust. In spots, it may be six inches or six feet deep. It will be one job of the ship he designs to find a relatively safe landing spot. Another problem will be getting the astronaut safely back to the mother ship which orbits the moon waiting for the smaller craft to return.

Whether the U.S. ever will realize its dream of landing a man on the moon is still open to question. Some have challenged the wisdom of pouring billions of dollars into this venture while great areas of the earth are still impoverished and many go hungry.

But President Kennedy says the U.S. cannot afford to concede the space race to the Russians. The technology of space travel has military connotations. American military men fear that if the Russians are allowed to control space, with nuclear and other weapons, they also might eventually control earth.

CANADIANS HELP

So the race is on and Maynard and a group of other Canadians have become part of it. These formed a package of some 25 scientists and engineers gathered up by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration when Canada's Arrow jet interceptor program was abandoned by the Diefenbaker government in 1959.

He joined Space Technology Laboratories, Inc., a subsidiary of Thompson Ramo Wooldridge Inc., which is under contract to NASA to develop the Apollo spacecraft.

Maynard, who flew Mosquito aircraft with the RCAF during the Second World War, was one of the Avro Aircraft of Canada specialists working on the Arrow when the project was halted. A medium - sized, blond-haired individual, his job was to concentrate on the Arrow's mechanical systems.

In 1960, he and other Canadians started work on NASA's space satellite projects, including the present Mercury capsule. Maynard's job was aerospace engineer. When his design work on the Mercury was over, he was shifted into another field: To start preparing ideas and plans for the kind of ship that could reach the moon. HAS IMPORTANT ROLE

Without giving away any secrets, NASA says Maynard's branch "was responsible for the early design studies for the command, service and lunar excursion modules (standards) of Project Apollo."

An indication of Maynard's importance in the over-all moon program is that he has six scientific branches reporting to him. These include specialists in prepare crew equipment, structures, propulsion, electrical power, design technology and communications, safety tems.

His job also is to help integrate the design of his own landing craft with the proposed two main parts of the mother ship.

The command part, housing the astronauts, and the service part, containing the groceries and fuel for the space adventure.

Father of three children, Maynard is married to the former Helen Richardson of New Toronto. They all reside at Houston, Tex., the new home of the manned space centre.

Oshawa Man Honored by Welfare Council

OTTAWA (CP) — H. E. G. (Dick) Davis of Ottawa, who played a leading part in increasing the Canadian Welfare Council's budget to $400,000 from $50,000 in 17 years, has become the council's 10th honorary member.

Mr. Davis, 68, retired as executive president early this year. He was honored Wednesday at the closing banquet of the council's 43rd annual meeting.

A citation read by Philip S. Fisher of Montreal, the council's honorary president, noted that under Mr. Davis' "wise and vigorous guidance" the council staff had increased to 50 from 13 and that it had moved to specially built headquarters in Ottawa.

"More important however, is the widening of the council's functions, of its usefulness, and of its influence in the field of social welfare," the citation said.

Mr. Davis, a sociologist, was in YWCA work for 20 years before becoming director of the Canadian Youth Commission in 1943.

He was the leader of a group which founded the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs (the Couchiching Conference) in 1921 and was its executive secretary until 1946 when he joined the welfare council.

Mr. Davis told the 500 dinner guests that the council has a major role in the broad social welfare scene "in eliminating poverty and unemployment, in housing, and in the country's social security system, in ensuring adequate health care for all, in improving housing and community planning and in helping to meet the needs of the developing areas of the world."

TO EXPAND UNIVERSITY

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — A $8,000,000 chemistry and biology building will be built on the University of Waterloo campus by September, 1964, as part of a $4,500,000 expansion program announced Wednesday. The science building and a $1,500,000 library, also projected for that date, will increase the size of the school by 25 per cent. Authorities predict an enrolment of 2,600 students in 1964, a jump of 600 more than 1963-63.

municipalities selling debentures to the federal government to assist in financing the project.

WON'T DISCONTINUE

The prime minister, who flew to Toronto for the dessert course of the convention banquet and to deliver his 30-minute speech before returning directly to Ottawa, also declared his government has no intention of discontinuing any of the municipal aid programs of the former Conservative government.

He said they were sound and worked well. Some might be enlarged, and his government is working on further assistance to housing and urban renewal and development, which is part of the Liberal party's program for the current Parliament.

Before his arrival, the federation had called for a revision of the British North America Act to clarify the relationship of various levels of government.

The federation also unanimously agreed that a tri-level government conference should be held to consider drafting a modern policy aimed at obtaining a more satisfactory federal-provincial - municipal relationship.

"What was adequate in 1867 is not adequate today," said President J. A. Mongrain, mayor of Trois - Rivieres, Que. Municipalities must no longer be considered mere urban appendages to the provincial or national economy, but rather centres around which the major economic activity of the country revolves.

ASKS MORE AID

The federation asked the federal government for increased aid to education and urged extension of the National Housing Act to provide loans for industrial and commercial development in urban areas.

It was noted that municipal government today has 18.4 per cent of national tax revenue compared to 41.7 per cent in 1921.

Mayor Garnett Newkirk of Chatham, Ont., said municipalities must ask for more financial aid for education from senior governments.

He said the battle for municipal independence will be won or lost during the next three or four years and "the future of our cities may depend upon simultaneous studies of taxation by Ottawa and the 10 provinces."

Ann Landers

Wife Nearing 40, Put On Shelf by Husband

DEAR ANN LANDERS—The letter signed "Second Time Around," from the man who believes all first wives should be shot at 40 was quite a revelation.

You see, I am a first wife and my 40th birthday comes up in October. My husband is also having a sizzling affair with a woman about 20 years his junior, and I've been wracking my brain trying to figure out what to do about it. Now the answer is clear. I am supposed to hand my husband a gun and tell him to shoot me.

After all, what am I good for? I've already raised his four children, my figure isn't what it used to be and I must put on glasses to read the telephone book. I'm no longer able to help in business because he sold it last year — for a fantastic figure, I might add. Now he plays golf, takes trips, and spends his afternoons shopping with his girl friend.

I am not much of a golfer and I can't travel with him because she travels with him. And you know — three is a crowd.

Thank you for printing the man's letter, Ann. It provided me with just the right answer. Russian roulette, anyone? — FIRST WIFE.

DEAR FIRST WIFE — Thank you for an interesting letter. I think you will find the one that follows a revelations, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I hope "Second Time Around" reads this. It may give him a clue as to what might be in store for him.

I am not very bright, but this is one subject I know well because I was one of those stupid fools who married a man old enough to be my father. Now I am paying for it — with interest.

Every young chicken who marries an older man will take an oath that she did not break up his marriage — she knows it was on the rocks when she came along.

Not me. I deliberately broke up this man's home and I admit it. I will tell you what I have learned after 10 years, and any girl who is flirting with the notion of doing as I did can expect just about the same.

The bloom is off the rose after three months. Then the old boy gets tired and wants to put on his bifocals and read the paper or watch TV every night. The romance factory is shut-down. Forget about it.

He becomes insanely jealous of any man my age and wants constant reassurance that I am not cheating. The Spanish Inquisition was a Sunday school picnic compared with what I go through about three times a week. I can't have groceries, clean clothes, newspapers, milk or packages delivered because he doesn't want "men" around here during his working hours. Charming, isn't it?

All our social friends are his friends — you can almost smell the embalming fluid. The people in my age group are bored stiff with his company and have stopped asking us over.

I could go on and on and on, but I think you get the idea by this time. One final word: About the 100th time someone mistakes the old geezer for your father you begin to realize maybe it wasn't worth it. — MADE MY OWN BED.

DEAR MADE YOUR OWN BED — Thank you for a fitting wind-up to a highly controversial subject. I received many pros and cons but yours (in terms of your viewpoint) was among the most vivid and articulate.

spoke, said he hoped the new Liberal government would follow up the cost-saving efforts begun by the Conservative government. He also suggested action to validate last year's estimates which were never approved. Mr. Gordon made no comment on this.

NEED MORE MONEY

Unforeseen expenditures have always required governments to come back to Parliament for extra appropriations which, in recent years, have ranged from $120,000,000 to $280,000,000.

As well, no appropriations have yet been requested for a number of the government's announced programs such as increased aid for technical and vocational training — already costing $156,649,000 — establishment of a new department of industry and two new economic agencies, and a $100,000,000 capital fund for the Atlantic Development Board.

Biggest single increase announced Wednesday was a $27,827,800 jump in the cost of carrying the national debt. The new estimate of this cost, $881,008,800, isn't precise since it doesn't reflect current borrowing costs which are lower than when the figure was struck late last year.

About one - quarter of the spending budget goes to defence, up $38,083,363 to $1,628,833,538. This includes $30,000,000 of the extra $65,000,000 listed in the finance department budget for pay increases.

BUILDING FRIGATES

The defence budget has $7,000,000 for nuclear "facilities" such as storage dumps, in line with the government's decision to acquire nuclear warheads, plus a $6,400,000 start on a $374,000,000 naval program to build eight frigates.

There were a few major spending cuts indicated — $19,500,000 less for airport terminal construction, and an $18,287,000 decline in payments to the provinces under the current federal-provincial tax arrangement.

Last year's $30,000,000 contribution for municipal winter works projects wasn't repeated. The government hasn't yet indicated whether this program will continue.

However, shipbuilding subsidies are forecast at nearly double, $30,000,000 from $15,500,000, and there is a new $10,000,000 item to help speed completion of the Trans-Canada Highway in the Atlantic provinces.

HEALTH SPENDING UP

Estimates of the health and welfare department are boosted by $104,806,901 to $1,304,810,851. Among the increases: $60,000,000 more for hospital insurance, $21,190,000 more for unemployment assistance, $8,100,000 more for old age assistance, and $6,000,000 more for family allowances.

Another big department, agriculture, has estimates of $173,232,180, up $11,818,880, with an $11,536,000 rise in the cost of storing surplus wheat and an added $3,000,000 in payments under the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act.

The public works department trimmed its spending minutely, to $191,807,405 from $191,897,901.

Past subsidies to the railways totalling $70,000,000 are being continued pending decisions on long-range transport policy.

CBC GRANT RISES

CBC's grant from Parliament to help cover operating costs is earmarked at $79,430,000, up $4,443,000, and its capital grant is $740,000 higher at $7,340,000.

A total $4,970,400 is listed on preparations for the 1967 centennial celebration, an increase of $2,813,200.

The external affairs department's budget is $9,014,238 higher, at $95,785,367. But last year's $8,300,000 cut in Colombo Plan contributions, much criticised by the Liberals, was not restored.

A total $218,197,868 in loans and investments—not included in budgetary spending—is provided for including authority for loans of up to $55,000,000 to the shaky unemployment insurance fund. This would be on top of an earlier $55,000,000 of loans made in April and May.

Works of Pablo Picasso To Make Fashion Imprint

EDMONTON (CP) — The works of Pablo Picasso will make their imprint on the fashion world this fall.

A Canadian company and its American parent firm have obtained permission to reproduce works of the Spanish artist on their line of women's sports wear.

White Stag Limited, a New York firm with its Canadian headquarters here, last August conceived the idea of reproducing Picasso's paintings, sketches and designs on sports wear.

Company representatives travelled to the South of France where the 82-year-old Spaniard lives. After he gave his permission, they began the task of selecting works that would lend themselves to women's fashions.

Fourteen paintings were chosen. Colors range from bold, bright yellows and reds in "Three Musicians" to delicate shades on a blue background for dancing forms of "La Joie de Vivre" and muted black tones in "Night Landscape."

ARTIST SET RULES

Reproducing the master's work on cloth is a delicate and difficult task. The paintings are transferred to the cloth in a process not unlike photo reproducing.

A problem is reproducing the entire painting on one section of the garment—this was a condition laid down by Picasso. In some cases the cloth had to be cut first and then printed to get the desired three - dimensional effect. For garments made in Canada the cut cloth had to be sent to New York for printing. On each garment the artist's signature stands out clearly.

Planned for September distribution, the array of fashions includes shirts, full-length culottes, ponchos, sweat shirts, and jackets with fabrics ranging from plush piles to poplins, silks, cotton knits and corduroys.

Work Is Being Held up By Shortage of Baboons

KAMPALA, Uganda (Reuter) — How people treat their children in 10 years' time may depend on how the baboons in Uganda behave during the next three years.

That may seem far-fetched, but British doctor Thelma Elizabeth Rowell says it is true. In Uganda to study baboons' behavior, Dr. Rowell explained that one can watch baboons do things one could not watch humans do.

And among people interested in the results of her work, she says, will be child psychologists.

Only one thing is holding up Dr. Rowell's work at the moment. There is a shortage of baboons.

Although there are thousands of baboons in Uganda, it seems that they are unwilling to be caught and caged so that Dr. Rowell can listen to them talking to each other and watch how they behave and how they treat their children.

So far, Dr. Rowell has three baboons in her open-air "laboratory" in Makerere University College's zoology department here—one adolescent and two youngsters.

MONKEY-TALK EXPERT

The adolescent, whose stage of development can be compared with that of a boy of 17, was a gift from the kabaka (king) of Buganda, the biggest of Uganda's four kingdoms. An animal orphanage supplied the two young ones.

Dr. Rowell is becoming something of an expert on monkey talk. Baboons and monkeys, she says, "can express fear, anger, pleasure and quite subtle combinations of these."

Dr. Rowell worked with Dr. Robert Hinde, a zoologist at Britain's Cambridge University, for three years studying the ways of rhesus monkeys. They worked out the monkeys' language and discovered many new facts about the relationship between adults and babies. They discovered, too, that even monkeys have complexes.

WEDDING

WRIGHT — TOMLINSON

PICTON — A wedding of wide interest was solemnized Saturday afternoon, May 25, 1963, in Hillier United Church when Carroll Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Tomlinson, Port Carling, became the bride of William Kenneth Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wright of Hillier. The Rev Donald Pipe conducted the ceremony in a setting of white mums, pink snapdragons and ferns.

Miss Evelyn Wright, Niagara Falls, played traditional wedding music and for the hymns "O God of Bethel" and "O Perfect Love," sung by the guests.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta, the bouffant skirt bowed at the waistline with tiny impressed pleats at the back, the bodice with scooped neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. She wore lace gloves and carried pale pink roses and fern. A lace-covered pillbox held at bouffant veil.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Shirley Brostch of Hamilton, sister of the bride, was gowned in pale pink crystal charm with bouffant skirt, and bodice covered with a button-back jacket of the same material with a scalloped lower edge.

Miss Gail Brostch, niece of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, wore a dress identical to that worn by her mother, as matron of honor. Their headdresses were pink crystal charm bows centred with a single pink rose. They curried deep pink roses and fern.

Mr. Harry Walters, Peterborough, was groomsman and Mr. Rodger Hamilton of Hillier, cousin of the bridegroom, ushered.

A reception for nearly fifty guests was held in Hillier Community hall. The bride's mother wore a blue linen Chanel-style suit with tie silk blouse in blue print, white hat and accessories and corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige linen sheath with accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake made by the bride and decorated by Mr. Adams of Wellington. Bouquets of tulips and other spring flowers decorated the table and were used throughout the hall. Hillier United Church Women served.

For a trip to Gananoque and a Seaway cruise, the bride donned a yellow tapestry weave Chanel suit, white blouse, white hat and accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright will reside on the bridegroom's farm at Hillier. The bride is teaching at Quinte Secondary School in Belleville and is a graduate of MacDonald Institute, Guelph.

Out-of-town guests were present from: Thamesford, Peterborough, Brantford, Toronto, Port Carling, Hamilton, Woodyer, Foxboro, Belleville.

St. George's Guild Enjoys Bus Trip

On Tuesday last the members and friends of St. George's Guild held their annual bus trip.

They chose this year to go to Bancroft and later on to Peterborough, and in spite of a rainy day, a few pleasant hours were enjoyed.

The lunch hour was spent in Bancroft, also sight seeing and the ride to Peterborough was pleasant seeing the distant hills and several large lakes near the highway.

Some time was spent window-shopping before the dinner hour.

Later, the drive home was pleasant. All returned with memories of another happy trip through the northern counties.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

On the table of the restaurant, as we sat down to be served, we read a small card which read: "Two men went to church to pray. One was a self-satisfied leading citizen, and the other a school teacher. The prominent citizen stood, and with eyes rolled upward prayed: "O Lord, thank Thee that I am not like these professional men, even as this poor teacher. I pay half the teacher's salary; it is my money that built this church; I subscribe liberally to foreign missions, and to all the work of the church. It is my money that advances Thy cause."

The school teacher's prayer was quite different. He simply bowed himself in humility and said: "O Lord, be merciful unto me, for I was that man's teacher."

There was food for thought. It may not have helped our digestion but it surely did something for our spirits.

There is altogether too little understanding abroad of the difference between charity and justice. Charity is essentially an attitude toward life which is based upon recognition of our just duties. When we do our duty we have a right to feel clean and right inside. But we have not earned the right to pride. There is no justification for applause.

The trouble with most givers is that they forget that they should give because they are really getters. They are, too often, overcome by kneebending and back-slapping and the shouts of hurrah. Thus, the strange phenomenon: people glory in, talk about and seek reward for their gift. They are not interested in giving, when they give this way — they are more concerned with getting!

Modern philanthropy often misses the spiritual mark. Many perform acts of charity. But how do they perform? They are interested in the act, the open acknowledgment, public acclaim. And worst of all: having given, they begrudge those who can't, or sneer at those who won't.

THE GIVERS

Some of the best-intentioned, well - oriented social, religious and cultural institutions are really to blame for fostering this attitude in the "givers." They might be saying: "Lord, be merciful unto me, for I was that man's teacher!" — for by their method and madness, their frenzied efforts to achieve their goals and supply their needs, they often cater to the lowest, not the highest passions of men.

It has been suggested, however, that there would be few people, indeed, to contribute to the various causes which thrive on public support, if, in the process, human vanities were not fed and exploited. Perhaps so. Perhaps we have not reached the millennium wherein men motivate their actions by thought unblemished by ulterior purpose. Perhaps the human ego still remains primitively under - developed and can be reached only by appeals to pride. Make anonymity the reward for charitable gifts and suffer the consequences of no giving, many contend.

Regrettably, they appear to be right. Secret assistance, unheralded voluntary gift - offerings, charity that is based on justice and not on vanity seem so unrealistic a hope in an age when "fund-raising" has become an industry and its techniques are geared to sublimated or vulgar forms of flattery.

Signs of our times, indeed. Even goodness has lost its spiritual meaning and has become an emblem of vanity, a key to power and an index of self glory. Selflessness? Does it abide yet? Or is it but a guise for selfishness?

Charity, we are told, begins at home. Perhaps that's the root of our difficulty. Our homes have not yet learned how to teach the fundamental truth: charity is not only a gift; it is a way of giving. Charity is not only an offering; it is a way of living.

IODE Shifts Its Emphasis To Canada First, Says Head

VICTORIA (CP)—Mrs. W. D. McGibbon of Toronto, new national president of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, says the order's emphasis in recent years has shifted to "Canada first, Commonwealth second."

In an interview following her election Wednesday at the close of the order's annual meeting, Mrs. McGibbon said she is anxious that people recognize the "tremendous changes in the viewpoint of the order to Canada within the Commonwealth."

ASSIST YOUTH

The IODE educational program is aimed at assisting Canadian youth. Many IODE welfare services provide assistance to Canadians, she said.

When the IODE was first formed in 1900 patriotism in the British Empire was its first goal, she said.

Eighty national councillors were elected to the national chapter.

Those from Ontario—Mrs. C. L. Ballard, St. Marys; Mrs. Beasley, Windsor, Mrs. E. S. Brand, Ottawa; Mrs. Donald M. Brown, Brantford; Mrs. J. Gordon Davidson, Guelph; Mrs. Alexander Dawson, Niagara Falls; Mrs. Donald Dow, Fort William; Mrs. R. M. Merritt, Chatham; Mrs. D. Murray, Peterborough; Mrs. S. W. Ralph, Brockville; Mrs. C. E. Reynolds, North Bay; Mrs. R. J. Shippen, Sarnia; Mrs. J. G. Spragge, Ashburn.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Sponsors Cooking Class

MARMORA — The "Quick Tricks" cooking demonstration presented by Miss Lois Hurst of Cornish, Hydro home economist, in the Plaza Theatre, on Thursday afternoon, drew a large attendance of interested ladies. The event was sponsored by Marmora Chapter of the IODE, in co-operation with the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission and the local Public Utilities Commission.

Mrs. G. Mallejohn, Regent of the IODE officially opened the cooking school and Reeve William Shannon, who has been on the Ontario Hydro Commission for seven years, brought greetings.

A film, "This Land is Mine" presented by Ontario Hydro, was enjoyed by all and Stereo Hi-Fi music for the afternoon was supplied by Mr. Thomas Cassidy.

The IODE realized more than $50 from the sale of tickets.

Mrs. Mallejohn thanked Miss Hurst, Mr. Haynes of the Plaza, the Hydro and all, for their several contributions to the success of the afternoon.

Explorers, COC Hold Annual Mission Night

DESERONTO — The Explorers and C.O.C. groups of the Presbyterian Church of the Redeemer held their annual "Mission Night" program on Friday, May 17. Mr. Kames Westerhoff opened the program with prayers and welcomed some 50 parents and friends which included four guests from Kingston.

The children dramatized their mission stories, sang songs, recited poems and showed the handcraft work they had done in the past weeks.

Miss Jessie Rogers, of St. Andrew's Church in Kingston, showed a Mission film which was enjoyed by all.

The Explorers received membership certificates and stars which were presented by Miss J. Rogers and Mrs. R. Pentland of Kingston, Mrs. Jean Griffiths C.O.C. leader and Mrs. Carol Reid, president of the W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid.

Mrs. Kay Hood thanked the ladies from St. Andrew's W.A. groups in Kingston who brought, as gifts for the church, an electric tea kettle, three folding chairs and a hot plate.

Refreshments were served by the children and their leaders.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: My husband has the horrible habit of insisting that guests stay when it's time for them to go. It annoys me, and I'm sure it annoys guests who wind up, at his insistence, staying much later than they wanted or intended to. He feels this is hospitable, but I think it's rude and feel quite embarrassed about it. Don't you agree this shows bad manners on the part of the host? — Mrs. T. B., Syracuse, N. Y.

Answer: The host who insists that guests stay on is on a par with the thoughtless guest who won't budge when the party ends. Each puts the other on the spot, socially speaking. When a guest seats out his host to say good night, he should see him to the door without further ado and respect his wishes.

Question: When a bride and bridegroom receive parents and close friends with pictures of the wedding, must they be framed? My mother says it's incorrect to give them in folders. The pictures are putting us to a great deal of extra expense already. — Mrs. P. C., New Haven, Conn.

Answer: Pictures may be given in folders. There's no necessity for putting them in frames, unless you want to make a special presentation to both of the parents. But this depends on your own personal feelings and, of course on the state of your finances.

Question: Where should one place her handbag when dining in a restaurant? Must it be held on the lap? May a small bag be placed on the table? I always have trouble balancing a large handbag on my lap, in addition to gloves and napkin. May a bulky bag be placed on the floor without causing raised eyebrows?

Mrs. I. C., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: A handbag, preferably, is held on the lap, covered by the napkin. If it's large and unmanageable, then it may be placed on the floor, under the chair or very close to it so it won't cause anyone to trip. Regardless of how small it is, a bag should never be placed on the table. Handbags may be placed on an empty chair, if there happens to be one at the table. When sitting on a banquette, the handbag may be placed alongside, as long as it doesn't nudge into the neighboring diner. An enormous satchel, or course, is better off on the floor, where it's out of the way and not apt to cause anyone inconvenience.

Remarks That Mothers Get Tired of Hearing

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that mothers get tired of hearing:

"Don't tell me we're having shish kabob with grape leaves for dinner again! That's what I had for lunch. Can't you ever think up anything new?"

"After all, mother, this is a new generation, and I don't want to be stick-in-the-mud. Why, there are girls in our class who have been going steady since they were 10— and here I am almost 13 years old."

"Hey, mom, here's some good news: My big pet black snake in the basement has just had kittens. Now we can have snakes all over the house."

"Mothers sure have it easy today. My grandmother used to have to go out and help pull the plow when the mule got sick."

"Three of her front teeth are coming in crooked. But I think that in three years—and for $700 — I can straighten them out nicely."

"I don't care what the kids did. I've had a hard day at the office. If they need punishing, you punish them."

"Hurry up and come on the button, mom, or I'll be late to school."

"Mother, dear, could you please help me with this homework problem in algebra? While you're working it out I'll watch television. They've got a real keen program on, and I'll just die utterly if I don't get to see it."

EVERYONE WILL LAUGH

"Stab me with a knife, mother, shoot me with a gun —but please, please, please don't make me wear an old-fashioned dress like that to school. Everybody in class will laugh at me. I'd rather be dead, dead, dead."

"What a soft soap women have today. Why, my grandmother used to take it washing to help out the family."

"Please don't let dad see my report card, mom. He'll kill me—I just know he will."

"I'd love to help you with the dinner dishes, mother dear, but right now I have to call Jane and ask her about this history quiz we're going to have tomorrow. You wouldn't want me to flunk it, would you?"

"So what if the meal does get cold, mom? I ain't really hungry anyway."

"How I want to get one thing straight once and for all: I'm the boss in this family."

"I don't see why you complain about being so tired. Why, my grandmother worked 16 hours a day, lived to be 80, and never had a labor-saving device in her life."

"What do you do with all the money I bring home to this house—pour it down the drain, or just throw it away with both hands?"

"If you want new wallpaper, honey, you'll have to hang it yourself. Maybe you can get the kids to help out. It's about time they learned to do something useful."

"Putting on a little weight, aren't you, honey? Maybe you don't get enough exercise just lying around the house all day doing nothing."

GET ME TO THE CHURCH DRESSED RIGHT

There is always an element of risk in deciding what to wear to a wedding in June. Sometimes the wedding reception will be in the form of a garden party, a perfect setting for the wedding party. But, what if it rains? While many a mother of the bride is prepared for the possibility of having to move everything into the house, she feels that the risk of a total washout is small, compared to the joyful memory of roses, green grass and a beautiful bride. The prevailing problem for every one is what to wear.

A jacket dress is the most useful choice, as the dress can be worn without the jacket. With the right accessories, it will stand on its own merits. For the tall and slender, the newest, two-piece dress is the one with the long "tie pull" overblouse. This top is usually buttoned at the back, presenting a long, sleek look to the front. The sleeves are long, full and cuffed at the wrist. The skirt can be on the "A" silhouette or widely pleated. These double duty styles, chosen in print, perhaps with pastel tones predominating, or in plain silk, crepe or linen, would be suitable for a garden wedding and useful all summer long.

SIMPLE DRESS OF CHIFFON

Another choice could be a simple dress of chiffon or silk, selected in a style and color which would also be useful and pretty in the winter season — perhaps a dark blue or rust shade. This dress could be given a summer look by worn with a flowered hat, or a wide-brimmed straw.

As this is a religious ceremony, a hat and gloves are necessary. But first of all, decide on the dress or suit, because your choice here will decide the type and color of accessories needed. The right hat can be useful, making a plain costume look appropriately dressy. A flowered hat, wide-brimmed or pillbox style, looks well with almost any type of afternoon dress, providing the fabric is plain. But a hat of this type should never be worn with a print dress, or with a dress which has a print trim. Both hat and dress fight with each other for attention. A wide-brimmed straw hat goes well with a plain dress.

CLASSIC PUMPS

Plain, eight - button gloves, either leather or fabric, and a small soft handbag, are part of the ensemble. One word about shoes—keep them plain and, unless you want to spend all afternoon with your high heels sinking into the grass, buy let-heeled classic pumps. They are useful, comfortable and becoming.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers care of this paper.

Ideal for wear from morning through an informal evening is this charming one-piece print dress of cotton shantung by Herbert Sondheim.

Body-skimming in back, the frock has a lowered waist in front with detailing which suggests an overblouse. A bateau neckline, short sleeves and slit hip pockets complete the summery picture.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

REDNERSVILLE W.I.

ALBURY — The May meeting of Rednersville W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. George Roblin with over 30 in attendance.

The president Mrs. Clarence Vanclief opened the meeting in the usual manner after which the collection and pennies for friendship were collected. A receipt for the sum of $30 was received which went to the Canadian Save the Children fund. The folk school is to be held from May 31 to June 2 at Lake-on-the-Mountain. An invitation was received from the Quinte W. I. to attend their tea on May 29 but owing to the district annual being held in South Bay Church for the Greenwood Institute the same day, members had to decline. Names were accepted to attend a tea in Peterborough on June 21st and also delegates appointed for the district annual meeting. Mrs. E. Young was responsible for the articles made during the winter which were taken to the district annual.

Mrs. Vanclief gave the history of the Institute. Mrs. Besford Peck, the area survey chairman for Carrying Place and Rosamore informed the ladies that the TB survey will be conducted from July 16-19. A film was shown on TB by Mrs. Ronald Giles.

A vote of thanks was expressed to the hostess and lunch committee.

The June meeting will be held in Albury Church on June 20 at 8 p.m.

Bemersyde IODE Endorses Varied Motions

CAMPBELLFORD — The May meeting of Bemersyde Chapter, I.O.D.E. was held at the home of Miss Dorothy Kingston, of Frank St. on Thursday evening.

The Regent, Mrs. George Vice, was in the chair and reports were heard from the secretary, Mrs. Glynn Vandewater and treasurer, Mrs. Don Bennett.

Mr. R. Stone was present to explain the use and meaning of the P.S.I. County enrolment plan. He pointed out how successful this project had been as a community then a township plan and now as a county plan.

A question and answer period was held and the speaker was thanked by the Regent.

Mrs. M. Locke reported that the "Birthday Tea" held recently was a great success and thanked all who had assisted.

YOUTHFUL WINNER

Mrs. D. Bennett reported that the winner of the Bemersyde Chapter Music Scholarship was a ten-year-old pianist, Rachel Aspiral of Cobourg, who will use the scholarship to further his musical studies at the Toronto Conservatory next year.

An invitation was received from the Norwood Chapter of I.O.D.E. to attend a tea at their Legion Hall on Saturday, June 1st. Several members expressed interest in attending this affair.

Recommendations from the executive meeting were heard and the following motions approved: that a Christmas concert be held again this year; that a masquerade ball be held in October; that the educational secretary is to be in charge of the Music Festival scholarship.

Reports were heard from group leaders and conveners and educational secretary, Mrs. F. Rutherford, reported on the acceptable methods of recognizing Grade VIII pupils of the Separate and Public Schools. A motion was passed that a commemorative scroll and a pen be presented to each of these students by the I.O.D.E. in June.

Commonwealth Relations convener, Mrs. H. Cryderman, read an interesting paper entitled, "The Astonishing History of Queen Victoria's Birthday." This outlined the tremendous advances in industry, automation and communications made in Queen Victoria's reign. In 1898 the date May 24th was proclaimed as Empire day in recognition of this great and the tradition is still carried on.

The Regent gave the first part of her report of the annual convention of the I.O.D.E. held in Hamilton last month and will continue this at the next meeting.

Mrs. D. Watters thanked the hostess and the meeting was brought to a close.

Harders School Pupils Present Music Festival

2ND SIDNEY — A splendid musical festival was held at Harders' School on Wednesday evening last, and opened with Fe s singing of "The Maple Leaf Forever," and a piano solo by Juanita Bewley.

On the front lattice three houses, one made of red paper representing bricks; another covered with leaves and branches, and the third one, round in shape and covered with straw.

Beside the straw house was a flute; by the leafy house, a violin and bow, and by the brick house, a little toy piano.

Among the children on the stage were some wearing horrible masks representing the Big Bad Wolf, and the "Three Little Pigs." As the curtain rose, one little pig, violin in hand, was playing his fiddle; another his flute.

A fantasy, based on the nursery story of the "Three Little Pigs," and the Wolf that blew their house down. The first little pig, Larry Gilchrist, sang a solo; Steve Dunn played the Wolf, and Billy Gilchrist was the 2nd little pig, and the 3rd little pig, George Sandercock.

The second play of the night was also a fantasy on the "Fairy Queen", with Bruce Hill and Alec Dunn as elves, dressed in green hats, who sang a duet; Betty St. Hilaire sang a solo; Linda Yateman, Donna Yateman, Diane Post and Joan McMurter sang together. This depicted an episode of "Spring and Summer." The three girls, as butterflies were Nancy Pomeroy, Bonny St. Hilaire and Ida Sine.

Following an hour of movies, depicting the children at the last two Christmas concerts, was put on by Arnold Meyers.

First vice-president, Mrs. John Wallace presided and opened the program by reading a poem.

Correspondence was dealt with and Presbyterial W.M.S. summer rally to be held in St. Andrew's, Stirling, May 29th was announced.

The key word "Beauty" was given by Mrs. Milton Shaw.

Mrs. Thos. Dodds and Mrs. Chester Sills gave readings.

A solo was rendered by Mrs. William Donnan.

The program closed and Mrs. Wallace led in prayer.

A delicious lunch was served.

ARREST HORSEMAN

QUITMAN, Ga. (AP)—Police reported that they clocked a horseman at 35 miles an hour before arresting him and charging him with speeding and reckless riding. The officers said they arrested Joseph Coggins under a 50-year-old ordinance after residents reported that he was racing around on a horse and endangering life and property. Coggins forfeited $17 bond in the case Monday.

Horticultural Society Enjoys Bus Trip

STIRLING — The Stirling Horticultural Society under the direction of the president, Mrs. Floyd Armstrong chartered a bus on May 25th for Ottawa to view the gorgeous display of tulips. Thirty-seven passengers left the village at seven in the morning and arrived home at 10.15 that evening.

Two hours were spent at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Here the tulips were planted in solid colors with low flowering plants as a pretty background which covered the earth and added beauty. The flowering crab trees were a mass of bloom and the lilacs and rock gardens were a riot of color.

The group enjoyed their own box lunches at the farm and afterwards followed a scenic drive of 24 miles along the Rideau Canal. A visit to the Parliament Buildings and the flower festival closed a day of activity. Some of the group enjoyed a boat trip up the Rideau Canal while others went shopping on their own.

The bus left Ottawa at 7 o'clock for the homeward trip.

Easy Boston Brown Bread

by Mary Moore

One of our contributing readers asked for a recipe for Boston Brown Bread with whole wheat flour and raisins "that do not sink".

So we added Boston Brown Bread with raisins to our list of "things to make" and early Friday morning donned big aprons. By 8.00 p.m. we had made nine things. I had to make calls on sick friends to give them away and make phone calls on well friends and invite them to dinner.

The Boston Brown Bread recipe I based mine on comes from Lunenburg, Nova Scotia and impresses me with its fine flavor, ease of preparation and economy.

We used three 20-oz. cans (from canned pineapple and peas and tomatoes) to steam our bread in. When it was cool it sliced beautifully — ¼" thin. Buttered, with applesauce or stewed rhubarb, it is delicious. Or made into dainty white cream cheese or marmalade sandwiches it is perfect for afternoon tea or as a variation in lunch boxes.

STEAMED BOSTON BROWN BREAD (with raisins):

1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour, 1 cup unsifted whole wheat flour, 1 cup cornmeal, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 cup seedless raisins (Sultanas), ½ cup molasses, 1½ cups buttermilk, 2 tablespoons melted shortening.

This requires only one mixing bowl.

Mix together in mixing bowl the flour, whole wheat flour, cornmeal, sugar, soda and salt. Now stir in the raisins to flour them well. Add molasses and buttermilk and stir well. Add shortening and stir well.

Have ready three 20-oz. empty tin cans (or four 15-oz.) well-buttered, using your fingers to butter them carefully. Fill cans no more than 2-3 full. Cover amply with aluminum foil and tie with string securely. Steam 3 hours in covered steamer on trivet in 2" of water. Cool in cans

Untie and remove foil. With wheel can opener remove bottom of can and gently push loaf out. Allow surfaces to dry out a little uncovered before wrapping and storing.

This keeps excellently so wrap well the unsliced loaves and store in refrigerator.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY (Guests)

Chicken en Casserole (see Monday); Onizine Leaf Lettuce, Spinach and Cucumber Salad; French Dressing; Crusty French Bread; Strawberries and Cream; Almond Macaroons. (see Wednesday); Tea.

SUNDAY

Roast Spring Leg of Lamb; Homemade Mint Sauce; Pan Roasted Halved Potatoes; Asparagus; Waldorf Salad; Butter Nut Cake (see Friday); Coffee.

To keep a fireplace clean easily, brush the surface with Brasso! warm. Not only will this inhibit the collection of dust, but it will render it easier to wipe off.

Nuclear Issues Can Be Settled Amicably--Rusk

WASHINGTON (CP) — State Secretary Rusk said Wednesday the United States seeks to settle outstanding nuclear issues with Canada in the fullest spirit of co-operation.

He called for effort on both sides not to create problems but to work toward mutually-acceptable solutions.

Rusk commented on a Washington Post report that the U.S. would like to base eight new interceptor jet squadrons in Canada as part of an air defence build-up but that the Pearson government is opposed to the idea.

Informants here said there is definite foundation for The Post story.

One informant suggested a possible compromise is that the Canadian government will allow U.S. planes to make an increased number of flights over Canada with nuclear weapons, thus terminating the U.S. complaint that in time of emergency—such as the Cuban crisis—hampered the immediate deployment of a dual NORAD alert.

Significantly, when asked for comment at a press conference, Rusk did not completely deny The Post report but appeared to skirt the issue by saying he did not want to create artificial difficulties in public where none now existed.

Current Canada-U.S. negotiations deal with the Canadian decision to accept U.S. nuclear warheads. Rusk said the two clear questions are important to both countries and "we are approaching them with the full co-operative spirit of co - operation." When something was ready for announcement, it would be announced.

These informants said North American air defence authorities favor greater flexibility in the dispersal of NORAD jet squadrons. Increased capability of Canadian squadrons to move to forward or alternate bases and greater maneuverability by U.S. planes across the Canada-U.S. border.

Major Change In Sugar Prices Now Appearing

NEW YORK (AP)—A sugar price skyrocket turned downward Wednesday. A United States government official predicted it will plunge back to where it was.

Trade sources debated whether prices will fall as fast or as far as they rose but agreed that a major change appears in the making.

Housewives, however, probably will not feel any effects for several days.

The price break came when American Sugar Refining Company, the U.S. industry leader, pared its northeast wholesale price for industrial refined sugar by 80 cents to $15.50 for 100 pounds.

The price action came as the U.S. Congress opened the first of three scheduled hearings in Washington into the situation.

London and Canadian markets also have weakened dramatically.

In Montreal, three major sugar refineries posted 25-cent decreases in the wholesale price of 100-pound bags. Two set their price at $16.90 and the third at $16.75.

Spy

cused again of espionage, an activity which Soviet officials almost never admit.

Gorny said British and U.S. intelligence services "use for their espionage activities members of various delegations, scientists, businessmen, cultural figures, students and tourists who come to our country."

Gorny mentioned 12 British and U.S. embassy staff members who had been named in connection with the case. All have left the Soviet Union.

Gorny conceded that "Penkovsky handed over to U.S. and British intelligence important information, a part of which constituted a U.S.S.R. state secret."

He insisted it "could not deal any serious damage to the defence potentiality of the Soviet Union." He said Penkovsky managed to get some information on old rockets while he still was in the army, and passed it on to Western agents.

Political Interest 'A Must' Says University Law Dean

By BOB TRIDBEE

SASKATOON (CP) — A year ago Otto Lang became the youngest dean at a Canadian University.

Few questioned the ability of the 29-year-old native of Handel, Sask., to handle the task of dean of law at the University of Saskatchewan.

But more than a few eyebrows were lifted when the appointment was announced because of Dean Lang's heavy involvement in politics.

A Rhodes scholar and one of the most popular instructors on the Saskatoon campus, Dean Lang is Liberal party campaign chairman in Saskatchewan.

When he was appointed he refused to admit there was any basis for criticism. His opinion hasn't changed during the first year.

"There are those who disapprove of my interest in politics and say so, but I myself disapprove of them," he says. "Every man should be interested in politics. In the business of turning out law graduates the influence of the teacher is important and it is important that these influences must be good.

"I like my students intensely interested in justice and willing to do something about it. But I can't see how we can create a law that functions in any law student and have him disinterested in the political question."

Student Is YOUNG

Dean Lang's own interest in politics developed during his early teens—"I knew I wanted to be in politics at 15."

The only son of a high school teacher (although he had three sisters), Otto Lang recalls that the family listened to as many political broadcasts a day as they could and that from an early age he took part in family discussions on economic and political events.

He entered the University of Saskatchewan at 16, graduated in arts in 1951 and in law two years later, the same year he was named a Rhodes scholar. In 1956 he was admitted to the Saskatchewan bar and also joined the university faculty, in which capacity, he was appointed acting dean of law and seven months later the appointment was made permanent.

Teaching and politics now consume most of his time although he is still interested in curling, hockey, golf and, "when I can get enough time, a good game of bridge."

DEAN IN POLITICS — Otto Lang, dean of law at the University of Saskatchewan, disagrees with those who suggest that because of his educational role he should give up his partisan political activities. He remains Liberal party campaign chairman in the province.

Fresh Review Of Federal Law Will Be Made

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Lionel Chevrier said Wednesday he will make a fresh review of federal law to see if spiralling sugar prices can be countered.

Replying to repeated Commons questions by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, Chevrier said he has no authority under the Combines Investigation Act. Diefenbaker asked what steps since they result from world market forces.

Later, Diefenbaker asked what the government intends to do about "tremendous windfall of profit" a sugar combine might make as a result of the increased prices affecting their storage stocks of sugar.

When Mr. Chevrier asked the opposition leader whether he was suggesting price controls, Mr. Diefenbaker said he realized the constitutional position in which the federal government cannot impose price controls in peacetime.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked whether the government had been in communication with the various sugar wholesalers and processors. Mr. Chevrier said the combines investigation branch of his department has made no formal report on the subject.

Pontiff

nesday night that the Pope might be able to get out of bed in a week or 10 days if he continues showing improvement, Vatican sources said.

That statement indicated optimism. But it also pointed to the fact that the next week or 10 days might be crucial, with the threat of new hemorrhag still present.

COLOR RETURNS

Vatican sources said the doctors spoke today of renewed color in Pope John's face and expressed the hope that he would gain strength little by little. Yesterday the Pope was understood to be receiving nourishment by artificial means.

However, even though the atmosphere in the Vatican was calmer, the sources made no attempt to minimize his illness and held out no hope of ultimate recovery.

They said the Pope had a "heart like a horse" and might be able to hold out for a month.

His stomach tumor, said to be about a year old, was revealed to the world only two days ago.

The Rome newspaper Il Messaggero declared "this diagnosis, made a year ago, had never been officially revealed to him" until now.

The Pope long has been rumored to have cancer but this has not been stated officially.

"The constitution of John XXIII is still resisting the disease," Il Messaggero added, "but it is a question of how long it can continue to do so."

The paper reported "a little relief," saying "the Pope is improved but alarm has not been dispersed because it is known how serious the illness is, and that it cannot be cured."

SHELL ISLANDS

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Chinese Communists fired 111 shells Wednesday night at the Quemoy and Matsu offshore islands, the Chinese Nationalist defence ministry reported today.

Former Head Convicted on Fraud Charges

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Harold Arnold Williams, 49, former president of the now defunct Mid-Erie Acceptance Corporation Limited, was convicted Wednesday of six counts of fraud involving more than $3,000,000.

A Middlesex County jury deliberated three hours before returning the verdict on the charges laid by the Ontario Securities Commission.

The prosecution called more than 30 witnesses in the six-day trial. Hartley Wednesday Judge Wilfrid S. Lane warned the jury that several witnesses in the trial "come close, in my view, to being accomplices," and their evidence should be scrutinized carefully.

There was no indication of when Williams will be sentenced. After the verdict a series of character witnesses began to testify, and the judge indicated a pre-sentence report will be prepared.

Williams was convicted of forging commercial papers or documents, uttering, between September, 1957, and November, 1959, documents he knew to be forged and attempting to cause persons to act upon them as if they were genuine; falsifying the Mid-Erie books or documents; making false statements in writing to the Bank of Montreal for the purpose of procuring money, loans or extension of credit; making similar false statements to the Royal Trust Company, and circulating or publishing a false prospectus with the intent of inducing persons to become Mid-Erie shareholders.

Testimony was that about $1,600,000 worth of now-worthless Mid-Erie shares were sold in Saskatchewan prior to 1960.

Separatist

another critically injured in a result of acts of sabotage attributed to the FLQ which claims he is fighting a neo-capitalist revolution.

Mr. Chaput, who has been interviewed twice by police since the bombings started March 8, said some members of his party have disowned him because recruiting has slowed down a bit because of the bombings on federal institutions.

He said he has no evidence about who is behind the terrorism, but describes as "an hypothesis" the claim that the saboteurs are separatists.

He suggested it is just as logical as hypothesis to say that the FLQ is made up of anti-separatists, probably English-speaking, who hope to discredit the separatist movement that this idea of his is just "an hypothesis."

"We can achieve independence for Quebec through democratic means," he said in French. "We don't need violence. Once elected to power (in the legislature) we plan to negotiate our way out of Confederation peacefully, just as 50 newly-independent countries throughout the world have shed colonialism in recent years.

3.44—Thirty-two Canadian Army paratroopers will parachute from a C-119 Flying Boxcar.

3.50—Bringing the Air Display to an exciting climax will be the thrilling precision jet aerobatics of the RCAF Golden Hawks.

FAMED GOLDEN HAWKS IN AIR SHOW — The famous Golden Hawks jet aerobatic team will be taking part in the up-coming air show. Since their formation in 1959 the Hawks have been seen by 13 million Canadians and Americans. The team, based at RCAF Station Trenton, Ont., will put on more than 150 thrilling air displays across Canada this summer. Air Force Day at Trenton is on Saturday, June 1st.

Golden Hawks Will Headline Show With Varied 'Firsts'

Saturday, June 1st, is Air Force Day and all roads in the Bay of Quinte District lead to Trenton where once again the Royal Canadian Air Force will be seen in action.

There will be something for everyone, ranging all the way from thrilling aerobatic shows by the famous Golden Hawks, to tuneful music by the renowned Air Transport Command Band.

Also there will be interesting ground displays of the various type aircraft in use, mass parachute jumping and other attractions.

Last year well over 20,000 persons attended the big show at Trenton Air Station.

But each year Trenton's Air Force Day committee faces a difficult task for each year's show must be bigger and better than the one the year previous.

MANY "FIRSTS"

This year Air Force Day will feature many "firsts" for Trenton. For instance, in the air display the "Goldilocks," a team of Harvard jet trainers, will imitate the thrilling jet aerobatics of the well-known Golden Hawks.

In past years C119 Flying Boxcars have demonstrated their capabilities as they parachute supplies using the efficient monorail system. This year, however, 32 Canadian Army paratroopers will parachute from a Boxcar onto the airdrome. The Flying Boxcars, used by No. 435 Squadron of Namao, Alta., 435 Squadron of Downsview, near Toronto, and the Canadian Joint Air Training Centre at Rivers, Manitoba, are constantly in use on paradrop exercises with the Canadian Army.

This will also mark the first Air Force Day for the newly formed 6 Repair Depot brass and reed band under the direction of Sgt. Howard Kelly. In company with the RCAF Trenton Pipes and Drums under Pipe-Major Al Howie and the Rockcliffe Highland Dancers they will open Air Force Day with a musical hour-long salute, starting shortly after 1 p.m.

OLD FAVORITES TOO

The static ground display will have many old favorites . . . No. 6 Repair personnel have refurbished one of the old World War II Link trainers to give some of the kiddies in attendance some "air time." All of the ground displays will be positioned on the western side of Trenton 's six acre No. 10 Hangar.

The display area will include many exhibits, some of which will deal with telecommunications, aircraft engines,, vintage aircraft, industrial X-ray, recreation, photography and armament.

For autograph buffs among the visitors, arrangements have been made for the Golden Hawks to be on hand from time to time outside No. 7 Hangar.

It should, all in all, be an exciting day but for those who would like to just relax and enjoy good music, the renowned Air Transport Command Band will give a concert inside No. 6 Hangar from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Members of the 1963 Golden Hawks jet aerobatic team pose for a photograph in front of one of their Sabre jet fighters. RCAF Station Trenton is one of nearly twenty Ontario centres where the famed Hawks will appear. Left to right (standing) are: F/L Dave Barker, 26, of Lakeview, Ont.; F/L Ed McKeogh, 27, (lead solo) of Montreal; F/L Hubbard, 40, (team leader) of Delia, Alta.; F/L Clarence B. Lang, 26, of Lister, B.C., and F/L Norman J. Garrick, 30, North Vancouver, B.C. Kneeling are: F/L L. W. Grip, 31, (left) of Youbou, B.C., and F/L Al Young, 30, of Stewiacke, N.S. Average age of the pilots is 30 years. Air Force Day at Trenton is Saturday, June 1st. The gates open at 12:30.

On leave from his regular job as an instructor at No. 2 Advanced Flying School at Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, F/L Fraser will fly the bright red T-33 Silver Star jet trainer through aerobatics that have thrilled crowds for the past five years at air shows across Canada and various parts of the U.S.A.

A GREAT TEAM — The triphibious Albatross completes a water-landing while a Vertol twin-rotor helicopter hovers above. Both aircraft serve with RCAF Search and Rescue Units across Canada. In Ontario, No. 102 Search and Rescue Unit at Trenton, under the control of the Air Transport Command Rescue Co-ordination Centre flies on all air marine and ground searches.

'Informal' Notice Received U.S. Will Make a Proposal To Base Craft in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has received "informal" notice that the United States government intends to make some proposal about stationing more U.S. squadrons in this country, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said in the Commons Wednesday.

However, no official communication has been received, he said in reply to Hon. Marcel Lambert (PC — Edmonton West).

Mr. Hellyer noted that the government plans a thorough review of defence policy in which questions of North American air defence would have a place.

Earlier, Prime Minister Pearson had told a reporter: "I would be very surprised if such a proposal were on the way."

Mr. Pearson was in the Commons when Mr. Hellyer replied to Mr. Lambert.

Mr. Hellyer, also talking to a reporter earlier, said he was unaware of the exact nature of the U.S. proposal, adding: "I would have to see on what basis it is made and what is involved before expressing an opinion about it."

The U.S. has an interceptor squadron at Goose Bay, Labrador, and a detachment of interceptors at Harmon Field, Nfld. They are not armed with nuclear weapons.

TORIES TURN DOWN

A request similar to that expected now from Washington was made by the U.S. during the Cuba crisis last fall. It was turned down by the Conservatives, then in office.

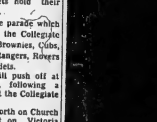
When the Liberals were in power before the 1957 election, they resisted any deployment of American interceptors on Canadian bases. Goose and Harmon are U.S. bases.

The two countries now are negotiating a nuclear custody-and - control agreement. Any more U.S. squadrons deployed in Canada couldn't be armed with nuclear warheads until signing of such an agreement.

Some 10 Canadian bases have been used for many years by U.S. interceptors on training exercises. They are stocked with spare parts so that if there were a bomber attack on North America the American jets could operate from Canadian fields.

Accused Found Not Guilty Due To Insanity

TORONTO (CP) — Michael Mason, 21, charged with capital murder in the death of his roommate last February, was found not guilty Wednesday on account of insanity.



Mason was charged after William Swayne, 24, was shot five times by a .303-calibre rifle Feb. 13 outside the apartment the two shared with another man.

Experts for both the Crown and defence had testified earlier that Mason suffered from a paranoic variation of schizophrenia prior to the shooting.

Evidence indicated the shots followed Mason's ultimatum to Swayne to stop bragging that he had slept with the only girl Mason had ever loved and to refrain from a plan to blackmail the girl and her parents.

Scouts, Guides, St. John Cadets Plan Big Parade Here on Sunday

TO TRANSLATE HISTORY

OTTAWA (CP)—The official one-volume history of the Canadian Army in the First World War will be translated into the French language, the army said Wednesday. The book, published in English in 1962 under the title Canadian Expeditionary Force 1914-18 was written by Col. G. W. L. Nicholson, former director of the historical section of the army's general staff.

One of the biggest local parades ever to be planned in Belleville will be seen Sunday afternoon as approximately 2100 Scouts, Girl Guides and St. John Ambulance Cadets hold their annual assembly.

Included in the parade which will form up on the Collegiate campus will be Brownies, Cubs, Guides, Scouts, Rangers, Rovers and St. John Cadets.

The parade will push off at about 2.45 p.m., following a brief ceremony at the Collegiate campus.

It will march north on Church to Victoria, west on Victoria to Front and south on Front Street to the Market Square and the Memorial Arena, where there will be a ceremony led by Rev. Father Terrance J. Boyle, Roman Catholic Padre of the District Council. In the event of rain the parade will be cancelled but the assembly at the Arena will be held as planned.

In charge of the parade plans are Frank J. Lancaster, chairman of the parade and ceremony committee; Mrs. Dan Stewart, Belleville Divisional Commissioner for the Girl Guides; Mr. Murray Maw, Belleville District Commissioner for the Scouts and Mrs. S. Sharman, Guide Leader.

Frank J. Lancaster, committee chairman for Sunday's parade, points out route for Sunday's Scout and Girl Guide parade, to form on the Collegiate grounds. Also in the picture are Murray Maw, Divisional Scout Commissioner, and Mrs. Dan Stewart, Divisional Commissioner for Girl Guides.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carven, Sports Editor

A book-shaking chronicler who hid behind the badge of anonymity recently took this writer to task on a story relating to the pioneer settler of Wellington, Daniel Reynolds.

Apparently an educated person, the writer signs himself "Iconoclast." The dictionary states such a person is one who "breaks images" and attacks those with visionary ideas and writings.

"Iconoclast" in a letter to the editor of the Picton Gazette cleverly covers his motive by asking that esteemed county newspaper if it is aiding and abetting distortion of the truth by publishing a story written by this writer to the effect that Lady Simcoe was once a guest of Reynolds at his stone house in Wellington where the lady was stricken with illness and brought back to health by Reynolds and his Indian friends.

"I ask" writes "Iconoclast" is there any truth in this statement. I have carefully reviewed my copy of Lady Simcoe's diary (and, get this) 'apparently unabridged'—and nowhere in there nay mention of Wellington, Reynolds or of any prolonged illness on the part of Mrs. Simcoe."

The writer who "apparently" is not afraid himself of "distorting the truth," says word "apparently" Mrs. Simcoe admits to sleeping at Mr. MacDonell's, "apparently" in North Marysburgh. This "apparently" is the crucial point to Wellington eyes visited by that clever woman."

I talked with Mrs. William Callow of Wellington and Hilton "Duke" Reynolds of the same village, great-grandchildren of the pioneer Daniel Reynolds.

"To infer," Mrs. Callow said, "that he visit of Lady Simcoe to the Reynolds home is 'a trumped-up falsehood is an insult to my family."

"Many times I have heard my grandfather Ebenezer Reynolds, son of Daniel, tell us of the visit of Lady Simcoe. His said 'she suffered with the fever and ague.' I have no reason to believe he fabricated the story.

"The story of Lady Simcoe's visit as told in the records of the early settlers is true in all respects," Mrs. Callow said, "I have heard it too many times to doubt its truthfulness."

This writer, a sports editor, is entitled in his phase of newspaper work to use certain platitudes. It goes with the job.

But I have never fabricated a story that has to do with historical record. I wrote the Reynolds story from the written of the early settlers and have since had it verified by descendants of the Reynolds family.

"Iconoclast" has no right to doubt the veracity of the Lady Simcoe story simply because that esteemed lady did not include it in her "apparently unabridged" diary.

The Duke of Wellington, a sleight of history relates, said at Waterloo, "Up, boys and at 'em." Marie Antoinette is reported to have said of the people of France who were unable to obtain bread, "Let them eat cake."

These stories do not appear in the official historical records of the periods. Yet, reportedly, they are true.

"Iconoclast" has no right to later that editor of this Gazette or any other newspaper is distorting the truth" by publishing stories handed down to posterity by the early settlers.

But that, generally, is the way with "anonymous" writers, isn't it, doctor?

Kansas Snaps Orioles Streak At Nine

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"They may have picked us for ninth place, but we're taking our time getting there," says Ed Charles, the poet laureate of Kansas City Athletics and the author of their latest triumph.

The 28-year-old third baseman with the quick pencil and the big stick stroked a bases-loaded single in the 11th inning that gave the fifth-place As a 5-4 triumph over American League leading Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night and snapped Orioles' winning streak at nine games.

One of the more consistent elements on the surprising As, Charles came to Kansas City last year in a trade with Milwaukee. He immediately chased Wayne Causey to the bench, hit at a .288 clip in his first season in the majors and proved a valuable hitter in the clutch.

Now that Causey has pushed his way back into the line-up with a .350 batting average, the As have a solid 1-2 punch at the top of the batting order and have held onto their place in the first division despite propelled slumps by Norm Siebern and Jerry Lumpe.

HITS DOUBLE

Lumpe stroked a three-run double and Siebern connected for a homer against Orioles, but it was Causey and Charles who combined single in the 11th for the clincher. Charles wound up with three hits and raised his average to .296.

The loss, only Orioles' second in the last 16 games, trimmed their edge to three games over the second-place New York Yankees, rained out at Boston. Baltimore's streak had been the longest in the majors this season.

Minnesota's surging Twins equalled that, getting No. 9 in a row by walloping Washington Senators 10-1 as Vic Power hit a grand slam homer and Earl Battey a three-run shot in support of Dick Stigman's two-hit pitching.

In the only other American League game scheduled, Charley Dees' three-run double powered Los Angeles Angels to a 4-2 victory over Detroit Tigers.

The As struck in the 11th on a walk, Causey's single, an intentional pass to Gino Cimoli and Charles' game-winner. That gave the victory to reliever Bill Fischer, who stopped Orioles on one hit for 4 2-3 innings to bring his record to an eye-opening 7-1.

HELD 2-0 LEAD

Lumpe's bases-clearing double gave A a 2-0 lead in the third, but Orioles moved ahead in the sixth when Jerry Adair singled in one run, John Orsino's triple accounted for two more and a sacrifice fly by Jackie Brandt brought home Powell. Siebern's homer in the bottom of the sixth tied the score and left the hero's role for Charles.

Stigman, now 4-5, was touched only for a first inning triple by Minnie Minoso and a third inning double by Ed Brinkman. He got all the support he needed from Power and Battey as Twins put together their longest victory string since they won nine in a row in 1949 as the old Washington Senators. The new Senators aided Twins, issuing 13 walks, and committing three errors.

Dees, playing his second major league game, broke a 2-2 tie against Tigers with his key hit in the sixth inning. Angels had scored the first run in the fifth on Albie Pearson's homer off loser Bill Faul. Dean Chance was the winner with Julio Navarro's relief help over the final 1 2-3 innings.

STILL NEED CASH

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian tennis is not far away from prosperity, Arnold Wells, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, said here Tuesday night. The Ontario accountant, here on a business trip, said last year there was an $18,000 grant from the Canadian Fitness Council, of which $10,000 was distributed to five areas for development funds. "But more funds are needed. Perhaps subscriptions by a private company is the answer."

Wants AHL Return To Draft

NHL Will Ask Playoffs Switch

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP)—When the National Hockey League opens its annual three-day meeting next Monday, the mass of business will include such things as a proposal to start Stanley Cup playoffs later, a rule to curb referee-baiting coaches and probably the return of the American Hockey League to draft status.

There has been a feeling among the upper echelons of the NHL that the gap is too short between the end of the regular season—a Sunday late in March and the start of the playoffs the following Tuesday.

Teams must move hurriedly to other cities. If the regular-season finish is close, some teams don't know where they'll be from Sunday until late Sunday night. One or two teams may find they remain at home, and benefit by the breather.

Lists of eligible players must be prepared, and there is always the problem of injured players. Further, it has been found that the Tuesday opening brings the smallest attendance of the playoffs.

The question of a later start—most likely a Thursday—will be dealt with by the NHL club owners. They are also expected to clarify the transfer rule so that NHL players, finished for the season, can't be sent to minor leagues whose season has not ended.

The rules committee will consider a proposal to curb coaches who, it is felt, through an epidemic of delaying tactics or pure cussedness have tried to make game officials look silly.

There is a favorite dodge, particularly when play has been stopped in one end. The coach calls a couple of players to the bench. They stand and dawdle. The referee can't face off the puck because the players are offside.

The referee skates to the bench. The players act dumb. The referee finally has to pull his watch and give a 15-second warning, threatening a bench penalty, while the fans ride him unmercifully.

The changed rule would empower him to call a bench penalty if such tactics cause any delay whatever.

The American Hockey League will continue, in the opening day, a meeting that began in New York last Monday. The AHL will discuss a proposed agreement restoring the draft.

MAY HOLD DRAFT

If it is ratified, the draft will also be held Tuesday when the NHL also drafts from the Western Hockey League and the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The former NHL-AHL draft was discontinued in 1963 and the AHL decided to go it alone. A shortage of capable players is said to have developed.

Under the proposal the NHL will draft from the AHL and subsequently, at the AHL annual meeting later in the month, the AHL would engage in the reverse draft. It could take NHL-owned players on the reserve list of a pro club not a member of the NHL or the AHL.

In effect, AHL clubs could get NHL surplus players. The discussed price in this draft has been $20,000. All NHL drafts are $20,000.

EDMONTON (CP) — The Western Hockey League's two Alberta teams will sit out the 1963-64 season in a bid to recover from financial headaches and lack of sponsors.

Calgary Stampeders and Edmonton Flyers Wednesday were granted a year's leave of absence from the league to allow them time to solve the problems.

The owners of the two franchises, the Edmonton Exhibition Association and the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Limited, were emphatic about the return of the two teams to the WHL in 1964-65.

Willie Mays' Clout Bad, Clutch Good

In Rough Slump

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Imagine! Willie Mays with the "good fields, not hit" tag.

Wondrous Willie is suffering through what is undoubtedly the roughest slump of his career at bat. But San Francisco Giants' brilliant center fielder still shows the old-time sparkle on defense.

After a third straight hitless game Wednesday night that dropped his average to .243, Mays made a clutch contribution with a spectacular catch in the bottom of the ninth inning at Cincinnati. He crashed into the wall in center, holding on for a one-handed grab of pinch hitter Ken Walter's long drive that helped preserve Giants' 5-4 decision over Reds.

Slugging sensation Ed Bailey rapped a three-run homer and Billy Pierce did a tight bit of relief pitching in Giants' victory, which boosted their National League lead to 1½ games over Los Angeles Dodgers.

Dodgers' game with Braves at Milwaukee was called because of heavy fog in the top of the seventh inning with the score tied 3-3 and will have to be replayed as part of a doubleheader July 21.

In the only other National League game, Bill White's homer with one out in the last of the 10th gave St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over Houston Colts.

HITS 10TH HOMER

Bailey, who is batting .329 and has 29 runs batted in on 25 hits, powered Giants into a 5-3 lead when he poled his 10th homer with two on in the sixth inning. Reds picked up a second run against Marichal in the seventh, then the right-hander was replaced by Pierce after Marty Keough's two-run homer with one out in the eighth.

Pierce saved Marichal's seventh victory in 10 decisions, holding Reds hitless the rest of the way—with the aid of May's dazzling catch.

It was a game filled with rhubarbs. Loser Bob Purkey was ejected in the fourth inning for arguing about a pitch. Chuck Hiller was thrown out for heckling from Giants' bench, and manager Al Dark of San Francisco got into a heated dispute with the umpires over a call.

As a topper, manager Fred Hutchinson of Reds announced he was playing the game under protest because Marichal had thrown more than the regulation five warmup pitches in the fourth.

BREAKS TIE

White's homer nailed down Cards' sixth victory in their last seven games, breaking a tie created when Colts scored a run in the eighth on doubles by Brock Davis and Al Spangler. Howie Goss had a homer for Houston, his third in two games and eighth of the year.

The winner was Bobby Shantz and the loser was Don McMahon, both in relief.

The Dodgers-Braves match held up once in the fourth by the fog, was finally called in after a 52-minute wait in the seventh.

Frank Howard hit his 10th homer with one on in the third for a 3-0 Los Angeles lead, but Braves caught up in the sixth when Hank Aaron doubled and Eddie Mathews, Joe Torre, Del Crandall and Amado Samuel all singled.

Softball Tilt Postponed Second Time

It was a bad night for Belleville ball clubs, from all viewpoints.

Joyce Real Estate, scheduled to pay the RCAF Eyers in Trenton, were contacted by the RCAF management just before they were ready to leave for Trenton. The grounds were too wet for the game to be played.

It was the second postponement in as many nights between the two clubs.

RCAF also told Joyce's Bill Shaw that they could not field a team this Saturday night and thus could not play Tuesday's postponed game here.

The clubs then agreed that Tuesday's game here will be played on Saturday, June 8 and last night's game at Trenton would be played the following Saturday, June 15.

Trudeaus are scheduled to visit the Bobcats in a 6.45 game at the CNRA Park tonight.

Meanwhile, up at the Fairgrounds, Kingston failed to show up for their Lakeshore baseball tilt with the Keonors and Belleville was given a forfeit victory.

Some nights you just can't win.

Jets Whip Toronto Suns Drop Five In Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

These are galling days indeed for manager Ben Geraghty of Jacksonville Suns, because batting Ben has acquired the winning habit through several seasons of successful skippering in the minor leagues.

His Suns, defending International League champions, dropped their fifth in a row Wednesday night when Richmond Virginians numbered three home runs among their 12 hits for a 10-4 victory. The loss dropped the 1962 pennant winners 10½ games behind Atlanta Crackers, the southern division leaders.

Atlanta blanked Arkansas Travelers 3-0 behind lefty Dick Lemay's steady eight-hitter, Columbus Jets downed Toronto Maple Leafs 6-3, Buffalo Bisons disposed of Syracuse Chiefs 6-4 and Jim Ackley pitched a one-hitter for Indianapolis in Indians' 2-0 triumph over Rochester Red Wings.

Ackley, a Chicago White Sox farm prize, limited Rochester to a second-inning single by Ron Kabbes in posting his fifth victory in seven decisions. Jim Koranda's two run homer off Red Wing starter John Miller produced the only runs.

DRIVES IN FIVE

Bob Schmidt, Pedro Gonzalez and Joe Durham homered for Richmond in Virginians' easy victory over Jacksonville and Reuben Gomez. Gonzalez drove in five runs.

Two errors by Syracuse in the eighth inning helped Buffalo score four runs for the Bison victory over Chiefs. The victory padded Buffalo's northern division lead to 2½ games over Syracuse.

Atlanta's victory over Arkansas was the ninth for the runaway Crackers in 10 games. Jack Kubiszyn scored all three Atlanta runs off loser Paul Brown and reliever Harry Oliver.

Two homers by Orlando McFarlane and one each by Bob Burda and Harry Elliott lifted Columbus over Toronto and pinned a second defeat on veteran Leaf righthander Steve Ridzik, who was seeking his seventh victory.

Won't Go To Hawaii

No Beaches for Belinsky

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles said Wednesday they will ask baseball commissioner Ford C. Frick to place playboy pitcher Bo Belinsky on the disqualified list because he has refused to report to Hawaii.

A player on the disqualified list draws no salary.

Belinsky, who had won only one of eight games for the Angels this season, was optioned to Hawaii Saturday night. But he decided later that he didn't want to go to the island.

Angel general manager Fred Haney said Belinsky came to him Tuesday and asked if he could be put on the voluntarily retired list. Had such a procedure been followed, Belinsky could not have been reinstated for at least 60 days.

Haney said he decided, instead to have Bo put on the disqualified list from which he can be withdrawn any time he agrees to report to Hawaii as instructed.

"There is no animosity between us," said Haney. "I like the guy. I just think he's not getting the benefit of his own abilities by his activities off the field."

Haney presumably was referring to Belinsky's liking for night life.

Could Not Field Team, Kingston Story

Belleville Kenmors got their third win of the Lakeshore Baseball League season here last night.

But they w-ren't too happy about the way they got it!

Kingston Bad Boys were just that.

They never showed up for the game, scheduled for the Fairgrounds at eight o'clock.

After a laughty wait, plate umpire Al Kelleher ordered the Kenmors on the field, called for the egal number of pitches and awarded the game to Belleville by a 9-0 forfeit score.

It is not known here what action league President Jim Crombie will take on the incident.

Lightfoots Win Over Juveniles

Lightfoot Construction outlasted Woods-Horlock Juveniles 8-7 in a free-scoring Commercial Softball League game at Park Dale last night.

Lightfoots, down 1-0 in the first, tallied three runs in each of the second and third innings and added two in the fourth to move ahead to stay. The losers bagged three in the second and two in the fifth.

Jim Jones, Don Smith in the second and George Young in the third all saw action on the winners' hilltop, allowing seven hits between them. Jones did not give up a hit but walked six to force himself out early.

Wayne Woods started and gave way to Gene Yorke in the fourth for Woods-Horlock. They gave up nine hits, fanned three and issued no less than 13 walks, eight by Woods.

Doug Morean hit a double and single and Don Smith two singles to lead the Lightfoot hitters. Cam McKenna added a two-bagger, Bob Moon, Jack Caddick, Doug Haley and Ken Brooks a single each.

Dave Whitfield slammed a homer and single and Gene Yorke hit a bases-loaded double to top the Juveniles. Jim Ross also doubled while Karl Brimbiecombe, Jack Jury and Wayne Woods hit singles.

Player Quits Leafs In Huff

TORONTO (CP)—First baseman Bob Farley, who refused to report to Toronto Maple Leafs until 10 days after the Leafs purchased his contract from Detroit Tigers, has quit the Leafs in a huff.

Farley, hitless in nine times at bat for the International League Leafs, walked out after he was replaced by a pinch-hitter in the ninth inning of a 3-2 loss to Buffalo Bisons Tuesday night.

Leaf general manager Frank Pollock said Wednesday that Farley strode into his office after the game and told Pollock to speak to Leaf manager Bill Sharman. "Nobody does a thing like this to me—but nobody," he quoted Farley as saying.

Farley was subsequently suspended by Toronto, and it is expected his contract will be sold or traded to another team.

Finley, owner of the Athletics, as saying in Chicago he had been talking with Wynn and is hopeful the veteran will join the Athletics.

Hold Your Breath, 33 Take Off In '500'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Scotsman Jimmy Clark and 32 of the hardest charging race drivers in the United States took 15,000 horsepower in their hands today in a 500-mile auto race that promised superlatives beyond anything in 48 past Memorial Day classics.

Weather prospects were good —but that's traditional. There hasn't been a postponement in years and only one in history.

The field came out of two qualifying weekends with average speeds of 149.028 miles an hour over the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway oval built in 1910 to handle speeds of 75 miles an hour.

Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif., did 151.133 miles an hour for a 10-mile record to win the coveted pole position.

There was a chance that the purse, already the world's biggest for an auto race, might reach $500,000. The race was scheduled to start at 12 noon EDT and was expected to last three to four hours.

Much of the increased interest came from an international touch and its return to respectability after being boycotted by auto manufacturers since 1958.

FORD BREAKS ICE

The Ford Motor Company broke the ice with the first direct participation in the engine-shattering grind since before the Second World War. It joined forces with Colin Chapman of London, builder of rear-engine Grand Prix cars, to produce the Lotus-Fords which Clark and Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., wheeled to the starting line.

Three other drivers from the world racing circuit didn't make the program. Champion Graham Hill of London withdrew for lack of practice. Pedro Rodriquez of Mexico City and Masten Gregory, American living in Paris, made qualifying runs too slow to stay in the field.

Ace Driver Joins Field At Mosport

TORONTO (CP)—Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., who holds the record for the fastest time around the 2.45-mile Mosport track, Wednesday became the latest driver to join the star-studded field for the International 200 there Saturday.

Gurney will be driving a 2.7-litre Cooper Monaco, the same car that Roger Penske drove into second place in the same race last year when it was fitted with a 2.5-litre engine.

Gurney, 33, established the lap record of one minute 31.2 seconds, an average speed of 96.47 miles an hour, in the Canadian Grand Prix last September at Mosport.

SHEPARD QUITS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers have announced the retirement of fullback Charlie Shepard, a plunging and kicking star of the Western Football Conference club since 1957. An outstanding kicker, Shepard once kicked a 85-yard punt that still stands as a conference record. Business pressures figured in Shepard's decision to quit.

'Second World Championship'

Vancouver Plans Cup Day

VANCOUVER (CP) — Special events chairman Frank Baker is scheduling a little squidging and squabbing to go with the scrimmaging traditional with Grey Cup week.

The 1963 East-West football classic will be played here next Nov. 30.

Baker is billing the diddly-wink tussle as the "second annual world championship" —the first was contested at the World's Fair in Seattle last year. The winners have been invited to defend their titles here.

A suggestion that the Grey Cup parade be switched from the Saturday game afternoon to the previous night will also be studied.

Bill Clancey, member-at-large of the committee, says staging the parade a day earlier will extend the festivities and draw more people and more dollars to the city.

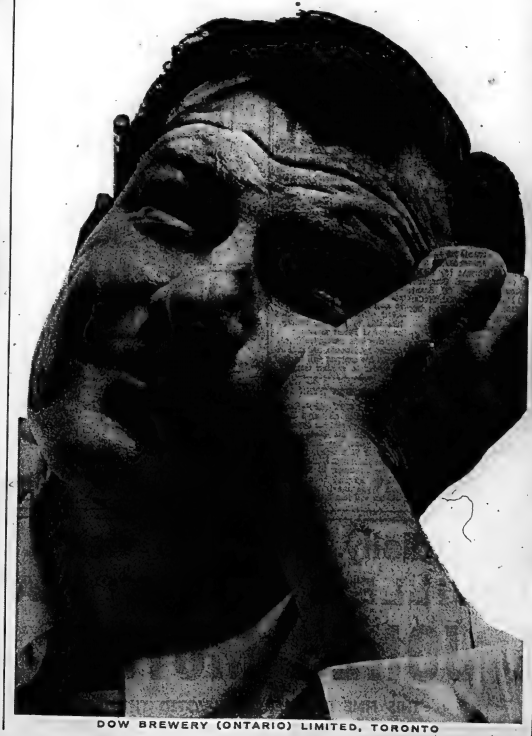
EXPECTS LARGER PROFIT

Finance chairman Jack Bain estimates the 1963 Grey Cup game this year will net about $34,000 more than last year's Toronto affair, partly because the provincial government recently wiped out the amusement tax.

He wants $17,000 of this ploughed back to help pay such expenses as the half-time show, pointing out that the Canadian Football League still would be about $17,000 ahead.

What else is planned Tea-a spectacle once reserved for football?

A bowling congress, celebrity golf tournament, Canadian pipe band finals and curling, says Baker.



"We would welcome hearing from organizations and the public of any other events that week so we can co-ordinate them all."

SUSPENDS CLEMENTE

PITTSBURGH (AP) — National League president Warren C. Giles suspended Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder Roberto Clemente for five days Wednesday because of Clemente's jostling an umpire Tuesday. A Pirate spokesman said Giles also fined Clemente $250. Clemente was ejected in the fifth inning of a game with Philadelphia Phillies at Pittsburgh after he bumped umpire Bill Jackowski during an argument over a close play at first base.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Six years ago Vince Scott mentioned in a quiet chat with Sports Editor Bob Hanley of the Hamilton Spectator that he had poliomyelitis as a boy. "Don't you write it," the great Hamilton Tiger-Cat football player warned.

Hanley kept Scott's secret until this week when the 36-year-old lineman announced his retirement from the game after a quarter of a century—five years at high school, four at Notre Dame, two with Buffalo Bills of the now-defunct All-American Conference and 14 with the Ticats.

"Vince didn't want anybody to know about his polio," Hanley recalled. "He didn't want people to think that he was any kind of a hero.

"He never liked to talk about it—this proud, sensitive, spirited workman — but there was a great story of determination and desire in his background. Polio left him with a damaged left leg.

"Home massages helped but it was Vince's own spirit in track and football at high school that restored power to the leg and developed the great physique which became 230 pounds of dynamite along the defensive line."

TERRORIZED QBS

Every team in the Eastern Conference, and Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the West, had reason to remember the squat, bald-headed little man (five feet eight inches) from Leroy, N.Y. He was a charging guard and middle guard and a terror to quarterbacks.

Nobby Wirkowski remembers Scott well. Nobby, now coach of Toronto Argonauts, was a quarterback with the team and played four years against Scott.

"He certainly was one of the finest football players to come to Canada," Nobby said this week. "I'd throw a pass and look up and, bingo, I'd go down under him. And there were lots of times, too, when I couldn't get the pass away because he was right on top of me."

Vince played in six Grey Cup finals, all against the Bombers. He was particularly effective against Indian Jack Jacobs in the 1953 final which Ticats won 12-6 and again in 1958, when Bombers won 35-28.

QUITS WHILE AHEAD

"There's no point waiting any longer," Scott told Hanley when he announced his retirement. "I tell you now I'm hanging up the gear for good. I gave football everything I had and football gave a lot to me. But all things must end and this is the time."

He said he felt "perfect physically and I'm sure I could go on, but why take a chance?

"Coaches don't like to cut old heroes and old heroes don't like to be cut. It's better to go before the party's over—better than to hang around like a Sugar Ray Robinson and have your reputation tarnished.

"Just say I retired, undefeated."

Now an inspector of equipment with a steel company in Hamilton, Scott is looking forward to spending a summer and autumn at home with his wife, three sons and daughter.

"What I have to find out now is what normal people do with their autumn evenings," he says.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Reinsman Gord Kingston of Oshawa steered home two winners and crossed the finish line second and third with other horses in Wednesday night's nine - race card at Western Fair Raceway.

Kingston clicked with Spencer Stokes in the fourth for a $5.70 payoff, came back strong in the fifth to return $8.10 on Ray Harvere, and finished second and third with Magic Key and Reed's Dream in the ninth and seventh respectively.

Maud's Boy, owned and driven by Nell McKaig of Lucan, Ont., captured the seventh race in 2:06 4-5 fastest time since the harness season got under way here Monday night.

Argyel Duke, who earned $30,082 until his legs started giving out in 1961, went to the post at 13-1 odds and returned $28.30.

TO MEET SNELL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five top runners have agreed to meet New Zealand's Peter Snell in an invitational half-mile run Friday, Bilmer Lodge, track and field chairman of the Southern Pacific Amateur Athletic Union, announced Wednesday. Snell will be trying to break his own world's record of one minute 45.5 seconds. This will be his only opportunity to run the race—which he considers his best distance—this year.

Shucks, There Was No Pay In It Anyway

TIMMINS (CP)—Joe Kavanaugh, who stepped down as president of the Northern Senior Hockey League last Monday, probably had one of the shortest tenures on record—two days.

He was elected the previous Saturday at a meeting of the league.

However, he discovered Monday he had been promoted from corporal to sergeant in the provincial police, and will be required to report to Sault Ste. Marie by June 10.

Since this would leave him almost 200 miles by road from the nearest city in the league, Kavanaugh decided it would be best to step down.

ATOMIC FUNDS INCREASE

OTTAWA (CP) — Government investment in Atomic Energy of Canada Limited will amount to $28,923,000 this year, up $10,069,500 over 1962-63. The money will go mainly for construction of the nuclear power generating station at Douglas Point, Ont., and the new research establishment at Whiteshell, Man.

Contract terms were not disclosed, but Washington coach Bill McPeak had been reported ready to go as high as $40,000 in a combined salary-bonus offer.

RHEAUME ELECTED

OTTAWA (CP)—Speaker Alan Macnaughton Informed the Commons Wednesday that its 263th and last member has officially been declared elected. He is Eugene Rheaume (PC—Northwest Territories). The announcement has been delayed by holdups in delivering ballot boxes from remote Arctic points, which in turn delayed the official count.

Successful Living

Mother-in-Law Is Buffer

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—Your reply to HAPPY MOTHER-IN-LAW sounded all sweetness and light, but as an experienced mother-in-law and grandmother, I am sorry to say that your correspondent may be heading for a shattering tragedy.

I started out with the same technique, sort of a buffer between my son and daughter-in-law, as I loved her very much. It won't work.

If you see your own situation better now, why not try patching it up? Both son and daughter-in-law are bound to be having regrets.

DEAR DORIS — I have yet to see a problem such as this occur in your column and it has me quite concerned. Bob and I have been dating steadily for well over a year. He is 20 and I am 19. Six weeks ago was the last time he told me he loved me. Many times it has seemed as though he has wanted to tell me, but somehow just could not. He is very attentive, kind, good natured and well mannered, and I know that he takes out no one else.

My problem is this: Is it considered proper and socially correct for a girl to tell a boy that she loves him first? I have lost a great deal of sleep over this and do hope you can help me. — DOUBTFUL.

DEAR DOUBTFUL — It has been said that the boy runs after the girl until she catches him. The actual question popping is supposed to be his role.

I'd say Bob is silenced by his own feeling that a further declaration of love would call for a proposal of marriage. This is no time for you to jump the rails. Just be yourself.

DEAR DORIS — I went over to my boy friend's place yesterday and I hid in the closet while his grandmother came over, and she found me. She said it wasn't nice and I know it wasn't. Then at night I got a phone call from his mother, and she said she doesn't want him to see me.

I don't know what to do. We are going steady and we planned in six years to get married. Please don't tell me there are others because I love him. — A CRAZY NUT.

DEAR NUT — Hiding in your boy friend's closet is no way to make the grade with mother. Stop chasing him and start acting the lady. If it's real love you'll know soon enough.

(Let Doris help you decide what to do. She is a Canadian social worker with long experience in counselling.)

IVANHOE — Mrs. John Stephens, Mrs William Rollins and Mrs. Don Deline were co-hostesses at a shower given at the home of Mrs. Anna McMaster on Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. John Fleming, bride of this month.

The evening was spent in making a bride's autograph book, several contests and getting acquainted.

The presentation of a walnut electric wall clock and a flower centrepiece was made by Mrs. McMaster.

Following Mrs. Fleming's reply of thanks a delicious buffet lunch was served.

The tea table was tastefully arranged, using a color scheme of blue and mauve and centred by a prettily decorated bride's cake.

Arrived 'Fully Hatched' Says La Marsh of Politics

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Judy LaMarsh figures she was "fully hatched" when she reached Ottawa.

That doesn't mean she has nothing to learn in her new portfolio as minister of national health and welfare but she says "I'm all I'm ever going to be —my potential is my capability."

The 38-year-old minister, only woman in the cabinet and its youngest member, is engaged in applying that capability to her department's priority task —instituting a contributory portable old age pension plan.

She says of her appearance on the Ottawa scene after a 1960 byelection: "I'm like the Greek mythological character who sprang fully armed from the god or goddess's head . . . I was fully hatched when I got here."

Behind her were solid achievements—first in wartime as a Japanese linguist, later in university as a law student, then as a criminal lawyer in Niagara Falls, Ont.

Of her new job she says: "This is the most liberal department in the sense that the legislation that deals with people emanates from here. My interest is people and in their welfare, in their well-being."

When she talks of her career as a criminal lawyer, the same theme is apparent.

EAGER TO START

"It's not a particularly lucrative practice but again it's helping people. There's a real sense of achievement when you are able to do something in what looks like a hopeless case.

"It's the sense of achievement and I feel this department is going to give me the same kind of thing.

"I'm not just sitting administering, pushing papers around a desk. I'm just busting to roll up my sleeves and get into it."

The tall, dark-haired woman, who will be administering and initiating federal health and welfare legislation was born in Chatham, Ont., one of three children of a lawyer.

A legal career was her aim long before she was out of school. But with an older sister and a younger brother to educate, her father told her he couldn't afford to send her to both college and law school.

During the war she tried to enrol in the air force but was rejected for poor eyesight. She entered normal school, searching for "something that would give me a reasonable level of income in order to ensure I'd be able to go to both college and law school."

"I never had any intention of teaching as a profession; it was a means to an end."

JOINED ARMY

Finally she got into the army and, as a draftsman at Halifax studying languages at Dalhousie University at night, she heard about a recruiting program for Japanese linguists.

She graduated with 98 per cent and went to a Combined Operations Intelligence centre in the United States where enemy documents and intelligence data were examined and evaluated.

This service is the basis for stories that she is fluent in Japanese. She was, but isn't any more.

When the war ended, Miss LaMarsh headed for the University of Toronto among 650 veterans cramming a three- or four-year course into 18 months. She got her first taste of active politics there, helping to head off Communist infiltration of a Legion branch she was active in forming, and engaging in young Liberal activities.

Completing her degree work in 18 months, she enrolled for three years at Osgoode Hall law school and from there set up practice in Niagara Falls.

Her home and law practice now have been turned over to Joan Morrison, a young Weyburn, Sask., girl who graduated in April from Osgoode.

REAL NAME IS JULIA

Politics has meant giving up more than her legal career and home. She likes gardening but now can't find the time. She gave up her black poodle when she moved to Ottawa. She tried living in a hotel here at first, then took a one-room apartment and now hopes to move into a larger place.

Being the lone woman in the cabinet and one of the few women MPs doesn't bother her.

"I never notice it. I never even noticed it when practising law. Either I'm dull-witted on this subject or else there hasn't been any discrimination. I've never looked for it and I never find it."

Her name has given her department some trouble. It's really Julia, not Judy. But she prefers Judy and signed the roll as an MP that way.

The department notice board had it Julia one day, just plain J, the next, but now it's Judy. What do they call her?

"Minister. I prefer to be called by my name."

WILL MEET COMMITTEES

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature's select committee on municipal law will hold discussions with similar government committees in California and British Columbia in June, it was learned Wednesday. Arthur Evans, Progressive Conservative MP for Simcoe Centre, in disclosing plans for the trip, said California is one of only two states in the United States which has a select committee on municipal law. New York is the other.

YOUNGEST CABINET MEMBER — Judy La Marsh, 38, Canada's minister of national health and welfare, is the youngest and only woman member of the cabinet. A native of Chatham, Ont., she was a criminal lawyer in Niagara Falls until elected in a 1960 byelection. (CP Photo)

Cardinal Leger Possible Choice For New Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The illness of Pope John focuses attention on the Roman Catholic church's College of Cardinals.

These 82 princes of the church represent the Pope's senate. They are his closest advisers and collaborators. Cardinals also head Vatican administrative bodies that manage the day-to-day affairs of the church.

It will be the cardinals, gathered in secret conclave, who will elect a new Pope. Almost certainly they will choose one of their number.

The next conclave will be the biggest ever, for Pope John enlarged the College of Cardinals. At present it has 29 Italian members and 53 of other nationalities.

Although the relative strength of the Italian group is smaller than it has been in centuries, it is likely that the next Pope will be Italian.

Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini, 65-year-old archbishop of Milan, is most frequently mentioned among possible future popes. He was a close collaborator of Pope Pius XII. Another Italian archbishop figuring in speculation is Alfonso Castaldo of Naples. He is 72.

Seventeen Italian cardinals on the Vatican Curia also are spoken of often. Among them is Ildebrando Antoniutti, 64, former apostolic delegate to Canada.

Non-Italians whose names are heard in discussions of papal candidates are Gregory Peter Agagianian, A Curia member, Leo Jusef Suenens, Archbishop of Brussels, and Paul - Emile Leger, archbishop of Montreal.

'Come Blow Your Horn' New Comedy by Sinatra

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The new movies:

Come Blow Your Horn is a pleasurable comedy that should ring-a-ding-ding the box offices this summer. It has Sinatra, sex, sumptuous settings and most of the elements for escapist entertainment.

It is not a perfect comedy, nor a new one. The theme of rebellious children vs. traditionalist parents has been played since Abbe's Irish Rose. But it has been modernized with Come Blow Your Horn to good results.

Frank Sinatra is the profligate son of artificial fruit manufacturer Lee J. Cobb and Molly Picon. He lives in a New York apartment that might be described as early J. Paul Getty. His hobbies run to redheads (Jill St. John) and brunettes (Barbara Rush). But his habits are upset when his kid brother, Tony Bill, escapes the family ties and moves in.

The major laughs come from the education of Tony in his older brother's ways and his parents' reactions to all this. Thus Sinatra is more or less the middle man but he keeps things together with his customary sureness and charm.

Cobb, making an infrequent dip into comedy, draws the biggest laughs with his explosions of "hmm" directed at his sons Molly Picon, veteran of the Yiddish theatre, also displays a keen touch, especially in a classic telephone scene. The ladies are lovely, and young Tony Bill comes through a winner in a long and difficult part.

A Gathering of Eagles is the answer to the question: Whatever happened to military movies? Long a film staple, they have been missing from the screen. It's good to have one back.

Because after a heavy diet of non-heroes in films, it's refreshing to watch simple, heartwarming heroics uncomplicated by Freudian motivations.

A Gathering of Eagles is simplicity itself: Boy gets job. Boy loses wife. Boy wins back wife and gets the job done.

The job is wing commander in the Strategic Air Command. Rock Hudson is the colonel who finds that he must sacrifice friendships — and almost his marriage—to achieve peak performance. His is the same modern dilemma faced by heroes in novels and films about big business: Must he be ruthless to reach success?

In Rock's case, he must.

The characters are cardboard and the plot predictable, but the scenes of the air force hardware are marvellous. You are stunned by the takeoffs of a B-52 every 15 seconds on the same runway.

SENTENCED FOR THREAT

MONTREAL (CP) — Claude Pelletier, 20, of suburban Verdun, who caused evacuation of a school by telephoning a bomb threat, was sentenced Wednesday to two years in penitentiary. Georges Blais, 19, who faced the same charge of public mischief, had pleaded guilty on arraignment but his plea was rejected. He was ordered to preliminary hearing June 5.

Next Sunday's 'Update' Will Be Last of Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the pleasant experimental programs of the last two seasons has been "Update, on NBC, developed for and aimed at the teen-age audience. But it looks as if next Sunday's Update will be the last of the series.

Robert Abernathy, commentator on the program, is not downhearted by the end of the program, feeling that it accomplished something. For one thing, he found that although the half-hour Sunday afternoon news program was aimed at teen-agers, at least half of its devoted audience had left the teens behind.

"I've had to do Update to my own satisfaction," Abernathy said, "and I've felt for some time that most news on radio and television was too condensed because of the time factor."

"The words go by so fast that many times it's hard to know just what has been said."

BREAKS IT DOWN

Abernathy has been tackling complicated news subjects on the easy-does-it basis. He treats one subject at a time, he speaks slowly, explains clearly and he breaks the program into three parts.

"News is the first part, and the middle part is more feature material, and at the end I've tried for softer material, that could give my-d'chance to deal with books and science," he said. "And all the news has had to be fairly depressing, I've tried to end the program on a hopeful or humorous note."

Abernathy expects to go back to his old job of covering the Washington scene.

SHOULD BE THINKING

TORONTO (CP)—Canada has "a major stake" in the success of next year's international trade fair - cutting negotiations under GATT, Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp said Wednesday. Canadian business and industry "should be doing some hard thinking" about what their position should be, he said in a speech to the Canadian Export Association.

HELD OVER

Seven Months to Film "Sky Above" Journey in New Guinea Jungle.

The 1000 mile trek across New Guinea's uncharted jungle and mountain region made by the members of an expedition, whose efforts resulted in the filming of "The Sky Above —The Mud Below," Joseph Levine's Academy-Award winning feature, was accomplished in seven months. This same distance, only equal to 435 air miles, could be covered by a plane in two hours. The Embassy Pictures release, recounting the strange adventures of modern man in an uncivilized part-paradise, part-hell, held over at the Park Theatre, is in color and wide screen.

Led by noted explorer Pierre Dominicus Gheusau, who also wrote and directed this unusual drama of one of the last unexplored regions on the earth, the seven man expedition and their sixty native bearers came in contact with a stone age civilization. A human adventure, strange as fiction, led this group, of whom only two of the original seven completed the dangerous journey, into such awesome sights as bottle headhunters, cannibals, pygmy warriors and never before photographed fertility rites.

The awesome site of thousands of naked "Stone Age" savages carrying out customs from a prehistoric past left indelible marks on the minds of the adventurous seven who made this strange journey.

On the same program an exotic love story photographed in color in the state of Sinaloa, Mexico, "Beyond All Limits," starring Jack Palance, Maria Felix and Pedro Armendariz. The complete shows are at 7.00 and 8.50 p.m. for these first Belleville showing attractions.

A special all comedy and laugh show with the Bowery Boys in two feature and several cartoons will be shown to the children Saturday matinee starting at 1.00 p.m.

Ever Hear of a "DIURETIC"?
Maybe not. But you should know what it "Stands" for. That's one of the times when you should use one. You likely understand how important the kidneys are in maintaining good health. Also that if the kidneys fail to function properly excess acids and waste material remain in the system. This may result in unbearable urinary irritation and bladder discomfort, often followed by backache, loss of energy and disturbed rest.

Defence Budget Increase Almost Wholly Attributable To Pay Raise for Servicemen

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—With a costly aircraft program nearly paid for, the defence department is embarking on an expensive naval construction program.

The defence budget presented to Parliament Wednesday by the government includes $6,400,000 as the start on a $374,000,000 program to build eight frigates. Cost of the ships is estimated at $196,000,000, their equipment at $178,000,000.

Meanwhile, the cost of equipping eight RCAF squadrons in Europe with CF-104 low-level jet bombers has climbed to $468,000,000 or $48,000,000 more than the original 1959 estimate.

Cost of the 200 CF-104s is calculated at $430,000,000 and of 24 CF-104 trainers at $38,000,000. An expenditure of $49,400,000 in the current fiscal year will all but complete the program.

The defence budget for the fiscal year which began April 1, 1963, is $1,626,823,538, an increase of $38,083,363 over 1962-63. The increase is almost wholly attributable to pay increases for some 121,000 servicemen retroactive to Oct. 1, 1962.

The defence appropriations were prepared by the former Conservative government. So far, the only change the Liberal government has made has been to add $38,000,000 for the armed forces pay boost.

AKE REVIEWED

Defence Minister Paul Hellyer has said all defence programs are under review. This includes frigate construction.

Other major programs contained in the defence budget:

1. $80,000,000 for 45 anti-sub marine helicopters for the navy. Expenditures this year will be $11,000,000 for 15 machines.

2. $88,000,000 for 190 CF-114 jet trainers for the RCAF. Expenditures this year will total $45,850,000.

3. $27,696,000 for 500 Bobcat armored personnel carriers. Expenditures this year: $1,560,000.

4. $16,538,000 for 12 cargo helicopters for the army. Expenditures this year are estimated at $4,000,000.

5. About $9,000,000 will provide a starter on replacement of nearly all army vehicles.

6. $5,129,300 for a four-year program to launch four more research satellites in co-operation with the U.S. Amount to be spent this year is $827,000.

7. $11,700,000 for construction of storage dumps for American nuclear warheads. Expenditure this year is estimated at $7,000,000.

Jomo Kenyatta Makes Trip From Prison Cell to Premier

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Within a few days Kenya's Jomo Kenyatta will have completed the now-customary Commonwealth pilgrimage from prison cell to premiership.

Within a month or two, if tradition holds, the alleged Mau Mau mastermind will become one of Her Majesty's loyal privy councillors.

But in each similar case the aftermath of the conflict and bitterness has been, for good or ill, a strong and stable nation. Colonial experts in London, still a little dubious of Kwame Nkrumah's Ghana, feel much more confident about Kenyatt's strife-tested Kenya.

Kenyatta is the "old lion" to his followers, the shaggy beast who fought the jungle battles, nursed his wounds in isolation and finally returned to win the war.

The lion needed as much shrewdness as courage. The sheer barbarism of the Mau Mau raids was partly calculated to hack gashes of unforgettable horror on complacent European consciences. Kenyatta wanted to ensure that things would never be the same again.

FEELINGS COOLED

During his imprisonment the feelings he had fanned on both sides began to cool, reflect and finally meet in political compromise.

The wily lion's second intelligence test came after his release two years ago when he found the fledgling Kenya nationalists divided on basic issues —distrust of the dominant Kikuyu tribe, preservation of tribal rights and whether to mould a regional or central government.

Even members of Kenyatta's own party, the Kenya African National Union were at odds twixt the thorns, the old lion succeeded in patching up the quarrels.

With KANU enjoying a clear working majority in Kenya's first self-governing parliament, Kenyatta can proceed with his plans for a centralized economy. Observers believe he will exercise moderation and caution. Minority tribes remain touchy.

After full independence Kenyatta's brilliant lieutenant, Tom Mboya, will probably succeed to the premiership and the old lion will retire to his lair as president.

STRIKE COST HIGH

In recent years about 3,000,000 working days have been lost annually in Britain through work stoppages in industrial disputes.

Tear Gas Stalls Negroes' March In Tallahassee

Mass Arrests Follow Demonstrations

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Authorities used tear gas to stall one mass march by Negroes and arrested 257 during the 10th straight day of anti-segregation demonstrations in Florida's capital city.

Most of those arrested Thursday night are students at Florida agricultural and Mechanical University, a Negro school, and their parents were ordered before state Judge Ben Willis today to answer contempt of court charges.

The other 37 are to appear in city court Monday to face charges of unlawful assembly.

There was no violence during the marches, aimed at segregated movie theatres.

Plans remained unchanged for another massive protest of segregation at two white theatres tonight.

STEP UP TEMPO

The mass arrests in Tallahasse provide the major development on the racial front Thursday, but anti-segregation activity was popping in many points across the United States.

Integrationists made plans to increase the tempo of demonstrations against segregation. In Jackson, Miss., and Mayor Allen Thompson contended that outside agitators are hoping to draw federal marshals or troops into the city.

A Negro spokesman said a massive Birmingham-type campaign will be launched in Los Angeles with total elimination of discrimination as its goal.

Cities experiencing racial demonstrations Thursday included Philadelphia, Chicago, Baltimore, Baton Rouge, La., Chattanooga, Tenn., and Cambridge, Md.

Police at Jackson, Miss., arrested 27 demonstrators Thursday including an integrated group of 14 who knelt on the front office floor to pray for racial peace and progress.

The Philadelphia school board and building contractors involved in a racial dispute office said they hope qualified Negro employees at Hope a while ago.

"I wish they'd stop all this blasted radar business."

He said this kind of law enforcement gives people "the wrong idea" about policemen.

RELEASE I.R.A. PRISONER

LONDON (Reuters) — Joseph Doyle, the last Irish Republic Army prisoner in a British jail, will be released from Wakefield Prison July 2, it was announced in Parliament Thursday. Doyle, who was sentenced to life in prison for his part in an I.r.a. raid on Albrfield barracks in Berkshire county in 1955, but his sentence was reduced after appeals by Irish MPs.

Traffic Deaths Set Record on U.S. Holiday

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic deaths in the United States hit a record for a one-day observance of the U.S. Memorial Day holiday and surpassed the prior holiday estimate of 130 by safety experts.

The death toll on the highways for the 30-hour holiday period, from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Thursday, was 141. Belated reports are expected to boost the total. The previous record for a one-day memorial day holiday was 109 in 1956.

Drownings during the holiday period totalled 23 and 11 persons lost their lives in boating accidents.

Says Radar "Sneaky Way" To Get Drivers

VICTORIA (CP) — Highways Minister Phillip Gagliardi said Thursday radar is a sneaky way to catch speeding motorists.

"I'm against radar equipment" said the minister known as "Flying Phil" because of his speeding troubles.

"I think policemen should come out from behind the bushes and travel on the highway like evrone else.

"Make men out of them—not sneaks."

He was commenting on the speed trap set by Delta police at "slow-to-50" sign on the 60-m.p.h. highway from Vancouver to Tsawwassen ferry terminal.

But he also complained that radar had caught "some of our boys"—presumably highway employees—at Hope a while ago.

"I wish they'd stop all this blasted radar business."

He said this kind of law enforcement gives people "the wrong idea" about policemen.

Work is to begin on a section extending and tearing up a 2,000-foot stretch of Berri Street between Sherbrooke and Ontario streets today in one of the busiest parts of the city. The $3,195,000 contract went to Henry J. Kaiser Company (Canada) Limited, the lowest of six bidders.

Seven High School Pupils Faint As Teacher Stabbed With Compass

CLOVERDALE, B.C. (CP)—Seven school children fainted in a West Whalley high school Thursday when a student stabbed a 23-year-old teacher in the back with a compass.

Teacher Michael Pohn was in satisfactory condition in hospital. His injuries were not serious.

Inhalator trucks were called to revive the students who fainted around the scene of 20.

Witnesses said Pohn was walking toward the classroom door when attacked by the 17-year-old student. The teacher managed to face his attacker, then collapsed, and fell on the floor.

Witnesses said the student appeared to be overwrought and agitated before the stabbing.

Pohn, who is married and has a 2½-week-old son, joined the staff of the school last fall in his first appointment after completing teacher's training.

EXPECT MAYORS TO DEBATE HOTLY LEGAL LOTTERIES

Quebec Delegates Lead Fight on Ban

TORONTO (CP)—A hot debate over legal lotteries and sweepstakes shaped up for today's session of the annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

The conference resolutions committee is on record opposing a national or provincial lottery but a majority of the Quebec delegates indicated Thursday they favor the idea. Support for their stand was offered by delegates from Ontario and Prince Edward Island.

A St. Catharines motion asks for a federal licensing body for raffles with prizes of more than $50.

A resolution from Chatham claims "existing legislation no longer reflects the will of the people," and suggests that the municipalities be given the power to approve bingos and raffles.

Reeve Albert Campbell of Scarborough, Ont., said the issue will be thrown open to the 1,200 general membership. "This could be quite a free-swinging affair."

Quebec delegates decided to support a motion by Arvida, Que., asking that Justice Minis-

Immigration Minister Favreau announced that Weldon Chan, Chinese fugitive from deportation, will be allowed to stay at least a year.

T. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) urged Mr. Favreau to also reconsider the deportation order against Irenee Rehrin of Vancouver.

Trade Minister Sharp said he has suggested a Canada-U.S. joint approach to energy development and the U.S. is interested.

Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) called on the government to adopt a defence role limited to conventional weapons.

OTTAWA (CP)—Weldon Chan, fugitive Hong Kong Chinese who ran into hiding 3½ years ago to escape deportation, has been given a chance to stay in Canada—for a year, at least.

Immigration minister Guy Favreau said in the Commons Thursday the immigration department will quash the deportation order and permit Chan to rejoin his family in Vancouver for 12 months so that he can "adjust" his status.

The minister stressed that the move is conditional on Chan coming out of hiding.

A short time after the Commons announcement, Chan turned up at his lawyer's office in Vancouver and said he intended to surrender to immigration authorities.

Although Mr. Favreau did not elaborate, it appeared that the government is prepared to give Chan and his family permanent residence in Canada as landed immigrants.

Chan's wife and daughter Alice, now nine, were also ordered out of the country in the original deportation order. But when he disappeared the immigration department allowed Mrs. Chan and the girl to remain until he might be caught.

Mrs. Chan has been working at the University of British Columbia.

The family first applied to come to Canada from Hong Kong in 1960 but the application, which stated they wanted to remain permanently, was turned down.

In 1959 Mr. Chan went to Brussels and obtained a five-month visitors' permit to come to Canada.

Three months after arrival Chan sought an extension of the permit and was turned down. That started a long series of immigration hearings and appeals which finally ended with a deportation order, issued by then Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough. Chan went into hiding.

Mr. Favreau said in the Commons his move was influenced by Mr. Pickering's request of getting the Chan family together again.

In Vancouver, Chan met reporters after being driven to his lawyer's office from his hiding place since last Monday — the attic of a farmhouse in nearby Fraser Valley.

Chan said he spent most of his 3½ years of loneliness working in small towns in Ontario.

"I can't disclose my benefactors . . . Most of them were Chinese," he said.

"I worked at odd jobs and stayed inside most of the time in Ontario . . . I very seldom even wrote to my wife and I haven't seen my daughter since 1959, when I left," he said.

Toronto Tile Workers Quit, First of Series of Strikes

TORONTO (CP) — About 250 tile workers went on strike today in the first of a proposed series of walkouts that could slow down much of Toronto's construction industry.

Conciliation talks, sponsored by the provincial labor department, broke up without success Thursday night as the Marble Tile and Terrazzo Mechanics Union (Ind.) announced it intended to strike.

Three other strikes are threatened as several major unions attempt to break down the construction industry's offer of new two-year contracts calling for increases of 20 cents an hour.

Chief conciliator officer Louis Fine will meet with the International Hod Carriers, Common and Building Laborers (CLC) today in a last-minute effort to stop officials calling a strike Monday among laborers on Toronto's new east-west subway project.

A strike vote will be taken tonight by the 4,300 Toronto members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (CLC).

If they decide to strike, they have the announced support of the Refitient Floor Workers Union, an affiliate of the carpenters.

Officials hope the meeting between Mr. Fine and the hod carriers will establish a contract pattern for other unions.

The union's demands have not been published but it has rejected the 20-cent offer from contractors.

The carpenters and the marble workers are pressing for decent raises and the floor workers are demanding 40 cents.

Meanwhile, the United Association of Plumbers and Steam Fitters (CLC) is involved in conciliation talks after the membership rejected a 25-cent offer which had been approved by union officials.

Many trades, however, have already signed contracts. They include bricklayers, operating engineers, electricians, cement masons, painters and sheet metalworkers.

Danny DeMonte, business manager of the marble workers, said pickets would be set up only if non-union labor is called in. The strike will affect several hospital, school and hotel projects.

CYCLONE TOLL IN PAKISTAN MAY BE 5,000

Many Thousands Are Left Homeless

RAWALPINDI (Reuters)—Estimates of the death toll in the cyclone-torn Chittagong area of East Pakistan rose as high as 5,000 today.

Army rescue teams launched mass inoculation programs among hundreds of thousands of homeless peasants.

Chittagong and its population of nearly 800,000 were without water and power, three days after the area was devastated by 150 mile-an-hour winds and floods.

The Associated Press of Pakistan said unofficial estimates placed the toll at least 5,000 on the 80-mile stretch of the Bay of Bengal coastline swept by the storm.

The news agency said preliminary reports from the seaside resort of Cox's Bazaar indicated 100,000 persons were homeless and 1,000 dead.

The New Delhi newspaper Statesman said in a dispatch from Dacca, capital of East Pakistan, that the final death toll may be more than 5,000.

MANY HURT IN STAMPEDE

The governor of East Pakistan, Abdul Monem Khan, said that 85 per cent of the "hutchs" huts that house East Pakistan's poor were destroyed in the cyclone area.

He said the seaside resort of Cox's Bazaar, 80 miles south of Chittagong, and many offshore islands still were cut off the damage in the areas was unknown.

Monem, after a three-hour air tour of the Bay of Bengal area where the cyclone struck, said damage probably would exceed that of the 1961 tidal wave and cyclone that destroyed or damaged more than 900,000 homes and killed more than 14,000.

Public Inquiry Planned Into Dairy Industry

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister William Stewart said Thursday the provincial government has established a committee to conduct a public inquiry into milk production and marketing in Ontario.

Mr. Stewart said the committee was formed at the request of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League and the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers' Marketing Board.

The committee, he said, will review existing milk marketing plans; legislation on marketing milk; the unified milk marketing; and costs and methods of producing, transporting, processing and distributing.

Very, Very Grave States Report From Vatican

Suffered Relapse Early This Morning

BULLETIN

VATICAN CITY (AP) — An unconfirmed report said that Pope John, on the threshold of death after suffering a relapse today, had been placed in an oxygen tent.

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN (AP)—Pope John was on the threshold of death today.

The 81-year-old spiritual ruler of the world's 560,000,000 Roman Catholics was reported failing rapidly.

He was given extreme unction, the last sacrament of the church for those in danger of dying.

The Vatican radio said: "The Pope is grave, very grave . . . the new crisis is gravissima (most grave)."

It was a dramatic turn.

This morning the Pope was reported by the Vatican as continuing to rally from a crisis Tuesday. The press office said he spent a tranquil night.

Vatican prelates were looking ahead to the Pope resuming activity.

Suddenly came the crisis that his doctors had feared—a crisis at a time when he was still suffering from the last one.

HOLD LITTLE HOPE

There was little hope he could survive this one. To all members of the Vatican staff, the word went out: "pray."

Cardinals hurried to the Vatican. Only a few were admitted to the third floor apartment where the Pope lay on a cast iron bed, fighting a stomach growth that had caused repeated hemorrhaging.

Doctors reported the hemorrhaging had been halted Wednesday.

The Pope's personal doctor, Professor Antonio Gasbarrini, returned to his home in Bologna Thursday.

"Don't worry too much about me," the Pope told Dr. Gasbarrini's departure. "The bags are packed and I am ready, in fact very ready, to go."

Gasbarrini said he and his colleagues were confident the pontiff would rally.

But Gasbarrini provided a possible clue to the new collapse. He told reporters Thursday that the Pope should stay in bed but refused to.

Raimondo Manzini, director of L'Osservatore Romano, was one of those called to the Pope's bedroom.

Afterward he told newspaper men that the Pope's will "suffered a complete reverse."

Manzini said:

"The Pope expressed thoughts of emotion to all his relatives, to the diocese of Rome, to Bergamo (in North Italy), to his birthplace and to all the other places and nations where he had served the church."

The Pope was born in Sotto il Monte (Under the Mountain) a village between Bergamo and the Alps.

Manzini said the Pope's re-

Cameras Find Wreckage of The 'Thresher'

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—Searchers have photographed wreckage lying on the ocean floor some 8,400 feet below the surface and have identified it then be diving planes and sail area of the nuclear submarine Thresher.

The submarine sank April 10 during a deep-sea test dive with 129 men aboard.

The photographs, taken by the search vessel Conrad, were on route today to Boston. They will be flown to the navy court of inquiry at Portsmouth, N.H. The court is investigating the sea disaster, which occurred some 220 miles east of Boston.

Dr. J. Lamar Worzel, assistant director of the Lamont Geological Observatory, whose researchers photographed the wreckage Thursday, said the pictures definitely were of the sunken submarine.

Vice-Admiral Elton W. Grenfell, commander of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet submarine force in Norfolk, Va., said the photographs appeared to match definitely correlated with the missing submarine."

Experts have said that if the Thresher did sink to a depth of 8,400 feet, she could not possibly have survived. Water pressure at that level would be 3,730 pounds a square inch, compared with the sea level pressure of 32 pounds.

The driver of the front-end loader were Ray Brisson, 21, the operator; Lucien Emile Mayer, 52, a contractor; Emil-len Mayer, 52, a neighbor.

Standards of Behavior So Rigid Eccentrics Forced Into Asylums

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Saskatchewan doctor said Thursday that Canadian standards of behavior are too rigid.

Dr. Peter Peacock, Saskatoon medical health officer, was speaking during a panel discussion on the final day of the Canadian Public Health Association's annual convention.

Born in England, Dr. Peacock also practised for a time in South Africa.

"There is a rigidity in our Canadian standards which we must try to break down if people who deviate slightly—though not significantly—from the pattern are not to feel out of step.

He said the majority of people enter mental hospitals not because they want to "but because there is family or public rejection of their behavior patterns. The local general practitioner, with a sense of helplessness, bows his head to public opinion."

Later, in an interview, Dr. Peacock said many people have talents that set them apart because "we have made such a god of democratic equality."

Calm Finally Is Imposed In Deseronto School Feud

All persons expecting any personal pyrotechnics in the Deseronto School Board Room would have been gravely disappointed yesterday.

A close but publicly string of the pros and cons of the Quinte district's latest municipal dispute were judicially trimmed lean by a county judge and two lawyers representing opposing sides.

A demand to close Deseronto High School has sharply divided town taxpayers' opinion, reflected in capsule form by the Deseronto School Board. The board has split 4-3 on the controversy, with the margin in favor of keeping the school open. One of the four trustees contesting the shutdown was M. F. Detlor. Last week, at the height of the dispute Mr. Detlor was served with an injunction preventing him from sitting on the board until a judge had ruled on his admissibility.

(Those in favor of closing down the school claim it would be cheaper to send students to Napanee District High School. It also, they say, would benefit pupils, since Napanee offers technical and academic courses. Deseronto High has only an academic curriculum).

MOTION IS HEARD

Yesterday the motion to unseat Mr. Detlor was formally presented by Judge C. R. Smith, of Napanee, at the Hastings County Court House in Belleville.

The motion is being brought by town ratepayers Donald Armitage, a former school trustee, and James Graham, both described as ratepayers.

Lawyers for both sides assembled their clients at the court house in the early afternoon. However, instead of a formal court hearing, Judge Smith ordered that the issue be disposed of in his chambers.

Within the chambers, both counsel K.G.M. Ross for Mr. Detlor and A.D.P. Boyce (Deseronto town solicitor) for those bringing the injunction - stated they had agreed to the fundamental issues in the contest. These, they said, were purely matters of legal interpretation.

They agreed to submit no evidence other than the minutes of the school board meeting April 8th at which Mr. Detlor was appointed. Further, said both counsel, since the matter was a question of legal argument they would submit those arguments in writing by next Tuesday.

Judge Smith reminded both lawyers he was presiding at the general purpose sessions in Belleville starting next Monday and could give no definite date on his decision. He indicated it would be done expeditiously but with regard to the crucial allsurplus move, declined the fact of his judgment.

"This is not a matter that you strike every day in the year -- fortunately," he commented.

BOARD WILL NOT MEET

In the meantime, he drew agreement from both sides that the school board would not meet until one week after his judgment was handed down. (It's next regular session was scheduled for Monday). Neither will Mr. Detlor act as trustee until Judge has rendered his decision.

"That simplifies it for today", said Judge Smith, "but it doesn't necessarily simplify it for some subsequent day."

Both Mr. Ross and Mr. Boyce emphasized that the issue now had been lifted to the plane of a present--a fact which he noted.

He pointed out the public interest which the dispute had stirred in th. Quinte district and added:

"I think it is only advisable, unless counsel for both sides have any serious objection, to have the press here so that whatever is reported they get it first-hand."

City Receives Written Objection To Access Roadway Construction

A written objection to the city's proposal to construct a paved access roadway from Highway #2 to Vic Cresswell in the Hillcrest area to serve a planned transport warehouse, has been received at city hall.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said the objection would be forwarded by the Ontario Municipal Board for its consideration when dealing with the city's application to spend an estimated $50,000 on construction of the roadway and on expropriation of required property.

Neither of the two owners whose property would be acquired as right of way, have objected.

Mr. Reynolds said that whether a public hearing on the matter will be held is left to the Municipal Board.

About eight acres of city industrial property south of 401 Highway was sold to Smith Transport at a purchase price of $10,000, a condition of sale being that the city provide a paved access roadway. The transport firm plans to construct a new warehouse on the property.

The acreage sold to Smith's is about one fifth of the entire city owned property in the area. The roadway would also serve the balance of the city owned industrial land and when other parts of the area are sold the sale price will be applied against the roadway cost.

Recreation Highlights

Bruce Jarvah,
Assistant Director

The purpose of the community programs branch of the Department of Education is to assist in providing opportunities for people to enrich their own lives through the constructive and satisfying use of leisure time.

Because most of these opportunities can be developed as part of normal patterns of community living, the branch works mainly with recreation committees of municipal councils.

One such manner in which the community programs branch assists local recreation committees is in the establishment of special training courses and clinics.

In this regard, there are four training courses being held in the near future with a wide variety of subjects to be covered.

A baseball clinic, coaches and umpires clinic, sponsored by the Belleville Recreation Commission in co-operation with the community programs branch (Department of Education) is to be held at the Recreation Centre on Saturday, June 8, 2:30 (coaches and umpires) with the second session on Sunday, June 9th, 2:30 p.m. (umpires). Allen Kelleher, who has completed four years of service in and around Belleville will be chief instructor. Aside from a blackboard session, the clinic is plastic player himself. Al has also had experience with clinics of this nature since attending spring camps of the Albany Senators, and Farm Club of the Montreal Royals. Topics such as, "the role of the coach", "coaching problems", and "coaching fundamentals" along with "the different positions in the infield - outfield of a baseball game" and "different rule interpretations" will be discussed.

LIFEGUARD TRAINING

On May 15th and 16th, a condensed water safety lifeguard training course will be held at Albert College. Here the duties of a lifeguard, pool responsibilities, artificial respiration, method of rescue, will be taught by Mr. Bruce Fleury, a highly - qualified instructor from Toronto. Candidates, who will be coming from various points in Southern Ontario, must be at least 15-years-old and hold the bronze medallion or equivalent.

On the same weekend - June 15-16, a track and field clinic is also planned to be held at Albert College, Ontario. Here persons who will be connected with track and field programs in various municipalities will be given a chance to discuss local problems and learn new ways of instructing in this procedure.

A special course in adult leadership is planned for the fall. Tentative plans have only been made to date. However, subjects such as leadership discussion, program planning, public and publicity relations, and effective communication.

It can easily be seen how the community programs branch of the Department of Education works in close relation with local recreation committees in the sponsoring of special training courses, which is just one more way in these two departments work in close harmony to better the recreation standards of the communities concerned.

Coffee Bureau Against Raise In Canada

NEW YORK (CP) — The Pan-American Coffee Bureau came to the defence of the 10 cent cup of coffee Wednesday in a statement released here.

In a statement released here, the bureau, which speaks for the international coffee agreement involving producing and importing countries, said coffee-consuming countries are upset over reports that Canadian restaurants may be forced to charge 15 cents a cup.

The reports, said the bureau, came at a time when the world's coffee-exporting countries are receiving the lowest prices they've paid for their green coffee imported into Canada.

Canada is the sixth largest coffee importer having taken 283,284,528 pounds of green coffee at a time when record high for the country.

The bureau says the average price received by Canada for this coffee has declined steadily from 57.4 cents a pound in 1956 to 34.7 cents a pound last year. Retail coffee prices fell sharply in Canada since 1956.

Said the bureau: "Coffee-exporting countries feel that a rise in the coffee import prices a jump to 15 cents for a cup of coffee is unjustified."

June Exams In the Offing

All those serious expressions seen on the faces of senior high school students this week is merely mean that June examinations are coming up next week.

Grades 11, 12, 13 will commence examinations on Monday and it will continue through until the 14th. Grade 13 in all probability going a few days beyond that date.

Grade 9, 10 will write their examinations from June 10th to the 14th.

Macmillan, JFK to Reply To Khrushchev

LONDON (Reuters)—A message from President Kennedy to Prime Minister Macmillan on the vital nuclear test-ban issue is expected to be delivered by Russian Premier Khrushchev today.

Macmillan told the House of Commons Thursday:

"I expect to approve . . . the final text of a message which President Kennedy and I are sending to Mr. Khrushchev. I hope the message will be delivered (Friday)."

The message is a reply to a letter received by the two Western leaders from Khrushchev about two weeks ago.

Khrushchev's letter was itself an answer to a joint letter sent by Kennedy and Macmillan April 24 and designed to break the protracted nuclear deadlock at the current 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva.

Stork Repeats Rush Trick But Dad Delivers "Male"

For the second time in 13 months, Walter Sheldrick, 22, has had to deliver one of his babies at home.

This time it was a baby girl, Sandra, in April, 1962, it was a boy, Billy. Laura, 3, and Edgar, 2, were born in hospital.

"I only had time to call the ambulance before I delivered the baby," Mr. Sheldrick said. "I was calm though—I think."

Mr. Sheldrick said his wife, Leah, 20, started her race with the stork at 1 a.m.

"At 1:10 a.m. it was all over. Then the ambulance arrived."

Most hectic moment came seconds after the baby's birth. "Wouldn't you know all three of the kids would wake up when the new baby started to cry?" Mr. Sheldrick said.

All three were given a peek at their new sister before mother and baby were taken to hospital.

Mr. Sheldrick attributed his calmness at the birth thrice to an army militiaman's course in 1952.

"When asked how things might have gone if he had not been at home, he replied: "I don't know . . . all you could ask my mother. She had three of her family all by herself, with no one around to help. I was one of the three."

HOPES FOR DROP

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada hopes to get lower transatlantic air fares this summer after the expiry of the compromise international agreement taking effect July 15, Transport Minister George McIlraith said Thursday. He was asked in the commons by Douglas Fisher (NDP —Port Arthur) why the compromise was accepted when the Canadian stand for lower fares had been described as a perfectly legal one.

Says P.C. Party May Soon Seek New Leader

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says the Progressive Conservative party soon may seek a new national leader to succeed John Diefenbaker.

The newspaper says in a staff-written story from Ottawa that it has learned plans have been made to hold the party's annual meeting in January and delegates will participate in decisions bearing on the future of the party."

Both the annual meeting endorse the project, this would be followed with a minimum of delay by a full leadership convention."

The newspaper says the big question mark is the intention of Mr. Diefenbaker.

"Influential backers of the plan, convinced that a change in leadership is essential, are reported to believe that Diefenbaker will retire gracefully to the sidelines to make room for a successor.

It adds that supporters of a leadership change have not settled on a successor. It says Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba is "an obvious possibility" but also mentions Conservative finance minister Donald Fleming; Davie Fulton, former justice minister; Alberta Premier John Roberts of Ontario and Egan Chambers, national president of the party.

Would Not Back Hal Banks For Dogcatcher

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Thomas Crerar (Conservative-Manitoba) said Thursday in the house he wouldn't support president Hal Banks of the Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) for the job of dogcatcher.

The senator made the observation of privilege to comment on an article in Wednesday's Globe and Mail which mentioned him both as a member of the board of directors of Canada Steamship Lines and as an "ally" of Banks in the SIU."

Senator said Mr. Banks was lining up lobbyist support from some senior Liberals.

"How that is a complete distortion," said Senator Crerar. He was indeed a director of Canada Steamship Lines, which had a contract with Mr Banks' union.

. . . But so far as my knowledge goes, Canada Steamships has had no relationship whatever with Mr. Banks and his union as other shipowners on the Great Lakes.

He added that on evidence reported in newspapers and subsequently by Royal Labor Relations Inquiry, which spent a lot of time digging into the SIU record, "Mr. Banks has brought dishonor to the great body of labor which is the honorable calling in this country."

"As far as I am concerned, Mr. Banks would be disqualified candidacy for the job of dogcatcher and I trust that makes my position completely clear."

Jagan Stoned At Funeral Of Minister

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Police used tear gas to break up an anti-government riot outside a cemetery in Georgetown Thursday night during the funeral of the minister for home affairs, Claude Christian.

Premier Cheddi Jagan and his wife, who were attending the ceremony, were also stoned by hostile demonstrators.

A number of persons were reported injured—four badly.

Christian was a member of Jagan's Progressive People's party.

The trouble apparently arose because of rumors here that he died from injuries received during a stormy party meeting May 16.

The rumors have been officially denied. The doctors report is that he died from heart failure.

The incidents began as the cortege entered the cemetery. Jagan and his wife were booed as they went in and a hostile crowd threw mud and stones at them.

Later several fights broke out outside the cemetery precincts, developing into a riot.

Police dispersed the crowd after using tear gas and firing warning shots in the air.

TRENTON — On Friday afternoon a helicopter, owned by Forest Products Limited, will invite residents of Trenton and Belleville to Air Force Day.

TRENTON — Lawn Bowling in Trenton is a thing of the past.

Recently, the Trenton Lawn Bowlers' Club announced that it was folding due to lack of interest in the sport locally.

The Trenton Golf and Country Club then took up the torch and said that a club could be run in conjunction with the golf club . . . provided 40 persons indicated that they would like to join.

The country club manager Bruce Cardy said that not one person had applied to join.

Mr. Cardy said that he understood that several local bowlers had thrown in their lot with the Belleville club.

THREE PLUS TWO EQUALS FIVE according to the demonstration model Cuisinaire blocks displayed to Ontario Catholic Teachers' Association last night, by Mrs. C. H. Simpson, of Vancouver. The teachers also saw the normal Cuisinaire materials, with a cross-section of one of the master squares, during their annual meeting at Nicholson Catholic College.

English Catholic Teachers Hear Explanation of New Way to Teach Arithmetic

A new concept of teaching arithmetic at the primary school level was explained to the members of District Four of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association last night at the organization's annual meeting at Nicholson College here. Mrs. C. H. Simpson of Vancouver, a full-time exponent of the "Cuisenaire System" has been in Belleville since Monday. She has already demonstrated the system at all separate primary schools in Belleville and at four of the city's public schools. All demonstrations were by invitation. Today, Mrs. Simpson leaves for Moncton, N.B.

The system was developed by George Cuisenaire, in Belgium. He began by representing different numbers by wooden blocks, based on a one cubic centimeter block representing a unit. Each block has a cross-section of one square centimeter, and a length in centimeters equal to the number it represents. For convenience, the blocks are of different colors, and the colors of blocks representing related numbers are themselves related. The blocks representing two, four and eight, for example, are different shades of red.

Playing with these blocks, the children learn a concept of different numbers as integral units and they also learn arithmetical relationships by putting the block end-to-end and comparing them with longer blocks. This system is a vast improvement over traditional methods, Mrs. Simpson said, because it eliminates counting as the basis of arithmetic.

GIVES VISUAL CHECK

Counting, Mrs. Simpson said, can be a source of anxiety for children and adults alike. The only difference is that with adults, the anxiety in counting appears only with large sums, as when a returning officer counts votes. With children, the anxiety appears with relatively low numbers. The reason, she explained, is that counting is the only mathematical operation for which there is no built-in counter check. Addition, she said, can be checked by subtraction and multiplication by division. With counting, the only check is to count again, with the possibility of duplicating a mistake. With the Cuisenaire blocks, children can see the results of addition and subtraction, in physical form.

Because of the size of the blocks, Mrs. Simpson added, children can wrap their hands about them, and actually get the "feel" of the different numbers.

Beyond simple addition and subtraction, the Cuisenaire blocks also teach children fractional relationships, and, by using them as building blocks, children at primary levels can grasp the concepts of squares, cubes and their roots.

RESULTS FANTASTIC

Results of the system, slowly gaining acceptance in Canada since 1956, have been fantastic, according to Mrs. Simpson. She quoted the case of a public school in Terrace, B.C., in which four sets of Cuisenaire materials were made available to seven classes. Half way through the school year, according to Mrs. Simpson, the grade four students had run out of the whole of the primary mathematics curriculum, and had to continue with grade nine tests. In June of that year, according to Mrs. Simpson, the grade four and five students wrote grade nine exams, the high grade and and the grade six and seven students wrote grade ten exams. There were no failures, and the primary students averaged higher marks than the high school students, Mrs. Simpson said.

An opportunity class of approximately hundred children in the same school, according to Mrs. Simpson, had no trouble in completing the normal curriculum during the same period. Attendance at the school was much improved, she added, and the inspector of the school commented that the students were also advanced in the subjects other than mathematics. The assumption is, according to Mrs. Simpson, that the approach to mathematics through the Cuisenaire method led to a more satisfactory approach to all subjects.

Mrs. Simpson also showed, during the meeting, a film, produced by the National Film Board, of an experiment with the Cuisenaire method at St. George's School in Montreal. Parts of the film had to be rehearsed, according to Mrs. Simpson, because the children in the experiment did not make enough mistakes to add "realism" to the film.

Mrs. Simpson was introduced to the meeting by Miss Shirley St. Denis, and thanked by Sister Mary Clarissa.

Three Local Women Picked For Course

Three Belleville women will be attending the Provincial Leadership Institute in June, sponsored by the Community Programs Branch of the Department of Education.

Mrs. Gordon Davies of William Street, Mrs. O. Summers of Dufferin Avenue and Mrs. G. Leslie Holland of Charles Street, will be attending the five-day courses at the Guelph Agricultural College in Guelph from June 2nd to June 8th.

Mr. D. W. Maddocks, district representative for the Department of Education, says that only a restricted number of people from all over the province of Ontario, are picked to attend the various courses.

In order to qualify, a person should have several seasons as an instructor, either under a night school program or a community recreation committee, actually teaching adult arts-crafts, social recreation, weaving and drama.

It is expected that the candidates will continue the instruction of adults after returning to their own communities, and it is hoped these courses will raise the standard of instructional skills and that those attending will gain experience in teaching methods, program planning and evaluation for leisure time activities.

The courses offered include art, ceramics, design, drama, jewelry, millinery, weaving and social recreation.

The local offices territory extends from Haliburton to Prince Edward County, north and south, and from Port Hope to Kingston, east and west.

Other people from the area attending the course at Guelph next week, will be from Port Hope, Peterborough and Kingston.

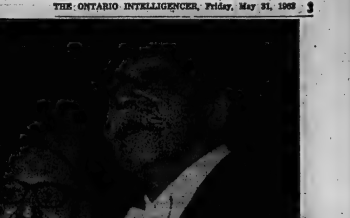
Mrs. Davies will be taking the course in ceramics while Mrs. Summers will be taking the jewelry course. Mrs. Holland will be attending millinery classes.

The purpose of the Provincial Leadership Institute is to meet the need for advanced instructor training.

Candidates are expected to have attended District Leaders' Institutes, or possess comparable trainging so that previous exposition to recreational theory and leadership principles is assured.

Tweed Forest District Has Had 41 Fires

Carelessness in the woods has cost Canadians about 375 acres of timberland in the tweed district alone this year, according to Mac Wilson of the Department of Lands and Forests in Tweed. A total of 41 fires have been started to the area so far.



Biggest fire of the lot was in Brudnel township, where a careless smoker started a fire which burned about 75 acres three weeks ago. Rain has helped in fighting and preventing the fires and there have been only three fires in the district within the past week, Mr. Wilson said. Friday morning, there were no fires burning.

Hazard rating so far the week-end is estimated at medium, but Mr. Wilson emphasized that if dry weather continues, the hazard may be greatly increased by Sunday.

Officers Named By Catholic Teachers' Body

District Four of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association last night elected its 1963-1964 executive, at the annual meeting at Nicholson Catholic College, here.

President of the District Association, for a second-year-term, will be Sister Mary Fleurette, of Nicholson Catholic College. Vice-president of the District Association will be Miss Theo Taggart, of Trenton, and Miss Donna Lee, of Belleville, will be secretary. Rev. Sister Mary Jane Francis, of Belleville will be treasurer, and councillors elected were Rev. Sister Mary Carmella of Tweed and Jack Ryan and Jack Thorne both of Belleville.

Rev. J. J. Hanley, assistant pastor at St. John's parish, Gananoque, was one of the speakers for the evening. Father Hanley told nearly 100 teachers who had assembled for the meeting teachers must adapt themselves to the present times, and that there was no room for a teacher who would not keep up with progress. He said any teacher who worked for money would never become a good teacher.

He quoted statistics on teen-age delinquency, teen-age marriages and teen-age runaways, and told the meeting that all teachers, and most parents, were failing somewhere in their duties.

He spoke of the dangers of communism, and told the meeting that communism was a major factor in the FLQ trouble in Quebec, and the integration problems in the southern U.S.

Father Hanley was introduced to the meeting by Rev. Sister Mary Theresa, and thanked by Mr. Tom Hutchinson.

The Germans And Nuclear Arms

The Washington Star says that the recent NATO council meeting in Ottawa was a military hoax, but a useful one.

The meeting's endorsation of a NATO nuclear strike force merely created an illusion that European allies are getting their own nuclear defences. Therefore, it is a hoax. But, for the very reason that the endorsation made no new weapons available and did not change the control over those weapons existing, the hoax serves a useful purpose, the Star argues. It enables the governments of European allies to defend themselves against critics who would force them to acquire nuclear weapons of their own and is, therefore, a valuable safeguard against the proliferation of such weapons.

The Russians have another version. They say that the NATO strike force and plans for a multilateral seaborne forces are designed to satisfy West Germany's desire for a share in the power conferred by possession of such weapons.

It is doubtful whether the Russians really believe this. If they did, and if they believed that the arrangements made at Ottawa would eventually give West Germany control over weapons capable of laying waste much of the Soviet Union, we should be very close to war.

If the Russian view is wrong, though, it is quite possible that the error lies not in an erroneous estimation of Germany desires but in a miscalculation regarding U.S. intentions. From Ottawa comes a report that West Germany wants any seaborne NATO nuclear force to be controlled by a majority vote of contributing countries. Any such arrangement, of course, would mean that the Washington Star was grievously deceived in regarding the NATO agreement as a hoax. It would also mean that the agreement was in no way successful in keeping the control of nuclear weapons in the hands of a minority number of nations. West Germany would certainly have an excellent chance of influencing a great many of the powers contributing to such a NATO force. While this would not make her an independent nuclear power, it would come uncomfortably close to doing so.

Too close for the comfort of Russia. And that is the danger. But, too close, too, for the comfort of the United States. And that is our measure of safety.

Having learned a painful lesson in the United Nations on the frustrating effects of giving every separate nation an equal voice, regardless of its power or its sense of responsibility, the U.S. is highly unlikely to agree to any arrangement which could make it merely a minority shareholder in a nuclear force created mainly out of its contributions.

"Grand Tour" For Canadians?

Return trip sea fares from Britain to Canada merit drop to a minimum of about $130, if the plans of a transplanted South African promoter go through. He has the backing of the Canadian Pacific and the Union-Castle lines, so the scheme can hardly be dismissed as fly-by-night.

Details aside, the scheme will be well worth while if it brings intercontinental travel within the reach of the average man, and of the high school student on vacation. The experts —whoever they are—are worried now about what people will do with the additional leisure time promised by automation, and travel is as good an idea as has yet been offered.

There was a time when the education of an upper-class English youth was not considered complete until he had made a "Grand Tour" of Europe. Such a tour would be too expensive, and probably not much good for Canadian youth anyway—but the country would probably be better off if some Canadian teen-agers were given a rucksack, a pair of shoes, and a boat ticket to Europe for the summer.

Rush Those Rockets

Royal Canadian Legionaires in Watford, near Sarnia, must be eagerly looking forward to the space age. When it is fully realized, maybe they can hold their geography contests again, for public schools.

The Legionaires tried to hold a contest this year, but they ran into a bit of trouble. A twelve-year-old boy, for instance, was able to prove that the judges had been wrong, and he should not have been eliminated from the finals.

But the main problem was that seven contestants weathered all the 102 questions originally planned for the contest, and 55 more dreamed up on the spur of the moment. In the end, the judges had to give in.

When they can throw in the geography of a few more planets, maybe they will have better luck.

France Has Farm Problem

By Harry B. Ells in the Christian Science Monitor

The floor of the low farm-house was dirt; the thick roof was thatch. The elderly Frenchman in wooden shoes shook his head angrily at the man from the city.

"This land was my father's, and his father's, and his grandfather's before that," the old farmer said hotly. "I will not give it up."

"Mon vieux," repeated the government agent, "in return you would receive a larger and better piece, attached to your main farm. It is too expensive for you to farm this separate plot, a kilometer away."

"Do you tell me how to farm, too?" the farmer muttered, and the agent shrugged and went away.

He had tried to persuade two neighboring farmers, who had inherited scoreboards of divided plots, to exchange two pieces of land—and thus gain wholly contiguous farms. One farmer had agreed; the old man had not.

As a result both would continue to waste time and effort in hauling equipment and materials between isolated plots of land. Both would have to be behind factory workers in their region in income earned.

But the farmer agreed to realign their plots, their farms would have remained small, among the 2,300,000 farms in French farms less than 10 acres large — the average minimum which the French Ministry of Agriculture Edgard Pisani considers economically profitable in France.

Such is one of the ills of French farming coin. The other side, more visible to the world is good.

France possesses roughly half the arable land of Western European Economic Community (EEC or Common Market).

It is by far the largest food producer among the Six, ranking first in the output of wheat and coarse grains, cattle meat, milk, poultry, sugar and vegetables, and second in potatoes, butter, cheese, eggs and wool.

The small French farm, uneconomic for the individual himself, is a comparatively large producer of food.

Coupled with this high productivity of French farms is the rapid modernization and mechanization achieved by some minority sectors of French agriculture since the Second World War.

The result is surplus, over and above the exports which have made France the leading food exporter in Western Europe.

France urgently needs new markets to absorb surpluses which are due to go on growing.

That is why the French government was active in the adoption, in January, 1962, of the common agricultural policy. With the six-nation group becoming, in effect, a single national market, French agriculture would be the biggest single beneficiary.

That is why, also, French farm groups, particularly in the eastern part oof the country, have been deeply disappointed by the French government's veto of British membership in the Common Market. Many French farmers had seen the advent of Britain as opening a major new market. Britain, they argued, could buy cheaper in Britain than that of Canada; French beef cheapen Britain than that of Canada; French dairy products more advantageous than those of New Zealand.

Faced with rising, and perhaps unmarketable, surpluses on the one hand, and the miserable of poverty-stricken farmers on the other, the French government would seem to be pursuing contradictory aims. The more it improves farming conditions at home, the faster surpluses will mount.

Yet this is inevitable as long as 20 per cent of the French population remains wedded to the soil and as long as the greater part of that 20 per cent remains below the national average in income.

To a degree, the small-farm problem is being solved by the departure each year of 100,000 or more young men and women from the nation's farms, lured by the higher rewards of industrial work (a migration encouraged by the government as long as industry can absorb new workers), and by the gradual disappearance of older farmers, who tend to be most fixed in antiquated methods.

Beyond this the French government has launched a long-term program of agricultural renovation, based on Mr. Pisani's conviction that the farming of from 40 to 60 acres by one family is no longer can be made economical in France.

The program's many parts include the introduction of co-operative farming methods whereever possible, embracing joint use of equipment, realignment of lands, and marketing of products through co-operative producers' groups.

The government will build central slaughterhouses and marketing points, gradually abolishing the obsolete marketing system whereby almost all farm products in France must flow through Paris before finding their provincial market or export outlets.

This will tend to reduce the number of middlemen involved in transportation and marketing and increase the farmers' share of the money the French consumer spends for food.

New York No Mecca For Writers

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

If you have noticed an appreciable shrinkage in the quality of the column during the last week or so, the explanation is really quite simple. I have been writing it while visiting New York.

There is a popular theory that a writer needs stimulation, which is true; but he also needs detachment, which is equally probably the least detachable, most involved city in the world.

This is a communal vitality of pulsating personalities rubbing up against each other every minute of the day. It is like an enormous village, full of gossip, jokes, jockeying for power and prestige and little real personal insecurity, and shifting relationships.

And, although New York is the literary capital of America, since almost all the important publishing houses are centred here, it is surprising how many writers who came here for the stimulation have left to secure some detachment.

They have bought hopes in Connecticut or Vermont or New Hampshire. They have moved west to Pennsylvania or further. As soon as recognition became theirs, they found the atmosphere of Manhattan inhospitable toward their creative energies.

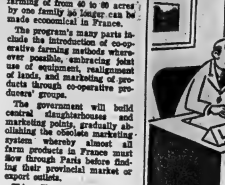
A writer, or artist of any kind, needs to set his own pace, which must correspond to the rhythm of his particular talent. And New York has the most powerful tempo of its own that they soon find themselves marching to the step of the metronome of a vast army moving in lockstep and carrying a hysterical banner, "I Above All."

This is not to denigrate the city, which fascinates me, and which (contrary to the received yokel belief) is warm, friendly and kindly once you have graduated the strange and eccentric than any other place in America.

But as a place for working in any creative endeavor, its pitfalls are greater than its advantages. I speak not as an occasional visitor, but as one who knows the city well, for I have lived here in the past. I know a dozen serious novelists who have moved away in the last few years simply because it became impossible to set one's own terms of working and live in this beehive of throbbing egos.

The best argument for decentralizing the arts in America is that concentrations of power — whether political, economic, or artistic — are fatal to self-identifying. New York drains the talent away from all other American communities, and makes them culturally barren, and ultimately makes New York too fiercely competitive, too self-conscious of its superiority.

Chekhov, who was also a doctor, said that medicine was his wife and writing was his mistress. New York is the writer's mistress, but unless he is very rich and very well-known he loses the stability and the continuity so essential for his best work.



Urgent Reforms

Montreal Star

Our penitentiary system is only now — and far too slowly — being reformed. New buildings and thoroughly trained staff are hard to come by. Until they are available there is bound to be trouble. The energetic program of reform initiated by Commissioner Fullerton must be carried on vigorously by his successor, Mr. Cherrier.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 31st, 1943.

A capacity crowd was in attendance at the Collegiate Auditorium on Thursday evening to witness the graduation exercises of the 1943 nursing class. It was a great moment and a highlight in the lives of each and everyone of the twenty-three young women who, on reaching the stepping stone of their careers, solemnly took the Florence Nightingale Pledge and were presented with their graduation diplomas and pins.

Mrs. G. A. Morton, vice-president of the Women's Christian Association, who owns and operate the hospital, assisted by Miss Ruth Thompson director of nursing, presented the graduation pins to the graduates. Mr. Barclay Pressland, chairman of Dr. K. McDonald, president of the medical staff expressed the pleasure, on behalf of the medical staff, of congratulating the nursing class of 1943 for their success.

Stealing for the sheer mischief of taking things that did not belong to them was discovered by city police on Thursday night, when nine packages of cigarettes and an alarm clock were found abandoned in a driveway off Victoria Avenue late last night. Police had been called to the Radio Cafe earlier in the evening where it was reported several packages of cigarettes had been stolen from the cafe showcase. However, the culprits vanished before police authorities arrived.

Sailing punts still continue to spot and spill their youthful navigators into the waters of the bay and the harbor. In the inner harbor last evening two boats turned over giving the crews an unlooked for bath. Reg. Temple and William Harvey in the "Skippy" were their boat while watching the football game at Victoria Park. Fred (Hob) Keller, who was trying out a new sail on his craft, upset with his crew, Cecil Keller, Gerald Cornell and William Mundville, the same evening. Both crews took much fun. There were no ill results.

Building permits issued by Building Inspector Ingleter failed to rally during the past month in any appreciable degree and are still far behind in number and amounts. The permits issued in the spring months of other years. During the month of May, just ended, a total of six permits was issued by the building inspector and private garages, the estimated value of all permits being $1725. During the month of May last year the estimated value of all permits was $18,800.

Fox Versus Electronics

Toronto Telegram

Privacy, that precarious right that humans have foreifed for the dubious benefits of togetherness, is now to be denied the fox, the otter, the mink.

When the Department of Lands and Forests announced its plan to wire the creatures of Algonquin Park for sound to study their habits and movements, no longer will Nature be quite so natural. No longer will it be possible for the fox, the otter and the mink to proceed with whatever they are doing without instruments listening on them. The radio transmitters which they carry are to emit signals identifying them, disclosing their whereabouts, revealing their acts.

Science is to be applied to penetrate the quiet secrets of the forests and the waters in the quest for knowledge, but it is a dreary thought that the fox can no longer be fox if he is detected. To wrtry action, however, there is no reaction, and the Pavlovian principle of cause and effect to play in reverse to restore nature to Nature's ways.

The smart mink will transmit to its progeny the instinct to address itself to the problem age, to modify habits, to do the opposite the radio signals originally signified. We foresee the career of future generations signaling that it is courting when in fact it is fishing, and vice versa. We look forward to a delightful state of confusion where the fox and the wildlife experts try to outfox each other, the expert saying that the signals mean that the fox is dying because it should be doing Y, and the fox doing Y because the expert expects it is dying X.

As these studies are intended to benefit people, it is assumed that the knowledge gathered from the experiment will be applied to people. It will be good economic value to mothers if children were wired for sound. They could then be led home at the Canadian National Exhibition from the department stores, and the beep-beep they'd emit, caught by direction-finding receivers by the anxious mother, would lead the placid parent unerringly to the delinquent darlings. That is, of course, if they don't learn like the fox to play tricks with the marvels of modern science.

Aspirin Helpful to Many Some Allergic to It

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Some time ago a reader with arthritis wrote that she had been taking 10 aspirins a day on her doctor's advice. She asked was it safe to continue.

I replied yes. There was no reason to worry about that amount.

What happened? A sharp-eyed reader noticed that my doctor wrote a column about "reaction to aspirin," pointing out that people who are allergic to it can break out in a rash, or their nose might ring, or—oh, the usual list of allergic annoyances.

Babies who eat a whole lot of aspirin, especially if candy (which is why many of us persistently warn against candy-coated aspirin) may even die of it. Indeed, I believe this is the most frequent form of fatal poisoning in children, and it occurs, despite warnings, several times a month in the United States.

Well, I can see why a reader would wonder about seeing these two different answers. Which is right?

They both are. The other fellow is quite correct. But we have to use our common sense. We have to acquire a certain amount of information and know how to apply it.

It was asked whether a patient who regularly takes 10 aspirins a day could continue to do so. I said yes, and meant yes, and there is nothing around us Americans who are better at taking that much. I wouldn't want to prohibit them into giving up the medicine which I prescribe for them.

He was asked about "reactions."

It's still true that for a few hypersensitive people a specific reaction can prohibit use of aspirin. By the same token, some people have to avoid eggs. Others are allergic to eating sugar. Some break out in a rash from cotton, and others from living around rose bushes, or from wool, house dust, animal danders, or almost anything.

If I were asked, "Is it healthful to take aspirin in the country every day?" I'd certainly say yes. But if this meant that a boy never would want to walk into some ragweed, that's a rash inference, isn't it? I know of a severe case of ragweed inadvertently walked into a whole field of ragweed. In a minute or two he couldn't see well, could hardly breathe, and could even have perished if he hadn't been led out of the field.

If you are a rare one who is sensitive to aspirin, stay away from it. But if you don't have any symptoms, don't worry about its normal use. Most of us tolerate it very well, and that's why aspirin is sold without prescription. It's a very remarkable drug, indeed.

Dear Dr. Molner: How early can a doctor tell if a woman is pregnant? Can abscessed teeth cause harm to both mother and unborn child? — Mrs. K. L. G.

With modern tests, pregnancy can be confirmed in 30 days or less. Some tests are positive within a few weeks of conception, and certain hormone tests within a few days.

Abscessed teeth can act as a focus of infection and produce symptoms in the mother. I am not familiar with any effect on the unborn baby.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a five-year-old grandson who wets the bed and also has to urinate frequently during the day. Could you. I would appreciate any suggestions — Mrs. H. L.

Since he has the trouble both day and night, I would be suspicious of bladder or kidney trouble. Consult your physician. Congenital defects, strictures, faulty nerve control or infection are conditions that can cause this degree of frequency.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Molner, in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 56, Dundee, Ill., for a copy of his helpful and frank booklet, Acne — The Teenage Problem. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped and 25 cents in coin to cover handling.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 31, 1963 . . .

A state of emergency was declared in British Columbia 15 years ago today—in 1948—as troops were mobilized to help when the Fraser River flooded, sweeping into Hope and leaving 2,400 families homeless. When the floods finally subsided, more than $17,000,000 worth of damage had been done, more than 3,000 homes and barns were damaged and many broken from their foundations. 27,000 acres had been flooded, 18,000 acres damaged by seepage and more than 60 bridges were washed out or damaged. Cost of rehabilitating ousted families and farmers (land) was estimated at $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On the highway, I passed a weatherbeaten, tidy old man shambling along with a big haversack on his shoulder, and beside him on the verge a stout carton filled with goods. There was something so operational about him, an old campaigner, that I turned in my car and went back to pick him up.

He turned out to be a maker of wind chimes, and was travelling the country selling his wares to those wayside novelty and souvenir shops that cater to tourists. He made his wind chimes out of cans, some beautifully ground down by hand into small thin discs that, strung on cord, dangled in the breeze and filled the air with tinkling. He reached to his carton in the back seat and showed me a few samples.

"No, sir," he said, in answer to my questions. "I never done anything else in my life. I started life as a farm boy back in Mississippi, where there's lots of big clams. It's done me fine. I never made much money, but I have been happily employed all my life."

It was with regret I let him off at the next wayside tourist shop. It is not often in a long life that you meet happily employed men with the look of peace in their gentle eyes.

Peace Must Be Built, Says Moderator

KINGSTON (CP) — Rt. Rev. James R. Mutchmor, moderator of the United Church of Canada, said today that peace will not fall upon mankind like manna from heaven. It must be built.

In an address to the annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte conference, Dr. Mutchmor said it is the privilege and duty of every presbytery to work for peace, of every minister to preach and teach it.

"My urgent word to this conference is: Do your full share in the building of a just and desirable peace."

Dr. Mutchmor issued a call to church members to study international affairs to make their efforts for peace more effective. The church should arrange panel discussions to inform the public.

Text of Dr. Mutchmor's remarks were issued to the press before delivery.

Toronto Stocks

Distillers, Seagram, one of the largest main list gains with a jump of 1¼ to 52¾ on moderate volume.

Additional industrial advances were mainly fractional with rises of ¼ going to those of Nova Scotia, Toronto-Dominion Bank and Dominion Foundries and Steel.

Industrial Acceptance, Claiture Sound, Abitibi, Walker-Gooderham and Algoma Steel all climbed in a ¼ to ¾ range. A scattering of losers included Imperial Tobacco and Royal Bank, each off ⅛, Interprovincial Pipe Line, down ¼ and Bell Telephone, off ¼.

On index, industrials rose 1.27 to 208.22, golds advanced 28 to 87.09 and western oils advanced .22 to 124.20. Base metals picked up .17 to 225.50. Trading at 11 a.m. volume was 678,000 shares compared with 703,000 at the same time Thursday.

Base metals fell off modestly during light activity. Cassiar dropped ¼ to 6¾ and Geco and Canada both dipped ¼.

Senior golds were quiet and mixed with Bailey Selburn A up ¼, Pacific Petroleum up ⅛ and Home A down ¼.

Changes were fractional Thursday.

The sessions turnover was at its lowest point in more than a month with the final volume at about 2,500,000 shares. The observance of the Memorial Day holiday by several United States markets was believed partially responsible for the day's lack of activity.

Hayes Steel showed one of the largest industrial gains after the company announced a two-for - one stock split proposal which is to be presented to share holders for approval. The stock jumped as much as 2¼ to a new 1963 high of 22 but was ahead only 1¾ at the close.

Other gainers included Ontario Steel, up a point, Dominion Bridge, ahead ½, and Slater, ahead ¾. Interprovincial Pipe Line jumped ¾ and Bell Telephone and Consumer's Gas each rose ¼.

Teen-Age Canada

Paul Anka Is Tops With Teens Around World

By JACK HUTTON

I've a confession to make. I may be losing my grip.

Strictly as an experiment, I sat down last weekend and listened to six hours of the latest creations (can you call them that?) from the brains and guitars of our hit parade casts.

After all, someone has to find out what's happening in the creative world of the transistor radio. Sometimes I watch and wonder if a twitchy listener is secretly listening to Mars.

Six hours after I turned on a hit parade station and started to shuffle through some borrowed records, I thought my head had been on a giant turntable.

Perhaps the greatest shock was hearing a former idol, Frankie Lane, moaning "Don't Sing Me Love Songs." I remember Frankie when his jazz group was one of the best anywhere. Now anyone is practising guitar behind him.

And have you heard "Detroit City"? It's the one in which the fellow sobs, "I wanna go home" every few lines. I had only one question: Who forced someone let him go?

I brightened when I heard someone described as "a fine old song from the past." What would it be? Stardust, or perhaps "Sunny Side of the Street." No, it was Jimmy Jones mixing mumbled lyrics with baby talk on "Time — tic-tic—Time."

That "hit from the past" came from the vintage year of 1960. Bit parade players, I decided, have short musical memories. Either that or I'm getting old.

My second biggest shock came when Edie Gorme, a fine singer married to Steve Lawrence came on with "Don't Try To Fight It, Baby," a combination of tuneless lyrics and shouted phrases.

Edie and Steve, I decided must be trying to earn some money quickly to put a new back porch on their home.

"Edie," I mumbled beside the radio, "how could you do it!"

Maybe the combined shock of guitars, echo chambers, thumping pianos and fingersnapping mumblers did something to me. I'm sorry that happened after a few hours. I liked some of the tunes.

I almost danced while I'm sure, to listen to Matt Lucas sing "Moving On" without tapping my feet. Then I'm sure, to listen to Matt Lucas sing "Moving On" without tapping my feet. Then I'm sure, another number in which the guitars set a good rhythm and someone got some novel effects with sandpaper.

I also liked "Black Cloud Hanging Over My Head" and "It Doesn't Matter Anymore." Both were swinging tunes with catchy lyrics. I'm sorry that I didn't catch the singers' names.

When the announcer came to "On Top of Old Smoky", I nodded wisely. At last, here was something from my generation.

Ah, the hours spent listening to Louis Armstrong play and sing Hello Dolly.

A blast of sound hit my right ear. Old Smoky? — this just couldn't be. But it was. A chorus of young ladies, singing almost but not quite out-of-tune assured me that Old Smoky "used to be quiet, but it ain't quiet no more."

What I'd like to know is whether these are really tunes that teen - agers like. Do you find yourself glowing when Big Dee sings "Danger"? Doesn't anyone listen to Andy Williams sing "Days of Wine and Roses" (one of my favourites)?

Let's find out more about this. Make a careful list of five new tunes you like best during the past year. If you mail them to me, we'll compare the results and make up our own hit parade.

Excuse me now. I've got to turn off Andy Radio.

SUMMER PROJECT

So many of you have written to ask more about the "Canadian Save The Children Fund" that I'll repeat the address of its head office. It's the Canadian Save The Children Fund, 69 Hayter Street, Toronto, Ont.

Many Canadian teen-agers of youth groups have saved $50 to help a less fortunate young person elsewhere have found that they've learned a great deal in exchanging letters.

As I remarked before, it could be a good summer project for your local youth group or half-a-dozen of you who want to pool part of your summer earnings for a worthwhile project.

Ferocious Serpent "Caddy" Just a Rubber-Tire Laddy

VICTORIA (CP) — Cadborosaurus, the camera-shy sea serpent claimed to have been photographed by tourists, turned out Thursday to be man-made.

"Caddy" as the monster is affectionately known on the West Coast, was made up of a dozen rubber tires nailed upright with inner tube rubber, a tire-covered wooden neck and head and inner tube-supported outriggers.

Floated in the sea it looked exactly like everybody's idea of a sea serpent.

Miss Nettie Ross of Brandon, Man., claimed she had taken a picture of a lifetime— Caddy swimming lazily at this resort north of Victoria.

"I am sure it was the Caddy we have read about," said Miss Ross, visiting relatives, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Brown of the Mill Bay Tourist Resort.

A reporter - photographer team from the Victoria Times went to Mill Bay 20 miles north of here to see if the reported sighting was authentic.

DRUGGISTS' TRICK

They learned that Vancouver Island druggists, drug salesmen and physicians held an annual fishing derby Thursday at the resort and Wednesday night the derby committee was seen watching movies — including as the tire-and-wood Caddy was towed past the area.

The "serpent" was found in a boathouse.

One resident who declined to have his name published said it was "a cheap publicity stunt."

"It's all right to have a stunt like that as long as they don't try to pass it off as true. But why do it at all?"

Mr. Brown said:

"I had nothing to do with it. I'm not in on the secret."

Seafarers' Int. Union Head Accuses Kennedy Govt. Of Political Doublecross

CHICAGO (CP-AP)—A Canadian grain vessel whose owners are involved in a dispute with a seaman's union remained idle Thursday despite a temporary injunction issued Wednesday against dock workers who for nearly six weeks have refused to load her.

Meanwhile, the head of the Seafarers' International Union in the United States stirred up the controversy by accusing the Kennedy administration of what he termed "the greatest political doublecross in American union history."

Paul Hall, head of the SIU, made the reference in a speech Wednesday night which referred to the injunction.

He told the convention of the American Federation of Grain Millers that the U.S. National Labor Relations Board acted in the case of the Canadian vessel here because State Secretary Dean Rusk and Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz wanted to help out the Canadian government.

He termed the action an injustice to U.S. seamen.

HAVE HAD TALKS

Wirtz and Rusk have been involved in discussions with Canadian government authorities over the labor dispute.

An official of the union representing the loaders here said Thursday he had attempted to carry out a U.S. District Court order to load the Howard Shaw, a transport owned by Upper Lakes shipping, Limited, of Toronto, but that the men had refused to do so.

Jack Connor, president of the Grain Elevator, Flour and Feed Mill Workers Local 418, an affiliate of the International Longshoremen's Association, said he was served a copy of the court injunction Wednesday afternoon and immediately directed members of the union to start loading the Howard Shaw.

Connor said each of the 36 loaders employed by Continental Grain Company, at whose dock the transport is tied up waiting to take a cargo of grain, refused to comply with the order.

He said the men indicated they would rather give up their jobs than load a ship owned by Upper Lakes Shipping.

Continental Grain was closed Thursday for the Memorial Day holiday.

WILL NOT TRY

Connor said he would make no further attempt to have his men load the vessel before Tuesday. At that time, the National Labor Relations Board will return to court for a hearing on its suit to make the temporary injunction permanent.

The boycott by loaders against the Howard Shaw results from a dispute between Upper Lakes Shipping and the independent Seafarers' International Union in Canada over makeup of crews on lake boats operated by the Canadian firm. SIU crews formerly manned Upper Lakes boats but last year the owners signed up with crews represented by the Canadian Maritime (CLC).

The controversy between the company and the SIU has raged across the Great Lakes for at least two years with frequent violence at ports in Canada and the U.S.

The temporary injunction was issued by Judge John W. Holland at the request of the NLRB and the department of justice. The suit charged the SIU and ILA indicted members of the grain loaders union not to load the Howard Shaw, which arrived in Chicago April 22.

Sees No Chance Of Church Union

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — A United Church of Canada conference was told here Thursday that union between the Anglican and the United Church appears impossible.

Rev. H. W. Vaughan, secretary of the United Church's board of colleges and secondary schools, addressing the annual session of the church's Hamilton conference here, said talks of union between the two denominations have broken down because there is no machinery to effect union.

He said: "I'm not critical of the Anglicans, I'm just pointing out that the machinery isn't there. We must live with this with patience and good will."

He added that he was not sure the United Church itself would agree to union even if it were constitutionally possible.

"We are well on the way to becoming rather vicious denominationalists."

Board Rescinds Regulations On Tobacco

TILLSONBURG, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board has rescinded regulations restricting the transfer of tobacco acreage rights between farms, the Ontario Fire-Cured Tobacco Growers' Marketing Board announced Thursday.

In effect, the decision restores to the province's 4,000 tobacco growers the almost unrestricted freedom they previously had to grow their crops on whatever property they choose.

Most of Ontario's 1963 flue-cured crop already has been planted.

The tobacco board,—which meets next Tuesday—has not revised its own regulations yet to conform with the change. However under the government board's supervisory powers over all commodity groups, the change amounts to a directive.

Under the revised regulations, a qualified grower can ask the tobacco board to have his acreage allowances transferred to another property he owns. The grower's only limited to the amount of tobacco he can grow, which is set by his tobacco acreage as determined by the board. Tobacco acreages this year have been set at 60 per cent of the basic marketable acreages of each registered tobacco farm, with six acres on each farm exempted.

Expect Mayors

ter Lionel Chevrier take steps to amend the Criminal Code to permit either national lotteries or the individual provinces to have them.

Mayor Dudley Kerr of Mount Royal, Que., said he strongly supports a national lottery.

Mayor Victor Copps of Hamilton said the idea has his support.

INCREASE COSTS

Alan Scott, president of the Ontario division of the Urban Development Institute, warned delegates that provincial and municipal governments are increasing public housing costs by forcing private enterprise out of low-income housing.

Speaking in a panel discussion, he said it is a high time that "instead of giving lip service to the principles of home ownership for all, provincial legislators and municipal governments created the right atmosphere for private enterprise to provide housing for low-income families."

Mr. Scott said persons earning less than $5,000 a year have little hope of buying a home because developers have to pay $8,000 to $15,000 an acre for land which is $15 a foot frontage foot to service subdivisions.

In a business session, delegates agreed that unsightly welfare recipients should be put to work in return for allowances.

The decision was in accord with the view of Canada's 10 premiers who last August endorsed the principle that able persons should work for welfare payments.

In another resolution, the federation described federal grants for hospital construction of $2,000 a bed as inadequate and urged increases.

Sentence?
"Go Wreck Your Car"

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Rather than impose a fine which he doubted could be paid, Magistrate I. B. Craig sentenced 70 - year - old Charles Alderton Thursday to wreck what's left of his car.

Alderton had been charged with driving an unsafe vehicle. His car had no brakes, no tail light, three smooth tires and a fourth worn to the cords, wheels that were short one bolt each, a hood wired in place, loose steering, a cracked windshield, defective doors and a dead battery.

"Just so no one gets to use it again," the magistrate said.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Can't Go Back to Him

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — I have had a nervous breakdown and have taken my three children and gone home to my mother. Now my husband wants me and the children to come back and make a new start. We are both at fault, but I do not want to go back and live with him.

We have a nice home. He is a good provider and buys me and the children everything that is asked for and more, but I just can't seem to love him any more. Please help me with your advice. — PAT.

DEAR PAT — No one will force you to go back. A nervous breakdown comes from serious upsets and human beings don't react to treatment like machines.

Since it seems your husband is doing his level best, there may be hope for both of you in talking this over with someone who is trained to counsel on such things. Failing such a service where you are, your pastor, doctor, or an older family friend might help your understanding. It just can't be solved by a letter from me.

DEAR DORIS — Quite some time ago you answered a correspondent regarding ballet dancing. My young granddaughter is quite interested so grandmama is going to try to help her. Will you please give me the information about ballet books on ballet.

I read your column and I call your articles my short, short stories. Very frivolous for an 86-year-old woman! I like this, which I read long ago, by Robert Louis Stevenson: "Quiet minds cannot be perplexed or frightened but rest on fortune or misfortune at their own private pace, like a clock in a thunderstorm." — GRANDMAMA.

DEAR GRANDMAMA — The list of books is on its way to you. Glad you enjoy the short shorts. The quotation is priceless. Isn't the quiet mind what we all strive for?

Confidential to TWO GIRLS WHO KNOW — By now you will see that I did use the information you gave me about hickies. If you want to write to discuss French necking with you, you are going to have to send me a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope with your correct names on it.

Incidentally, the reason letters take so long to answer is because there are such an immense pile of them from all over Canada; it takes several days for me to reach me and then several days for me to reach them in the pile. I answer every letter personally.

DEAR DORIS — For some reason my mother doesn't like my boy friend. He is really nice and kind but she don't give him a chance to show it. He has a car and my older sister and I think this is the reason. My Mom has the idea that wherever there is a car it means pregnancy.

Now I am beginning to sneak behind my Mom's back to see my boy friend and I don't want this to happen. My girl friend tells me that he has been talking about asking me to go steady and I'm going to. How can I get my Mom to start to like my boy friend and see there is nothing wrong? To me it looks like my Mom has no faith in me. — S. V.

DEAR MISS S. W. — If the car's the rub, how about a walk — to a movie or a school dance? The evenings are lovely now! And if Mom says O.K. to seeing him at all, be sure he comes in, sits down, talks with her, before you go out together. Say where you're going, when you'll be home. And keep your word.

(There's an answer for any human problem. Write to Doris about yours, enclosing a five-cent, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

TEST YOURSELF — 7

Can You Take It?

By WILLIAM BERNARD and JULES LEOPOLD

Are you one of those fortunate individuals whose brains can rise to the occasion?

The amusing quiz below falls into the "complicated directions" class included in some mental-test batteries. Many psychologists believe that the ability to follow complex directions is itself an index of mental capacity. You can judge your score from that standpoint, if you wish.

But it is weighed here, under special time conditions, primarily to discover if you have your composure and poise under stress. If so, like the "money player" in sports, you can be at your best when the chips are down.

Set it is weighed here, under special time conditions, primarily to discover if you have your composure and poise under stress. If so, like the "money player" in sports, you can be at your best when the chips are down.

A good score would hist that your mind can take it when it comes to complications under time pressure. Of the sample quiz groups tested, the top 10 per cent scored 19 or higher. Just under were 20 per cent who made from 14 to 18 points. The next 30 per cent scored 12 to 13 right. Count your correct answers and see which group you fit in. Less than 12 correct shows that you may tend to become confused in unfamiliar situations requiring rapid brainwork.

TIME LIMIT: 5 MINUTES

If the letter Z appears anywhere before this comma, cross it out—otherwise cross it out in this word: ZOO. Now unless the word word appears in word draw a wavy line here ——— otherwise draw a cross; and by the way, if A is number 1 in the alphabet, what does 3M total? ——— If dogs chase cats and cats chase mice tell what single-figure odd number comes next when viewed upside-down ——— otherwise draw a cross ———

Don't write DISCURSIVE here ——— if the word does not contain all of the vowels, but instead write the first four words in the alphabet. Now go back to the first sentence and circle the word ZOO unless a circle cannot represent any letter of the alphabet. So much for the alphabet, except that if C is not the first letter don't draw a square in this space ——— but do draw a cow's ear in the margin of the page, unless D is not the second letter, in which case draw a human ear, unless you can't draw a human ear. If HAR rhymes with HAIR draw an ear anyway. Can you count from 10 down to 37 Do this backwards, writing the numbers on this line ——— Now if a HAT can be a bird or not as an animal don't draw a ball on the page margin, but write there the letters which appear least often in ABRACADABRA. Punctuate this sentence to make sense: THAT THAT IS IS. Now if that can be used correct to "What is the largest state?" is "Texas," write CALIFORNIA here ——— otherwise in the same space don't write ZOWIE unless deer hear. Draw a line over the second word in this sentence and under the second word in the next sentence. Write three words ending in X at the top of this page. Write XYZ at the left of the page if a circle is not a square: wait! Write it at the right of the page instead unless a circle is sometimes bigger than a square. Next, give the wrong answer to the negative of this question: HOW OLD ARE YOU? ——— Now if you've had enough write UNCLE at the end of this sentence, otherwise write UNCLE.

He said Thursday night the Pope conferred with Cardinal Cicognani and Gustavo Cardinal Testa, an Italian member of the curia.

WAS SERENE

In these talks, Mannini said, the Pope "demonstrated a great serenity and clearness of mind."

"Therefore even last night the state of the Pope, although his condition remained grave, was considered satisfactory."

Few people in the Vatican knew this morning that it wasn't.

Even as Mannini was in the papal apartment, the Vatican press office announced that the Pope was continuing to improve.

Reporters were told the noon bulletin would be brief and optimistic. Instead they received the news of the worst crisis yet.

As the cardinals arrived in the Vatican they were ushered to the Pope's apartment, Vatican radio said.

It said the Pope's condition was grave at 2:30 p.m., about 90 minutes after the turn for the worse was first reavealed.

PEOPLE THRONG SQUARE

Meanwhile, the news spread rapidly through Rome. A crowd gathered in St. Peter's Square.

Many priests and nuns knelt on the cobblestones, praying.

Eyes turned upward to the papal apartment.

Inquiries flooded the Vatican switchboard.

Operators said: "The Holy Father is very bad, very bad."

Earlier this morning operators had said he was "quite well."

Reports circulated in Rome that the Pope died sometime before 2 p.m.

The Vatican press office, answering telephones at 3 p.m., said the reports were not correct, that the Pope was alive "but very bad."

The bronze door at the main entrance to the Apostolic Palace was sealed at 3 p.m. It is closed when a Pope dies.

When he is in the final throes of death, it is partially closed.

ANGLICANS PRAY

The Vatican switchboard continued to receive hundreds of inquiries about the Pope's health. Most calls came from Italy. But some came from as far as Australia. The Archbishop of Canterbury today told Pope John in a telegram that Anglicans throughout the world were praying for his recovery.

Vatican radio said the Pope today sent a telegram to President Kennedy expressing his "deepest gratitude" for the president's message of concern about his health.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported Premier Khrushchev sent a telegram to the Pope with best wishes for recovery and for further successful continuation of "the fruitful activity for the benefit of the consolidation of peace and peaceful co-operation between peoples."

BEGAN BEFORE DAWN

Although the Vatican press office had earlier today said the Pope had a tranquil night, Mannini indicated the new crisis had its beginning before dawn.

"There was a state of uncertainty starting about midnight," Mannini said.

He added that the Pope's Rome doctor, Piero Mazzoni, was immediately summoned to the papal apartment. Mazzoni has been sleeping there for the last nine nights.

Apparently the setback became critical immediately.

Mannini said Mazzoni remained in the apartment and that the Pope, by 6:30 a.m. Rome time, was able to hear mass celebrated in the chapel next to the bedroom. Mannini said the Pope also received communion.

At 9 a.m., with the Pope still feeling pain, his Rome surgeon, Pietro Valdoni, was summoned to the Vatican.

Valdoni has been called in during every papal crisis, personally supervising transfusions of rabbit blood from the Rome blood bank at the city's Polyclinic Hospital.

Mannini said Valdoni "ascertained an increased gravity in the Pope's condition."

The newspaper director said the Pope was informed and asked to receive extreme unction. This indicated the Pope was conscious.

VIATICUM ADMINISTERED

Mannini said Msgr. Giuseppe Cavagna, a member of the papal household, then administered the viaticum, communion given to one in danger of death. Viaticum means "preparation for journey."

Afterward, Mannini revealed, the Pope's secretary of state, Armedo Cardinal Cicognani, entered the bedroom.

Belgian - born Bishop Pierre van Lierde, the Pope's sacristan and vicar-general for Vatican City, then administered extreme unction.

Bishop van Lierde had been remaining at hand throughout the illness.

An extraordinary Vatican radio broadcast, in all languages, at 2:15 p.m. reported the Pope's condition had worsened.

The radio said Gasbarrini left Bologna for Rome.

The Vatican press office earlier disclosed that the Pope had actually asked for extreme unction two days ago, saying: "Let us not hide the gravity of the facts."

But he was rallying then and it was not given.

Mannini said the Pope followed the rite today, and then asked Msgr. Cavagna to remain with him. The prelate replied to the Pope for half an hour, Mannini said.

COUNCIL MAY CONTINUE

The editor added that the Pope repeated to Msgr. Cavagna his statement of last Tuesday in which he offered his life for his ecumenical council, the church and peace. Referring specifically to the council, Mannini said, the Pope spoke of the council fathers and said he was sure the council work would be concluded.

This was a clear plea to a successor to continue the council, which would be suspended on the Pope's death. His successor need not reconvene it.

The council now is in recess.

Mannini said there was hope the Pope would again rally as he had in the past.

Alberta Fears Drought as Cruel As in Thirties

By JOHN MATTERS

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP) Farmers and ranchers in the parched south-eastern corner of Alberta fear they face one of the most severe droughts in memory.

Fanned by a burning sun which also has dehydrated fields and pastures, rancher Lance Brown said Wednesday the drought may be as cruel as those of the 1930s.

"I'm working on the theory that one of the driest periods ever experienced on the Prairies is coming up," said Mr. Brown in an interview in the leisurely, air - conditioned Cypress Club, a hangout for owners of large ranches.

The temperature outdoors in the shade was 87 degrees, the highest recorded this year.

Ranchers say the current drought, now in its third year, has left only patches of undersized grass in pastures and has dried out top soil to the extent that the brick earth is being blown little drifts.

THIRD IN ROW

"The business community certainly has felt the impact," said banker Wally Hayes, past president of the Medicine Hat Chamber of Commerce. "It's very serious considering this is the third year in succession we have experienced drought conditions."

Added rancher Henry Cavan: "It's starting to look possibly the worst period I've known."

At 76, the oldest white child born in Medicine Hat area, he runs two ranches on which he keeps 600 head of cattle. It is his "most serious drought" he has experienced.

Belch, in a double-ring ceremony, when Jean Elizabeth Sutherland, of Stirling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Sutherland, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Charles McKay, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer McKay. Lovely baskets of white Commercial mums and Shasta 'mums adorned the chancel rail, and white satin bows the guest pews.

Mrs. Ronald Johnston presided at the organ and rendered the wedding music. She also accompanied the soloist, Mr. Phil Bennett, of Belleville, who sang, before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," and "Because." During the signing of the register.

Disadvantages in All Walks Of Life Says Undertaker's Wife

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I read the letter from "Plumber's Wife" and decided the time had come for me to speak out.

Every line of work has its disadvantages and there's no getting around it. My husband is an undertaker. For years I've had to listen to jokes about morticians until I was ready to scream. You can't imagine the crude remarks I've had to smile through — such as, "How is your husband's business? Dead, I'll bet." Or, "It must be wonderful to have customers that never talk back." Recently a woman said to me, "Your husband can't lose. He gets 'em all — sooner or later."

When I was first married I used to become indignant and I let people know it. Now I accept it all as part of the work—even the "pay as you go" jokes. So, please, Ann, tell the women who complain about these things that nothing can save them like a sense of humor. — HEARD 'EM ALL.

DEAR HEARD 'EM — Thank you — on behalf of all wives everywhere. Now — can you stand one more? Does your husband endorse the lay-away plan?

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Your advice to the high school student who complained about a certain boy in the class who cheated during exams made a strong impression on me. You told the complainer not to be an informer — that eventually the cheater would do himself in.

I know how right you are, Ann, because I am a boy who cheated and now I am paying the price emotionally and economically... I've spent my life trying to cover up my ignorance of things I should have learned in school. I've bluffed and faked — revealing my lack of fundamentals time and time again, fooling no one, I'm sure.

I was a notorious goof-off in math courses and this has cost me dearly.. I've looked bad in business deals because I couldn't figure simple percentages, interest rates, and so on. I must rely on others because I am unable to come up with answers to elementary questions.

— I've regretted a million times that I didn't play it straight in school. Perhaps the basic problem is that too many kids don't know what they are in school for. — CHEATED MYSELF.

DEAR CHEATED YOURSELF — Thanks for a letter from someone who has been there.

It's too bad so much emphasis is placed on grades that some kids will do anything to get them. Undeniably, however, grades are an incentive and reward for achievement often serves as a spur. But a grade is no substitute for knowledge — and kids who fake out the teacher wind up with a sack of shells.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband and I are both 40. We have been married legally for 22 years. Five years ago he left me for another woman but said he did not want a divorce.

He has paid dinner with me and the children five nights a week, and often sleeps here and has breakfast with us. I pack him lunch to take to work. He usually spends weekends with the other woman.

Yesterday when our oldest son heard him call his woman friend on the phone and make a date he told me I was a fool to put up with his nonsense and that I should throw him out or insist that he stay home all the time.

I wish I had the courage to do it but I haven't. I'd be lim and afraid that if I put it to him this way I will lose him altogether. Please help me. — CONFUSED JELLYFISH.

DEAR CONFUSED — I can't help jellyfish — particularly jellyfish who don't want to be helped. You have allowed your husband to enjoy all the comforts of home and date on the side like a single man. And he will continue to have his cake and eat it so long as it's available.

The truly sad part of this arrangement is that you are losing the respect of your children who seem to have a far better sense of values than you.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BCIVS Gives $700 Cheque To UNICEF

Fifty-six million children and mothers in more than 100 countries benefit from the work of the "United Nations Children's Fund." UNICEF depends entirely upon voluntary contributions from governments, private groups and individuals.

The children of Belleville and district fund with their UNICEF Hallowe'en program. For two years the students of BCIVS have made outstanding contributions at the close of their school year and this year was also making a contribution. On this morning, Mrs. A. Watson, Belleville, Secretary of Committee for UNICEF had a great pleasure in accepting a cheque from BCIVS students. These young people must be congratulated for their wonderful effort. We wonder how many some children will be spared the blindness of trachoma, the debilitation of malaria and TB, the living death of leprosy, and the disfigurement of yaws.

Many more children are waiting for help. With the world's interest and concern channelled through the work of UNICEF and the growing efforts of their own governments, more children will be enabled to realize their potential as human beings and make their contribution to a better world.

Mrs. Carl Thompson and Mrs. Alex Allison gave interesting reports on the East Hastings Women's Institute district annual held recently at Tweed.

Mrs. Duane Martin, convener for citizenship and education, gave a reading on attending school, by intercom, in which she stressed that a polio victim confined to bed at home was kept in contact with his schoolmates a mile away by a bonlike device installed near his bed by flipping a switch on this combined telephone, portable radio and inter-office communication system. He could hear what went on in the classroom and his voice was transmitted to the classroom. A regular private telephone line connected the intercom unit in his room with one in Sutherland public school.

Recently 20 sets have been made available by Saskatchewan government. As a public service the telephone company provides units on a monthly rental basis of $4.40 plus an installation charge of $5. A child guidance counsellor in Saskatoon lists a few general rules for the proper use of the intercom system. Its use must be agreed to by the child's parents, family doctor and school authorities. The child should have a minimum I.Q. of 85; be in the fourth grade or higher and be able to see, hear, hold a pencil and manipulate a switch.

W.I. FUTURE

Mrs. Percy Reynolds, convener for the meeting, gave a talk on the motto: "A Bright Woman's Institute Future". Each member in Women's Institute work has a part to play in building for a brighter future. Each member of every branch in the province is an important person — a link in a chain which is comprised of 45,000 links. If one link in that great chain is weak, does not hold out her end, the whole chain is weakened. For a successful future the W.I. must have 45,000 strong links who are continually looking toward lengthening the chain which is named F.W.I.O.

FOUR CHARACTERISTICS

Four characteristics which will strengthen a link are developed from the four letters F.W.I.O.: F for forthrightness; W for wisdom; I for integrity; O for organizational ability.

The first link, 'Forthrightness,' means "straightforward" A Women's Institute member with this characteristic will speak her considered opinion in a meeting. She will be honest in her opinions and dealings. The practice of this characteristic will strengthen the W.I. if members feel they are links. 'Wisdom', the second characteristic to ensure a bright future. Wise leadership at every level of Women's Institute work as a necessity.

Wisdom is the outcome of careful and considered thought. A wise person is held in deep respect by everyone. Perhaps it is due to the great wisdom of the ancestors that women are privileged to belong to the Women's Institute. "Let us develop our thinking with wisdom for a greater Women's Institute.

Integrity or honesty, along with two other I's, namely interest and initiative, are necessary in order that the organization may grow and expand. Members must take a deep interest in the work.

The F.W.I.O. has several meanings: forthrightness, wisdom, integrity, interest initiative, organizational ability and opportunity."

Mr. D. Julian gave a recording of an Institute meeting in Southampton, England, as a reply to a recording he had taken of the local Institute meeting.

In their Institute they had a membership of 50. The meetings were held in the evening on the first Tuesday of every month. It also gave an outline of their meetings held during each month of the past year which was interesting.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Julian for the interesting recording.

A gift was given to the past-president, Mrs. Carl Thompson, for her splendid leadership and work during the past two years. Refreshments were prepared and served by the hostess and her assistants.

QUESTION:

Would you please send me a recipe for Rose Hip Jam? — Mrs. R. R.

ANSWER:

ROSE HIP JAM:

Cover rose hips, which have been washed, with water to cover. Bring to boil, cover and simmer until tender. Rub through sieve. Measure and weigh pulp. To each pound of it add ¾ pound sugar. Boil rapidly, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking, until the mixture falls from spoon in 2 drops about 1" apart. Four into sterile jars and seal.

LETTER:

I thought I had destroyed the butter nut cake recipe I asked you for but subsequently found it. I am enclosing the recipe — Edna G.

ANSWER:

You recommended the Butter Nut Cake so highly I just had to try it. The flavor is lovely and the idea of pre-toasting the almonds is the key to its success. I want to pass on Edna G's recipe to other readers with my hearty recommendation. When folks that habitually wander in and out of my house saw it they picked up the knife alongside, cut themselves a piece — and went back for more.

BUTTER NUT CAKE (courtesy Edna G.):

A most flavored cake with toasted almonds throughout. The taste will remind you of maple, but ice cream.

¼ cup chopped almonds, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup soft butter, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon maple flavoring.

In frying pan, toast almonds until pale gold in 1 tablespoon butter and set aside. Sift together the flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add the 1-3 cup soft butter, the egg, milk and flavorings and mix until all the flour is dampened. Beat vigorously for 2 minutes. Reserve ⅓ cup of the toasted almonds for frosting. Fold remainder into batter. Bake in a greased and floured 9 x 9 x 2" pan with greased paper or foil on bottom, at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes or until done. Let stand in pan for 3 minutes. Turn out on cake rack. Cool thoroughly. Spread top and sides with Nut Frosting: Three tablespoons soft butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups sifted icing sugar. Beat all ingredients together until light and fluffy. Stir in reserved almonds.

C.G.I.T. Holds Refugee Night

On Tuesday, the C.G.I.T. of Holloway Street United Church entertained their fellow groups at a "Refugee Night." The theme was taken from this year's Mission Study on Japan and other far east points.

Approximately 50 girls and leaders attended. They were welcomed by Holloway's president Carol McCann.

Donna Wannamaker led everyone in a "get-acquainted" game. Following this, each separate group took part in the program which included skits, sing-songs, and games.

A fine worship service was also conducted by the members of Eastminster United Church.

A Refugee lunch was provided consisting of rice, raisins, cookies, candy and a beverage. Each item had a small charge, as the purpose of the project was to raise money for the new educational extension to the Church.

The get-together was enjoyed by all who attended and was closed with taps.

Credit should be given the members of the Holloway C.G.I.T., Carol McCann, Linda Wannamaker, Allison Mailler, Heather Wardhaugh, Diane Bryden, Donna Wannamaker and their leader, Lenore Wilkes, all of whom made the evening a success.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: When a woman is dining with a man in a restaurant, why must she give her order to her escort instead of speaking to the waiter herself. If she wants to discuss the ingredients of a dish, or how it's cooked, must she ask through her escort, as well? This may be more correct, but it seems awfully roundabout and cumbersome to me. — Mrs. R. L., Miami, Fla.

Answer: A woman gives her order to her escort simply because he's her host, and in charge, and it would be rude to bypass him. If she wants more details about a dish, of course she may speak to the waiter without having her escort act as translator.

Question: Must the attendant in a powder room always be tipped, even if she does nothing for you? What is the correct amount to leave. — Mrs. P. C., Bayside, N.Y.

Answer: If there's an attendant, she usually is tipped at least a dime, even if she does no more than smile at you. If she hands you a towel and helps you with your coat, a twenty - five cent tip is customary. You can usually tell what's expected by the change in the dish on the dressing table or counter. You leave a dime if there are dimes in the dish and a quarter if there are quarters. A larger tip is given if the attendant gives additional service, like sewing a seam, helping fix a runaway hairdo or helping in some other special way.

SPRING: HOME, GARDEN IMPROVEMENT TIME

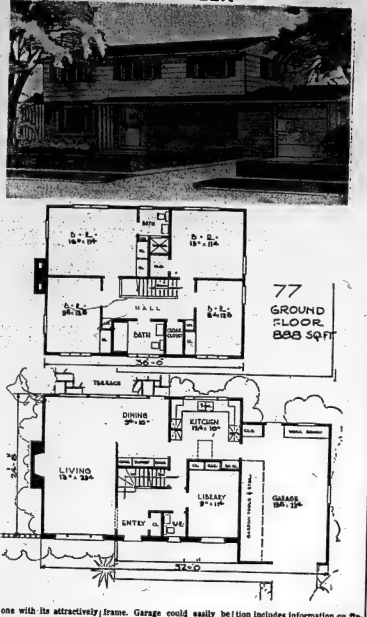
Canadian Garden Service

WHEN YOU MOVE THEM

One doesn't need a green thumb or a lot of technical knowledge to be successful in transplanting plants, shrubbery, or even fair sized trees. There are just two important points to remember. Make sure the roots are firmly covered with fine soil and that this is then well watered. And of course always bear in mind that roots are meant to be covered, so don't expose any more than absolutely necessary to air or sun. In the case of small plants, like petunias or tomatoes, keep the soil about them moist for a few days, with shrubbery and trees give extra water for a week or so. A bit of mulch in the way of chemical fertilizer will always help at transplanting time. Also, if possible, do the transplanting in the evening or on a cloudy day and shade from the sun for a little while. With big nursery stock like trees, stake and tie firmly so that the wind will not whip around and loosen and let air in around roots.

IS IT SUITABLE FOR CANADA

The Canadian gardener is well advised to make sure that all the flower and vegetable seed used comes from a Canadian source. Not because this may be considered patriotic, but because only such seed has been especially selected and tested for the Canadian climate and conditions. A flower or a vegetable that may give excellent results in England, or Virginia or Ireland, may well find Canada much too rugged for its taste. Good, suitable seed only costs a few cents, but without it a successful garden is impossible.



A GREAT HELP, BUT

Chemical fertilizer is clean, practically odorless and simple to use, though care should be taken not to let it actually touch tender plants. A foolproof way for small applications is to dissolve in a watering can and simply pour along the rows, or we can sprinkle well with a hose after application, or do the job just before or during a rain-fall.

Rewiring Should Be Fix-up 'Must'

Remodeling an older home these days without rewiring it might be compared to building a boat in the middle of the Sahara Desert. Rewiring without a good plan for present and future electrical household needs is almost as ridiculous.

An ideal guide to follow when wiring or rewiring a house is the list of "Gold Medallion" Home Standards. A "Gold Medallion" is awarded by electric utilities to homes that are adequately wired, equipped with modern electric appliances, and heated electrically.

Here are some of the electric features a home owner can enjoy in a home that has been remodeled for better electric living.

Full house power: each room has outlets and power enough for the many appliances that make electric living comfortable and convenient. No point along the baseboards of any room is more than six feet from an electric outlet.

Above average lighting: proper lighting is provided for all family activities, including reading, shaving, watching television, and entertaining. Good lighting inside helps decorate each room. Outside it adds dramatic effects and discourages prowlers.

Electric heating and cooling: electric heat is clean, quiet and comfortable; with air conditioning, it will have perfect indoor "weather" all year long. Windows stay shut against outdoor noise, dirt, and irritants such as pollen, and there are no uncomfortable blasts of heat or chilly, draffy floors and walls.

DISEASE INCREASES

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—An increase in a diarrhoea-causing disease similar to intestinal 'flu has been reported in the northeastern United States by the communicable disease centre. About 250 cases of the disease, known as salmonellosis, have been reported since March 1, mostly in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Normally, there are about 20 cases a month in the U.S.

Backyards Geared For Family Fun

Since World War II, more and more families have been proving that there's no place like home for outdoor living!

What started with Saturday night cook-outs at a back-yard grill has progressed to the point where today, many people don't have to go further than their own property to enjoy favorite sports or a swim.

The modern concept of total development of property has led to today's practice of utilizing the entire back-yard space to meet specific needs of every member of the family.

In order to make maximum use of outdoor areas, it is important to first assess the family needs and the functions each area is to fulfill. Ideally, a back-yard is broken up into 'living' and game areas.

In planning outdoor projects, careful consideration should be given to existing landscaping and sun and wind exposure.

OUTDOOR "LIVING ROOM"

Many families have extended their 'living room' outdoors by means of decks, terraces, patios and porches of flagstone, concrete, tile or wood. These sunning, dining and entertaining areas may be enclosed and protected by screening or fencing. Ideally the barbecue pit should be located nearby.

Today's back-yard is also a recreation 'room', where the family keeps fit by having fun. Although each outdoor game has its own requirements as to space, with a little thought play areas for several sports can be included on the home property.

Careful planning can turn a concrete patio or driveway into a family sports area with a shuffleboard court, a basketball hoop and deck tennis provisions.

Grassy areas of the back-yard are ideal for volley-ball, deck tennis, badminton, croquet, golf putting, etc.

When many families feel like a swim, they head for their own back-yard instead of the nearest lake or shore area. The swimming pool, once a luxury for a privileged few, is now priced within reach of the average homeowner.

For the family without a conventional swimming pool, there are plastic wading pools, many of them large enough to permit adults, as well as youngsters, to keep cool in warm weather.

CHILDREN'S HAVEN

Although the back-yard has become a play area for adults, children have not been forgotten. Many yards have areas enclosed with built-in 'baby-sitter' fences for complete protection from neighborhood hazards.

Youngsters play on outdoor "kiddie gyms," slides, swings, and sand boxes made of modern "safety-first" materials in imaginative shapes and colors.

Families can enjoy outdoor living more with "indoor" conveniences. Modern lawn furniture is as good-looking and comfortable as it is durable. Back-yard lighting arrangements extend game-time and permit greater use of outdoor living 'rooms.'

Today's home-owner relies on portable heaters to keep his back-yard as pretty as it is practical. Plant boxes and tubs mounted on casters or dollies are easily moved and maintained, and are colorful additions to terraces, patios and sun decks. Even small trees and shrubs will thrive in terrace tubs.

Painting Can Solve Room Size and Shape Problems

You can "change a room's dimensions" if you know the magic tricks of paint color. In this day, when every room may not be the answer to your dream house architecturally, these problem-solving hints from the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association come in handy, indeed.

First, some basic color facts.

LIGHT VS DARK

The lightness or darkness of a color radically affects the illusion of size. Try this test yourself to see how it works. Place side by side identical objects, one in black, the other in white, since these are dark and light extremes. See how the white seems larger and farther away, the black smaller and closer.

So it is with walls.

White or pastels (which are only colors tinted generously with white) will open up a small area and "enlarge" it. But if you wish to diminish the wide open spaces of a cavernous room, deep shades will seem to draw walls cozily together.

Now the color itself.

You may have heard them described as "warm" or "cool." The easiest way to tell which is which, is to relate them to familiar things. Like the sun, like flame, warm colors are variations of orange, red or yellow. They seem nearer to you and make rooms smaller.

Conversely, like the sky, like water, variations of blue, violet, green and gray are the alrier "cool" colors. Like objects appear to recede. Therefore rooms look larger.

These colors will actually make you feel warmer or cooler mentally. So take this into consideration along with the size of the room before you paint. For instance, a pastel yellow will seem to enclose you more than a pastel blue, even though they are both pale. So if you're painting a long, narrow corridor you might very well prefer choosing your pastel from the cool family.

Speaking of long, narrow rooms, it is best to break them up with color. Favorite decorator tricks are painting the two narrow ends in a deep, warm shade and keeping walls light. This shortens the length considerably to your mind's eye. If the ceiling is abnormally high, pull it together with the floor by painting them both in the same deep shade.

CEILING RULE

In any room, this ceiling rule holds true: Too high, keep the color deep; Too low, lift it with a light color.

A half-wall jutting out from nowhere splits a room's symmetry. Since you can't disguise this architecture, dramatize it with a bright, warm shade. This could be the focal point of a furniture grouping or prize painting. More interest is added by a two-color scheme with this technique, too.

You can afford to step up room size by contrasting color woodwork and doors only if the room is big enough to take it. Otherwise, paint all the same shade as the walls. Everything blends. The same goes for radiators, pipes, lighting fixtures, extraneous molding and other such eyesores foisted upon you. They'll fade away.

Using top quality paint makes the most of your budget. Only the best will look the way you want it, wear and cover properly without getting out of bed.

EMERGENCY BROADCAST

In case of accident or fire, this home interphone system can be used to notify the rest of the family simply by broadcasting the alarm internally by phone. Through two-way communication, replies from the rest of the family assures that the message has been heard.

The same system also lets you listen in on the nursery or check on children's activities and whereabouts.

All this is possible through small speakers in matching cabinets which accompany each phone. Your message is "broadcast" through these speakers into every room in which there is a phone. A flick of a switch on the phone lets you converse with callers or children at the front door. Highly sensitive microphones in the base of each telephone pick up replies from the rest of the family, enabling a clearly audible two-way conversation.

So, as your thoughts turn to home improvements, give pause to consider if your family could benefit by better home communications. With today's new aids you need not walk to talk.

HANDS OFF

Family won't mistake furnace and other infrequently used controls for light switches if you tape a small loop of cardboard over switches not to be touched.

What Paint to Use Where

Here's a quick run-down on the proper paint to use for any interior surface you may be beautifying:

Plaster walls and ceilings — any high quality interior flat paint, oil, alkyd or latex paint. For bathrooms and kitchens, use semi-gloss or gloss enamel paint for greater washability.

Wallboard — seal with primer sealer and then follow with any high quality wall paint.

Hardboard — seal with latex paint, primer sealers shellac or enamel undercoat. Use any desired topcoat.

Plywood — for an opaque top coat, seal with penetrating resin sealer, flat oil or alkyd paint or enamel undercoat. For a natural finish which shows the grain, use a clear penetrating resin sealer, followed by varnish.

Woodwork — semi-gloss enamel in same color as walls. Full gloss is often used in kitchens and bathrooms.

A Kitchen Desk Ups Efficiency

A work-corner in the kitchen for correspondence, filing and all sorts of paper-homework is a tremendous contribution to housewifely efficiency.

If desk construction is in your new kitchen plans, arrange for a panel of pegboard backing. This will serve as a bulletin board, to post grocery lists and specials. A rack for magazines and a cookbook shelf will also be useful. A drawer deep enough to hold a standard office file will quickly organize such household necessities as tax records; two shallow drawers will accommodate paper supplies.

PLAN RADIO STATION

The United States plans to build a $74,000,000 naval radio station at North-West Cape in Western Australia.

Home Owners Launch Clean-up, Check-up, Fix-up Operations

As spring approaches, the home-owner's thoughts turn traditionally to cleaning-up and sprucing-up his property, both inside and outside.

In addition to the "spring cleaning" phase of the operation (usually Mrs. Home-Owner's department) there are matters of minor or major repairs, redecorating, replacement of outworn or outmoded (the better to meet changing family needs) that are likely to get top priority at this time of year.

Certainly this is a good time to make a systematic check-up of the whole house, assessing the damage the ravages of winter weather may have caused, and locating potential trouble spots that can result in more serious breakdowns later on.

A good place to start is outdoors. Check the ground around the home's foundation where washouts may have left holes. Further rainfall will fill these holes with water, which can leak through any cracks in the masonry. Such holes should be filled with sand or loose gravel topped with soil at grade level.

Next take a close look at the foundation. Cracks should be repaired with a good base waterproofing cement that can be applied with a pointing tool, putty knife or trowel.

INSPECT SIDING

Siding should be closely inspected for cracks and dents or decay, and decayed or rotten boards replaced, where practical. The homeowner also might consider residing with asbestos cement siding shingles that are virtually maintenance-free.

Roofing should be checked for loose or curled shingles, and these should be recalled in place. Nailheads should be covered with roofing cement. Badly damaged shingles should be replaced. Condition of mortar in the chimney should be checked, and also the flashing, for holes, cracks or corrosion.

Take a look at gutters and downspouts, which may have become loose or damaged during the winter. Tighten up where necessary.

Check door frames and windows for deteriorating caulking, and replace it where necessary.

Outside paint should be checked for signs of peeling or flaking. Bare spots should be scraped clean, tren touched up promptly to keep moisture from entering the wood. If the condition is widespread, a complete paint job is probably needed as soon as possible.

A close check should be made for possible signs of termite entry. Wooden members that are in contact with the ground should be treated with a penetrating type wood preservative.

HEATING SYSTEM

If heating equipment is more than 20 years old, consider possible modernization. Certainly the furnace and heating plant should be inspected, adjusted and lubricated at least once a year by a competent service man.

Inside the house, look for wall cracks and bulges and sagging ceilings. Check for needed paint work. In dry-wall construction, drive any protruding nails below the surface and fill hole before starting to paint.

Check flooring for needed repairs or replacement of boards or tiles. Consider re-flooring one or more rooms with some of the new, attractive, and highly durable materials, such as vinyl tiles.

PAINT STRAINER

Strain lumps and sediments out of a can of paint by pouring slowly through a double thickness of cheesecloth that has been tied over the mouth of an empty jar or pail.

Growing Families Require Fast Home Communication

Does needless shouting disturb the quiet of your home? Do wasted steps try the patience of your family?

Probably one of the most neglected elements in the home today is improvement of home communications — a relatively easy way to make your life simpler, safer and more convenient.

Developments in the communications field have been so rapid in recent years that many families are unaware of the new conveniences that can be added to your home. Now, you can plan your home communications to meet your individual needs, just as you decorate to reflect your own special tastes.

COMMUNICATIONS NEEDS

The size of a house, its layout and number of people in the family affect the communications needs of a home. For people with large homes or growing families, for example, an internal communications system can save steps, end the need for shouting and bring new dimensions of safety to the whole family.

Today, a wide variety of these internal intercom systems are available. Basically they boil down to three categories.

(1) The short-wave communications system, which is often considered when it is necessary to tie in a detached garage, workshop or other separate building with the internal system.

(2) The built-in sound system intercom, which can incorporate an AM radio so that music and news can be "piped" through the house.

(3) The internal intercom system (offered by your local Bell System Phone Company) that is fully integrated with regular telephone service.

Merely by reaching for the nearest phone, any member of the family can talk with any or all other individuals throughout the house. And best of all, hands-free answering enables the other party to converse freely without interruption.

As an added convenience, you can talk with a caller at the front door from the kitchen, bedroom or wherever there's a phone. This is especially valuable at night when the door can be answered and, if necessary, help summoned by a phone call.

Ontario Commerce Chamber Defeats Belleville Proposal For Uniform Store Hours

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Chamber of Commerce recommends that the province negotiate with the federal government and other provincial governments with a view to simplification of federal-provincial tax collections.

A policy statement adopted Thursday by the chamber's annual meeting said:

"It is undesirable for two or more levels of government to occupy the same tax field; the ultimate aim should be withdrawal of provincial governments from the direct tax fields of individual income taxation, corporation income taxation and death duties."

The chamber stated that business corporations, individuals and estates should be relieved of the necessity of filing returns to each province—that there should be only one assessment and only one appeal should be required in disputed assessments.

The statement was part of a declaration on tax matters presented to the chamber by a committee headed by Prof. W. G. Leonard of Queen's University.

A Belleville proposal to establish province-wide uniform standard closing hours for stores was defeated.

The chamber approved a statement that the short-term financial problems of the St. Lawrence Seaway should be met without either reimposing tolls on the Welland Canal or increasing tolls on St. Lawrence canals.

A statement from Stratford and Waterloo, which was approved, asks that recent Ontario legislation to amend the Planning Act (Bill 106) be not implemented until the chamber and other interested organizations have an opportunity to make representations.

The statement describes the bill's purpose as providing for the control and regulation in any or all respects of the matters dealing within Ontario of farm products.

W. H. Ainlay of Kitchener, chairman of the chamber's agricultural committee, described the legislation "as the most undemocratic thing to come out of Queen's Park in a long time."

A Belleville statement, also approved, asks the Ontario government to withdraw another regulation, pending further study. This one requires filing of rates by the trucking industry.

In the motor-vehicle field approval was given to recommendation from Fort William and Port Arthur that solid white lines be painted on the edges of paved highways to indicate how close a motorist can keep to the shoulder of the road.

Another statement asks for legislation requiring all persons in the province to be licensed on Ontario highways, to be equipped by the manufacturer with seat belts as standard equipment.

Speaks urging public meetings of public bodies, said a 1961 amendment to the Municipal Act is being used by some school boards to hold all their meetings in private. Approval was given to its suggestion that all regular meetings of publicly elected bodies be held in public, and that an appropriate amendment be made to the municipal act.

PAST AND PRESENT — with a hint of the future — is indicated in this picture as OSD's Russell Flagler shares reminiscences with Ethel Nurse and former OSD superintendent W. J. Morrison. In the conversation piece are Myrna Eamer and present superintendent Joseph Demeza. Ethel Nurse was the only remaining OSD staffer present at last night's tribute to Mr. Flagler who exceeded him in length of service. Miss Eamer is one of the OSD's youngest teachers. She started in the job as last year. They talk around the table which was part of a ground-floor suite presented to Mr. Flagler by the OSD staff.

Labor Unions Launch Strike In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—After riotous demonstrations, Peronist labor unions launched a 24-hour general strike today to press for government action to ease unemployment.

The strike, aimed at paralyzing the troubled country, was ordered Confederation of Labor to climax a week of protest. The confederation is dominated by followers of former dictator Juan D. Perron, now in exile in Spain.

All unions except the white collar workers have agreed to support the strike, which threatened to slow public transportation to a crawl.

Union promised to keep skeleton crews manning utilities, hospitals, long distance telephones, airport control towers and other essential installations.

The strike began at midnight after a day of violence in which federal police used tear gas and high pressure water on about 10,000 marching workers. Half-a-dozen demonstrators were reported slightly injured.

THROW ROCKS

The demonstrators, who carried signs reading "enough of hunger," threw rocks and bricks at police.

In one clash, 5,000 men and women workers, led by Jose Alonso, confederation secretary-general, battled police for more than an hour until a police commissioner assured them they could demonstrate in peace.

Tear gas scattered 7,000 workers in another demonstration.

Police broke up the demonstrations and strike to vent grievances against President Jose Maria Guido's shaky regime.

The confederation has accused the government of failing to take action in the economic crisis, which has left 1,000,000 jobless. It also demands release of prisoners it says are being held without trial.

Croll Asks Senate to Study Problems of Aged in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate is being asked to make a study in depth of problems of the aged.

Behind the move is white-haired, vigorous Senator David Croll, a former Ontario welfare and labor minister with a long-time interest in welfare problems.

The 63-year-old Liberal senator has introduced a motion in the Upper Chamber with view of setting a 20-member committee to work on a national survey of problems ranging from health, employment and housing to facilities for leisure activities.

"Many of the aged feel that they are unwanted, that they are useless to others," said Senator Croll in an interview today.

"This is a very wide field which generally has been dealt with in a limited way, within a province, for example."

His motion calls for study of "the problem" involved in the promotion of the welfare of the aged and aging persons, in order to ensure that in addition to the provision of a sufficient income, there are also developed adequate services and facilities of a positive and preventive kind so that older persons may continue to live healthy and useful lives as members of the Canadian community and the need for the maximum co-operation of all levels of government in the promotion thereof."

Senator Croll expects that it would take two years or more to do justice to such an inquiry. But he has made a preliminary of these studies-in-depth which have brought the Upper Chamber wide praise, notably for its examination a few years ago of manpower problems.

He hopes that expert help can be enlisted in developing the lines of inquiry and solutions to the problem identified. Although he has not suggested it, the committee might hold hearings across the country to make sure that the aged themselves who could not come to the capital would participate in its work.

Seeks Two Million in Damages From Stock Exchange at Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Wilfred Poslums, 22-year-old plaintiff in a $2,100,000 damage action against the Toronto Stock Exchange and George Gardiner, ex officio of the exchange, testified Thursday that to this day he does not know why the exchange's directors withdrew approval of his status as a director and shareholder of B. A. Daly and Company, stockbrokers.

Mr. Poslums spent the entire ninth day of his court action in the witness box, testifying about the circumstances of his loss of position with the Daly firm and the exchange hearing which deprived him of that position.

At one point, Mr. Justice G. A. Gale, who is hearing the case without jury, interrupted questioning by exchange counsel Arthur Patillo.

Mr. Patillo asked Mr. Poslums whether he knew that the stock exchange directors did not approve of his being a director of the Daly firm acting in certain stock option deals for Peterborough druggist John Lido, such while at the same time being a partner in the firm of Lido Investments, which bought options from Mr. Lynch.

"They never told me what I had done wrong," Mr. Poslums said. He added later that he had told Mr. Lynch about his interest—he was a partner and part owner—in Lido Investments.

Mr. Poslums said he knew what the board of governors were making an enquiry about but he could not see that he had done any wrong.

Could you at any time before the Feb. 18 meeting (of the exchange's directors) know, or have any suspicion, as to why were sitting improperly?" Mr. Patillo asked.

Mr. Justice Gale interrupted: "That is something I have to decide. That's like saying, 'Have you stopped beating your wife?' the form of the question is unfortunate."

Mr. Poslums said he made full disclosure to senior officials of the Daly firm about his partnership in Lido Investments, and therefore did not believe there was anything improper about his actions.

"It was pretty obvious to you at the (exchange committee meeting) that the board of governors didn't agree with you?" Mr. Patillo observed.

"I just thought they didn't understand," Mr. Poslums replied.

Mr. Poslums testified to switch part of Mr. Lynch's business to Lido from the Daly firm.

Mr. Poslums was still under questioning when the hearing adjourned.

Bus Driver for 40 Years, Russell Flagler Is Honored By His Colleagues at OSD

You probably know the bus. But maybe not the driver.

Anyway he is retired — but not dismissed by his passengers of 40 years standing — nor by a long shot to judge by last night in Belleville.

The bus is the familiar grey-blue school bus (the only one around here that picks up both teachers and students) operated for the Ontario School for the Deaf.

The driver was Russell Flagler, who formally retired last night at a testimonial dinner in Club Canada after 40 years' bus - driving for the OSD. Not that he was just a bus driver, as

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

WELLINGTON — They're not "Wild Bill" Cantrells or Bill Mosceys of the rassling mittinfoot but you could call them the Hayward-Thompsons of their class and not be creating a misnomer.

As a matter of fact the "Hayward" of the two-man team is a Thompson," Doug, by name, while the other half is a young fellow, Bill Wanamaker.

Their sleek, slinky "B" Hydro Racing Class boat, "Wanda III", hops-skips and jumps rippling racing courses in record time. It's purring power-plant thrives on a diet of alcohol and castor oil.

Doug the driver, and Bill the master mechanic look after their water-borne baby like a mother hen does her chicks. They are growing and already "Wanda III" has a championship or two in her record book.

They were bitten by the hydroplane racing bug back in 1956 when they didn't have too much success. The "virus" didn't shake off and the next year saw them increase their speed up to eight miles an hour.

It paid off and they placed second in some races in competition with Chuck Simons of Montreal, who was the champion of the class in that time.

But it was not enough. Hungry racing eyes glimpsed a championship. When they placed fourth in the world nationals one "boat" shy of qualifying they decided on other action.

In the spring of 1960 they purchased a new boat, Wanda II" which they raced with success for two seasons. They were high point winners in their class. Still not satisfied they sold "Wanda II" at the end of the 1961 season and acquired a "Wanda III", a Sliderafi specially designed for "B" Class racing.

"Wanda III" lived up to her reputation and the boys had a very successful season. They broke the Canadian Competition Five Miles record and were awarded the high points prize of the Canadian Boating Federation.

The boys were on their way with "Wanda III" behaving beautifully. They won the all-points award and beat the Schenly Gold Medal at Valleyfield, Quebec, where they kicked from this the lower of 12 other entries and set a new Canadian five-mile record.

Shooting higher the boys took "Wanda III" to Midland, Michigan, for the World National Races where approximately 70 boats of their class were gathered.

"Wanda III" easily qualified in her heat, winning handily, but it was a different story the next day.

She was racing all out in a thrilling neck-and-neck battle with other craft when suddenly her engine caught fire. It spilled metal all over the place, ending the boat's chances for the title.

Subsequent examination of the boat's fuel revealed that it had been changed. Instead of the regular alcohol-castor oil diet, "Wanda III" had been given a change of menu. From now on when racing in faraway places the boys put a 24-hour guard on the boat.

The trim craft is being readied for the 1963 season and Doug and Bill hope to capture fresh laurels with it this season. In the plans are the world international championships slated for Atlanta, Georgia, this summer.

Speaking of boat racing President Doug Storey of the Quinte Hydroplane Racing Club tells me the second Sheet of the organization has been slated for Sunday, June 23rd. The boys will race off Zwick's Island, weather permitting. Awards will be given to all who take part. This form of boat racing is growing extremely popular with the younger fellows, Storey says, "but I would like to see more of the older chaps, including veteran drivers turn out."

Scores Four Goals In Soccer Win

A "one-man gang" wearing the colors of the Trenton Ambers club literally ran wild in his team's 5-2 victory over the winless Panama Cleaners in a Bay or Quinte Football League game last night.

Allan Brown reportedly ran all over the field scoring four of his club's goals, three of them a first-half hat trick. Tompleton got the fourth Trenton goal before half-time.

Brown scored his fourth counter in the second half with Rutherford scoring for Parsons and Steve Urbegrs counting the second on a penalty shot.

Climb Steadily Toward Top ★★★★

Sizzling Twins Race To 10th In Row

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Some people are sloughing us off in their pennant predictions. It burns me up and I hope it has the same effect on the players."

The words belong to Minnesota Twins manager Sam Mele. So does the hottest team in the majors.

Continuing to climb in the standings in the tightening American League pennant scramble, the torrid Twins maintained their sizzling pace Thursday with a 3-2 victory over Washington Senators that accounted for their 10th consecutive victory.

The triumph gave Twins the longest winning streak in the majors this season. It also left them only one-half game out of the first division after Secondering around at the tail-end of the standings for the first month of the season before starting a slow burn.

"I know a lot of people are saying we have to prove ourselves," says Mele, who brought Twins home second last year, "But we have too much going for us to be counted out."

PASCUAL WINS THIRD

One of the things Mele has going for him is right-hander Camilo Pascual, who has won three of the 10 games in the streak. Against Senators, he scattered eight singles and, finding himself short on runs, drove in the winner with a sacrifice fly in the ninth inning.

Kansas City Athletics made it two straight over league-leading Baltimore, beating Orioles 7-3 and trimming their edge to two games over the runner-up New York Yankees, 6-5 winner in 10 innings over Boston Red Sox.

The third-place Chicago White Sox closed to within three games of the top with a doubleheader sweep over Cleveland Indians, 8-4 and 4-2, while Detroit Tigers whipped Los Angeles Angels 3-0 behind Frank Aguirre's four-hit pitching in a second division struggle.

Pascual, now 7-4, drove in the winning run off Senators' starter Tom Cheney in the ninth after singles by Earl Battey and Zoilo Versalles and an intentional walk to Bernie Allen. The loss was Cheney's sixth straight after he won his first four. Bob Allison hit his 12th homer for Twins.

GET TO BAUER

The Ace who had lost 10 straight to Steve Barber, bombed the Orioles' left-hander for six runs in 5 3-3 innings and handed him his fourth loss against eight victories. Bobby Del Greco collected three hits for Kansas City and Ed Charles hit a two-run homer. Ed Rakow, 5-5, was the winner, but needed John Wyatt's relief help.

Clete Boyer drove in the deciding run for Yankees with a sacrifice fly in the 10th after Red Sox had tied the score in the ninth on Ed Bressoud's two-out homer, his second of the game. Roger Maris led New York with his seventh homer, a single and a bases-loaded walk in the seventh inning that broke a 4-4 tie. Ralph Terry went the distance for a 6-4 record.

Ron Hansen played a key role for White Sox in both comefrom behind victories over Indians. He smacked a homer in the sixth inning of the opener to snap a 4-4 tie and singled home a run in a four-run fifth inning uprising that wrapped up the nightcap.

Aguirre won for the first time in 5½ weeks and squared his record at 4-4. Aguirre did not allow an extra-base hit and permitted only one Angel baserunner past second base. Home runs by Jake Wood, off loser Bob Turley, and Gus Triandos made Aguirre's job easier.

Jones, Clark Resume Duel

'500' Stars Race At Mosport

By JACK TRACY

ORONO, Ont. (CP)—Canada's spring auto race, the 300-mile international sports-car event at nearby Mosport Park, took on a new lustre today after the victory at Indianapolis of Parnelli Jones in Thursday's Memorial Day race.

Both Jones and runner-up Jim Clark of Scotland are entered in Saturday's Canadian event for which trials start this afternoon.

With both driving Lotus 23s and the withdrawal of Ferrari driver Pedro Rodriguez from the Canadian race, it seemed a sure victory for the stubby, speedy British cars which have won all major events since the 2.45-mile circuit Mosport circuit opened two years ago.

Fifteen Lotus cars are entered in the Canadian race which is expected to see 38 sports cars on the circuit.

Major competition for the Indianapolis-winning pair is expected to come from Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., and world champion sports - car driver Graham Hill of London. Gurney, who lapped the Mosport circuit in a record one minute, 31.4 seconds a year ago, finished seventh in the Indianapolis race.

But a victory on the left-turning brickyard track at Indianapolis where Jones averaged 143 miles an hour Thursday means little on the twisting, up-hill-and-down-dale asphalt track at Mosport where the best lap record of 94.42 miles an hour was set by Gurney last year.

Drivers in the Canadian event will start from a grid at the drop of a flag, take a left turn, speed downhill, then make a right turn at the top of another hill and move into a tight corner where a speed of more than 60 miles an hour will land them in the hay bales. After that tight curve, it's a straight course when fast cars can move up to 150, then another series of tight turns brings them back to the starting point.

Tough competition is expected to come from Wayne Burnett of Chicago in a Ferrari Testa Rosa. But in the last two years the twisting Mosport course has always proven a disadvantage for the big and powerful Ferraris which are at their best on the long straight stretches.

Most threatening among Canadian entries is Ludwig Heimrath, Toronto mechanic, who is expected to get his Porsche RS61 back into competition. Heimrath, top Canadian racing driver of the season, spun his machine in a Mosport event two weeks ago.

OPTION RATLIFF

ST. PAUL (AP)—Minnesota Twins Thursday optioned rookie bonus catcher Paul Ratliff to the minors on 24-hour recall. Ratliff, 19, is considered one of the best young catching prospects in baseball. He received a $35,000 bonus to sign when he got out of high school at Pasadena, Tex., in the spring of 1962.

Landscapers Defeat Corbins 8-1

Barrage Landscapers sent Corbin Lock down to an 8-1 defeat in a Commercial Softball League game at Zwick's Island last night.

The winners scored four in the second and three in the seventh to secure the victory.

Joe Harvey spun a six-hitter on the Barrage hilltop, getting one strikeout and walking four.

Gerry Genereaux, who has been with Bobcats of the B. and D. League, pitched and lost for Corbins. He gave up eight hits, fanned eight and passed four. Five errors failed to help his cause.

Tim Cook rapped a couple of singles to lead the Barrage hitters while Jack Wood hit a double. Singles were distributed among Joe Harvey, Bradley Lee, Don Wood, Hugh Fraser and Rocky Davis.

Mullins had two Corbin singles with one each going to Trendal, Waite, Whalen and Stapley.

MANY HUNGER

The Food and Agriculture Organization estimates the Far East is short 45,000,000 tons of fruit and vegetables and 40,000,000 tons of animal products.

Belleville Kenmors are giving the Kingston Bad Boys a second chance!

Kingston failed to appear for a scheduled Lakeshore Baseball tilt here Wednesday night and the plate umpire gave the game to the Bellevillle squad.

Kingston, contacted by Belleville coach, Sid Forster yesterday, said that due to a number of players writing exams, they were unable to field a team.

Forster was also talking to the league executive but in a surprise move, declined t he chance to take the game by forfeit.

"There is no excuse for them not letting us know in time that they would not make it Wednesday, but we (the Kenmore) decided that we would rather have them on the field. And, if our club is to continue operating, we cannot afford to lose just some games like that", he added.

"We asked them if they would come for the game on Friday night and they assured us they would. So we passed up chances for the easy two points.

"Our fans have deserve a ball game and we hope they don't hold it against us for Wednesday's incident.

"The league has warned Kingston that it will stand for no more such nonsense and I understand they will have to pay any expenses incurred the other night", Forster said yesterday afternoon.

It all adds up to what could be a grudge battle deluxe when Kenmors take the field against the Bad Boys at the Fairgrounds tonight.

Game time is nine o'clock.

(AP Wirephoto)

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Parnelli Jones sat in his Agajanian Willard Special and kept repeating:

"I just can't believe it."

The 29 - year - old Torrance, Calif., driver moved like a man in a dream Thursday after his record victory in the rich Indianapolis 500-mile Memorial Day classic. He appeared dazed by the grinding ordeal.

Jones, who had won the pole position for the second straight year, was favored in the race, but had to drive his heart out to beat Scotsman Jimmy Clark in a rear-engine Lotus-Ford.

Clark was one of those who complained after the race that Jones' car was spilling oil onto the track just before he took the winner's checkered flag.

No official protest could be filed until race officials met this morning, but as one veteran of the race remarked, complaints are a tradition the night after the race but "after a night's sleep they're usually forgotten."

Clark, No. 2 in world road racing standings last year, and Dan Gurney, another Grand Prix racer from Costa Mesa, Calif., ran two - three behind Jones through the late stages of the race.

UNLUCKY EMBLEM

Clark's cigar - shaped Lotus-Ford, flashing the British green racing color that American drivers consider lucky, made only one pit stop to Jones' three. Gurney also had to make three stops, the last because a wheel wasn't tightened enough on the second tire change. He finished seventh.

After charging his hardest for 2½ hours, Jones crossed the finish line 24 seconds ahead of Clark.

The lone Canadian entry—a rear - engine Meteor by Cooper owned by Ed Kostanuk of Victoria, B.C.—was listed as unofficial 22nd.

Driven by Johnny Rutherford of Fort Worth, Tex., the City of Victoria Special, sponsored named his entry, was forced out after the 45th lap with an oil leak.

Kostanuk tried to qualify it himself in the pre-race trials but was unable to build up enough speed and acquired Rutherford.

Jones won't know how much he won until the Indianapolis motor speedway cuts up a purse of possibly $500,000 at tonight's victory dinner. Jones may win $25,050 in lap prize money for leading 167 of the race's 200 laps.

The soft-spoken king of the country's sprint tracks knew he had to hurl the tricky record by almost three miles an hour to win. He averaged 143.137 miles an hour in spite of wrecks that forced the field to run under the yellow hold-your-position" light for almost 50 minutes. Clark averaged 142.752.

The old mark of 140.293 was set by last year's winner, Rodger Ward of Indianapolis, who was fourth this year. Ward, ninth when an error and Wright's hit put men on second and third. Wright was called out for interference on Clapp's ground ball to short however, winding it up.

Junior Day, working 8½ innings, gave up ten hits in taking the loss. He fanned one and walked one. Green got the final two outs.

Bob Brooks, with a triple and single, Doug Ellis and Rick Locke, with a pair of singles each led the Trudeau hitters. Steve Poremba, Gary Duggan, "Pug" Kellar and John McKibbon also hit safely.

Ab Wright rapped a triple and two singles for the Tabbies and Floyd Crawford singled twice. Frank "Shiner" Murray tripled, Cliff McGrimmon and "Wainer" Brown had singles.

Trudeaus Defeat Bobcats

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Trudeau Motors scored their second tight victory of the week over the winless Bobcats at the CNRA Park last night, wrapping up a 5-2 decision with a pair of runs in the ninth.

Bobcats had only themselves to blame for this defeat, their fourth in as many games, as they failed to get a hit in the clutch several times when one could have changed the complexion of the game.

Doug Ellis was at his best with Bobcats on base, leaving ten of them stranded, while fashioning an eight-hitter. He struck out six, all of them in the late innings when the Tabbies were pressing. Ellis walked three.

Trudeaus jumped into a 2-0 lead in the third. Locks singled and raced to third on Poremba's perfect bunt single and an error. Brooks fly ball scored one run and the other came in when Murray failed to hold a high pitch by Day.

The losers started clicking in the fifth, Calnan's walk got them rolling, Day hit into a forceout but McGrimmon singled. Wright's base hit scored one for a 2-1 score but Ellis whiffed Clapp and Brown.

Trudeaus got that back in a hurry when Brooks hit a long triple and scored on Duggan's fly ball Bobcats came right back in the bottom of the sixth when "Shiner" Murray led off with a triple and Crawford's low liner to right was ruled trapped, making it a 3-2 game. Crawford wound up at third on the throw in and error but Ellis got D. Murray on a pop and struck out Calnan and Day.

In the Trudeau ninth, Mc-Kibbon singled, McGuire walked and Ellis singled home one insurance run. That brought on Bob Green to replace Junior Day but Locke's fly ball chased home the winners' fifth run.

The losers had another good chance in the bottom of the Indians Blank Wings

Leafs Split With Jets

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Indianapolis pitchers, who managed only one shutout in the Indians' first 45 International League baseball games, now boast two in a row after Joe Shipley and veteran Warren Hacker combined to blank Rochester.

Shipley notched his seventh victory against one loss, but his arm tightened after seven innings, and he turned the pitching chores over to Hacker in the Indians' 4-0 verdict over the Red Wings Thursday night.

Arkansas whipped Atlanta's Southern Division leaders 7-3 behind the solid pitching and hitting of Bobby Locke, and surging Richmond swept a doubleheader from slumping Jacksonville 4-0 and 8-4. Syracuse left-hander Willie Smith blanked Buffalo 4-0 in the second game after the Northern Division leaders had beat Syracuse 5-2 in the opener.

Toronto got a split of its Memorial Day doubleheader with Columbus by winning the nightcap 5-1 after the Jets had taken the first game 4-3.

RUN SKEIN TO 21

Shipley and Hacker stretched Rochester's string of scoreless innings to 21. Jim Ackley, Indianapolis right-hander, blanked the Red Wings Wednesday night. Ackley and Hacker collaborated on the Indians' only other scoreless job, a 4-0 victory over Jacksonville, May 9.

Arkansas' Locke doubled and tripled his first two times at bat to lead the Travelers over Atlanta. Jerry Buchek homered for the Crackers, and catcher Bob Lipski hit one for Arkansas.

Sharp pitching by Al Downing in the opener and Ed Merritt in the second game enabled Richmond to sweep 1962 champion Jacksonville and stretch the loss string of the skidding Suns to seven games.

Smith pitched his seventh straight complete game for Syracuse. He limited Buffalo to a pair of singles, one a scratch hit. Ed Schreiber and Pumpsie Green homered for Buffalo in the first game.

A two-hitter by Larry Maxie gave Toronto its split with Columbus and the Leafs' their only victory in a three-game series. Two run homers by Frank Leja and Lou Johnson helped.

Roan Colt Wins Over Royal Maple

TORONTO (CP) — Mornins' Mornin, a $7,500 claim at the end of last season, strode like a champion at Greenwood Thursday to defeat Royal Maple after a long stretch duel and made it known that he intends to make a strong bid for the $50,000-added Queen's Plate.

After being steadied in third and fourth places for most of the one-mile Memorial Day purse, Mornins' Mornin, a roan colt, dashed to the lead at the head of the stretch. Prince Maple finished third.

Attendance of the 7,942 fans were focusing their attention on Royal Maple, who went off at 2 to 5. Mornins' Mornin swept out of the gate carrying odds of 6 to 1.

Royal Maple, J. Louis Levesque's Queen's Plate contender, packed by odds makers at the 4-to-1 choice for the 1¼-mile classic, absorbed his second defeat in 32 this season. He was ridden by Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B.

CANDY SPOTS WINS

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP)— Candy Spots got in a stiff work out for the Belmont Stakes and picked up $78,715 for owner Rex C. Ellsworth as he won the Jersey Derby Thursday at Garden State Park. Flawlessly ridden by jockey Willie Shoemaker, Candy Spots toyed with five other three-year-olds, winning the 1¼-mile $121,100 race. He was hit only twice with the whip. His margin was 1½ lengths over Maine Chance Farm's Get Around, with Mrs. D. D. Morgan's Sky Wonder third.

Giants Nip Reds; Spahn Wins No 334

O'Dell Stretches Win Streak To Eight

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

After years of struggling to reach the break-even point, Billy O'Dell has pitched his way to the plus side of the ledger.

And as an added asset, the 30-year-old left-hander currently owns the most profitable record in big time baseball—a perfect 8-0.

O'Dell won his eighth in row Thursday night as San Francisco Giants topped Cincinnati Reds 5-4—with the help of homers by rookie Cap Peterson and Felipe Alou, the relief work of Bob Bolin, and his own infield single.

The one-time Baltimore bonus baby, who was traded to Giants in 1959, went into the year with a 63-66 mark to show for six seasons plus in the majors. Now he's rolling and so are Giants, with a 2½-game lead in the National League race.

Also in the National League—Warren Spahn recorded his 334th pitching victory as Milwaukee Braves beat runner-up Los Angeles Dodgers 7-4 and St. Louis Cardinals battered through Houston's wobbly defense and trimmed Colts 8-5; Chicago Cubs paraded 10 runs across in the fourth inning and whipped Mets 12-0 before the Mets took a 2-1 decision behind Jay Hook's two-hit pitching; and Pittsburgh split with Philadelphia, Pirates winning the opener 7-1 and Phillies squeezing by 6-5 in the second game.

FIRST HOMER

Giants nicked loser Joe Nuxhall for single runs in the first and third innings, and Peterson made it 3-0 in the fifth with his first major league homer. A two - run sixth capped by O'Dell's scratch hit steered trotting, but turned out vital for San Francisco.

Alou led it off with his 11th homer and after a walk to Jim Davenport and Jose Pagan's single, O'Dell tapped a roller down the first base line that scored Davenport.

O'Dell handcuffed Reds on three hits before they cashed in two runs in the sixth. The second base was hitted during another Cincinnati rally in the seventh, and Bolin yielded a two-run single by Daryl Spencer, but held off Reds the rest of the way.

Hank Aaron paced Milwaukee as Braves beat Don Drysdale, whacking his 15th homer, a double and single. Spahn took a 6-1 lead into the eighth inning but then was tagged for Jim Gilliam's homer, Tommy Davis' third single, Bill Skowron's double and a triple by John Roseboro.

Claude Raymond, a St. Jean, Que., native, held off Dodgers the rest of the way, preserving Spahn's seventh victory against three losses.

FINAL BELTS 471st

Cardinals, winners in seven of their last eight, collected eight unearned runs against Colts, who committed five errors in losing their fifth in a row. St. Louis' big inning was the six-run third, when Colts made three errors and Stan Musial hit a two-run homer—the 471st of his career.

Ryn-Sackerd was the winner with relief help from Ed Bauta and Dick Farrell the loser.

Cubs put together the biggest single inning splurge of the season with their 10 runs in the fourth of the opener against Mets. Sixteen Cubs batted against Al Jackson, Larry Bearnarth and Don Rowe, with six getting hits and seven walking. Also involved were a two-run

Belleville Wins Over Latta 11-1

Belleville Jones' Motors clobbered Latta 11-1 behind the two-hit hurling of Billy Hallam in a South Hastings Baseball League game at the Fairgrounds last night.

Hallam gave up a single to Howard Skelly in the fourth inning and another to Sills in the fifth. He struck out half a dozen batters and walked a pair.

Hallam's mates gave him plenty of working room when they exploded for seven runs in the first inning, adding three more in the fifth of the six-inning contest.

Cronkright started and lost for Latta, giving way to Smith in the fourth. They fanned six and issued three walks.

Carl Boomhower led Belleville's 12-hit attack, clubbing one triple and a pair of singles. Bob Boyle had a double and single. Gary McMillan two singles and Bob Moon a triple. Don Gardiner, Don Goodfellow, Dwight Rathwell and 13-year-old Bannie Ling, each contributed a single apiece.

Apartments Gain in Favor With Canadians

MONTREAL — The growing popularity of apartments is one of the factors which will have an important bearing on housing demands in Canada in the years ahead, according to the Bank of Montreal in its Business Review for May, just issued.

The B of M review notes that while the single detached home remains the most popular type of dwelling in this country, demand for apartments has been considerably higher in recent years than it was in the early 1950's.

While this rise can be attributed to a number of reasons which are related to increased population mobility, the most important factor has been a population mix that favors apartment living. "Apartments are best suited, both in terms of space and cost, to young families with no children or only one child...older couples whose children are no longer living at home, and non-family households," the B of M says.

The number of people in these groups has been growing rapidly, with non-family households alone increasing at an average rate of 24,000 a year, double the rate of increase ten years ago, the bank observes.

With children born during the post-war period approaching the marrying age, a strong demand for apartments can be expected during the next few years and "their younger brothers and sisters will continue to swell the ranks of apartment seekers in the late 1960's and into the 1970's."

LARGER HOUSES

A trend towards larger houses, partly because of the rising trend in the size of Canadian families, has been made possible by a coincident rise in income, the review notes.

"Indeed, the experience of the '50's suggests that rising incomes, along with increased availability of mortgage funds on liberal terms, have an important bearing on the extent to which housing needs are translated into demand for new residential construction.

"While population forecasts indicate a rising demand for housing, population changes alone are unlikely to be sufficient to raise demand to the high levels of the mid-'50's," the bank continues.

"There remains, however, a strong potential demand for new housing arising from the fact that over 30 per cent of dwellings occupied at present are now over 40 years old.

"In addition, there is a large reservoir of latent demand among the more than 200,000 families sharing accommodation with others as well as the many families whose present housing arrangements are inadequate. Favorable income and credit conditions appear likely, therefore, to continue to be major influences in the housing market in the next few years," the B of M review concludes.

Johnson compacts are amazing motors. Their initial cost is low yet their staying power is high. The compacts go a long way between gas stops (on 5 gallons of gas a 6½ can cruise for 11 hours). They only need servicing once a year and practically never see the inside of a repair shop. They start with the first pull and run religiously season after season. In the long run, a Johnson gives you more dogged dependability for your dollars than any outboard at any price.

The compacts are light and trim. Bulk and weight is pared to a minimum. Underwater exhaust and beveled gears mean the compacts run quiet. They are long on features other small outboards skimp on, such as full gearshift, complete corrosion proofing, fuel pump, thermostat-controlled cooling.

Find out how far your money will go. See the Johnson Compact 18, 10 and 6½ at your Johnson Dealers. With almost a thousand dealers across Canada service is never a problem when you own a Johnson.

Sugar Supply Is Adequate Says Sharp

OTTAWA (CP)—There will be an adequate supply of sugar in Canada this year, Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp said Thursday.

In a Commons reply to James McInilty (L—Lincoln), he said sugar stocks have increased slightly and import receipts are about the same level as last year.

He knew of no difficulties concerning supplies. Price was "a different matter."

In reply to William H. A. Thomas (PC—Middlesex West), Mr. Sharp said that because of increased sugar prices the Canadian acreage of sugar beets is likely to rise this year to 110,000 or 115,000 acres from the average of 85,000.

Mr. Thomas had asked what the government was doing to promote increased domestic sugar production. He also suggested adjustment in the price support price for sugar beet growers.

Discarded 'Frig' Hazard

By MATTHEW B. DYMOND, M.D., Health Minister for Ontario

An old, almost forgotten hazard reappeared on the home scene last summer, with the shocking suffocation of several Ontario youngsters in unused refrigerators. For some time it had been thought that this danger had disappeared with old-fashioned ice-boxes. A few years ago, many children died of suffocate inside these abandoned chests during the changeover to the then modern refrigerators. These deaths were bitter lessons to us all, and such widespread concern was expressed by safety organizations and the general public for a time that deaths soon dwindled to nothing as the hazards were removed.

We now suddenly realize that old electric refrigerators present exactly the same hazards as ice-boxes did, and so do many cedar chests, trunks and suitcases. Here are some examples of the many possibilities, it is amazing there are so few deaths of this nature. Children have always loved seeking good hiding places, but the danger in their doing so is unfortunately only brought to our attention by a calamity, such as those reported almost every year. How can such loss of young life be avoided?

As with health measures, so with safety warnings. A disease, or a certain type of accident, cannot be eliminated by sporadic publicity. People must apparently be reminded of the refrigerator threat, and other hazards to safety, on a continuing basis, or else they will forget. Organizations such as the Ontario Safety League are carrying out these constant reminders of little-suspected death traps along with their broad-scale home safety work.

It is up to parents, ultimately, to take note of such warnings, and reappraise the safety climate in their homes, not just once but frequently. Unused old refrigerators, if they are kept in the home where there are children, or even away from onto vacant fields, can only be safe with the doors removed. Other air-tight cabinets and trunks should be destroyed or buried.

Such guideposts to safer living are an essential part of the Department of Health's concern with the continued well-being of Ontario citizens, but the support and co-operation of parents and indeed of all adults is necessary if we are to stamp out these dangers to the lives of children. -

King of Mountain Picture Which Actors Enjoy Making

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"This is the kind of a picture," said David Niven, "that makes me drive to work slowly.

"I wouldn't want to have a stroke up and miss all the fun."

When Marlon Brando tried to describe the plot to me, he broke up in a fit of laughter.

The script is King of the Mountain, and the two stars are appearing in it as a couple of con men. The author of this hilarity is Stanley Shapiro, Hollywood's hottest writer.

I found Shapiro on the set of King of the Mountain, where he will remain throughout the shooting.

He has launched several thousand laughs with such films he has written (in collaboration) as Operation Petticoat, Pretty Cozy, Come September, Lover Come Back and That Touch of Mink.

KEEPS EYE ON SET

Like most men whose business is laughter, Shapiro is serious when he is working. As he talked in his room, he cocked an ear to the lines in a scene that was being filmed.

"They got something wrong," he announced, and he dashed out to the set to correct a "piece of dialogue."

When he returned, he explained: "I always stay on the set while the picture is made. When comedy goes through so many hands, especially those who are not familiar with the workings of comedy, the writer's original intent can be lost. I have to see that it comes out the way I originally put it."

Shapiro watches over every phase of production, right to the final print. He is producer as well as co-writer, with Robert Arthur acting as executive producer.

Shapiro, 37, was born in Brooklyn and the legend is that he failed in his ambition for a medical education because of a Phi Beta Kappa English. That didn't stop him from getting jobs as gag writer for radio comedians.

"I learned comedy from people like Fred Allen, George Burns and Paul Henning," he remarked. Henning is creator of The Beverly Hillbillies and Shapiro collaborated on Lover Come Back and King of the Mountain. Shapiro considers himself the King of the comedy writers.

Minow Quits New Frontier For Encyclopaedia's Gold

By LOUIS G. PANOS

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the day Newton Minow deserts the New Frontier and rides off into the sunset, westward bound for Chicago and a little pot of gold.

At 37 and with five years' stiff to go on his seven-year hitch as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, he's chucking government service to join Encyclopaedia Britannica, Incorporated.

Without Minow as FCC chairman, Washington may never be the same, especially if the prayers of some broadcasters are heard.

His successor, E. William Henry, it is true, takes over with the reputation of being just about as tough a regulator as Minow.

A lanky, 34-year-old lawyer from Memphis, Tenn., Henry moves to the top after just eight months as FCC member.

He shares many of Minow's views about television.

UNWORTHY FARE

He looks on much of the staple television fare — situation comedies, westerns and whodunits—as unworthy of the amount of prime time devoted to it.

He believes that programs on public affairs, art, news and education can be entertaining and, therefore, palatable to both viewer and sponsor.

He's bent on reminding broadcasters that their licences renewal will depend on how well they serve the public, not merely on whether they can turn a dollar in a ruggedly competitive business.

But even Henry admits that, however tough he turns out to be, his tenure is unlikely to produce the shock effect of Minow's reign.

The most important accomplishments of the Minow regime that reign were, perhaps, those most quietly effected.

Through tact, compromise, cajolery and co - operation, the agency helped push through legislation to set up a commercial television satellite corporation; to provide government aid for the creation of statewide educational television networks, and to give television elbow room for future growth by requiring that all newly manufactured television sets be capable of receiving 82 channels instead of the usual 12.

Yet, there are some broadcasters who will remember Minow less for this than for the fact that during his chairmanship a record number of radio and television stations suffered fines or licence revocations for violating FCC rules.

And even more are apt to remember him for his cutting description of television as "a vast wasteland."

Christine Kaufmann follows 'Tilly' with "Taras Bulba" role

One of the most startling bombshells to explode on the motion picture scene in recent years is blue-eyed copper-blonde 18 year-old beauty, Christina Kaufmann.

Christine is starred in her first American-made motion picture, the multi-million dollar Harold Hecht production of "Taras Bulba", the Panavision Eastmancolor film co-starring Tony Curtis and Yul Brynner, now playing an extended engagement at the Belle Theatre.

American audiences "discovered" this talented young actress, who has appeared in more than 26 European films, when she starred opposite Kirk Douglas in "United Artists' "Town Without Pity", filmed abroad.

Hecht signed Christine for the leading feminine role in "Taras Bulba", after a single screen test.

Christine, born in Austria, of a French mother and German father, speaks fluent English, French, Italian, German and Spanish.

She made films in France, Italy, Austria and Germany before joining the "Taras Bulba" cast, in which she does her own horseback riding in action scenes.

Tony Curtis and Kirk Douglas introduced Christine to Hollywood. Douglas was one of the first to predict stardom for her after filming of "Town Without Pity."

Critics throughout the country have acclaimed Christine's performance.

Born on January 11th, 1945, Christine was but when she appeared in her first school play. At seven she made her screen debut as a circus dancer and bareback rider, later came the title role in "Rosenkrolli", and then Christine really awoke producers and directors with her portrayal of a school girl in the remake of "Mädchen in Uniform" with Lilli Palmer, Vittorio de Sica promptly chose her to star with Michele Morgan and himself in "Under Ten Flags", produced in Italy. Then followed "The Last Days of Pompeii" and "Red Signal", which led to "Town Without Pity". She bested 30 other contenders to play opposite Kirk Douglas and win stardom.

'Mostly They Come for Tea'

The Stately Homes of Old England Face up to Invasion From Tourists

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—They are the modern, short - shot pilgrims. They come on bicycles and motorcycles, in cars, buses and trains. Some arrive on foot.

They converge on Britain's stately homes and castles — honeymooners, middle - aged couples with children, and chaps with beards—young and old.

In particular, the women come—droves of them. What do they all seek in the often-magnificent architecture, art and history of these old buildings?

"Mostly, they come for tea," said the Duke of Bedford, host at Woburn Abbey and famed showman among English landlords.

"The duke is right," said a travel official, smilling ruefully.

"In this country, as in Canada and the United States, vast numbers of women belong to social clubs and they're always having coach, or bus, outings and one of the biggest targets is found in the stately homes."

This official said it's been estimated that "perhaps 30 per cent of the people come because they're trying out a new car or motorcycle, or something. Only 10 per cent come because they are interested in architecture or art. Tea is the big drew—they want refreshment at the end of the trip and they know that tea is served every day—all day. Almost all day, anyway."

WOLFE SLEPT HERE

The English are sometimes disdained to look down their noses at Canadian and American so-called vultures for culture who are supposed to haunt old structures in the hope of imbibing not tea but the wisdom of the ages.

"It's not true," the official said. "Overseas people usually visit places purely because of historical interest."

It was something like this that brought a Canadian reporter to Quebec House, Westerham, Kent, childhood home of Gen. James Wolfe. A more logical Quebec House, containing offices of its province, was officially opened recently in London by Premier Jean Lesage.

Strolling through drowsy Westerham, you see an heroic statue of the bachelor conqueror of the Plains of Abraham, sword on high. In incongruous proximity is an advertisement for a "rock 'n' roll and twist emporium."

A hotel boasts that Wolfe slept there on his last night in England. The Wolfe name is prominent on several business establishments and Westerham's Quebec House, a 16th century three-gabled weatherbrick structure, is in the care of Capt. G. B. Wolfe, scion of the same family line.

For a nominal fee (one shilling—15 cents) you can view the bedroom in which the dressing gown in which his body was returned to England, and also personal effects of Gen. Wolfe, his French antagonist who also died in the 1759 Battle of Quebec.

NO TEA SERVED

An eyewitness account of Wolfe's death, written by one Lieut. Brown of Quebec, tells how "even the soldiers dropt tears" and adds "thank God I escaped."

No tea is served at Quebec House and there are none of the brash gimmicks — such as the installation of a juke box—that the Duke of Bedford has employed to attract visitors.

Bedford has been criticized for his antics but even the Duke of Marlborough, proprietor of Blenheim Palace, a monumental 320-room estate on 11,500 acres of parkland north of Oxford, concedes the value of tea.

"In the past people have said the tea wasn't very good, but it is now," said the Duke, adding:

"I look upon my home as an education, not an entertainment . . . I have to open the palace and I can't say it delights me. But it does give the working classes a chance to see some beautiful things."

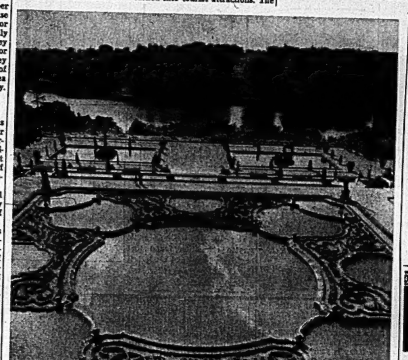
NEED THE MONEY

Blenheim is literally jammed with breathtaking tapestries, paintings and other objects of art. The visitor may be surprised to find that the room in which Sir Winston Churchill was born is near the main entrance and once served as a cloakroom. The palace comptroller, pointing out baby clothes once worn by Sir Winston, said that the statesman's mother went into labor while on a shooting trip and made it back to the palace just in time.

Marlborough, and many other likeholoods, had to open their homes to paying viewers for financial reasons. In doing so the land-owning class boosted the country's tourist revenue.

The tourist industry now is estimated at £300,000,000, bigger than car and aircraft exports—in fact, Britain's biggest single earner.

Bedford's Woburn Abbey attracted 800,000 visitors last year. Lord Montagu's Beaulieu in Hampshire had almost as many. Blenheim and three other big ones accounted for more than 400,000 each, and some 300 others had lesser crowds.



"We think they have a great effect on the tourist industry but not always in the way expected," said one official.

"A Canadian, for instance, may see a photo of a castle and be moved to visit Britain. When he comes here, he may never go to see the castle, but he spends money just the same."

WINNER'S BIRTHPLACE — Blenheim Palace, set in 11,500 acres of parkland north of Oxford, England, is one of many stately homes that have been turned into tourist attractions. The palace, with its formal gardens and valuable works of art, is the birthplace of Sir Winston Churchill. (CP Photo)

COME FOR TEA — Some of the thousands of tourists who annually trek to Britain's palaces and castles come to see such sights as this — the formal water garden of Blenheim Palace. But travel officials are convinced that a great number take the tours because they want to be served tea after a drive or hike in the country. (CP Photo)

Sunday School Lesson

Stupidity of Vanities

By ROY L. SMITH

The 119th Psalm which forms part of the base of this week's Sunday school lessons is the "longest chapter in the Bible." This is due, in part, to the literary style its author adopted before he wrote it.

It is what the scholars call an "acrostic" Psalm. That is, as we would say, an "alphabet" song. Each section begins with the successive letters of the Hebrew alphabet. The device is mechanical, and something of this spirit finds its way into the psalm itself. There is no great originality in it. The original Hebrews, who heard it for the first time, may have thought of it as something very clever.

Its value consists of the wide range of moral precepts it includes. Simply because our space is limited it is impossible to comment on the psalm in its entirety. We will, therefore, confine ourselves to a single warning contained in the 37th verse. "Turn my eyes from looking at vanities."

SUPERFICIAL GENERATION

Vance Packard put his finger on an extremely sensitive nerve in our modern social structure when he wrote The Status Seekers. We have laughed at the Orientals for some of the ridiculous lengths to which they have gone to "save face." But the absurd lengths to which modern America goes to maintain status are often times pathetic. As if life could be made out of a multitude of gadgets!

The Uniform Sunday School lessons for June 2 are "The Law of the Lord," Nehemiah 8; Psalms 19: 119.

It is very true, of course, that modern gadgets are interesting, convenient, time - saving, and efficient. And at the same time installments are annoying, terrifying, time - consuming, monotonous, implacable, and sometimes monstrous. And for perhaps nine-tenths of the population installments are the only way that gadgets can be obtained.

The result is that in literally millions of homes family life has been reduced to a treadmill routine, as everyone is enslaved to the monthly payments. Nerves get frayed, husbands become discouraged, wives petulant, and children demanding.

At one young couple, whose monthly payments amounted to $7.00 per mo..th more than their total income, explained the matter to me. "You have to have these things, if you are going to run with the crowd of which we are a part. And we have to run with that crowd, because that's the crowd we are supposed to run with when Jim gets the salary he gets."

Vanity!

EVERYBODY EXPECTS IT

A young alcoholic husband who had been rescued from a terrible outcome resulting from a series of stupidities, was making an heroic effort to untangle himself from his alcoholism.

One day, in the midst of his battle, he and his wife received a dinner invitation from another couple whom they had known through many years as being industrious, sober, and more or less religious. Said the young husband, to his wife, "There is one place we can go where I will not have to hold out against the liquor."

A few minutes following their arrival the hostess for the evening came, saying, "What will you have to drink?" To which the visiting wife said, "We do not care for anything, thank you." And to this the host answered, "Oh, you'd better have a cocktail!"

With not the young alcoholic spoke up, and said, "Jim, that's my fight. Don't press the matter. I don't dare drink."

"Well, to tell you the truth, I depise the stuff myself. The taste of it makes me sick. But everybody expects you to take a drink, you know, just to be sociable."

And the young alcoholic narrowly escaped a terrible experience, in the house of a friend whom he had trusted!

Everybody expects it!

Vanity!

WE ARE NOT EXACTLY PRUDES

A rather decent young couple accepted an invitation to have dinner with a party of friends at a well known night club. They had heard some few fleeting comments about the character of the floor show at that particular place, but gave the matter no thought. They trusted their friends.

The food was exquisite and extravagantly priced. The show lewd, brazen and lascivious. Several of the men, slightly under the influence of liquor, laughed uproariously, and made sly remarks to the wives of some of the other men. Just to see how far they could go, was the way one guest described it later, to a friend.

"I do not want you to think I am a prude," she said, "but the simple truth is, it was just plain dirty. But I suppose you can't spoil a party like that, just because you are straight-laced."

Vanity! As if decency requires an apology.
